Introduction

The Access Register – what it is

The Access Register, hereafter referred to as the Register, is an annual publication of the federal government. Required under the Access to Information Act, the Register provides a current description of information held by those federal government institutions (departments, agencies and Crown corporations) which are affected by the Act.

The Access Register – a tool

The Access Register is designed to help members of the public exercise their rights under the Access to Information Act. A formal request for information made under the Access to Information Act should be made on an Access to Information Request Form. Copies of this form are included in the green display box with the Register.

Government institutions may give you access to the information held in their files without a formal request under the Access to Information Act. You may wish to request the information informally by telephoning or writing to the appropriate institution before you make a formal request.

If you are seeking access to personal information about yourself, use the Privacy Act. This Act governs access to personal information, and you may use it to gain access to information about yourself. The Index of Personal Information provides guidance on how to apply for access to personal information.

The Access to Information Act

Passed by Parliament in July 1983, the Access to Information Act is the law which gives Canadians (Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada within the meaning of the Immigration Act, 1976) the right to have access to information held by the federal government.

Most information is available to the public. Information already published, and which is easily accessible through libraries, public affairs offices, museums, and publicly accessible computer enquiry systems is not generally available by formal request under the Access to Information Act. If you apply for such information, you will likely be referred to another source, such as a library or bookstore. There are other exceptions:

- information collected by non-federal institutions, such as provincial and municipal governments, and by some private institutions; and
- information damaging to defence, external relations, the economy, or law enforcement, and confidential business information.

Information directly connected with Cabinet, including Cabinet papers or records of decision, is excluded from access under the Access to Information Act.

Using the Access Register

Once you are familiar with the organization of the Access Register, it's easy to use. Before you start, it's worth spending a few minutes reading the description of the major sections of the Register, along with the step-by-step approach.

A. Important Terms to Understand Before You Use the Register

Access Co-ordinator

Within each institution covered by the Access to Information Act, an Access Co-ordinator is designated to handle all requests for information made under the Act. This person is also available to answer questions concerning your application or the information you want to see.

Chapter

Section IV of the Register consists of more than 100 chapters; one for each institution covered by the Access to Information Act. The format and general contents of each chapter are described below under "B. Organization of the Register".

Class of Records (CoR)

This is the term used to describe clusters of similar types of information held by institutions. The information within a Class of Record may be stored in the form of letters, reports, microfilm, computer tapes or disks, to name a few. The grouping of information into a Class of Record is based on subject matter.

Class of Records Number

The Class of Record (CoR) number is the number which, in addition to the name of the CoR, precisely identifies that CoR. The format of each CoR number is the same. For example:

DOC/BCI-220

DOC = the institutional identifier for the Department of Communications

BCI = the identifier for the Broadcasting and Cultural Industries Branch of the Department of Communications

220 = the identifier for the precise Class of Record called "Film, Video and Sound Recording Policy and Programs"

Standard Class of Record

Some Classes of Records contain subject matter which is similar for all institutions, such as records on personnel, finance, purchasing and property control. Because of their broad nature, these "Standard CoRs" are described in Section II of the Index, rather than in each institutional chapter.

Deleted Class of Record

At the end of some chapters, there is a list of those CoRs which no longer exist. In cases where the information previously held in these CoRs is now held in other CoRs, the relevant CoR is listed beside each deleted CoR.

B. Organization of the Register

The Access Register consists of five major sections, each of which is briefly described below.

I Introduction

The main purpose of the introductory pages is to illustrate how to use the Register. Relevant background information about the Access to Information Act and the procedures for registering complaints are also included in this section.

II Standard Classes of Records

This section provides a description of information which is similar for each government institution, such as information on administration, finance, and materiel management.

III Subject Index

The Subject Index is easy to find — it appears in the bright green pages located near the beginning of the Register. It is organized by both general and specific subjects, and provides an easy way of locating the specific CoR in which the required information is found. At the end of the Subject Index is a list of the unique institutional identifiers for all institutions in the Register.

IV Classes of Records by Institution

This is by far the largest section, consisting of more than 100 chapters. Chapters are organized alphabetically; there is one chapter for each government institution affected by the Access to Information Act.

Each chapter contains the following material, organized as presented below:

- an organization chart, which gives a graphic view of the major functions of the institution, and which identifies the CoRs held by that institution;
- a description of the institution's programs and activities;
- information on how to access information from that institution; and
- a listing, in numerical order, of the CoRs maintained by the institution.

V Cross-Reference Index of New and Former Identifiers

The last section of the Register is a cross-reference index which relates the current CoR numbers to those used in 1986. Only those CoRs that have changed since 1986 appear in the cross-reference index.

C. Getting the Most Out of the Register: A Step-by-Step Approach

The following paragraphs are intended to help those who are unfamiliar with the Register learn how to use it quickly and effectively. It may also be useful as a "refresher" for those who use the Register only occasionally.

To illustrate the process, an example is followed through from beginning to end of this eight-stage process.

The Example

You are interested in the Canadian film industry. Perhaps you are a film student, or an avid movie fan who wants to know more about the Canadian film and video industry.

More specifically, you would like to know what studies the Canadian government has commissioned on the state of the film and video industry.

1. Prepare Yourself

If you think that the material you want might be published and available through a bookstore, library or other institution, you should consider writing to or telephoning the Access Co-ordinator in the appropriate institution to enquire about that before you use the Register. You might save yourself both time and money by following this preliminary step.

Once you decide to use the Register, you will need the Access to Information Request Form, located in the green display box with this Register.

2. Identify the Appropriate Federal Government Institution

If you know which institution holds the information you want, proceed to Stage 3. If not, you should use the Subject Index to help.

The Subject Index contains key words which relate to a wide range of subject matter found in the various classes of records held by government institutions. It's easily recognized by the bright green colour of its pages.

The Example

. . . when you look up "film and video" in the Subject Index, you see that there are many key words that relate to that subject. Examination reveals that only a few relate directly to your particular interest — Canadian film and videotape productions. You can reduce your choice to several key words that interest you.

3. Note the Class of Record Number(s) You Want to Investigate

In the Subject Index, a CoR number is displayed beside each key word. If you plan to investigate more than one key word and CoR number, it's worth jotting the numbers down on a piece of paper before beginning your investigation.

The Example

. . . some key words and corresponding CoR numbers you would find are . . .

Films and video
policies concerning	DOC/BCI-220
conferences and special projects	NFB/COM-015
co-production treaties	CFD/ADM-010

4. Locate the Appropriate Chapter

As described earlier, the first three letters of the CoR number identify the federal institution that holds the information. If you can't tell from the three letters which institution it is, refer to the Listing of Unique Institutional Identifiers, located at the end of the Subject Index. At the beginning of Section IV, "Classes of Records by Institution", a chapter number is listed beside each institution's proper name.

The Example

. . . you have three different identifiers, which, when located in the Listing of Unique Institutional Identifiers, indicate to you the proper names for the institutions. Then you may look them up in the Chapter Index:

Institutions:	I.D.	Chapter
Canadian Film Development Corporation	CFD	19
Communications, Department of	DOC	37
National Film Board	NFB	76

5. Find the Class of Record Description

Once you have identified the chapter(s) you require, turn to them to locate the description for each Class of Record held by the institution in question. The organization chart at the beginning of the chapter will show you how the CoRs are distributed among the institution's various administrative units. Each chapter has its own internal page numbering system.

The Example

. . . one of your CoR numbers is found in Department of Communications, Chapter 37. Turn to Chapter 37, skim past the organization chart, and the General Information to the section entitled Classes of Records. Look through the CoRs — organized in numerical order — for the one in which you are interested in: DOC/BCI-220.

6. Read the CoR Description

A quick read through the description will help you determine if this is the CoR you want, or whether you should move on to another.

The Example

. . . when you read the description of DOC/BCI-220, you will see that it likely does contain some of the information you are after. You may still wish to check the other CoRs you noted.

7. Complete the Access to Information Request Form

If possible, use the Request Forms available with this Access Register when making a request for information, following the instructions on the form.

If you don't use a form, you may submit your request in writing on a sheet of paper. You must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following vital information:

- the name of the government institution holding the information you require;
- the CoR number(s) you are interested in;
- a description (as specific as possible) of the records you would like to see;
- your preferred method of viewing the records (e.g., do you want to: receive copies of the original documents; view the originals in the government office where they are located, or use some other method?);
- complete identification: your name, street address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s), and your signature;
- the date of the request.

The Example

. . . a sample of a completed form for the example we have followed appears at the end of the Introduction.

8. Enclose Payment of $5 with Your Application

A fee of $5, made payable to the Receiver General for Canada, must be enclosed with each application made under the Access to Information Act. For this minimum fee, up to five hours of time will be spent in searching, retrieving and preparing information related to your request. You will be notified before any additional expenses are incurred (including copying charges, computer fees, and time in excess of five hours), and you may be asked to make a deposit.

The mailing address and telephone number of the Access Co-ordinator for each government institution appears under the heading "Access Procedures" in that institution's chapter.

Once You Have Made a Request

Under the Act, you should be contacted within 30 days of the government institution receiving your request. One of two scenarios will apply:

- Your request is accepted:
  - if the information you requested is available to you under the Act, you will either receive it, or receive word that it is being processed. If necessary, you may be given a fee estimate for work in excess of five hours and computer and/or copying expenses required to process your request. If your request requires major research or processing, you may be notified that an extension past 30 days is required to process it.
- Your request is denied for one of two reasons:
  - the information you requested does not exist; or
  - it is exempt or excluded from the provisions of the Access to Information Act. In this case, you may wish to take further action. Refer to the complaint procedure outlined below.

Other Information

Help

If you need help in using the Access Register or the Request Form, or if you would like assistance in determining whether the information you want is available to you under the Act before you make a formal request, you should contact the Access Co-ordinator in the government institution you think holds the information you want. Addresses and telephone numbers for each Access Co-ordinator are found under the heading "Access Procedures" in each chapter.
More general information about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act may be obtained by contacting:

Communications Division
Treasury Board of Canada
9th Floor, L'Esplanade Laurier
East Tower - 140 O'Connor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0R5

Telephone: (613) 957-2400

Complaint Procedure

If you feel that your request was processed too slowly or was too costly, or that your request was wrongly denied, you may complain in writing to:

The Office of the Information Commissioner
Place de Ville, Tower B
14th Floor, 112 Kent Street
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

The Information Commissioner will investigate your complaint and make recommendations to the institution as to the validity of your complaint. If you are still not satisfied with the results, you may take your case to the Federal Court within 45 days of receiving the Commissioner's report.

Access to Information Act

Access to Information Request Form

For official use only

Use of this form will help speed your access to records under the Access to Information Act. Requests for federal government information can ordinarily be made by means of a telephone call, a visit, or a written request to the appropriate government information office. There is a fee of $5.00 for making a formal request under the Access to Information Act.

STEP 1: Decide exactly what information you want – You can facilitate the search for records and reduce fees by defining as narrowly as you can the particular records you are looking for.

STEP 2: Consult the Access Register – The register contains descriptions of government records, their probable location and other information which will likely assist you in identifying the particular records you wish to see. A copy of the Access Register is available at major libraries, post offices, and government information offices.

STEP 3: Ask for assistance if necessary – If you are unable to identify the records you are looking for in the Access Register, contact the Access Co-ordinator of the appropriate department, either in person, by telephone or by letter at the address shown in the Register. The Co-ordinator will assist you in identifying the records.

STEP 4: Complete this Request Form, providing as many specific details as you can about the desired records, such as:

- subject, title and date;
- specific events, activities, individuals, corporations, products, reports, meetings, decisions, agreements, etc., of interest in the records;
- the number and title of the appropriate class of records, as listed in the Access Register.

STEP 5: Send in the completed Request Form or written request with an application fee of $5.00, payable by money order or cheque to the Receiver General of Canada, to the appropriate officer identified in the Access Register. Unless you have already indicated what you are willing to pay for, you will be asked to authorize any fees that may be charged before the work is completed.

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Advisory Council on the Status of Women was created by the Order-In-Council PC1976-781. The Advisory Council's roots lie in the Royal Commission on the Status of Women in Canada which recommended the establishment of such a federal council.

Responsibilities

The Advisory Council is responsible for making recommendations for change in legislation and other measures to improve the status of women through the Minister responsible for the Status of Women. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament.

Legislation

- Order in Council PC 1976-781

Organizational Units and their Role

The Advisory Council on the Status of Women is composed of a president, two vice-presidents and 27 council members from across the country. The vice-presidents are responsible for specific regions, while the president retains overall responsibility for the operations of the Council. There are regional offices located in Calgary and Montreal and a local office in Winnipeg. At the central office in Ottawa, three directors have specific responsibilities for research, communications and administration and, along with their staff, support ongoing Council activities across the country.

ATLANTIC PILOTAGE AUTHORITY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was designated a Schedule "C" Crown corporation, pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, S.C. 1983-84, chapter 31. It was first incorporated in 1972.

Responsibilities

The Authority is responsible for establishing, operating, maintaining and administering, in the interests of safety, an efficient and economic pilotage service within its geographic boundaries — all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As well, the Authority prescribes tariffs for pilotage charges that are to be fair, responsible and consistent with providing sufficient revenues to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Administration Division

This division provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

Operations Division

This division provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Manuals

ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act.

Responsibilities

The AECB is the federal regulatory agency responsible for the control of health, safety, and national and international security aspects of prescribed atomic energy substances and items, and nuclear facilities. The AECB is also responsible for the administration of the Nuclear Liability Act. The Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, and is a departmental corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Legislation

- Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter A19
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C. 1980, chapter 29 (1st supplement)

Organizational Units and their Role

The Board consists of five members. One of these members is appointed President and Chief Executive Officer of the AECB and is the only full-time member. Reporting to the President are the Secretariat, the directorates of Reactor Regulation, and Fuel Cyle and Materials Regulation, as well as the branches of Regulatory Research, and Planning and Administration. The Orientation Centre, while not a part of the AECB staff organization, also reports to the President. A legal adviser, Official Languages Adviser and a Medical Liaison Officer report directly to the President.

Orientation Centre

Specialists of the Orientation Centre provide advice, orientation, training and assistance to regulatory agencies in foreign countries that have purchased or are potential purchasers of CANDU reactors. The group reports to the President for administrative purposes only, and is funded separately from AECB programs.

Secretariat

The Secretariat embraces the functions of the secretary to the Board, relations with the office of its designated minister, parliamentary committees and enquiries, the Office of Public Information, and the Advisory Group Secretariat.

The main function of the Office of the Secretary is to provide liaison between Board members and AECB staff. The secretary's duties include organizing and administering Board meetings and taking appropriate follow-up-action, managing the system of staff documents presented to the Board, and conducting the correspondence of the Board. The secretary also maintains a record of all business transactions by the Board, maintains communication and co-ordination among Board members, the Minister's office, Parliamentary committees and central agencies, and carries out other duties as assigned by the Board or the President.

The Office of Public Information is responsible for responding to requests from outside contacts for technical or other information, and for informing the public of significant matters through the news media and other communication vehicles. Mailing lists are maintained for the distribution of news releases, the annual report, consultative documents, Board minutes and the publications catalogue. The Office is also the AECB's publisher and contact for all free documentation. The Language Service unit within the Office facilitates service to the public in French-language printed matter.

Directorate of Reactor Regulatory

The Directorate has the prime responsiblity for the regulation of power and research reactors and accelerators. It evaluates applications for licences against the safety standards and requirements that the AECB has set, grants licences and monitors licensee operations to ensure compliance with Board regulations and requirements at all times. It also conducts examinations for reactor operators and provides specialist input into the review of all nuclear facilities.

The Power Reactor Divisions A and B ensure that the design, construction, commissioning and operation of power reactor facilities are carried out in a manner consistent with accepted national and international standards of safety; and that the radiological impact of these facilities upon operators, the public and the environment is as low as is reasonably achievable.

The Operator Certification and Research Facility Division ensures that staff certified for AECB-authorized positions at licensed nuclear facilities possess the necessary knowledge and training to perform their role in the safe operation of the facilities. It also ensures that the design, construction, commissioning and operation of research, reactor and accelerator facilities meet accepted international standards of safety, and that the radiological impact of these facilities upon operators, the public and the environment is as low as is reasonably achievable.

The Safety Evaluation Division carries out the detailed scientific and engineering assessments of nuclear facilities and prescribed substances in Canada, or under Canadian control, from the design stage through construction, operation and de-commissioning. It also assists in the development of requirements for safety and licensing of nuclear facilities.

The Components and Quality Assurance Division ensures the establishment and implementation of reactor quality assurance and standards programs, and the regulatory control of pressure-retaining components.

Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulations

The Directorate is responsible for evaluating applications for licences, licensing, and compliance monitoring of uranium mines, refineries and conversion plants, nuclear fuel fabrication plants, heavy water plants, radioactive waste management facilities, and the use of radioisotopes. It also implements domestic and international nuclear materials safeguards programs.

The Safeguards and Security Division controls the import, export, production and use of prescribed substances, items and technology in order to ensure the implementation of Canada's policies on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons or other nuclear explosive devices. It also provides the major technical input in the formulation and implementation of nuclear policy, provides advice and implements policies on heavy water and uranium, and ensures that an acceptable level of physical security is provided for nuclear materials, technology and facilities.

The Radioisotope and Transportation Division develops and administers provisions for the protection of workers and the public from radiological hazards arising from the use of radioisotopes and the transportation of radioactive materials in Canada. It also issues licences for the use and importation of radioisotopes, and certificates for transportation packages.

The Uranium Mine Division ensures that uranium mines, mills and associated waste management facilities are operated in a manner that does not expose workers and the public to unacceptable health and safety hazards. It is also responsible for establishing standards associated with the safe operation of uranium mining, assessing and issuing licences, and monitoring of mines to ensure compliance with the regulations and conditions of their licence.

The Waste Management Division ensures that facilities for the storage and disposal of radioactive waste materials are constructed and managed to prevent exposure of the public, environment and workers to excessive radiation hazards through the establishment of standards, issue of licences and monitoring of all such facilities in Canada.

The Fuel and Heavy Water Plant Division ensures that the operations of facilities for the refining of uranium, the fabrication of nuclear fuel, the production, application and use of natural uranium and thorium, and the production of heavy water is carried out in such a manner that there is no unacceptable health and safety hazard to the public.

Regulatory Research Branch

The Branch is responsible for the initiation and management of projects in the Board's mission-oriented research program, which is designed to provide information for use in the AECB's regulatory activities. It is also responsible for the assessment of radiation hazards and radiation protection programs for licensed activities, the development of related standards and guidelines, and the provision of radiation protection training for Board staff. The Branch is composed of: Radiation Protection Division, Health Effects and Regulatory Documents Section, and Safety and Safeguards Section. The Branch is also responsible for the Board's role in the Safeguards Support Program which is administered jointly with Atomic Energy of Canada Limited (AECL).

The Radiation Protection Division is responsible for detailed radiation protection assessments and expert radiation protection advice for all of the Board's activities. It also monitors all aspects of radiation protection associated with nuclear facilities and prescribed substances, both for workers and members of the public.

The Health Effects and Regulatory Documents Section manages research and development projects relating to the health effects of nuclear technology. It also expedites the production and distribution of Regulatory Documents and analyzes public comments on Consultative Documents. The Section is also responsible for Socio-economic Impact Analyses of new AECB Regulations.

The Safety and Safeguards Section manages risk and safety related research and development projects and the AECB's role in the Safeguards Support Program, which is administered jointly with AECL.

Planning and Administration Branch

The Branch is responsible for all centralized corporate management and administrative functions, for corporate planning and co-ordination, and for the administration of the Nuclear Liability Act, the Access to Information Act, and the Privacy Act.

The Administration Division provides personnel, finance and information management services to the AECB. The Personnel Section is responsible for hiring, training, salaries and benefits compensation; the Finance Section is responsible for preparing budgets, procurement, accounts payable, and health and safety in the workplace; and the Information Management Section is responsible for AECB records, EDP services and the library. The Division also carries out special projects of a corporate management nature.

The Planning and Co-ordination Section is responsible for ensuring that the planning and execution of actions, both within the AECB and with outside bodies, are co-ordinated to prevent duplication and ensure consistency of policy and approach. It also is responsible for audit and evaluation functions, for co-ordinating AECB activities with international agencies and organizations, and for administering emergency planning activities. The Section handles requests made under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and administers the Nuclear Liability Act.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Bank of Canada, Canada's central bank, was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act.

Responsibilities

By virtue of the Bank of Canada Act, the primary function of the Bank of Canada is to regulate "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion." The Act confers certain powers which, together with provisions in other legislation, enable the Bank to exercise a broad controlling influence over the growth of money and credit in Canada and thereby affect levels of spending and economic activity. Other responsibilities include acting as an adviser and as a fiscal agent to the Government of Canada in the receipt and disbursement of payments, in the operation of the Exchange Fund Account on behalf of the Minister of Finance, and in the issuance, administration and servicing of the government's outstanding debt. The Bank of Canada has the sole right to issue notes intended for circulation in Canada; the issue of coins is the responsibility of the Royal Canadian Mint.

Legislation

- Bank Act
- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Securities Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through adjustments in excess chartered bank cash reserves or through open market operations, and to issue Government of Canada securities — treasury bills, marketable bonds and Canada Savings Bonds — both domestically and abroad.

Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study financial relationships relevant to securities markets. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

Research Department

The Department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and the United States and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis

The Department is responsible for monitoring and analyzing the behaviour of the chartered banks, other financial institutions and capital markets in response to monetary policy and other forces at work in the financial system.

International Department

This department's principal responsibilities include the conduct of foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and analyses of current and prospective developments in exchange markets, the Canadian balance of payments, economic activity overseas and the international payments system.

Department of Banking Operations

The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and all other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold, securities and currency. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. The Department has agencies or branches in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax.

Public Debt Department

This department is responsible for the administration of direct and certain guaranteed debt issues of the Government of Canada. Its functions include obtaining and distributing supplies of debt certificates, the maintenance of registers and records for control purposes, the payment of interest and the retirement of the debt.

Comptroller's Department

This department is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, such as the processing, monitoring and reporting of receipts and payments for management and statutory reporting requirements. These responsibilities involve the co-ordination of the annual planning budgeting exercise and subsequent control, processing payments for goods, services, payroll and unclaimed balances, recording transactions for administrative expenditures and market operations, accounting for and reporting the Bank's financial position, and keeping records of items in safekeeping.

Administrative Departments

The Secretary's Department provides public information, central library services and some corporate services, and manages the Currency Museum and National Currency Collection. The Department of Premises Management is responsible for management of the Bank's properties, including security matters. There are also several other departments with self-explanatory titles, including Audit, Automation Services, Comptroller's and Personnel.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canada Council was created by Parliament in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, R.S.C. 1970, chapter 2, as amended).

Responsibilities

The general policy objective of the Canada Council is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

Legislation

- Canada Council Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Arts Divison

This divison is responsible for assessing and recommending applications for support to individual artists and arts organizations. It currently consists of ten sections including the Awards Service, Dance, Explorations, Media Arts, Music, Theatre, Touring Office, Visual Arts, the Art Bank, and Writing and and Publication.

The Arts Award Service is responsible for support to individual professional artists for creative activity or skill improvement in architecture, arts criticism, writing, dance, film, multidisciplinary work and performance art, music, photography, theatre, video, and the visual arts. Its programs include arts grants "A" and "B", grants in non-fiction writing, project grants, travel grants, studio space and study abroad, post-graduate work in selected disciplines, and prizes.

The Dance Section is responsible for support to professional Canadian dance companies, organizations and associations in ballet, modern and experimental dance. Its program include the communications fund and grants to dance companies, independent dance artists, professional schools, service organizations, media projects, and indepenDance.

The Explorations Program is responsible for grants to investigate new forms of cultural expression and participation. Grants are provided to individuals or organizations for innovative projects, within or outside traditional arts disciplines, which contribute towards an understanding of Canada's cultural past or the development of its cultural future.

The Media Arts Section provides support for the direct creative use of conventional and new technologies and related media by independent professional artists. It administers three major programs: film and holography, video and audio, and integrated media (computer processing, imaging — audio and video — or system control, videotex and teletext, laser techniques, video/disc and optical storage media). Its programs include production grants, aid to organizations, special projects, grants for workshops, communications funds, videotape fund and the Canada Council Film Collection.

The Music Section is responsible for support to Canadian music companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to orchestras, opera companies, other music groups and organizations, and amateur choirs, commissioning of Canadian compositions, aid to sound recording by Canadian producers and companies, and the communication fund.

The Theatre Section is responsible for support to professional theatre companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to theatre companies, independent production grants to professional theatre artists, the playwrights-in-residence program and the communications fund.

The Touring Office supports touring by Canadian performing artists, and the development of management for Canadian tours and artists and tour co-ordination and promotion. Its programs include touring grants, apprenticeship program, Concert Canada program, festival program, and cultural exchange.

The Visual Arts Section is responsible for support to visual arts institutions and associations. Its programs include aid to artist-run centres and exhibition assistance to art galleries; aid to print workshops; the visiting artist program, artists studios in New York, Chalmers fund for the crafts, performance art, and the communications fund.

The Canada Council Art Bank purchases contemporary Canadian works of art and rents them to federal government departments and agencies as well as other public institutions and non-profit organizations. It also organizes exhibitions of its collection and occasionally lends works for exhibitions by other institutions.

The Writing and Publication Section is responsible for support to publishing companies, organizations and associations, and for certain programs of support to writers. Its programs include block grants and project grants to book publishers; translation grants; aid to periodicals; book kits; promotion and distribution of Canadian books and periodicals; promotion tours by authors; public reading program; National Book Festival; writers-in-residence program; literary prizes and awards; Canada-Scotland writers-in-residence exchange; and grants to national associations of writers, book publishers and periodical publishers.

CANADA DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's primary role is to provide insurance for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company against the loss of all or part of their deposits, to a maximum of $60 000, in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned.

The Corporation's secondary roles include: examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Inspector General of Banks and the Superintendent of Insurance); acting as a lender of last resort to provide short-term loans under specified authority; managing acquired assets of member institutions being liquidated and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution; acting as curator of a bank or liquidator or receiver of other member institutions; managing, monitoring and investing a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

Legislation

- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act
- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation General By-Law
- Co-operative Credit Association Act
- Investment Companies Act
- Part XII of the Financial Administration Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Legal Services

The Legal Services function is responsible for providing legal counsel and advice in all legal matters affecting the Corporation. It also performs administrative duties assigned to it by the Board of Directors.

Internal Audit

The internal audit function is responsible for an independent examination and review of internal controls, policies and procedures; systems and practices; their application; and the extent to which they protect the interests of the Corporation. The internal auditor develops and maintains this function in accordance with provisions related to Crown corporations as outlined in the Financial Administration Act.

Public Relations and Human Resources

The priority mandate of this function is to formulate and develop communication policies that will enable it to support and establish the priorities, policies, programs and activities of the Corporation. It must also communicate those policies to member institutions and the general public.

The Human Resources Department is responsible for administering the Corporation's Human Resource Program and for co-ordinating related activities such as staffing, pay and benefits, training and development, counselling and the application of the Program's policies and procedures in a standard and consistent manner.

Insurance and Risk Assessment

This unit is responsible for effectively managing insurance operations, maintaining good member relations and assessing risk. It also establishes standards for sound business and financial practices and procedures for assessing the performance of member institutions.

Accounting

This department's main responsibility is the effective management of the Corporation's finances through the development and implementation of appropriate financial policies, programs and systems.

Field Operations

This unit develops systems and procedures for conducting interventions and managing the operation of a number of member institutions.

Organizational Units and their Role: Canada Employment and Immigration Commission

Internal Audit Bureau

The Bureau reviews and appraises the effectiveness and efficiency of operational and financial procedures and systems, and identifies areas for improvement, for all CEIC programs and for programs external to and funded by CEIC.

Executive Secretariat

The Secretariat consists of the Executive Management Services Directorate, the Intergovernmental Affairs — External Liaison Directorate, the Public Rights Administration Directorate, the Emergency Planning Directorate, and the Security Directorate. It is responsible for corporate planning, policy formulation, federal-provincial and international relations, and public rights management, including CEIC's administration of legislation governing access to information and privacy; and co-ordinates CEIC's emergency planning. The Initiatives group develops, manages, promotes and advises on CEIC quality of service and productivity improvement programs, and undertakes other special corporate assignments as required.

Immigration Program

The Immigration Program consists of the Operations Branch, the Planning and Program Management Branch, the Policy and Program Development Branch, and the Settlement Branch. It administers Canadian immigration law regarding the selection of immigrants and the entry of refugees, temporary workers, foreign students, other visitors and tourists; assists Canadian residents on their return to Canada and helps settle recent immigrants; and enforces measures for the health, safety and good order of Canadian society.

The Operations Branch includes the Case Review Directorate, the Procedures and Instructions Directorate, and the Analysis and Intelligence Directorate. This branch administers the Immigration Act and Regulations as they pertain to the examination of persons seeking entry into canada; facilitates entry of diplomats, temporary workers, foreign students and other legitimate visitors; denies use of Canadian territory to persons who are likely to engage in criminal, subversive or terrorist activities; prohibits inadmissible persons from entering Canada; and removes from Canada those in breach of the provisions of the legislation.

The Planning and Program Managment Branch includes the Program Data Directorate, the Co-ordination and Liaison Directorate, the Resource Planning and Control Directorate, and the Legislative Review Committee. This branch provides operational and administrative support to the Immigration program, including program planning; performance measurement; creation and maintenance of computerized program data banks; staff training; operational guidance to personnel working at regional and local offices; review and amendment of the Immigration Act and Regulations; management-union consultations; and secretariat services.

The Policy and Program Development Branch includes the Policy Development Directorate, the Regional Policy and Program Relations Directorate, the Program Development Directorate, the Refugee Affairs Directorate, and the Data Analysis and Forecasts Directorate. This branch administers policy, sets priorities and provides guidance to immigration field offices concerning the admission of immigrants and visitors, including levels of immigration by classes and categories, in response to such concerns as occupational demand in the Canadian labour market; social policies reflected in family reunification programs; the need for temporary admission for study or for seasonal or other short-term employment; and humanitarian considerations relating to the relief of refugees. (The number of refugees admitted each year is set out in an annual refugee plan which specifies a global number of refugees to be accepted and allotment areas from which they are to be selected. This plan is formulated in consultation with private groups, provincial governments, and the United Nations High Commission for Refugees.)

The Settlement Branch includes the Adjudication Directorate. It helps provide a smooth transition to a new life in Canada for refugees and other immigrants; provides both financial and non-financial assistance to immigrants, including reception and accommodation services and the matching of refugees with Canadian sponsors; and administers contributions to voluntary organizations involved in providing settlement services to newcomers.

Insurance

The Insurance group consists of the Actuarial Services Branch, the Insurance Policy Branch, the Control Branch, and the Insurance Services Branch. It develops and promulgates legislative changes, policies and activities governing the delivery of the Unemployment Insurance Program and of insurance services, and those governing the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program; provides actuarial services and advice on the strategy and operations of the Unemployment Insurance Program and the Government Annuities program; defines CEIC objectives, goals, strategies, regulatory changes, priorities, and action plans as the basis for short- and long-range operational planning and performance measurement; and represents CEIC in submitting or contesting appeals to higher courts regarding decisions about payments to individuals or the granting of premium reductions to employers.

The Actuarial Services Branch provides CEIC with actuarial services and advice concerning the policy, strategy and operations of the Unemployment Insurance Program and the Government Annuities program. (Much of this advice is required under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Government Annuities Act and the Government Annuities Improvement Act.)

The Insurance Policy Branch includes the Policy and Legislation Development Directorate, the Benefit Entitlement Directorate, and the Appeals Directorate. This branch develops legislative proposals, policies, directives and guidelines governing the eligibility for and the payment of unemployment insurance benefits; develops legislative proposals and policies for granting unemployment insurance premium reductions to employers, reviewing decisions denying a reduction, and auditing employers granted a reduction; and maintains CEIC's appeal system.

The Control Branch includes the Control Policy Directorate, the Planning and Analysis Division, and the Control Programs Directorate. This branch develops, tests and implements policies, programs and procedures for the prevention, detection and deterrence of fraud and abuse in unemployment insurance benefits; develops priorities and objectives for CEIC's control activities; and assesses overall control performance.

The Insurance Services Branch includes the Medical Advisory Services group, the Insurance Program Services Directorate, the Insurance Management Services Directorate, and the Comprehensive Tracking System group. This branch develops policies, directives and guidelines for the operational delivery of insurance activities through the Canada Employment Centres; develops policies on related medical advisory services for sickness and maternity claims; monitors and analyses insurance services; and develops and maintains a tracking system for overpayments, underpayments, programs and activities.

Labour Market Development

The Labour Market Development group consists of the Training Branch, the Labour Market Planning and Adjustment Branch, the Human Resource Planning Directorates, and the Employment Development Branch. It designs, operates and purchases programs to improve employment opportunities in the Canadian labour market, including skills training, apprenticeship courses, technical or financial assistance, community based employment incentives, and job creation schemes for student, adult, and disadvantaged workers, as well as for whole communities; assesses the impact of the Immigration Program on the labour market so that Canadian labour is given priority over foreign workers entering Canada; and assists community organizations, government institutions, and the private sector with manpower planning and labour adjustment problems.

The Training Branch includes the Industrial Training Directorate, the Institutional Training Directorate, the Program Analysis and Information Directorate, the Course Assessment and Improvement Directorate, the Program Policy Review and Development Directorate, and the Program Development and Implementation Directorate. This branch sets policies and priorities and provides guidance to CEIC regional offices on the administration of training programs set up under federal-provincial training agreements and in accordance with the National Training Act; ensures that training agreements are consistent with CEIC objectives and with the needs of the labour market, that training allowances are determined, and that training programs are certified, monitored and evaluated; and recommends regional allocations of program funds, annual training plans, and training strategies to meet occupational needs.

The Labour Market Planning and Adjustment Branch includes the Industrial Adjustment Service Directorate and the Adjustment Programming Directorate. This branch, which helps develop the productive utilization of the Canadian labour force, encourages the private sector to undertake manpower planning and to assume greater responsibility for developing and training workers to meet its manpower needs; ensures that, in the development of policies and programs of other governmental agencies, consideration is given to their effects on the labour market; manages the Industrial Adjustment Service, which helps management and labour to deal jointly with worker adjustment problems arising from technological and economic industrial changes; administers the Canada Agricultural Employment Program; develops policy and co-ordinates programs for the Industry and Labour Adjustment Program and the Work Sharing Program; provides CEIC's support to the Canadian Industrial Renewal Board; represents CEIC on the Enterprise Development Board and the Regional Development Incentives Advisory Board; and publishes the Monthly Lay-off Report.

The Human Resource Planning Directorates include the Human Resource Planning Directorate (Energy, Construction and Agriculture), the Human Resource Planning Directorate (Resources and Services), and the Human Resource Planning Directorate (Manufacturing and Foreign Worker Policy). These directorates help the private sector plan for future labour requirements and make more productive use of the existing labour force; encourage them to integrate human resource planning into their overall corporate planning; assit them in implementing their human resource plans by applying appropriate CEIC programs and services; maintain liaison with national and provincial employer associations, unions and other government departments responsible for economic development; and collect and analyse industrial employment information.

The Employment Development Branch includes the Canada Works Directorate, the Career-Access Directorate, the Job Corps Directorate, the Local Employment Assistance and Development Program Directorate, the Student Employment Programming

Directorate, and the Policy, Planning and Analysis Directorate. This branch develops and implements CEIC's national plans, policies and procedures for job creation programs — the Canada Works Program, the Career-Access Program, the Job Corps Program, and the Local Employment Assistance and Development Program (LEAD) — designed to deal with employment problems caused by cyclical downturns in the economy or by unforeseen industrial developments, to encourage and contribute to local employment growth, and to support human resource development.

Employment Services

The Employment Services group consists of the Employment Operational Services Branch, the Employment Support Services Branch, the Special Groups and Affirmative Action Branch, and the Employment Services Planning and Analysis Branch. It develops policies, guidelines and procedures for the delivery of CEIC employment services, including those designed to meet the needs of particular client groups such as women, natives, youth and other individuals who are considered disadvantaged; and monitors and analyzes all such services.

The Employment Operational Services Branch includes the Operational Services Directorate, the Mobility Directorate, and the Outreach Program. This branch ensures the uniform application of employment programs and services delivered through the Canada Employment Centres; and develops policies on placement service, mobility, and national job clearance.

The Employment Support Services Branch includes the National Occupational Analysis and Classification Systems (NOACS) group. This branch develops policies and materials for employment counselling and testing; develops training programs for CEIC staff who deal with employers and worker clients; and develops national occupation databases, classifications, standards and systems.

The Special Groups and Affirmative Action Branch includes the Youth Employment Directorate, the Native Employment Directorate, the Women's Employment Directorate, the Disabled Persons Employment Directorate, the Special-Needs Clients Division, the Affirmative Action Directorate, and the Functional Services Division. This branch develops employment policies and programs in these areas; ensures the effective implementation of government policies to promote equal access to employment for Canadians, and recommends policy changes to benefit youth, natives, women, disabled persons and special-needs clients; maintains liaison with government and non-government bodies concerning equity in employment; and promotes the adoption of Affirmative Action plans by private sector employers.

The Employment Services Planning and Analysis Branch monitors and assesses operational policies, projects and programs associated with the delivery of employment services; measures, analyzes and forecasts operational performance; and co-ordinates planning and accountability activities.

Systems and Procedures

The Systems and Procedures group consists of the Employment and Benefit Systems Branch and the Information Systems Branch. It develops and implements policies and programs for integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing (EDP) systems to deliver CEIC services.

The Employment and Benefit Systems Branch develops and maintains EDP systems to support the employment development, employment training and unemployment insurance benefit programs, and placement services offered by Canada Employment Centres; and develops clerical procedures for processing claims for benefits in local offices and regional computer centres, and computer systems to detect and prevent fraud and abuse.

The Information Systems Branch includes the Computer Operations Directorate and the Management Advisory Services Directorate. This branch develops and maintains advanced EDP systems to support CEIC's long-range programs, as well as the Social Insurance Number Program, Canadian Government Annuities program and Immigration program; develops and maintains information systems for finance, personnel, administration and operational use; and develops EDP policy, systems and standards.

National Services Directorate

The Directorate consists of the Central Index group, the Annuities Division, and the Employer Registration Division. It administers the Social Insurance Number Program, the Canadian Government Annuities program and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program.

Organizational Units and their Role: Department of Employment and Immigration

Public Affairs Branch

The Branch consists of Corporate Affairs, Labour Market and Employment Services Information, Immigration and Unemployment Insurance Information, and Information Services. It undertakes promotion, information, publishing, advertising, and media relations on behalf of the Commission.

Strategic Policy and Planning

This group consists of the Labour Market Outlook and Structural Analysis Branch, the Planning Branch, the Program Evaluation Branch, and the Policy and Program Analysis Branch. It examines CEIC policies and programs in relation to their objectives; analyses current and projected labour market demands and the resources available to satisfy them, and identifies and develops policies to alleviate imbalances; and examines paid educational leave as a system of manpower planning aimed at promoting economic expansion and social justice.

The Labour Market Outlook and Structural Analysis Branch helps develop new strategies to match the supply of labour with demand, and new policies to enhance the interrelationship between Commission programs, policies and services to ensure that the Commission is more effective in dealing with present and future challenges in the labour market; helps create a broader planning base for decision-making by incorporating more comprehensive data in its projections and assessments of occupational supply and demand; and implements the Canadian Occupational Projection System (COPS).

The Planning Branch undertakes mid- and long-range planning; develops integrated data sources for analysis; and maintains liaison with regional economists and international bodies such as the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

The Program Evaluation Branch develops and implements a comprehensive strategy for evaluating CEIC programs.

The Policy and Program Analysis Branch includes the Unemployment Insurance Analysis Directorate, the Employment and Immigration Analysis Directorate, and the Briefing and Current Analysis Division. This branch analyzes labour market conditions, identifies program implications, and develops proposals for policy and program modification.

CANADA LABOUR RELATIONS BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canada Labour Relations Board (CLRB) was established in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, chapter L-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, chapter 18) and became effective March 1, 1973.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibility is two-fold: to grant, modify and terminate bargaining rights; and to resolve, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers. On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part V of the Code.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code
- Canada Labour Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organizational Units and their Role

The Board has a single program consisting of the administration of certain sections of Parts IV and V of the Canada Labour Code. It is supported in this activity by investigation and mediation staff in offices located in Dartmouth, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as at its headquarters in Ottawa.

CANADA MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation on 1 January 1946 by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act, with the authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA).

Responsibilities

CMHC's purpose, as embodied in the National Housing Act, is to promote the construction of new houses, the repair and the modernization of existing housing, and the improvement of housing and living conditions. In addition, the CMHC, through the Act, assists in furthering government objectives such as economic growth, job creation and energy conservation.

Legislation

- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Organizational Units and their Role

Corporate General Counsel

The Sector consists of the Legal Division, the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Office, and the Employment Equity Office. It is responsible for the preparation and the review of CMHC legislation, the conduct or supervision of legal proceedings, and the co-ordination and administration of Access to Information, Privacy and Employment Equity legislation.

Corporate Secretariat

The Corporate Secretariat consists of the Corporate Relations Office, the Office of the Corporate Secretary, the International Relations Office, and the Association Liaison Office. It maintains regular contact with the Office of the Minister responsible for CMHC, the Corporation's Board of Directors, housing associations and foreign governments. In addition, the Secretariat manages the Corporation's decision-making process, records decisions of CMHC Management and the Board of Directors, and acts as custodian of the Corporate seal, minute-books, by-laws, etc.

Operations Review Directorate

This directorate consists of Program Evaluation and Operations Audit. It provides the information and advice required to achieve accountability in management, administration and operating practices, and efficiency and effectiveness in programs.

Policy, Research and Programs Sector

This sector includes the Strategic Planning and Policy Development Division, the Research Division, the Project Implementation Division, the Statistical Services Division and the Canadian Housing Information Centre (library). It is responsible for Part V of the National Housing Act, under which CMHC has a mandate to undertake and support research into housing conditions and the adequacy of existing accommodation and community planning, and to disseminate the results to consumers, industry, governments and others. The Sector also includes the following three divisions.

The Program Operations Division is comprised of the Social Housing Group, the Rural and Native Housing Group and the Residential Improvement Group. This division is responsible for program operations, delivery-related functional guidance, field and client liaison and training, program policy interpretation and adaptation, monitoring of program delivery and program support.

The Program Portfolio Management Division is comprised of the Social Housing Portfolio Management Group, the Public Housing Administration Group and the Land Management Group. The Division is responsible for the administration of the Corporation's public housing, non-profit and co-operative housing portfolios, and the development and disposal of the Corporation's land holdings. This involves guidance, monitoring, field training and liaison.

The Program Planning and Analysis Division is comprised of the Program Planning Group and the Program Analysis and Monitoring Group. The Division is responsible for the planning, analysis and monitoring of all programs, including CMHC, provincial and joint initiatives, and for the co-ordination of the Sector computer requirements and activities.

Insurance and Asset Administration Sector

This sector is responsible for the operation of the CMHC mortgage insurance program, the administration of Corporation-owned mortgages, for the disposal of all categories of real estate assets and for providing technical support through consultation and advisory services. It consists of the following four divisions.

The Underwriting Division promotes the effective operation of the mortgage insurance market and the housing market by providing leadership in mortgage insurance, on a full recovery basis, while pursuing additional public policy objectives.

The Mortgage and Insurance Claims Division administers Corporation-owned mortgages and housing subsidy programs. It monitors and evaluates activity and is responsible for the prevention and the settlement of claims against the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF).

The Real Estate Division develops guidelines for the administration and disposal of all categories of real estate assets. It monitors and evaluates property management and marketing activities.

The Professional Standards Division provides professional and technical support for CMHC program operations and field offices through consultation and advisory services. It advises on appraisal, inspection, housing design, building technology, technical drafting services and metric policies.

Corporate Resources Sector

This sector is responsible for the policies, procedures, standards and administration of the entire sphere of human resources management, the business systems required to support the operational needs of the Corporation and the financial processes related to the Corporate business strategy. It consists of the Human Resources Centre, the Administration Division, the Treasurer's Directorate, as well as the three divisions described as follows.

The Information and Communications Centre (ICOM) answers questions from the press and the public about CMHC activities and programs, distributes publications, issues news releases and markets CMHC programs and services.

The Controller's Directorate consists of Financial Services and the Investment Portfolio Accounting Division. It is custodian of CMHC's accounting records. It prepares financial statements and reports, handles the funds payable to CMHC, establishes and maintains fiscal controls, and supervises the Corporation's investments.

The Management Information Services Directorate consists of the System Development Division, Information Systems Client Support Division, Existing Computer Systems Division, Technical Planning and Support Division, EDP Operations Division, and Directorate Services. The Directorate develops and maintains business systems (computer and manual) to support the operational functions and management information needs. It operates and maintains CMHC's computer facilities, and ensures the security of the EDP environment.

CANADA PORTS CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

Canada Ports Corporation was established in 1983 pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act. This Act amended the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the 1964 Harbour Commissions Act. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Transport, Canada Ports Corporation is a schedule C, Part II Crown corporation under the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

Canada Ports Corporation is responsible for administering its ports under a common objective and ensuring that they meet the federal government's responsibility for national ports and the optimum deployment of resources. Canada Ports Corporation shares, with other marine components, the broad objective of attending to the development and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system.

Canada Ports Corporation is also responsible for ensuring that ongoing maintenance, upgrading and major expansions to port facilities and infrastructure will provide enhanced services to port users, on a competitive and cost-effective basis, both for domestic and international customers.

Since 1983, pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act, the ports of St. John's, Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Vancouver and Prince Rupert have met the criteria of national and regional significance and financial viability and have been established as local port corporations.

Non-corporate ports, which are directly administered by the Canada Ports Corporation, are located in Belledune, New Brunswick; Chicoutimi, Baie des Ha! Ha!, Sept-Îles and Trois-Rivières, Quebec; Prescott and Port Colborne, Ontario; and, Churchill, Manitoba.

Legislation

- Canada Ports Corporation Act, S.C. 1980-81-82, chapter 121
- Canada Ports Corporation Administrative By-law, P.C. 1983-1653, 2 June, 1983
- National Harbours Board Harbour Dues Tariff By-law, C.R.C. Vol. XII, chapter 1063 and as amended thereafter
- National Harbours Board Operating By-law, C.R.C., Vol. XII, chapter 1064

- Tenders and Works Contracts By-law, P.C. 1983-747, 11 March, 1983

Organizational Units and their Role

Port Services

This department provides engineering services, as well as environment and facilities planning expertise, to non-corporate ports and, on request, to local port corporations. It oversees grain operations at Prescott, Port Colborne and Churchill, and manages the Port of Belledune. It also provides expert advice to the Canada Ports Corporation's board of directors and senior management in order to contribute to the safety, efficiency and cost-effectiveness of the Corporation's facilities.

Corporate Services

This department is responsible for the formulation, development and implementation of the Canada Ports Corporation's long- and short-term strategies for the assessment of port and corporate projects; for the provision of information services to all ports and national office departments, including library services; and for the provision of all periodic management information reports pertaining to macro-economic, trade and transportation issues and the financial performance of the port system.

Police and Security

The Ports Canada Police is a national police force established for the enforcement of federal and provincial laws that relate to the protection of persons and property situated on premises under the administration of the Canada Ports Corporation or a local port corporation.

CANADIAN AVIATION SAFETY BOARD

Chapter 14

CANADIAN AVIATION SAFETY BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Aviation Safety Board Act was proclaimed May 1, 1984, taking effect on October 1, 1984. This legislation followed acceptance by Cabinet of the recommendations made in the Dubin Report concerning Aviation Safety in Canada, which was published in May 1981.

Responsibilities

The objective of the Board is to advance aviation safety by identifying safety deficiencies as evidenced by aviation occurrences and conducting independent investigations and, if necessary, public enquiries into occurrences, in order to discover contributing factors and causes. The Board makes public reports on its investigations and findings and recommendations designed to eliminate or reduce safety deficiencies. It is not the objective of the Board to determine or apportion any blame or liability in connection with an aviation occurrence.

Legislation

- Canadian Aviation Safety Board Act
- Canadian Aviation Safety Board Regulations

Organizational Units and their Role

The Board consists of the Chairman and nine members and is supported by an Executive Director and five branches.

Aviation Safety Investigation Branch

This branch directs and conducts investigations into aviation occurrences, identifies safety deficiencies, prepares reports on its findings and proposes recommendations to advance aviation safety.

Aviation Safety Programs Branch

This branch is responsible for data systems and statistical analysis, communications and public affairs, policy and planning, the evaluation of safety deficiencies and the preparation of recommendations.

Aviation Safety Engineering Branch

This branch is responsible for the development, provision and maintenance of technologically advanced engineering services and a comprehensive material and failure test and analysis capability. These services and facilities provide the specialized technical/engineering support to the occurrence investigations by the Board.

Aviation Safety Medicine Branch

This branch is responsible for the development, co-ordination and provision of technologically advanced comprehensive tests and analyses of tissues and fluids of occupants killed in aircraft accidents. These tests/analyses assist in determining condition prior to death and assessing the human factor aspects of each occurrence.

Adminstration Branch

This branch provides financial, personnel, administrative and secretariat services required for the independent operation of the Board in the conduct of public hearings and inquiries.

Manuals

- Accident Data Reporting System (ICAO)
- Administration Procedures for Safety Programs
- Canadian Aviation Safety Board Act and Regulations
- Computer Systems Documentation
- Investigation Operation Manual
- National Joint Council Agreements

CANADIAN CENTRE FOR OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) was created by the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act.

Responsibilities

The Centre promotes healthier and safer places of work in Canada by responding to enquiries from people interested in occupational health and safety; by writing, publishing, and distributing documents on technical subjects that are easy to understand; by creating and providing access to the Centre's national computer service of occupational health and safety information (CCINFO); by distributing CCINFO disc; and by facilitating workshops.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act — Schedule B

Organizational Units and their Role

The Centre is a corporation under schedule B of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 39 representatives from labour, employers' organizations and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year in various parts of Canada. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre. There are four directorates through which the program is delivered.

Technical Services provides scientific and professional support for the analysis and interpretation of scientific information on occupational health and safety.

Information Systems Services establishes and operates computerized information services through which information is delivered to the Centre's clients, and provides the framework for data base building.

Information Response Services responds directly to enquiries, and provides information and documentation in support of the services of the Centre.

Finance, Publishing and Administrative Services provides centralized planning, financial control, management and support services, and other services necessary for the effective operation of the Centre. It also designs, prints and distributes the Centre's publications.

CCINFO
Description This is the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety's computerized information system. It contains direct information on topics such as workplace chemicals; bibliographic references on occupational health and safety; videotex information packages which provide colour animated illustrations to present technical information in an easy-to-understand manner. Topics: (Data Bases) The CIOL (Chemical Information On-line) Data Bank responds to the right to know about the hazards posed by chemicals in the workplace. It consists of TN (Trade Names) which focuses on trade-named chemicals, and CHEMINFO (Chemical Information) which supplies detailed information on trade name ingredients and safe usage. CANADIANA is a bibliographic data base of documents on occupational health and safety produced in Canada, by Canadians or on Canadian topics. ESSENTIALS provides references to publications selected as essential to answer questions on a specific topic in occupational health and safety. RESOURCES contains three data bases describing people and organizations active in Canadian occupational health and safety, and current research projects in the field. LIOL (Legal Information On-line) is a data bank which contains Canadian legal information on occupational health and safety in CASE LAW, a collection of summaries of occupational health and safety cases and decisions from juridisdictions across Canada. It also includes FATALITY REPORTS, a prototype containing information from reports on occupationally-related fatalities. NOISE LEVELS is a direct-information data base providing numerical data on noise levels relating to different types of machinery used for specific occupations in various industries. STANDARDS AND DIRECTORIES is a directory of standards, certified products' directories, products and other miscellaneous information published by the CSA (Canadian Standards Association). CIS/ILO was created by the Centre international d'informations de sécurité et d'hygiène du travail of the International Labour Office in Geneva. CIS/ILO is a bilingual, bibliographic data base on publications in occupational health and safety worldwide. Developed by the US National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, NIOSHTIC is a bibliographic data base with international coverage of publications in occupational health and safety. RTECS is a computerized version of the NIOSH Registry of Toxic Effects of Chemical Substances, an annual compendium of toxicity data extracted from the scientific literature by NIOSH. Videotex Information Packages: Asbestos: contains basic information on asbestos, its use, work practices, protective equipment, related diseases, and preventive measures. Excavation: a learning program which outlines potential dangers associated with excavation work and necessary safety precautions to avoid them. Organizing an Occupational Health and Safety Committee: contains information for newly formed or about-to-be-formed committees with questions and comments highlighting areas which should be considered during preliminary discussions. For committees of long standing, it can be used as an audit guide to examine the existing structure and function of the committee. Occupational Exposure to Spirit-Duplicator Machines: contains information about some potentially hazardous substances used with these machines. How Workplace Chemicals Enter the Body: information on ways in which chemicals can enter and harm the human body, including effects on the respiratory and digestive systems, the skin, and the eyes. Hazards of Photocopiers: a description of various potentially harmful chemicals used in photocopying. Introducing CCOHS: an introduction to the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety and its services. CCINFO disc: employs Compact Disc Read-Only Memory (CD-ROM) technology to distribute CCINFO using microcomputers. It contains all CCINFO data bases and videotex information packages as well as selected publications, such as Chemical Hazard Summaries, Safety Infograms, and other documents published by CCOHS.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

A Crown Corporation established in 1946 by the Canadian Commercial Corporation Act, Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) is wholly owned by the Government of Canada.

Responsibilities

Canadian Commercial Corporation reports to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade (the Secretary of State for External Affairs). The Corporation's mandate is to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations. Its principal activity is to make sales to foreign governments and international agencies on behalf of Canadian suppliers. In all transactions, it assumes the role of prime contractor, undertaking to deliver a product or service to the foreign customer with a "back-to-back" obligation from a Canadian supplier. The work to be done is subcontracted to private sector firms and/or other government departments or agencies.

Legislation

- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, senior public servants and the President of the Corporation.

Corporate Affairs

This unit is responsible for planning, communications, management of information systems/data processing, security and administration and personnel services. The latter includes such items as Access to Information and Privacy, the Employment Equity Program and the Official Languages Program.

Finance

The Finance Group is responsible for ensuring sound financial management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation, from conception to implementation.

Operations

Three distinct operational groups facilitate government-to-government export contracts, in keeping with the Corporation's responsibilities. The groups are: United States, Overseas, and International Agencies. The latter deals with United Nations purchasing agencies and international financial institutions.

CANADIAN CULTURAL PROPERTY EXPORT REVIEW BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board was created by the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, proclaimed in September 1977.

Responsibilities

The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada the best examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Communications on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 29 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the designated institution or public authority making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old and made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent deductability provision under the Income Tax Act.

CANADIAN DAIRY COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966.

Responsibilities

The Commission administers various components of the national dairy policy, such as: calculation of a target price for industrial milk and cream; administration of an offer-to-purchase program for butter and skim milk powder; subsidy payments to dairy producers; marketing of dairy products for the domestic and export markets; development and recommendation of dairy policies to the Minister of Agriculture. The Chairman of the Commission also chairs the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee, which is responsible for the national supply management of industrial milk and cream.

Legislation

- Agricultural Stabilization Act
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Commission

The Commission establishes policy and administrative guidelines and objectives, maintains constant liaison with federal and provincial government departments and agencies and with representatives of producers and processors, prepares policy recommendations for the industry and the government, receives advice from the Consultative Committee and chairs the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee.

The Policy and Economics section provides analysis and advice on dairy-related issues.

The Subsidy Operations section administers the payment of subsidies on qualifying shipments of industrial milk and cream to producers in order to make dairy products more affordable to consumers. This involves processing applications for registration of producers' permits, maintaining records of provincial and individual producer market share quotas and milk and cream production, paying subsidies on the basis of those records, and directing and controlling the levy program.

The Marketing Operations section involves both domestic and export activities, including the purchase, sale, transport, warehousing, financing and payment of assistance on the export of dairy products and animal feed under the Commission's domestic price support and special export program. Products involved are butter, skim milk powder, cheese, evaporated milk, whole milk powder and specialty products.

CANADIAN FILM DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, was established by an Act of Parliament in March 1967 (R.S.C. 1970, chapter C-8).

Responsibilities

The Corporation is responsible for fostering the growth and development of the private sector of the Canadian film industry. It does this by helping to finance the production and commercial distribution of feature films and television programs produced by Canadian companies. It also provides funds to increase the private sector's financial capacity to develop, produce, promote and distribute Canadian programming and dramatic feature films. The Corporation, which does not produce or distribute programming itself, carries out its mandate by co-operating with individual production, distribution, export and exhibition companies, as well as with other federal and provincial departments and agencies having like interests. It is financed by a yearly appropriation from Parliament.

Legislation

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, 1970, R.S.C. chapter C-8.

Organizational Units and their Role

The Corporation, which comes under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Communications, is headed by a board of directors and a chairman appointed by the Governor in Council.

Administration

The Administration Division is responsible for the general administration of the Corporation, for internal policy formulation, and for evaluating and advising the federal government on film and television policies and strategies. The Division is also responsible for the administration of Canada's co-production treaties with Algeria, Belgium, France, Israel, Italy, the Federal Republic of Germany, Spain, the United Kingdom, Czechoslovakia and China, on behalf of the Minister of Communications. It also evaluates applications made under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister on provisional and final approval.

Production, Distribution and Marketing

The Corporation administers a number of funds to help finance production, distribution and marketing, and to promote the film and video industry. Production assistance includes the Feature Film Fund and the Interim Financing Fund. Distribution and Marketing assistance covers the Versioning Assistance Fund, the National Distribution Assistance Fund, the International Marketing Assistance Fund and the Interim Financing Fund. The Festivals Office administers the Industrial and Professional Development Fund, the Grants to Canadian Film, Video and Television Festivals Fund and co-ordinates Canadian participation at international film events.

CANADIAN HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission (CHRC) was given its mandate with the passage in July, 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978, and was amended July 1, 1983.

Responsibilities

The Commission's mandate is to foster the principle that every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in all spheres of Canadian life, consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of society. The Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in the provision of goods, services, facilities or accommodation on the basis of ten prohibited grounds of discrimination: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction for an offence for which a pardon has been granted. Its jurisdiction includes federal government departments and agencies, Crown corporations and institutions such as chartered banks, airlines, interprovincial transportation systems, as well as the federally regulated portions of the private sector.

As well, the Commission conducts information programs in the field of human rights, provides advice, issues guidelines, conducts research, reviews regulations and their instruments, maintains close liaison with the provinces and endeavours to reduce discriminatory practices.

Organizational Units and their Role

The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status, and is supported by the Deputy Chief Commissioner and the Secretary General. There are five administrative operational branches at headquarters: Legal, Research and Policy, Complaints and Compliance, Public Programs, and Administration, Finance and Personnel. The Commission also maintains seven regional offices in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Legal Branch

This branch provides legal advice to Commission members and staff on all legal matters which come under the jurisdiction of the Commission, and information and advice on the administration of legal matters pertaining to legal proceedings by or against the Commission in a Human Rights Tribunal or in a court of law. Staff of the Branch are responsible for the conduct of cases before tribunals and courts.

Research and Policy Branch

This branch is responsible for supporting the Commission's decision-making process through applied research projects and development of policies on any number of human rights issues. Work from this branch is in support of relations with other agencies and the public, representations to Parliament, and advice to employers and organizations serving the public.

Complaints and Compliance Branch

This branch is responsible for ensuring that complaints of discrimination filed with the Commission are investigated in an efficient and timely manner consistent with the principles set out in the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Branch is responsible for the development and implementation of policies and standards for all compliance activities. The Branch is also responsible for conciliation, and for providing advice, assistance and direction to staff in equal pay and systemic discrimination complaints and adaptation plans. In addition, the Branch plays a preventative role by providing advisory services to organizations coming under the jurisdiction of the Commission, in order to help them review and modify their systems and practices so that they comply with the Act.

Public Programs Branch

This branch is responsible for the statutory requirements to develop and implement information training and consultative programs designed to increase public understanding of the Commission and compliance with the Act and its principles. The Program Analysis and Development Section is responsible for undertaking long-term planning and development of services and resources needed by the Commission's clients. Information and Production is responsible for the overall co-ordination of the Commission's public affairs, for the production of various informational material for the Commission's clients and for the maintenance of the Commission's library. Program Delivery is responsible for providing such services as information sessions, workshops and seminars.

Administration, Finance and Personnel Branch

This branch provides all administrative support services such as finance, personnel, secretariat, accommodation, records management and material management.

CANADIAN INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE AND SECURITY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security Act was proclaimed on 28 June 1984, and took full effect on 1 October 1984.

Responsibilities

The objective of the Institute is to foster, fund and conduct research on matters relating to international peace and security; to promote scholarship in matters relating to international peace and security; to study and propose ideas and policies for the enhancement of international peace and security; and to collect and disseminate information on, and encourage public discussion of, issues concerning international peace and security.

Legislation

- Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Research Division

This division directs and conducts research on matters pertaining to international peace and security. It also supports the production of background papers and newsletters, responds to enquiries from the public and administers a research grant program.

Public Programs

This division concerns itself with informing the non-expert public on issues of peace and security by publishing background papers and newsletters and by organizing workshops, conferences and seminars.

Information Systems

The Institute has started to build a collection of books, journals and materials which will eventually comprise a small in-house resource centre. The library is also in the process of automating all of its systems.

Administration

This division provides financial, personnel, administrative and secretarial services for the efficient operation of the Institute.

CANADIAN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AGENCY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian International Development Agency was designated as a department for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act on September 12, 1968 by Order-in-Council P.C. 1968-70.

Responsibilities

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) is the principal federal entity responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance Program. CIDA's assistance to Third World countries is delivered through several channels. The overall system is designed to allow many Canadians — companies, universities, voluntary agencies, individuals and public institutions — to play their part in responding to a complex set of needs and development partners around the world: multilateral institutions, banks, research bodies, governments, co-operatives, schools and colleges.

Legislation

- Department of External Affairs Act
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Agency is headed by a President who reports directly to the Minister for External Relations and the Secretary of State for External Affairs.

Policy Branch

The mandate of the Policy Branch is to advise the Minister, through the President, on a vast range of policy matters related to the development and overall management of Official Development Assistance (ODA).

The Strategic Planning Division ensures CIDA's participation in the yearly minister planning cycle, advises senior Agency officials on the management of the ODA corporate financial envelope and ensures corporate links with the central departments responsible for strategic planning.

The Economic Analysis and Corporate Information Division establishes and maintains a data bank showing the development, orientation and results of the Official Development Assistance Program. It also shows senior management the trends developing at the program level and maintains relations with national and international institutions responsible for data bank management. It carries out various economic and financial analysis, develops a documentation centre in accordance with the Agency's priorities and makes this centre a data centralization point.

The Analysis of Co-ordination Policies Division analyses current Agency policies and ensures that all Agency managers are familiar with and apply them consistently. It examines new needs of developing countries, trends in other assistance organizations and reactions of the Canadian people, and suggests topics for analysis in order to meet these new needs and objectives; and co-ordinates analysis. The Division ensures that the Agency's policies are taken into account by other departments and by provincial governments. It prepares CIDA policy statements on various topics relating to public development assistance, and co-ordinates relations between CIDA and various international organizations, bilateral development assistance organizations and provincial governments.

The Program Evaluation Division provides the required mechanisms to periodically produce objective findings on the Agency's development activities. The findings and conclusions of these evaluations are systematically reported to management.

The Division carries out its evaluation at three levels: project, program and corporate. Project evaluation is concerned with a broad range of issues, from basic efficiency and assessing the achievement of the stated objectives of individual projects to evaluating development impacts after a project has been completed. Program evaluation is intended to provide information on outputs and effects of a number of development activities which have a common objective (or set of related objectives). Corporate evaluation is the systematic gathering of verifiable information on major Agency programs, mainly to determine their effectiveness and impact. Corporate evaluation components in CIDA consist of three types of activity groupings: specific CIDA programs (i.e. Non-Governmental Organizations, Industrial Co-operation, Multilateral Technical Co-operation); priority development sectors (i.e. agriculture, energy, transportation, human resources development); and specific aid instruments (i.e. lines of credit).

In addition, institutional (or organizational) assessment of individual organizations which receive contributions from CIDA in the multi-year or block-funding modes are carried out under the direction of the division concerned. These organizations range from Canadian Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO) to International Financial Institutions (IFI).

Business Co-operation Branch

The Branch co-ordinates and expands the Agency's working relations with the Canadian business community, by encouraging business to increase investment and the technological capacities of these countries.

The Industrial Co-operation Division attempts to stimulate increased participation by the Canadian private sector in the industrial development and growth of the Third World through joint ventures and other forms of business initiatives beneficial to developing countries and Canada.

The Policy and Systems Division formulates and co-ordinates policies as they relate to the Canadian business sector's participation in projects in the developing countries which fall within the development objectives of recipient countries. The Division also plans, develops, maintains and evaluates the systems related to the operations of the Business Co-operation Branch.

The Consultant and Industrial Relations Division is the first point of contact for firms and individuals who want to participate in CIDA programs.

Multilateral Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions such as the regional development banks and the World Bank. Most of these organizations operate a variety of programs, so that CIDA contributes to some 65 programs in all. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of the following four divisions.

The Multilateral Technical Co-operation Division funds some 35 international programs engaged in a wide variety of development-related areas, particularly technical co-operation in key areas such as human resource development, agricultural research, health, population and women in development. In addition to the development programs in the United Nations (e.g. UNDP, UNICEF, UNFPA, WHO), programs related to the Commonwealth, the Agence de coopération culturelle et technique, and the Consultative Group for International Agricultural Research are also administered by the Division.

The Food Aid Co-ordination and Evaluation Centre is responsible for the total CIDA food aid program. It prepares and processes all submissions seeking approval for food aid projects; co-ordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations when necessary during the course of the fiscal year, in consultation with operating branches. The Centre serves as a co-ordinating centre within the Agency in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the Department of External Affairs, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Finance, the World Food Program, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission, the Fish Marketing Board (for reserving tonnages), and food producers and processors. The Centre also acts as team leader on the Food Aid Program Team and its core groups.

The Financial Institutions Division develops and maintains the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to regional development banks for use in their first and second windows as well as for technical assistance purposes. The Division also participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions (IFIs) are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The Division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy.

The International Humanitarian Assistance Program provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and man-made disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given primarily in support of the regular programmes of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees (UNRWA), and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). Grants are also given in support of special country appeals or for projects launched by these and other humanitarian institutions. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied IHA programme grants is maintained.

Special Programs Branch

The Programming, Planning and Evaluation Division participates in the strategic overview, program reviews, the Agency's work plan and the multi-year operational plan, and co-ordinates the Branch's programs of assistance with the activities of other CIDA units. It also co-ordinates country focus activities by non-governmental organizations, institutions and area branches of CIDA. As well, the Division establishes policies and plans to assist the vice-president in the management of operations, manages Branch audit and evaluation operations, and establishes and maintains Branch information systems.

The Non-governmental Organizations Division makes matching contributions for international development projects/programs by Canadian non-governmental organizations (NGOs), religious groups, development agencies, service clubs, women's organizations and youth associations.

The Voluntary Agricultural Development Assistance (VADA) program supports the initiatives of provincial governments and Canadian NGOs which seek to increase agricultural production and increase food security in developing countries. It also makes contributions to NGOs which deliver food aid and commodities (powdered milk and grains, etc.) to areas in need.

The Institutional Co-operation and Development Services Division contributes to the programs of non-governmental organizations sending volunteers overseas, international community exchange programs, educational institutions, co-operatives, unions and professional associations.

The Educational Institutions Program promotes the efforts of Canadian educational institutions in co-operating with counterpart institutions in developing countries to improve their curricula and provide staff development. It also provides for international co-operation between universities and colleges in technical, vocational and scientific sectors.

The Development Services Program and the Co-operatives, Unions and Professional Associations Programs support co-operation between Canadian non-profit organizations, co-operatives, savings and loan companies, labour organizations and professional associations in establishing ties and sharing knowledge with similar groups in developing countries.

The International NGO Programs Division supports the activities of non-governmental organizations which are of international scope.

The Public Participation Program supports non-governmental activities designed to make the Canadian public aware of the issues and problems of developing countries with a view to promoting participation.

The Management for Change Program stimulates and supports innovative ways to help senior executives improve their managerial capabilities and adapt to changing conditions and needs. It also supports regional co-operation between developing countries, and promotes co-operative activities between senior managers in Canada and developing countries that enable them to share experiences and explore new approaches to management problems.

Operations Africa 2000 is a fifteen-year commitment by the Government of Canada to the recovery and long-term development of Africa, in the wake of the 1984-1985 famine crisis. A number of initiatives have already been announced; others are being developed for future announcement. Commitments to date include: Partnership Africa Canada; Africa 2000 Network/UNDP; Women in Development Initiatives, and the Multilateral Initiatives. A major public awareness/development education programme centered on Africa will be undertaken. Programmes to involve the public and the private sector are under consideration and development.

Asia Branch

The principal objective of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's aid program (currently directed to some nine countries of concentration and 14 other countries within Asia); and to integrate Canadian development activities to these countries.

Under the direction of the Vice-President, Asia Branch is composed of nine program units; Asian Regional Program; Philippines; India/Nepal; Pakistan; Indonesia; Peoples' Republic of China; Thailand, Bangladesh; and Sri Lanka. Each unit is responsible for the management of aid programs to recipient countries, as well as the relationship of these programs to Canadian interests.

The program is composed of projects throughout Asia under implementation by contractors, consultants and individual co-operants. Increasing use is made of non-governmental organizations and institutions implementing grass roots activity for social and human resource development. There are approximately 230 ongoing projects, primarily concentrated in the agriculture, rural development, energy, human resource development and social development sectors, at various stages of development.

Americas Branch

The administrative regrouping of the Latin American and Commonwealth Caribbean makes it possible to take the whole continent into account when formulating a development strategy for the region's developing countries. They face five major problems: poor distribution of income; low agricultural productivity; rapid urbanization; acute unemployment and increasing debt, largely the result of oil price increases and declining trade. Despite their merger, the two programs are distinct in structure and evolution.

The Latin American Region Program focuses mainly on energy, forestry, food and agriculture, transportation and the development of human and institutional resources. Programs of social development through non-governmental institutions and organizations aim at improving the standard of living of the most disadvantaged people, especially in the areas of health and nutrition. With the exception of Venezuela and Cuba, CIDA provides support to local initiatives through Mission Administered Funds (MAF), NGOs and industrial co-operation in all countries of the region.

The Commonwealth Caribbean Region Program provides Canadian bilateral assistance to the Caribbean to encourage economic growth and stability. Food production, energy generation, and responses to the increasing balance of payments and human resource constraints are of critical concern. The bilateral program has thus focussed on the agriculture (including forestry and fisheries), public services, transportation, education, and energy sectors. In 1978, under the auspices of the World Bank, a mechanism was set up known as the Caribbean Group for Co-operation in Economic Development (CGCED). It comprises recipients, donors and multilateral institutions and serves as a consultative group on long-term economic development in the region. CIDA provides support to local initiatives through Mission Administered Funds (MAF), NGOs and institutional co-operation in Commonwealth Caribbean countries. Under the Joint Trade and Economic Agreement, CIDA also has a program of industrial co-operation to promote private sector development in the region.

Anglophone Africa Branch

The Anglophone Africa program at CIDA covers 28 African countries. To date, the major sectors of involvement have been energy, transportation, human resource development and agriculture. Two trends have become apparent during the past few years. The first is an increasing emphasis on projects directed to the agriculture sector, particularily ones which will support food production. The second trend is a greater use of economic support mechanisms such as line of credit and commodity grants. Under these mechanisms, priority is given to the provisions of goods and services which will improve the use of existing infrastructure, production facilities and essential social services. The major recipients of Canadian assistance are Egypt, Ghana, Kenya, Tanzania, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Most of this assistance is provided in the form of contributions.

Francophone Africa Branch

Canada has been increasing its assistance to the most disadvantaged countries and peoples in Francophone Africa. In the Sahel, substantial assistance has been provided to promote the development of agriculture and hydraulics at the village level. Furthermore, to end the isolation of countries and areas within countries through the construction of roads and railways, Canada is involved in the Panafrican Telecommunications Network (PANAFTEL). In Mali and Burkina Faso, it participates in the financing of hydro-electric infrastructures. The last programme review of CIDA (1984) identified as a main objective the establishment of new socio-ecological balance in the Sahel, with a view to ending the desertification process. For this purpose, projects are being implemented following three priority themes: food balance, stabilization of vegetation cover and energy development. In addition, the transfer of resources and industrial co-operation with middle-income countries has been increasing. Overall, the transportation, agricultural education, public services (hydro-electricity and energy generally) and communications sectors have received most of the funding.

Operations Services Branch

The Branch provides services to the Agency in general and the four Geographic Branches in particular in the areas of program co-ordination, systems, development of operational policies and procedures, contracting and procurement.

The Branch is also responsible for the corporate planning and management systems common to the four geographic programmes, i.e. bilateral programmes. This function includes management of the bilateral planning and financial cycle, responsibility for developing guidelines related directly to management of the bilateral programme, and a catalytic role in stimulating innovations and improvements in programme and project planning and management.

The Branch currently consists of three separate divisions: Contract Division, Procurement Division, and the Area Co-ordination Group, (which consists of Programming and Planning and Systems and Operations).

Professional Services Branch

The Branch provides professional and technical services to the Multilateral Programs and Special Programs Branches, and particularly to the Area Branches, in the planning and implementation of CIDA aid programs and projects through an analysis of the Canadian industrial and professional resource base. It also develops and updates, in co-operation with the Policy Branch, the sectoral policies for the orientation of these programs and projects. It monitors projects to ensure that the technical quality of work being performed by Canadian consultants, contractors and technical assistants meets a high standard of proficiency and that these services are dispensed economically.

The Infrastructure Division provides advice and related technical services in policy formulation and in the identification, planning, implementation and operation of projects in transportation, energy, water supply and sanitation, architecture, large-scale civil construction, and telecommunications, including associated studies on viability and operational feasibility training and institutional development.

The Natural Resources Division provides advice and related technical services in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects in agriculture, forestry, mining, fisheries, industrial development, resource inventories and environment.

The Social and Human Resource Development Division provides advice and related technical services in the development of policy and in the identification, planning and implementation of projects in education, training, development communication, health and population, human settlements, informatics, institutional development, social sciences and integration of women in development. It also provides services to the Agency for cross-cultural orientation of co-operants and trainees, the management of certain aspects of co-operant programs, the implementation of several student and trainee programs, the provision of audio-visual services, collection of technical co-operation data, and co-ordination of Agency policy on women in development.

The Programming and Systems Division ensures the programming of Branch activities and defines the systems and procedures supporting their implementation. It provides professional and administrative support services for the management of Branch budgets and administration in general. It also manages work assignment procedures and service requests files received in the Branch.

The Consultant Selection Secretariat carries out the selection of consultants, individuals, firms, institutions, contractors and trading houses required in the planning and implementation of CIDA aid or in-house projects, and maintains an appropriate data bank.

Comptroller's Branch

The Branch is made up of the Financial Services Division, the Management Information Systems Division and the Internal Audit Division.

The Financial Services Division supervises financial management advisers; provides advice and services to the branches in the areas of program planning, implementation and evaluation; develops accounting policy and systems; and controls expenditures, revenues, accounts, loans, and receivables.

Personnel and Administration Branch

This branch includes the Planning and Systems Division, the Personnel Operations Division, the Organization Planning and Development Division, the Official Languages Division, the Documentation Management Division, the Administrative Services Division and the Security Division.

Public Affairs Branch

This branch includes four sections: Information; Creative Services; Research and Speechwriting; and the Strategic Planning and Speaker's Bureau. It advises the Agency on communication and public relations matters, develops and manages communication strategies, and carries out information and communication activities of the Agency. The Information Section develops and carries out, with the co-operation of the branches, communication plans addressed to target publics (the media, the business community and youth) and responds to public inquiries.

Description: The CIDA assistance program focuses on human resource development and improvement of human resource skills in the mining sector, and has involved support to Botswana's Transportation sector through provision of locomotives. Project assistance is provided to the University of Botswana and the Departments of Mines and Geological Survey as well as a CUSO-administered Rural Development Fund.

IDA/BCD-460

East African Community

Description: Important items in the aid program for the East African Community included the management assistance given East African Airways and the training of air traffic controllers. Fifteen diesel locomotives were supplied under the railway development program. Other projects included forest, harbour and power development, tsetse fly research, cereal development and support for the Pan-African Telecommunications project.

IDA/BCD-461

Jordan (New)

Description: Since Jordan was made eligible to receive bilateral project assistance in June 1986, intensive consultations with Jordanian authorities have resulted in the identification of two projects: engineering services for the design of a jetty at the Port of Aqaba and for the supervision of its construction; and a Multi-Sector Program Grant for the purchase of Canadian goods and associated services. These projects are expected to be initiated in 1987.

IDA/BCD-465

Ghana

Description: The provision of basic human needs and short- and medium-term support for Ghana's economic rehabilitation are the main goals of CIDA's program in Ghana. The program's concentration in northern Ghana with projects in integrated rural development, potable water supply and community education and development is complemented, on a national basis, by projects in agricultural research, human resource development, energy and appropriate technology, as well as program food aid and support for Ghana's structural adjustment program.

IDA/BCD-470
Kenya
Description: Increased development is the goal of Canadian assistance to Kenya with emphasis on energy, agriculture/rural infrastructure and human resource development. Projects include hydroelectric generation, thermal plant rehabilitation and rural electrification; agricultural roads and training of Kenyans involved in agriculture; establishment of a technical teachers' college and various training programs; locomotive spare parts and long range planning in the Central Economy and Energy Departments. Special Program Branch and Industrial Co-operation Division support a variety of non-governmental and private sector activities in Kenya.

Lesotho
Description: CIDA's assistance program focuses on three key sectors in Lesotho: human resource development, sites and service development, and agriculture. Project assistance is provided to the University of Lesotho, urban upgrading progams in Mafeteng and Teyateyaneng and the construction of a dairy plant to assist Lesotho in achieving self-sufficiency in dairy products.

IDA/BCD-480
Malawi
Description: CIDA assistance is focussed in agriculture and assisting Malawi in its structural adjustment program. Projects in agricultural development include dairy farming, with a tied Program Assistance Project providing fertilizer and pharmaceuticals.

IDA/BCD-485
Mauritius Island
Description: Mission Administered Funds for small projects, and a project aimed at improving the Rodrigues water supply.

IDA/BCD-490
Nigeria
Description: The Nigeria Program is primarily responsive in nature. Bilateral projects are implemented where feasible to facilitate Nigerian developmental objectives while strengthening its long-term commercial and political ties with Canada. A mission-administered fund is employed for small projects, and funds are provided to support non-governmental organization activities.

IDA/BCD-495
Sierra Leone
Description: Mission-administered funds have been made available for health projects, the provision of equipment for the school improvement program, on agriculture and women in development. Another project has been to help Sierra Leone develop the human resources required to implement its community health program.

IDA/BCD-500
Somalia
Description: Mission Administered Funds for small projects.

IDA/BCD-505
South Africa
Description: CIDA's program concentrates on human resource development through promotion of small scale educational initiatives, scholarships in South Africa and Canada and adult literacy.

IDA/BCD-510
Namibia (Southwest Africa)
Description: Mission Administered Funds for small projects.

IDA/BCD-515
Swaziland
Description: CIDA's assistance program focuses on two key sectors in the Swaziland economy: human resource development and water resource management. Project assistance is directed at technical and vocational training as well as towards the University of Swaziland. Assistance is also provided for a ground water survey and the training of water technicians and development of a National Water Authority.

IDA/BCD-520
Tanzania
Description: Agriculture, transportation, energy, commodities and spares are the main areas of CIDA's program in Tanzania. Major thrusts include the rehabilitation of the Tanzania rail system to increase capacity for agricultural input and output distribution, the development of wheat farming in northern Tanzania, assistance to extension of the national electrical grid, and the provision of commodities and spare parts. Programs generally include a major technical assistance and training component along with provision of equipment and materials.

IDA/BCD-525
Uganda
Description: Water facilities in rural areas are being provided through United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF). Assistance to rural health clinics and government health planning is being provided through an East African non-governmental organization, and the Mission-Administered Fund and Special Programs Branch support a variety of smaller non-governmental organizations in Uganda.

IDA/BCD-530
Zambia
Description: The goals of Canada's assistance are to improve agricultural productivity and to diversify and revitalize the economy. A number of agriculture projects support a range of development activities including the provision of rural infrastructure, training, research and institutional support. Canada is also seeking to assist Zambia's hard pressed railways sector by provision of equipment. In response to Zambia's economic crisis, more assistance is being provided and planned to supply priority agricultural and industrial inputs as well as food aid to improve the economy's balance of payments situation. While most projects include training, a general human resource development program was recently signed which seeks to address both national and sector specific manpower development needs. Topics: A program administrative support unit is also planned. There is an active non-governmental organization sector in Zambia supported by Special Programmes Branch and Mission Administered Fund activities.

IDA/BCD-535

Zimbabwe

Description: CIDA's assistance program focuses on three key sectors in the Zimbabwe economy: human resource development, the provision of capital goods and equipment to assist in the modernization of Zimbabwe's infrastructure and assistance to the country's agriculture and rural development efforts. Project assistance has been channelled through World University Service Canada to provide secondary school teachers, and through Dalhousie University, CUSO, the Manitoba Institute of Management and the Ontario International Corporation in other key human resource areas. Infrastructure assistance has also been provided to the transport and communications sectors and an agricultural sector program will be finalized this year. A private sector line of credit in its third year of operation is proving very popular with Zimbabwean importers.

IDA/BCD-540

Angola

Description: Mission-administered funds for small projects, and assistance through CIDA's involvement in the energy sector which is co-ordinated by Angola.

IDA/BCD-545

Mozambique

Description: Mission-administered funds for small projects and considerable assistance through the SADCC program in transportation and communications which is co-ordinated by Mozambique.

IDA/BCD-550

Egypt

Description: Energy, agriculture/food security, human resource development, together with transportation, water supply and sewerage and a development line of credit are the major activities for CIDA in Egypt. Principal projects include power transmission and distribution, general development line of credit, Giza water supply and sewerage, grain storage silos, Nile River Protection and Development Plan, Integrated Soil and Water Project, Mini-Hydro Power Station, as well as training in the energy and transportation sectors.

IDA/BCD-555

Sudan

Description: CIDA is involved in four different sectors: agro-forestry, agriculture/food security, water and health. The major bilateral projects are the Sim Sim Mechanized Dryland Farming Project and food aid. CIDA also is making extensive use of non-governmental and multilateral agencies such as World University Services, CARE CANADA and UNICEF to improve its impact on health, water, agro-forestry and food security.

IDA/BCD-560

Ethiopia

Description: Major projects in Ethiopia include food aid and rural water supply. Mission-administered funds have been made available to projects in the sectors of adult education, technical training, public health, agriculture and transportation. Special Program Branch supports a variety of non-governmental organizations in Ethiopia. Industrial Co-operation is supporting private Canadian companies.

IDA/BCD-565

Regional Program

Description: In East Africa CIDA has commenced co-funding of two projects to improve maize, wheat and beans, both in production yields and acreage. It has also signed an agreement with the United Nations Fund for Population Activities on a two year training program in population information, education and communications. Topics: Mission Administered Funds for small projects in Dyibouti, Lebanon, Liberia, Seychelles, West Bank and Gaza, North Yemen (Yar), South Yemen (Pdry).

IDA/BFD-570

Mali

Description: CIDA's assistance program for Mali includes a huge integrated rural development project; provision of food aid in support of the program for restructuring the grain market; a microprojects program; a major project to provide support for the administration of the railroads and the supply of materials; a project to provide support to locust control and fight against desertification; a training program for women leaders in rural areas; three major interventions for the supply of water, a line of credit and a support program to small and medium-sized business; an immunization program; a scholarship program; a regional telecommunication project (DEVTELAD) and the development of the Manantali dam.

IDA/BFD-575

Niger

Description: The Canadian program of co-operation with Niger, which is mainly bilateral, includes a greater number of non-govermental organizations and increased non-governmental involvement in its new programming. Niger also benefits from the activities of international agencies that CIDA supports financially through its multilateral programs. Since the drought at the beginning of the 1970s, the program gives priority to the pursuit of supporting food self-sufficiency. Under the new program review (1985-90), the Canadian assistance in Niger consists of projects focusing on the following areas: stabilizing the vegetation cover, achieving a food balance and promoting energy development. Topics: Program for the protection of plants; support to locust control; village water supply; agricultural development; development of the rural commons; mining exploration; line of credit for the purchase of Canadian goods and services; micro-projects; scholarships program (Niger, third country and Canada); institutional support; development of a road network; telecommunications (Regional projects); many small projects implemented with mission-administered funds, NGO activities (especially in the rural development sector).

IDA/BFD-580

Chad

Description: CIDA's aid program for Chad has included educational assistance; the provision of technical advisers in human resources planning and agriculture; reforestation; water improvement; food aid; and assistance under the Sahelian Zone Drought Relief and Development Fund. Note: This program is essentially limited to mission-administered funds (MAF), non-governmental organization (NGO) projects and emergency food aid.

IDA/BFD-585

Burkina Faso

Description: Canadian assistance, besides support to multilateral and non-governmental organizations, consists mainly of a bilateral programme whose strategy is centered on restoring the country's socio-ecological balance. This strategy relies primarily on the active involvement of the population and the potential of the country's renewable resources. Human resource development, including the integration of women in development, plays a primary role. Activities are concentrated in two regions, the Passoré and the Nahouri. The programme includes support to hydro-electric development, road construction, plant protection, protection and restoration of the vegetation cover, soil management, support to the Institut pédagogique du Burkina, a multi-year scholarship programme, a multi-purpose line of credit and a grassroots project of communication and rural development.

IDA/BFD-590
Senegal
Description: CIDA's program in Senegal involves primarily bilateral assistance but also includes NGO projects and institutional and industrial co-operation activities. The key sectors are fisheries, energy, forestry, integrated rural development and human resources development. Topics: Marketing for small fishermen; protection and monitoring of offshore fishing; fisheries development planning; power transmission lines; studies to plan the development of electrical distribution systems; inventory, management and protection; local projects in integrated rural development through NGOs; scholarship program; technical assistance to the École polytechnique de Thiès; a major project involving a number of countries in the development of the Senegal River basin; yearly food aid; numerous small projects implemented through mission administered funds.

IDA/BFD-595
Mauritania
Description: CIDA's program in Mauritania is composed mainly of supplementary food aid and numerous small projects financed through mission administered funds; it also includes technical assistance to the Ministry of Planning as well as scholarships. By the end of fiscal 1985/86, CIDA activities in Mauritania are limited to Mission Adminstered Funds (MAF) projects and, if required, emergency food aid. An exceptional assistance ($5.0 M) of food aid and commodities is foreseen for 1987.

IDA/BFD-600
Guinea-Bissau
Description: CIDA's program for Guinea-Bissau consists of numerous small projects financed through mission-administered funds, as well as contributions by the Institutional Co-operation Division through Canadian institutions.

IDA/BFD-605
Cape Verde Islands
Description: CIDA's program in these islands consists of numerous small projects financed through mission-administered funds.

IDA/BFD-610
Algeria
Description: CIDA's program for Algeria has been aimed mainly at the construction of seven concrete silos with a capacity of 210 000 tons which were completed in December 1986. Furthermore, an agricultural co-operation program for animal husbandry and poultry production got under way last year; the potato farming project is still in the planning stage. On the other hand, a system for scientific, technical and cultural co-operation was established in 1982 to promote exchanges between various Canadian and Algerian government departments (agriculture, education and communications). Finally, an important institutional co-operation program ($5.0 M) will be put in place in 1987-88.

IDA/BFD-615
Ivory Coast
Description: The aid program for the Ivory Coast focuses on the following areas, listed in order of priority: multisectoral co-operation through a line of credit for large-scale development projects; traditional aid based mainly on energy and railways; aid to industrial small and medium-sized businesses.

Tunisia
Description: Assistance has been provided to Tunisia in a large variety of sectors. In 1982, however, the focus of CIDA's co-operation program shifted to human co-operation (involving scholarships and technical co-operation) on a shared-cost basis and to economic co-operation based on a parallel line of credit with the Export Development Corporation and aid to small and medium-sized business. Another line of credit is envisaged in 1987-88 to acquire commodities from Canada. Topics: Agricultural development; production and transmission of electricity; industrial development; promotion of education; measures to improve health and hospital services; supplying of teachers for the École de l'aviation civile et de la météorologie; agricultural program; construction of irrigation dams; veterinary services; agricultural activities; poultry farming; and dry farming.

IDA/BFD-625
Morocco
Description: CIDA's program in Morocco has been aimed mainly at developing agriculture and improving human resources. Topics: Support for the École nationale d'agriculture, the Institut national agronomique Hassan II and the Institut national de statistique et d'économie appliquée; research on poultry farming; seed and livestock improvement; milk production; supplying of university professors and teachers for regional educational centres; and a line of credit to construct cold-storage facilities. The current program, however, is directed mainly toward human co-operation (involving scholarships and technical co-operation on a shared-cost basis) and economic co-operation based on the use of a parallel line of credit with the Export Development Corporation (EDC) and on a line of credit for purchases of commodities. A drinking water project is envisaged for 1987-88.

IDA/BFD-630
Malagasy Republic
Description: Essentially, this program centres on development of hydroelectric resources and the use of mission-administered funds. Several Canadian private firms are also active in various sectors through contracts obtained from international organizations such as the World Bank.

IDA/BFD-635
Cameroun
Description: The aid program for Cameroons emphasizes rural development (forests, energy and rural activities), human resources (technical, vocational and managerial training) and parallel program aid (parallel CIDA/Export Development Corporation lines of credit) open to priority development sectors.

IDA/BFD-640
Rwanda
Description: Bilateral aid to Rwanda is concentrated on rural development and promotion of local industries, development of human resources and reduction of factors which cause isolation. Major projects under way include: assistance to the Université nationale du Rwanda (UNR), development of the Mutara wetland valleys, rural development in Ruhengeri, modernization and maintenance of the telecommunication system, support for civil aviation, and forestry training. Food aid has been provided for the last few years. NGOs and other private Canadian institutions are also very active in Rwanda (water, health and community development).

IDA/BFD-645
Congo
Description: Aid to this country is mainly for the project to improve the Congo-Océan railway and MAF activities.

IDA/BFD-650
Zaire
Description: Bilateral aid to Zaire is concentrated on forestry (technical assistance, training, logging, inventories and appropriate technology), rural development in the northeastern region (animal husbandry, co-operatives, community projects, SMBs, improved seeds) and support for industry and for the balance of payments (food aid, commodities). NGOs and other private Canadian institutions are also very active in Zaire (health, co-operatives and rural development).

IDA/BFD-655
Togo
Description: In Togo the aid program is limited to mission-administered funds for small-scale projects, and two major projects: construction of a transmission line (completed in 1986), and village water supplies (ongoing in 1987).

IDA/BFD-660
Bénin
Description: CIDA's two main efforts, support for the Collège Polytechnique universitaire and for development of the Port of Cotonou, should have terminated last year. However, we will be able to extend our participation to the "Collège Professionnel Universitaire" for a few more years, following the approval of a new credit of $1.7 M to be disbursed. Future aid should be limited to MAF financed activities, institutional co-operation and NGO activities.

IDA/BFD-665
Gabon
Description: Shared-cost technical assistance for education, health and water systems; a rural electrification project financed with the Export Development Corporation (EDC); and mission-administered-fund-financed activities. As well a $10 million line of credit with EDC is available for financing other development activities in Gabon (mines, education, communications). Since September 1986, we have participated in a technical assistance program at the University of Masuku.

IDA/BFD-670

CANADIAN LIVESTOCK FEED BOARD

Chapter 24

CANADIAN LIVESTOCK FEED BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Livestock Feed Board of Canada was created by the Livestock Feed Assistance Act, 1967.

Responsibilities

The basic objectives of the Livestock Feed Board of Canada are to attempt to ensure, within the framework of the Act, that livestock feeders in Eastern Canada, British Columbia, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories have available, at the right time and locations and in sufficient amounts, the various categories of feed grains they require for feeding their livestock and poultry. The Board also ensures reasonable stabililty and fair equalization of feed grain prices within these different regions. This calls for continuous methodical research into markets, transportation developments, flow of grains, utilization of storage space, consumption patterns of feed grains for various livestock, and industrial uses.

Legislation

- Feed Grain Transportation and Storage Assistance Regulations
- Livestock Feed Assistance Act, R.S., chapter L-9 1776-77, chapter 34; 1980, chapter 16

Organizational Units and their Role

The Livestock Feed Board of Canada is a Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. The Board consists of not less than three nor more than five members appointed by the Governor in Council.

The Act also provides for the existence of an Advisory Committee consisting of not less than five nor more than seven members, each of whom shall be appointed by the Governor in Council.

The executive staff of the Board consists of a Director General, also in charge of Program Co-ordination; a Director of Programs for British Columbia; a Director of Economic Research; a Director of Finance; a Director of Transportation and a Director of Communications.

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors. In 1976, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act enlarged the mandate of the organization and the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

Responsibilities

The CRTC regulates both public and private broadcasters. It has the power to issue, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences, and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic agreements and capital stock issues.

Legislation

- AM, FM and TV Broadcasting Regulations
- Cable TV Regulations
- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act (1976), which amended the Broadcasting Act (1968)
- National Transportation Act
- Pay Television Regulations
- Railway Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Broadcasting Directorate

The CRTC's Broadcasting Directorate is composed of three branches.

The Broadcast Policy Planning and Analysis Sector is composed of five staff branches: Radio Policy, Television Policy, Cable Policy, Technical Planning and Analysis, and Industry Analysis. The Sector provides advice to the Commission on certain operational aspects of the broadcasting industry, its policies and regulations. The impetus for the examination of issues may be representations from the industry, the public, other agencies, or the Commission's monitoring of the broadcasting system. The Sector assists the Commission in determining its priorities and plans regarding future broadcasting developments.

The Broadcast Operations Branch is composed of seven units. The five regional units (Atlantic, Quebec, Ontario, Prairies, and Pacific and Northern) gather, analyze and provide the Commission with information needed to issue, deny, amend, renew or revoke licences for a particular region. Applications are analyzed and investigated by specialists in various disciplines to ensure that policy concerns are addressed fully. Broadcast programming proposals are reviewed and assessed for compliance with Commission policies and regulations. A sixth unit, Financial and Corporate Affairs, assesses the financial and ownership aspects of proposals submitted to the Commission. As well, it assists the Commission in determining suitable subscription rates for cable television systems. The seventh unit, Broadcast Development, conducts studies on the adequacy of present cable services and assesses the desirability and viability of proposals for new or expanded services, with special emphasis on marketing aspects and relevant economic and technological realities, as well as the goals and objectives of the Broadcasting Act.

The Regulatory Hearings, Decisions and Complaints Branch controls the timely issuance of all CRTC public statements and decisions related to broadcasting. Its functions also include: public hearing organization and administration, in accordance with the broadcasting rules of procedure; co-ordination with members of the Executive in drafting CRTC rulings and policy statements; and responding to briefs, letters, interventions, written inquiries and complaints received by the Commission. It is also responsible for the preparation of CRTC public notices or notices of public hearing for broadcasting.

Commission Secretariat

The Secretariat is the official point of contact between the Commission and the public. It co-ordinates Commission activities commonly utilized by both the broadcasting and telecommunications sectors. The Secretariat has seven main functional units.

The Planning and Proceedings Directorate oversees the Planning and Scheduling Branch, the Proceedings Section, as well as the administration of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. It is responsible for the orderly registration and scheduling of applications as well as the record-keeping function for all Commission deliberations.

Information Services is responsible for all public relations activities as well as the production and distribution of CRTC publications.

The regional offices are four in number and provide an official CRTC presence in the various regions of Canada to advise headquarters of the concerns of interested parties in their region. They provide information to provincial governments, the industry, the academic community and the public.

The Finance and Management Services Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and helps to formulate licence fee regulations.

The Personnel Branch advises the chairman and branch directors on all aspects of personnel and special program administration, such as affirmative action.

The Corporate Audit and Review Branch contributes to the annual estimates, performs internal audits (financial, compliance, operational), and evaluates program effectiveness. It also studies and reviews regulatory reform.

The Corporate Information Branch co-ordinates data processing activities for the Commission and maintains a library for communications industry information in Canada.

Telecommunications Directorate

The principal mandate of this directorate is to ensure that the rates and tariffs charged by the carriers under federal jurisdiction are just and reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory. The Directorate assesses tariffs and agreements filed for approval by carriers; assists the Commission in the development of regulatory policies, decisions and orders; and identifies and analyzes regulatory issues stemming from individual applications or major hearings.

CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

The Economic, Social and Technical Analysis Branch analyzes and provides advice to the Commission on rates and tariffs, market structure, current and future regulatory issues, technical issues, service quality and socio-economic aspects of regulatory issues. The Branch is responsible for assessing the carriers' construction programs and for advice to the Commission regarding the depreciation, renewal and amortization of carrier equipment.

The Financial Analysis Branch is concerned with the financial aspects of rate regulation and the carriers' inter-corporate activities; statistical analysis; accounting; and auditing carrier activities. The Branch is also responsible for the implementation of the Cost Inquiry, Phase III.

The Operations Branch plans and co-ordinates telecommunications staff agendas; receives and schedules applications; advises applicants on proper procedure; and formulates, drafts and edits public notices, orders and decisions issued by the Commission. The Branch is also responsible for the resolution of subscriber complaints and enquiries.

Legal Directorate

The CRTC's general counsel and staff provide legal services to the Commission concerning the interpretation and implementation of the CRTC Act and the Broadcasting Act, the various acts on telecommunications, statutory instruments made pursuant to these acts, and the related federal and provincial legislation. Counsels advise the Commission of the legal implications of policy matters, conduct questioning, and advise on procedural matters at public hearings. They also make recommendations and carry out legal proceedings instituted by or against the Commission.

Strategic Planning Directorate

This unit reports directly to the chairman. It is charged with implementing a strategic planning system within the CRTC to determine the Commission's priorities and allocate resources to meet these priorities. It also co-ordinates strategic planning activities in the Broadcasting and Telecommunications directorates and conducts environmental scanning and analyses.

CANADIAN TRANSPORT COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Canadian Transport Commission (CTC) was established by the National Transportation Act on September 19, 1967. It succeeded and absorbed the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, the Air Transport Board, and the Canadian Maritime Commission. In accordance with a Cabinet decision, the Western Division was established in May 1979 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan.

Responsibilities

The Canadian Transport Commission's objective is to promote the co-ordination and harmonious interaction of all operations by carriers engaged in transport under federal jurisdiction. With respect to rail transport, the Commission develops safety regulations consistent with the public interest. It is a court of record and its decisions, normally made by its modal committees, are binding. The decisions are however, subject to review by the Commission's Review Committee, and/or appeal to the Federal Court of Canada, on questions of law or jurisidiction and to the Minister of Transport, concerning a final decision of the Commission with respect to an application for a licence to operate a commercial air service, a licence to operate a motor vehicle undertaking, a licence to engage in transport by water, or a certificate of public convenience and necessity in respect of a commodity pipeline. In all cases, the Commission's decisions are subject to review by, and/or appeal to, the Governor in Council.

Legislation

- Aeronautics Act
- Air Carrier Regulations
- Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act
- Atlantic Region Special Selective and Provisional Assistance Regulations and Amendments
- Atlantic Regional Special Transportation Assistance Regulations
- Canada Shipping Act
- Canadian National Railway Act
- Coasting Trade Exemption Regulations
- CTC General Rules
- Energy Supply Emergency Act
- Government Railway Act
- Maritime Freight Rates Act
- National Energy Board Act
- National Transportation Act
- Pilotage Act
- Pilotage Authority — Tariff Regulations
- Railway Act
- Railway Operating, Engineering and Traffic Regulations
- Railway Relocation and Crossing Act
- Safe Containers Convention Act
- St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act
- Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1979
- Transport Act
- Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act
- Western Grain Transportation Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Commission consists of a maximum of 17 commissioners, all appointed by the Governor in Council, including a president, one vice-president responsible for law and the work of the committees, and one vice-president responsible for study and research programs. The powers and duties of the Commission are assigned on the basis of committees and branches. There are seven committees, five of which regulate each of the different transport modes — air, rail, water, motor vehicle, and commodity pipeline. The sixth committee deals with reviews and appeals, while the seventh is concerned with international transport policy matters. The branches specialize in traffic and tariffs, and departmental administration.

A CTC Western Division was set up to enable the Canadian Transport Commission to have a more visible presence in Western Canada and to be more accessible to, and develop more effective communication with, the western community.

Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for duties as defined in section 11 of the National Transportation Act. These include keeping a record of all Commission proceedings and making sure that the regulations and orders of the Commission are duly drawn up, signed, sealed and filed. It also ensures that pleadings before the Review Committee are properly serviced, prepares background material, communicates Committee decisions to concerned parties and takes minutes of meetings. The Secretariat of the Western Division is responsible for the appropriate documentation, record keeping, public hearings, issuance of decisions, etc. of the Commission which take place in Western Canada.

The Hearing and Commission Orders and Decisions Distribution Section ensures that all necessary arrangements for conducting the Commission's public hearings and enquiries throughout Canada are made, confirmed and communicated to the appropriate officers of the Commission. This section also co-ordinates the printing and distribution of Commission orders, decisions and regulations.

The Communications Branch provides information on the different publications produced by the Commission, including major decisions issued and details on general Commission operations and decision-making processes. It also edits the Commission's publications and co-ordinates the printing of documents.

Western Division

The Western Division is responsible for carrying out the related regulatory and administrative functions vested in the Canadian Transport Commission by the appropriate federal statutes, along with specific programs and projects delegated by the respective modal committees, in that area of Canada from Thunder Bay, Ontario to Vancouver Island. Major areas of responsibility include the rail branch line rehabilitation program and abandonment matters, railway-highway crossings, licensing of commercial air services, specific accident investigations and traffic and tariff matters, including complaints regarding common carrier obligations and freight rates published under the Western Grain Transportation Act.

CANADIAN TRANSPORT COMMISSION

The Western Division provides a direct link between the Commission and local and provincial governments, industry, carriers, and the users of transportation in Western Canada. The Division also functions as the Commission's information resource centre in Western Canada.

Railway Transport Committee

The Committee regulates rail transportation under the jurisdiction of the federal government pursuant to the National Transportation Act, the Railway Act, the Railway Relocation and Crossing Act and the Western Grain Transportation Act. The regulatory activities of the Committee cover both technical and economic aspects of railway operations. In the technical area, its major regulatory activity concerns rail safety under five broad categories: accident investigation; equipment and infrastructure quality control monitoring; regulations and compliance in the movement of dangerous commodities by rail; railway-highway crossings; and the development of standards. Its second major activity in the technical area is to ensure an adequate quality of service through the monitoring of passenger services, branch line abandonment applications, approval of new track construction, examination of applications for the consolidation of local stations and dealing with complaints put forward by freight shippers, railway passengers and railway labour organizations.

In the area of economic regulation, the Committee is responsible for auditing the accounts of Canadian railways under federal jurisdiction; for the analysis and development of railway methods of costing; for the determination of subsidy payments under the Railway Act; and for auditing charges made by the railways to VIA Rail. The Committee is also responsible for economic regulation of rail tariffs, but this is administered by the Commission's Traffic and Tariffs Branch.

Committee staff at headquarters are organized into three branches.

The Operations Branch (OPS) is responsible for four areas of technical regulation: accident investigation, dangerous commodities, quality of service and operations monitoring. The Western Division's Rail Operations' responsibilities include rail branch line rehabilitation, rail line abandonment in the Prairies, specific accident investigations and other rail, freight tariffs and passenger service matters.

The Engineering Branch (ENG) is responsible for three areas of technical regulation: equipment and infrastructure quality control monitoring, railway-highway crossings, and standards and regulations. The Western Division's Engineering's specific responsibilities include rail branch line rehabilitation, rail line abandonment matters, grain line maintenance monitoring and railway-highway crossing protection matters from Thunder Bay, Ontario to Vancouver Island.

The Rail Economic Analysis Branch is responsible for railway accounting, costing,and the economics fo specific services, including subsidy administration.

The Committee has regional offices in Moncton, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver.

Air Transport Committee

The Air Transport Committee administers Part II of the Aeronautics Act which concerns the economic regulation of commercial air carriers within, to and from Canada. The Committee is responsible for licensing air carriers, ensuring that tariffs are just and reasonable, and investigating allegations of illegal commercial air service activities. The Committee formulates the Air Carrier Regulations, provides advice to the Minister on international air service agreements and conducts surveys or investigations at the request of the Minister or on its own initiative. The consumers' interests are addressed in the analysis of applications for licences, in the assessment of tariffs, and in the investigation of complaints.

The staff of the committee is organized into six branches: the Administration Branch, the Analysis and Licensing Branch, the International Air Transport Branch, the Enforcement Branch, the Tariffs Branch, and the Economic Reports and Regulations Branch. The Western Division's responsibilities include licensing of certain classes of air carriers in the four Western provinces and dealing with other air service matters.

Water Transport Committee

Because of its direct regulatory relationship and involvement with the industry and those it services, the Committee is required, either by response to a request from the Minister or on its own initiative, to advise and contribute to the development of new or amended government policies.

Under the Transport Act, the Committee issues or amends, upon application, annual licences to carriers proposing to provide services by water in the Mackenzie River and Western Arctic regions and for the carriage of passengers and goods, other than in bulk, on the Great Lakes.

Under the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1979, the Committee is required to receive, verify, record and maintain for public scrutiny the large number of original or amended contracts, agreements and tariffs issued by the 44 conferences serving Canadian external trades, and to report to Parliament annually on its administration of the Act.

Under the terms of the current Coasting Trade Exemption Regulations, the Committee is required to advise the Minister of National Revenue when an application or an enquiry is received for an exemption from customs duties of a foreign flag vessel to be used in a Canadian coastal trade.

Under the Pilotage Act, the Committee is required to hear appeals against amendments to tariffs approved and published by the Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific Pilotage Authorities.

Under the terms of the National Transportation Act, the Committee, upon receipt of an objection submitted in response to a public notice, is required to conduct an investigation, which may include a public hearing, of an acquisition by a company engaged in an aspect of water transportation subject to the jurisdiction of Parliament, or of the interest in a business or undertaking of any person whose principal business is transportation.

Under the terms of the National Transportation Act, the Committee, on its own initiative or in response to requests from the Minister and in response to complaints or applications, is required to conduct enquiries, investigations or studies into the wide variety of shipping matters that fall within or touch upon its regulatory purview, and to contribute to the development and presentation of government policy initiatives and the preparation of responses to the policy initiatives of other governments or international intergovernmental organizations.

Under the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act, the Committee is required to consider complaints of unjust discrimination in tariffs, report its findings and receive for filing all tariffs and amendments published by the Authority. Under the Energy Supplies Emergency Act, the Committee can be required to order any Canadian ship to be used, when necessary, for emergency purposes, to ensure adequate supplies of energy products. Foreign-owned ships could also be used when no Canadian ship is available.

The Committee is served by an executive director, a Secretariat and Administration Branch, a Merchant Shipping Branch and a Multimodal and Maritime Economics Branch.

The Merchant Shipping Branch administers the licensing provisions of the Transport Act, conducts searches for suitable Canadian ships in response to entry applications from foreign ships into the coasting trades, and administers the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act, 1979 and matters arising from the Pilotage Act.

The Multimodal and Maritime Economics Branch provides economic and financial advice, including applications for licences under the Transport Act and foreign vessel entry into the coasting trade, enquiries relating to proposed acquisitions, and examination of proposed tariff changes under the Pilotage Act and the Transport Act.

Motor Vehicle Transport Committee

The Committee administers the National Transportation Act as it applies to the acquisition of bus or truck companies by any other companies subject to the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada. Part III of the National Transportation Act establishes direct federal regulation of extraprovincial commercial motor transport. This part was proclaimed by the Governor in Council in 1970. It is not in effect, except for the CN Roadcruiser bus service in Newfoundland, which by Order-in-Council came under the jurisdiction of the Committee in August, 1976.

The Traffic and Tariffs Branch of the Commission administers the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Act on behalf of the Committee. Under this Act, subsidy payments are made to designated carriers for freight transported within and out of the Atlantic provinces. Common carrier truckers are included in this designation.

The Committee consists of a single administrative branch, which includes the chairman, as chief executive officer, the executive director and the secretariat.

International Transport Policy Branch

Under the terms of the National Transportation Act, the Branch is required to participate in the work of intergovernmental or international organizations; formulate or recommend policy; investigate, examine and report on the economic effects and requirements resulting from participation in or ratification of international agreements; consult with other departments or agencies of the Government of Canada; and participate in the negotiation of international agreements.

Commodity Pipeline Transport Committee

The Committee has jurisdiction over all commodity pipelines that cross provincial, international or territorial borders, regardless of the pipelines' size or length. If the commodity pipeline also transports crude oil or natural gas, jurisdiction may be shared with the National Energy Board. The Committee conducts its business mainly through the medium of public hearings. Its principal functions are to deal with applications by commodity pipeline companies for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct and operate such a system; the acquisition or abandonment of commodity pipelines; the filing, disallowance, substitution or prescription of tariffs; and the resolution of related disputes and public interest matters. In addition, the Committee makes standards, procedures, rules and regulations, under the provisions of the National Transportation Act to facilitate the smooth and efficient conduct of its duties. The Committee also acts as an advisory and information source to other federal and provincial government departments and agencies, to industry and to the public in matters of the developments, operations and statistics related to commodity pipelines.

Review Committee

The Committee is responsible, pursuant to the National Transportation Act, for matters arising out of applications made for a review of a Commission order or decision, or when the Minister of Transport, on appeal from a decision or order, directs that a review be carried out. The Committee is made up of the chairmen of the modal committees, with the Commission vice-president as chairman. However, a committee member will refrain from sitting in review of a decision or order in which he or she participated earlier. The secretary of the Commission also acts as secretary to the Review Committee.

Traffic and Tariffs Branch

This branch reports to the Vice-President, Research Branch — and to modal committees on specific modal matters, and has the overall responsibility for traffic and tariff matters for road, rail and water under the various statutes. It also consults with, provides advice to and works on joint projects with Transport Canada on matters relating to rail freight and the Atlantic Region Subsidy Program. The Western Division's responsibilities include the handling of various traffic complaints and enquiries in Western Canada, providing rate and tariff advice and assisting in audits of the Western Grain Transportation Act traffic.

The Tariffs and Subsidies Control Division ensures that all tariffs and tolls are compiled, issued and filed by carriers in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Act, the Transport Act, the National Transportation Act and the Canadian Transportation Commission Regulations. It administers the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program, verifies claims on export grain and flour transportation and performs field audits on claims made pursuant to the Atlantic Region Freight Assistance Program.

The Traffic and Tariff Studies Division conducts programs of investigation and analysis on statutory responsibilities, investigates and analyzes transportation matters that could be prejudicial to the public interest, and carries out economic studies of major issues affecting the transportation industry. In addition, it maintains a computerized rail and highway freight traffic database; publishes statistical reports of railway traffic flows; maintains a standard point location coding system; and investigates formal and informal complaints on passenger fares and railway freight rates, conditions of travel and carriage, and levels of rates and service.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The position of Comptroller General of Canada was created by Bill C-10, an amendment to the Financial Administration Act, on June 30, 1978.

Responsibilities

The role of the Office of the Comptroller General (OCG) is to see to the establishment and maintenance of sound management practices in the federal government. OCG officials work with program managers and departmental specialists to establish policy and to give advice on management practices, particularly in areas such as financial control, management accounting and reporting, internal audit, and program evaluation.

Legislation

- Financial Administration Act and Regulations

Organizational Units and their Role

Planning and Co-ordination Unit

The Unit provides staff support to the Comptroller General with respect to corporate planning, evaluation and co-ordination, and to the administration of the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) legislation.

Management Practices Branch

The Branch works with deputy ministers and departmental senior managers to ensure that departments develop, use and implement sound management practices tailored to their needs and an integrated approach to financial and non-financial planning and reporting, to improve management practices and controls. The Management Practices Branch also manages and/or participates in the conduct of special management projects that are both departmental and interdepartmental in nature. In addition, the Branch develops, maintains, monitors and helps departments to implement policies, guidelines and standards for internal audit in the Government of Canada. Finally, the Branch is responsible for the co-ordination of government response to the findings of the Auditor General.

Policy Development Branch

The Branch provides central leadership in terms of policy direction, guidance and control of the financial administration function throughout the federal government. The Branch defines the basic accounting policies for government: policies and standards that define the framework for the safeguarding of assets, the managing, planning and controlling of operations, and the reporting of results and accomplishments. Another significant responsibility includes determining and defining the form that the Estimates and the Public Accounts are to take. The Branch, in close co-operation with the Personnel Policy Branch of the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Commission, also plays a pivotal role in the professional and career development of financial staff.

Program Evaluation Branch

The Branch is responsible for seeing that departments implement Treasury Board policy on program evaluation. The Branch works with departments and agencies to ensure that periodic, critical and objective examination of programs becomes an established practice in the management of the public service. The principal activities of the Program Evaluation Branch include the definition of government-wide policies and standards for program evaluation; advice and assistance to departments in the development and ongoing operation of this function; participation in the training and development of managers and practitioners of program evaluation; monitoring the quality of evaluation products; and, in conjunction with other central agencies, establishing government-wide and departmental procedures for the use of evaluation information.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities

The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system, has as its mission to contribute to the protection of society by exercising safe, secure and humane control of offenders while helping them become law-abiding citizens. It provides programs for offenders from pre-admission until the expiration of their sentence. It operates on the basis that the offender must be viewed from physical, emotional and cultural aspects.

Legislation

- Criminal Code
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act
- Parole Act
- Penitentiary Act
- Prison and Reformatories Act
- Young Offenders Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Administration Policy and Services Sector

The Sector provides finance, personnel and administrative services that are common to all government departments.

The Management Advisory Services Branch is responsible for providing analytical, developmental and advisory services dealing with management problems. It provides departmental studies and advice on organization and methods and is responsible for the publication of internal communication documents.

The Accommodation and Inmate Services Branch is responsible for the functional direction and control of policies and services relating to the following activities: construction, including institutional planning services and construction program and services co-ordination; engineering, including electronic engineering and maintenance; and food services and support.

The Materiel and Administration Branch is responsible for the functional direction and control of materiel management and administration, including access to information and privacy.

The Systems Branch is responsible for the functional direction and control of system planning, policy and administration, data and computer operations, and applications development and maintenance.

Executive Secretary Branch

The Inmate Affairs Division is responsible for providing advice to senior management on matters pertaining to the treatment of inmates and overall inmate affairs. This division also represents the Correctional Service of Canada in its dealings with the Correctional Investigator.

The Public Affairs Division is responsible for developing and implementing the Correctional Service's communication strategies aimed at increasing public understanding and acceptance of its goals, practices and policies.

The Correspondence and Ministerial Liaison Unit is responsible for co-ordinating, preparing and vetting all matters relating to the preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, the Minister's Office, and other members of Parliament and assemblies.

Inspector General's Sector

This sector is responsible to the Commissioner for the accreditation of institutions, for the convening of certain administrative and security inquiries, and for the conduct of management, financial, staffing and classification audits.

Corporate Policy and Planning Sector

This sector is responsible for the development and formulation of a comprehensive corporate policy framework.

The Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning Branch is responsible for developing a correction policy framework, reviewing all policy proposals, and forecasting offender populations and the way in which those populations will change. It is also responsible for federal/provincial relations and for liaison on correctional policy issues with the agencies of the Ministry of the Solicitor General and with other external groups involved in the criminal justice system.

The Evaluation and Research Branch is responsible for the development and management of the Correctional Service's program evaluation and correctional research programs. This branch is also responsible for ensuring that resource allocations are made to programs consistent with the priorities of the Department, and for ensuring that program and operational management information can be related to and integrated with resource information.

The Planning Branch is responsible for developing the Correctional Service's planning system which includes long- , medium- and short-range planning. It is also responsible for the development of the Accommodation Plan for the Correctional Service of Canada, the preparation of the Statement of Institutional Performance Specifications, and for providing advice to senior management on accommodation issues in light of the Department's policies and programs.

Offender Policy and Program Development Sector

This sector is responsible for the development of operational policy and programs which impact upon offenders from date of sentence until warrant expiry.

The Correctional Operations Branch is responsible for policy development, planning, operational monitoring and evaluation of the following correctional services: offender management, custody and control, community release and support services, inter-jurisdictional and private sector relations.

The Health Care Branch is responsible for developing policies, program objectives and standards focusing on the medical, psychiatric, dental, surgical and nursing care of offenders.

CORRECTIONAL SERVICE OF CANADA

The Offender Programs Branch is responsible for the policy and program development of the following correctional programs: occupational development programs (including Agribusiness), Education and Personal Development, Chaplaincy, and Native and Female Offender.

The Program Planning and Management Services Branch is responsible for the co-ordination and management of the planning, personnel, financial, administrative and systems development functions as they relate to the Offender Policy and Program Development Sector.

Reading Room

In accordance with section 71 of the Access to Information Act, an area on the premises of this institution has been designated as a reading room where members of the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs and activities that affect the public. Reading rooms are located at national headquarters (340 Laurier Avenue West, Ottawa, Ontario) and at each of the regional headquarters mentioned above.

Classes of Records

Correctional Service of Canada records are broken down into five different categories: subject, offender, staff, information on general public, and administrative files — personal information.

The first category, subject records, is organized by main or primary subjects, which in turn are broken down into secondary subjects and, where warranted, tertiary subjects. Although the subject records are organized according to the departmental records classification system, various branches maintain a substantial number of records that have not been incorporated into this system.

The other four categories — offender, staff, information on general public, and administrative files — are handled under the Privacy Act.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Agriculture was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Department of Agriculture is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food and forestry sectors through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sectors to maximize their real contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; inspects and grades farm products; and carries out programs aimed at keeping our crops and livestock safe from disease and insect pests. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as price stabilization and crop insurance. It also provides consumer-oriented food advisory services, supervises race track betting and protects and manages Canada's forest resources.

Legislation

(The Minister of Agriculture is solely responsible to Parliament for the following legislation:)

- Advance Payments for Crops Act
- Agricultural Products Board Act
- Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing Act
- Agricultural Products Marketing Act
- Agricultural Stabilization Act
- Animal Disease and Protection Act
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act
- Cheese and Cheese Factory Improvement Act
- Cold Storage Act

(The Minister of Agriculture shares responsibility to Parliament for the following legislation:)

- Canada Agricultural Products Standards Act (Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs)
- Canada Dairy Products Acts (Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs)
- Canada Grain Act (Minister of Transport)
- Inspection and Sale Act (Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs)
- Maple Products Industry Act (Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs)
- Criminal Code, Section 188 (Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada)
- Western Grain Stabilization Act (Minister of Transport)

Organizational Units and their Role

Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister, Deputy Minister, and Associate Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for corporate liaison with Cabinet Committee Secretariats, and for providing secretariat services to the Assistant Deputy Ministers Committee and the Senior Management Committee.

Corporate Management Branch

This branch assists operating branches in achieving efficient, effective and economical delivery of departmental programs through provision of administration, financial, systems, consulting and library services. The Corporate Management Branch, through corporate, branch and regional units, assists all management and operational elements in the Department in fulfilling their responsibilities for program delivery. It provides assistance, interpretation and direction to operational branches to ensure that central agency and parliamentary requirements are met.

Audit and Evaluation Branch

This branch provides senior management with accurate, objective and timely information and advice on program effectiveness, efficiency and relevance. The principal activities of this branch include: developing corporate policies for the audit and evaluation functions, developing annual and long-range plans and schedules for audit and evaluation, and conducting internal audits and program evaluations of departmental programs and operations on a cyclical basis.

Communications Branch

This branch disseminates agricultural and food information to farmers, agricultural advisers, agribusinesses, students and the general public. It also advises the public about policies, programs and activities of the Department.

Personnel Branch

This branch assists all departmental managers in obtaining and maximizing the use of their human resources through guidance, advice and service relating to personnel matters. The Personnel Branch develops and administers personnel policies and programs and provides staff training and other related services for a staff of over 13 000 employees of the Department, in six catagories of employment, at various locations across Canada.

Food Production and Inspection Branch

This branch consists of the Health of Animals Directorate, the Food Inspection Directorate, the Plant Health and Plant Products Directorate, the Pesticides Directorate and the Rack Track Division. This branch protects the health of the Canadian plant and animal resource base; maintains and improves the marketability of agricultural and forest products; protects the wagering public at race tracks and assists in maintaining a liable racing industry.

Research Branch

The mandate of the Research Branch is to provide new knowledge and improved technology to ensure the efficient production of an adequate supply of safe and nutritious food, a stable and profitable agriculture and food industry, and a judicious use of nautral resources essential to Canadian agriculture. The Branch also provides support to other branches, departments and agencies in activities of national concern in the agricultural and food sector, and assistance to international research programs of less developed countries.

Policy Branch

The Branch is the main departmental organization for the development and co-ordination of market-oriented commodity-based strategies and strategic directions for the Department which actively support broad government policies and directives. The work of the Branch is aimed at improving the performance of the Canadian agricultural system and ensuring the long-term supply of agricultural products and foods and the reosurce base. In pursuing its objectives, the Branch provides timely and reliable economic and market intelligence, commodity and food market outlooks, analysis of policies, legislation and regulations that impact on the agri-food sector and administers the following Acts: Agricultural Stabilization; Agricultural Products Board; Advance Payments for Crops; Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing and Crop Insurance.

Agriculture Development Branch

The Agriculture Development Branch plans and implements development strategies and programs in support of the agri-food sector. The Branch is comprised of thirteen main responsibility centres — three located at headquarters and ten regional offices located in each province. At headquarters, the Commodity Production and Marketing Directorate provides a national focus for the management of development programs designed to improve the performance and competitiveness of the agri-food sector from production to consumption. The Special Programs Division monitors, co-ordinates, and evaluates agri-food development programs, e.g. Federal-Provincial Agreement Initiatives, Production Development Assistance Initiatives, Canadian Agricultural Marketing Development Initiatives, Farm Debt Review Boards, Canadian Rural Transition Program, and the Agricultural Products Marketing Act. The Priorities and Management Strategies Division provides operational planning, information systems, and general administration.

International Programs Branch

This branch co-ordinates departmental international activities in a manner consistent with government policy and in support of the international relations and international marketing mandate of the Department of External Affairs. In providing advice and recommendations to senior management, International Affairs Directorate ensures that the Department's aid, trade and development assistance activities are co-ordinated and consistent with Canadian international policy and with the objectives of growth, stability and competitiveness within the domestic agri-food sector. This branch has a staff management group and two Directorates: International Affairs and International Trade.

Western Grain Stabilization Administration

The Western Grain Stabilization Administration administers the Western Grain Stabilization Act by collecting producer levies, making subsidy payments to producers when necessary and maintaining a record of grain producers' transactions.

Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration provides ongoing programs and projects to conserve and develop the soil and water resources of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. These activities are designed to develop and promote improved systems of farm practice, tree culture, water supply and land use that will result in greater economic security for residents of the areas. PFRA is also responsible for the administration of the Agricultural Service Centres program for the development of water supply and sewage disposal systems in selected prairie communities and the implementation aspects of the Canada-Manitoba and Canada-Saskatchewan Interim Subsidiary Agreements on Water for Regional Economic Expansion and Drought Proofing.

Grain and Oilseeds Branch

This branch consists of the Grains Group Secretariat and the Development Co-ordination Directorate. This branch provides direction and support required for the efficient and effective delivery and development of both domestic and international grains and oilseeds policies, programs and services. It contributes to ensuring the quality of standards and high worldwide reputation of Canadian grains and oilseeds through regulation of the handling industry. It contributes to stabilizing the income of grain and oilseeds producers from short-term market instabilities, providing grains and oilseeds industrial development assistance, and providing a focus for the federal relationship with the co-operatives sector.

Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the Canada Grain Act through the recommendation and implementation of grading standards for grain, the licensing of grain elevators, the inspection and weighing of grain, the economic and statistical monitoring of grain handling and storage systems, research into the quality of cereal grains and oilseeds, and supervision of grain futures exchanges.

Canadian Forestry Service

This service consists of the Policy, Planning, Economics and Trade Directorate and the Research and Technical Services Directorate. The Policy, Planning, Economics and Trade Directorate is responsible for the development of policies for forest renewal and related research and development, plus stragetic and operational planning for the management of the program. The Research and Technical Services Directorate administers the planning, co-ordination, evaluation and development of its programs, as well as Canadian Forestry Service research operations and technical services to ensure that a greater body of scientific and technical knowledge of the forest resource will contribute to the effective management, utilization and protection of Canada's forest resources.

DOA/CFS-615
Identification of Problems and Opportunities
Description: Information on the world and domestic supply and demand for forests and the products of the forest industry, and the impact of these activities on the environment. Topics: Forest economic and technical statistics, information files of forests, forestry and the forest industry and other uses of the forest. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-620
Assessment and Interpretation
Description: Information on the analysis, interpretation and application of economic and scientific forestry principles to the identification, clarification or solution of forestry and forestry-related problems. Topics: policies of the Canadian Forestry Service (CFS) — Federal Outdoor Recreation Policy, National Forest Policy, CFS Policy, Provincial Forest Policies, Federal Forest Policy, Forest Protection Assistance Policy, Transportation Policy, CFS Communications Policy, International Forest Policy. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-625
Forestry Statistics and Systems
Description: Quantitative data on location and area of forest lands, volume of forests, their growth, losses and harvests; forest products in Canada and other countries. Topics: World Forestry Data Program; Canadian Forestry Data Program; Federal Forestry Data Program; Forestry Data Systems Program; committees; boards. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-635
Forestry Subvention Program
Description: Information on external research and development through contracts, contributions and grants, supported through membership in appropriate technical committees and associations, for vital forestry activities where corresponding in-house research and development facilities do not exist. Also maintenance of forestry expertise centres in Canadian universities. Topics: Energy from forest resources; wood-anatomy, bonding, chemistry, chemical use, chippers and chips, composites (wood with other materials), construction, dielectric and non-dielectric heating, glues and gluing, grades, codes and standards, identification, wood logs and logging equipment; logging-quality studies, lumber: wood manufacturing secondary conversion, secondary products; miscellaneous wood products; wood packaging; wood paints and codes; wood physics; plywood and veneer; wood preservation; pulp and paper; wood sawmilling equipment; wood seasoning; wood supply; wood testing services; timber engineering-fasteners; timber engineering, physics; underutilized and problem species. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-640
Tree Seed — Improvement Research
Description: Research on tree reproductive structures and seeds in support of the production procurement and processing of seed forestation. Information on the management of seed orchards and seed production areas. Information on the selection and improvement of the various commercial tree species of Canada, the development of exotic species for use in Canada, and in-depth genetic characterization and utilization of these tree species. Topics: Tree cone and seed physiology; core crop periodicity and forecasts; cone collection and handling; seed processing physiology; cone crop periodicity and forecasts; cone collection and handling; seed processing, storage testing and certification; seed orchards and seed production areas, seed certification; seeds legislation and rules; requests for seeds; tree genetics; forest genetic, tree improvement — Canadian Tree Improvement Association. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-645
Reforestation Research
Description: Information on the preparation of cutover areas and other sites for natural seeding or artifical reforestation; the production of bareroot or container seedlings; and direct seeding or planting by hand or machine; also nursery establishment and seedling production statistics. Topics: Site preparation by prescribed burning or mechanical scarification; natural regeneration including seed dispersal, germination and germinant establishment; production and handling of bareroot seedlings or transplants, or of container seedlings; direct seeding methods and operations; seedling planting methods and operations; regeneration surveys; seedling physiology stock quality and standards. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-650
Genetics
Description: Information on the selection and improvement of the various commercial tree species of Canada, the development of exotic species for use in Canada, and in-depth biotechnology, quantitative genetics and tissue culture.

DOA/CFS-655
Tree and Stand Growth Research
Description: Information on the growth, physiology and development of various tree species grown in Canada for the production of wood, fibre or energy. Topics: Tree growth, stand growth, biology, physiology, reproduction — growth and yield; geomorphologic silviculture-silvics of species — fertilization, soils. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-660
Management Systems for Production Forestry
Description: Information on forest management practices such as thinning; forest inventory through conventional and remote sensing methods; mechanized silviculture and harvesting; and research on long-term predictions of forest productivity. Topics: Forest productivity; forest inventory; economics; fire management; harvesting; land classification and mapping; forest land management; multiple use management; remote sensing; salvage operations; silviculture-cutting, effects of mechanized logging, fertilization, thinning and stand tondings, herbicides, statistics, prescribed burning, inventory and measurements. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-665
Forest Fire Research
Description: Research into fire control (suppression), management, behaviour, ecology and prevention, information relating to the development, testing and evaluating of forest fires, fire fighting equipment. Topics: management, behaviour, ecology, environment, risk danger, damage and appraisal, weather, detection, prevention, bombing (air attack), retardants and suppression equipment; and prescribed burning. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-670
Insects and Disease Research
Description: Information on damage caused to forests by insects or diseases (any variation to the normal physiology or anatomy of the tree caused by agents other than insects), the biology of forest pests and control methods. Topics: Listing of specific forest insect pests — spruce budworm, winter moth, bark beetles, gypsy moth, balsam woolly aphid, birch casebearer, birch leafminer, European pine sawfly, European pine shoot moth, fall webworm, larch casebearer jack pine budworm, larch sawfly, mountain ash sawfly, satin moth and pathological problems. Biological control through CIBC; biological control with bacillus thuringiensis; pinewood nematode and other virus insect parasites; chemical control; scleroderris canker — Dutch elm disease, dwarf mistletoe, pesticides, pheromones; pine wood nematode. Storage Medium: Paper.

Forest Environment Research
Description: Information on the effect of forestry practices on the environment; includes harvesting practices, road building, clear cutting, and other management systems used for production forestry; also effects of ARTAP (acid rain) and other pollutants on forests. Topics: Conservation; energy; environmental concerns; prescribed burning; forest-fire management; harvesting; forest management; multiple-use management; land-use planning, acid rain, forest decline, surveillance for acid rain damage to forest (Acid Rain National Early Warning System); pollution; pollution abatment; salvage operations; silviculture — herbicides, site preparation; soils; hydrology, baseline studies, watershed research. Storage Medium: Paper.

DOA/CFS-680
Forest and Plant Ecology
Description: Information on the processes of change in the forest and plant communities found in Canada and the related research carried out by the CFS. Topics: biology; forest types; forest ecology and productivity; fire ecological effects; forest succession, silviculture-silvices of species, weed management; soils.

DOA/CFS-686 Formerly Identified as: DOA/CFS-685; 690
Communications Directorate
Description: The Communications program provides a range of communications services in support of the CFS to effectively establish a dialogue with designated publics in Canada and abroad on the forest resource and its management, and on CFS activities; promotes national policies and programs in co-operation with government agencies (federal and provincial) and the private sector; acts as the Secretariat for the Green Gold/L'or vert national forest awareness campaign initiated by the Canadian Council of Forest Ministers. Topics: Policies, programs, forest management, industry trade research, development, access to the forest, the natural resource, multi-use, publications, Forestry Forum tabloid, news releases, ministerial speeches. Storage Medium:EHI Paper, posters, pamphlets, tabloids, newsletters, catalogues, EDP systems, etc.*

DOA/CFS-695
Industry, Trade and Technology (New)
Description: The Industry, Trade and Technology Branch is responsible for a wide range of issues, including: promoting sound forest industry development, encouraging more efficient industrial utilization of Canada's forest resource, the enhancement of research and development in industrial processes and forest products, improving access to international markets for Canada's forest products and assisting the Canadian forest industry in identifying and capturing export market opportunities. The Branch is responsible for federal contributions and assistance to central industry research organizations, e.g. FORINTEK Corp., FERIC (Forest Engineering Research Institute of Canada) and PPRIC (Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada); fosters continuing dialogue between forest sector unions and management; acts as the lead agency in consultations with companies and associations; co-ordinates activities of the Minister's Forest Sector Advisory Council (FSAC); interacts with provinces on matters involving industrial development issues. Topics: Corporate profiles, intercorporate linkages, forest sector development studies, industrial research and development projects and studies, trade and market information; labour-management and labour adjustment issues; sectoral information (pulp and paper, wood products, further manufactured wood and paper products); export issues (tariff and non-tariff barriers to trade); Light Frame Structures Program; Forest Sector Advisory Council; ECE Timber Committee, OECD Pulp and Paper Working Party, GATT and MTN. Storage Medium: Paper, EDP.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATIONS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Communications (DOC) was established in 1969 by the Government Organization Act. In July 1980, responsibility for the federal government's arts and culture program, along with responsibility for a number of agencies, was transferred from the Secretary of State to the Minister of Communications.

Responsibilities

In the field of telecommunications, the Department is concerned with the electronic means of creating, processing, storing, distributing, displaying, accessing, and exchanging information. Its activities are focused on broadcasting, communications research and on Canada's role in satellite communications. Its clientele consists largely of private and public sector institutions that either manufacture equipment or provide services. In the cultural field, the Department is concerned with a host of public and private institutions and with the cultural content that flows through electronic and non-electronic channels of communications. It includes among its clients the creators and administrators of cultural content.

Legislation

- Broadcasting Act
- Canada Council Act
- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act
- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act
- Copyright Act
- Cultural Property Export and Import Act
- Department of Communications Act
- Investment Canada Act
- National Archives of Canada Act
- National Arts Centre Act
- National Film Act
- National Library Act
- National Museums Act
- National Transportation Act and Railway Act (telegraphs and telephones)
- Radio Act
- Telegraphs Act
- Telesat Canada Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Department of Communications is headed by the deputy minister and supported by one senior assistant deputy minister responsible for Corporate Policy and four assistant deputy ministers who are responsible for the following sectors: Telecommunications and Technology, including Government Telecommunications; Spectrum Management and Regional Operations; Cultural Affairs and Broadcasting; and Corporate Management.

Nine agencies in the communications and cultural field report to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. The Minister of Communications is also responsible to Parliament for the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC), which regulates broadcasters, cable services and national telecommunications services.

CORPORATE POLICY SECTOR

This sector co-ordinates federal-provincial-territorial activities in communications and culture; develops Canada's policy on international aspects of communications and culture; integrates and harmonizes policy within the Department; develops and disseminates policy, program and regulation information to the communications and cultural industries and the general public; and provides legal advice to the Department.

International Relations Branch

This branch develops and implements policies, programs and strategies required at the international level to promote, protect and achieve national communications and cultural interests and objectives. It is responsible for ensuring that significant international developments and factors are taken into account in the formulation of national communications and cultural policies; and for the effectiveness of the Department's representation in all bilateral and multilateral negotiations and activities affecting Canadian communications and cultural interests. This involves preparing and negotiating film and video co-production agreements with key foreign countries; promoting the international marketing of Canadian cultural products; and co-ordinating Canadian presentations to such international organizations as the International Telecommunication Union and UNESCO, including preparation of Canadian proposals and negotiating strategies in consultation with the private sector and provinces, in order to ensure that future Canadian requirements can be achieved within established international conventions. In addition, it provides policy guidance regarding international trade and aid to developing nations; participation in international space communications activities such as INTELSAT and INMARSAT; and spectrum co-ordination with the United States in border areas.

Federal-Provincial Relations Branch

This branch is responsible for advancing the federal government's interests in communications and culture through bilateral and multilateral meetings, information exchange, co-ordination, consultation and negotiation with provinces and territories. The Branch promotes regional considerations in policy development and program delivery, including co-ordination leading to economic and regional development subsidiary agreements with the provinces in the areas of communications and cultural industries.

Information Services Branch

This branch plans and implements information activities to facilitate communications between the Department and the public, as well as communications within the Department. It provides information on the policies, programs and activities of the Department and informs departmental managers of the interests and concerns of the public and client organizations as expressed in the media and through correspondence, public meetings, and direct contact with information officers. Methods include planning communications programs and activities.

The Strategy and Plans Branch is responsible for ensuring coherence and consistency with overall government priorities, for all departmental endeavours, including policies, programs, regulations and legislation. It provides direction in the development of policy in the fields of communications and culture. The Branch also provides briefings to the Minister on all major departmental and agency proposals submitted to Cabinet as well as those of other departments which have implications for the Department of Communications. This involves the implementation and management of the corporate strategic and policy planning for the Department; the management and co-ordination of departmental Parliamentary business including legislative initiatives; the management of Cabinet business for the Department, including liaison with central agencies; the conduct of socio-economic policy research and analysis as well as environmental scanning and forecasting; and the conduct of fiscal analysis and special projects with cross-sectoral implications.

The Program Examination unit conducts comprehensive, objective and timely evaluations of departmental programs and their results, develops evaluation frameworks for new programs and responds to additional requests from senior management for evaluation information in order to support the corporate priority-setting process and to conform to the requirements of the Office of the Comptroller General.

Telecommunications and Technology Sector

This sector attempts to ensure that Canada's technological potential is used to the greatest economic and social benefit by enhancing Canada's advantages in the domestic and foreign markets. This involves formulating policies and regulations that promote the orderly development and efficient operation of Canada's telecommunications services and facilities; managing research and development (R&D) activities in information and communications technologies and fostering the application of those technologies; and supporting the growth industries creating, manufacturing and employing those technologies.

The role of the Technology Policy and Planning Branch is to provide early information on the opportunities and threats for Canada resulting from new developments in communications-related sciences and technologies, and from changes in the regulatory, industrial, social and economic environments, in Canada and abroad. The Branch also has the responsibility to develop and maintain departmental policies and plans based on this knowledge in the field of advanced communications technologies. Projects are also initiated to assess innovative technologies.

The Industry and Economic Development Branch relies on its own specialists and co-operates with other departments and agencies to foster the orderly and efficient development and application of advanced information and communications technologies in Canadian industries creating, manufacturing and marketing those technologies for domestic and foreign markets. It assists the space, telecommunications and informatics industries in exploring opportunities at home and abroad for goods and services through in-house economic analysis, marketing support, technological expertise and research and development.

The Telecommunications Policy Branch formulates and recommends policies and programs governing and promoting the establishment, development and efficiency of national and international telecommunications facilities and services. This includes policy initiatives for institutional, corporate and inter-corporate structures and relationships (carrier competition, terminal attachment, conditions of service); the optimal development of telecommunications networks (integration of satellite and terrestrial networks, standards of service to remote areas of Canada); allocation and use of the radio frequency spectrum and the geostationary orbit resource. The Branch develops and recommends policies and strategies to foster new telecommunications services. In addition, it monitors and analyzes the activities of telecommunications corporations with federal government investment. The Branch makes recommendations on financial and regulatory matters concerning telecommunications entities within federal jurisdiction.

The Government Telecommunications Agency (GTA) provides shared and customized voice and data telecommunications services and facilities to federal departments and agencies. It is responsible for planning, establishing, and managing telecommunications facilities and services to economically satisfy the needs of federal departments and agencies. Designated as a mandatory common service organization providing telecommunications facilities and services for federal government users, the GTA is financed by a revolving fund and is managed on a fully cost revenue dependent basis. The agency is included in the Telecommunications and Technology Sector to facilitate a careful assessment of the role that the federal government market should play in the development of the Canadian industry. It will implement, as appropriate, communications and information handling technologies in the government environment.

The goal of the Mobile Satellite Program (MSAT) is to assist Canadian industry in developing and establishing a first-generation commercial mobile-satellite system and service in Canada by 1990. The objectives of the Program are: to promote the development of new and improved telecommunications in Canada, and particularly to satisfy urgent national needs for improved public and government mobile communications in underserved areas; to support the private sector in the development of Canadian space systems technology and the required engineering skills and expertise in the Canadian labor force and manufacturing industry; to ensure that the limited spectrum frequency allocated to mobile communications for North America be shared with other nations on an equitable basis; and to have telecommunications policies that will encourage the development of the Canadian communications service and the manufacturing industry's ability to respond to national needs and international market opportunities. The MSAT concept was developed by the Department of Communications, which originally planned a government-funded demonstration system. However, market analysis showed such demand for the system that it is now operated by Telesat Canada.

Research Branches

The research branches responsible for the departmental Research Program plan, develop and manage communications research and development (R&D) in telecommunications, space and information technologies. They are responsible for the conduct of comprehensive, multidisciplinary research and development programs to foster the development, introduction and application of new communication systems, both terrestrial and in space, and the development of related infrastructure.

The Space Technologies Research Branch performs, within the David Florida Laboratory, the assembly, integration and environmental testing of space systems and sub-systems. It is also concerned with research and development relating to large space structures such as the mechanical aspects of future generations of satellites, and provides support to other government departments and agencies on space-based radar (Department of National Defence), the space station (National Research Council) and radar satellite (Department of Energy, Mines and Resources).

The Communications Technologies Research Branch brings together the research activities relevant to three major techniques used to transport information, i.e. satellites, radio and optical fibres.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNICATIONS

The Communications Devices and Components Research Branch is concerned with the future electronics enabling technologies required to support the departmental initiatives in communications and information technology. This includes satellite communications, military communications and radar, and spectrum-effective communications. The Branch is responsible for carrying out research and development activities on devices, circuits, and components for application to high-frequency microwave/millimetre wave and optical communications systems, radar systems and high-speed data processing.

The Broadcast Technologies Research Branch is responsible for research and development into technical aspects and related human and cultural issues of television, sound and data broadcasting interactive video services, video program and film generation, and the interconnection of information systems. Investigations are also carried out into broadcast systems concepts and configurations for harmonization and integration of future advanced entertainment and information services, and their interworking in a variety of network arrangements.

The Workplace Automation Research Branch is responsible for research and development into automated office system and for ensuring that research results are transferred to both the private and public sectors so that the potentials for enhanced productivity are realized. Research activities of the Branch include the technological, socio-economic, behavioural and organizational aspects of the office. The work is carried out under the guidance of an advisory board composed of members from universities, industries, and the public sector. Through national and international joint projects which foster co-operation between different groups of experts, the Branch is the focal point of information exchange in the field of workplace automation.

Spectrum Management and Regional Operations Sector

This sector assigns radio frequencies to various users; sets technical standards for radio equipment and systems; provides technical support to the CRTC; co-ordinates frequency planning and assignment with the United States and other countries; and sets standards for spectrum pollution control. It analyzes and evaluates technical submissions for the use of radio spectrum; issues, renews, and amends radio station licences; collects licence fees; issues radio operator certificates; monitors and inspects radio stations; investigates interference complaints; and initiates legal proceedings against suspected offenders.

The Radio Regulation Branch develops regulatory and operational policies as well as regulations governing the orderly use of the spectrum, in view of the changing needs of Canadians and technological advances. Through the Emergency Telecommunications Planning program, the Branch plans and prepares to ensure that Canada's telecommunications resources are able to provide essential communications for government, industry, and the public during national emergencies, including war.

The Broadcast Regulation Branch is responsible for the management of the broadcast frequency spectrum; certification of broadcasting stations; the preparation of broadcasting technical regulations, procedures, and standards; and the development and maintenance of computer systems needed to support the technical regulation of broadcasting. It is also responsible for the establishment of standard broadcast engineering methods and practices; the technical aspects relating to broadcasting in International Telecommunication Union activities; the negotiation of bilateral broadcast spectrum sharing arrangements and operational procedures with the USA and other countries; and the support of policy development.

The Engineering Programs Branch is responsible for standards development activity; the establishment of standard engineering methods, procedures and practices; frequency allocation plans, providing specialized engineering support for unusual or innovative application of radio; development of regulations for radio interference, and the terminal attachment program. It is also responsible for engineering support to policy formulation; the development of the necessary computer tools for spectrum management assistance systems; carrying out the Department's type approval certification; the technical aspects of international activities associated with the International Radio Consultative Committee (CCIR) and the World Administrative Radio Conferences (WARC); other international activities such as negotiating bilateral sharing arrangements with the United States and other countries, and the transfer of spectrum management technology to Canadian industry in support of promotion of exports.

The Terminal Attachment Program ensures the orderly introduction of customer-owned telecommunications terminal equipment designed for connection to the telecommunications carriers' networks. More specifically, it develops technical standards for terminal attachments, certifies equipment and lends technical support to the CRTC to resolve associated technical disputes.

Regional Operations

This organization consists of five regional offices, 45 district and sub-offices and three monitoring stations. It is responsible for managing and regulating the spectrum; managing government telecommunications services for regional client departments; and overseeing the Department's programs across the country.

Corporate Management Sector

This sector is responsible for providing essential support services to the programs of the Department. These services include the following: financial services, information systems and computer services, administrative and technical services, official languages, personnel services and, security and communications support services.

In addition to the services provided to the Department by the Security and Communications Support Services Branch in the areas of security education, enforcement and clearances, health, safety and fire prevention, the Branch provides support to other departments and agencies that do not possess their own expertise in the area of communications and electronic security. It works closely with other divisions of the Department, other government institutions and industry to promote security technology in general, and the development of security in information technology.

Cultural Affairs and Broadcasting Sector

The Cultural Affairs and Broadcasting Sector is responsible for the formulation of policies and design of programs in the fields of broadcasting and cable, film, video, sound recording, publishing, copyright, cultural heritage and performing, literary and visual arts; advising the Minister on policies and programs across the federal cultural portfolio; administering programs and regulations assigned to the Department; and providing support to cultural industries and organizations.

The Broadcasting and Cultural Industries Branch develops policies, legislation, strategies and programs in the area of broadcasting and associated delivery technologies. This includes private radio and television boradcasters generally and, in particular, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation; the Canadian cable industry and associated technologies; related program production and content industries; the pay television industry and the Canadian satellite industry. The Branch also develops policies and programs to encourage the development of new services such as videotex and teletext. The Branch is also responsible for developing policies, strategies and programs in the area of film, video and sound recording with an emphasis on production, distribution and marketing of cultural products. It is also responsible for the development of policies, formulation of objectives and design of programs in the area of publishing with an emphasis on measures to encourage the creation, publishing, marketing and distribution of Canadian authored books, periodicals and electronic publications.

The Arts and Heritage Policy and Programs Branch is responsible for the development of a comprehensive arts policy and the design of the Department's support programs in the fields of the performing, visual, literary and media arts. The Branch is also responsible for the development and co-ordination of national heritage policies, and for the development and management of the Department's heritage programs. Responsibility for formulation and revision of an integrated copyright policy, including protection for artists, creators and the industries engaged in the production and distribution of cultural products falls within the mandate of this branch. It is also responsible for the administration of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, as well as the Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions.

The Policy Planning and Public Interest Branch is responsible for providing support to the Sector by developing long-term strategic policies; for strategic policy analysis and specialized policy support on issues which are cross-sectoral in nature and for directing the conduct of research programs involving extensive data collection and analysis. The Branch acts as the focal point within the sector for the overall management of Economic Regional Development Subsidiary agreements arising out of the Economic Regional Development Agreements (ERDA) made with the provinces in the areas of communications (broadcasting and production-related activities) and culture. The Branch also develops policies and programs to respond to public interests in the production, distribution and consumption of cultural products and develops policies and programs to encourage the extension of broadcasting and new services to remote and under-served communities and to special audiences.

DOC/PPI-041 Formerly Identified as: DOC/ACP-041

Extension of Services and Special Audiences Policy

Description: Information on policies, programs and proposals related to the extension and improvement of broadcasting, cable, telecommunications, and new programming and non-programming services for Canadians who are inadequately served by the broadcasting system because of their geographic location or their special cultural, social or physical requirements. Topics: Extension of services; northern communications; native communications; Northern Native Broadcast Access Program; communications and the handicapped; broadcasting and social applications of satellites; multilingual broadcasting.

DOC/TIP-046

Industry Structure and Services

Description: Policies relating to corporate relations and services in the telecommunications carriage industry. Topics: Legislation; competition; terms and conditions of service; terminal attachment.

DOC/TIP-051

Spectrum and Orbit Policy

Description: Domestic telecommunications policies on spectrum and orbital allocations and radio systems. Topics: Frequency allocation policy; spectrum utilization policy; radio system policy; orbit policy.

DOC/TIP-056

Network Development and Standards

Description: National policies related to the orderly development and implementation of telecommunications networks. Topics: Network development; standards policy; northern communications.

DOC/TIP-061

Financial and Regulatory Policy

Description: Policies relating to the regulation of the telecommunications industry. Topics: Telecommunications regulation; financial statistics.

DOC/PLR-065

Federal-Provincial-Territorial Relations

Description: Information on relations between the Department and the provincial or territorial departments responsible for communications and cultural affairs. Topics: Communications: bilateral relations with provinces and territories; broadcasting; carriage; committees; conferences; co-operation and liaison; division of powers, constitutional matters; legislation and regulations; multilateral and bilateral meetings; research; space; spectrum management; cultural affairs — provinces and territories; cultural industries; federal cultural agencies; heritage; economic regional development agreements with provinces.

DOC/PLS-070

Information Services

Description: Information on the planning, management and activities of Information Services. Topics: Public affairs; publications and creative services; audio-visual and exhibitions services. Storage Media: Files, slides, photos, films, video cassettes.

DOC/PLP-075

Legislation, Cabinet Liaison and Planning

Description: Information on legislative and Cabinet liaison processes and on strategic financial and policy planning. Topics: Telecommunications and broadcasting legislation; Crown corporations; regulatory reform; strategic planning.

DOC/DGT-081

Technology Policy and Planning

Description: Information about technological trends and priorities and the technical, economic, institutional, regulatory and social impacts of those key technologies. Topics: Technology assessment, research environment, telecommunications program design and assessment; artificial intelligence, new video technologies, electronic publishing, CANPACT, intelligent buildings.

DOC/MSP-090

Mobile Satellite Program

Description: The Mobile Satellite (MSAT) Program, begun in the latter part of 1980, exists to foster development of new mobile telecommunications services in Canada. The program has changed from a government demonstration system to a commercially led Canada-US joint venture supported by both the Department and NASA. Under the revised program Telesat Canada is to seek agreements with a US commercial operator to be licensed by the FCC. Telesat is to design the system and procure the spacecraft. The Department's responsibilities during the Implementation Phase include supporting technology development for the spacecraft and ground terminals, supporting Telesat in negotiation of business arrangements in Canada and the US, ensuring adequate spectrum allocation and sharing arrangements with the US, issuing supportive telecommunications policies, and supporting Telesat by the sharing of technological and market risk in the first generation system. Topics: Program and project control; system and service description; committees and working groups; international liaison; domestic and international agreements; program development; contracts and studies plan; spectrum sharing and allocation; policy and regulatory issues.

DOC/DGI-111

Industry Development Program

Description: Involves the complementary activities of economic development, industry development and marketing support to promote effective government leadership in support of the space, informatics, and telecommunications industries. Topics: Program planning; reports and studies; industrial objectives and opportunities; industrial capabilities and requirements monitoring; government support; technology transfer co-ordination; marketing support.

DOC/TIT-120

Government Telecommunications Program

Description: The Government Telecommunications Program provides a full range of telecommunications facilities and services for federal departments and agencies, including shared and customized voice and data, government of Canada telephone directories, and consulting and advisory services. In addition, the agency discharges functions for the overall planning and co-ordination of telecommunications services on behalf of the federal government. Topics: Systems: data, dedicated, voice, shared, inter-city network consolidation, teleconferencing; co-ordination: guidelines and standards, inter-departmental co-ordination, telecommunications projects, research, policy and planning.

DOC/CTR-125 Formerly Identified as: DOC/REC-125
Radar Research
Description: Radar research and development on behalf of the Department and the Department of National Defence. Activities include research aimed at improving radar performance, the development of radar systems through industrial contracts, studies and field measurements to assess radar performance and to assist in the definition of new requirements, consultation on major radar procurement projects, and international collaboration on radar research and development. Topics: Airborne, maritime, ground-based and space-based radars; signal and data processing; phased array radars; synthetic aperture radars; clutter measurements; TTCP; NATO; RADARSAT.

DOC/CTR-130 Formerly Identified as: DOC/REC-130
Radio Propagation and Systems
Description: Information on the transmission of radio waves in the very low frequency (VLF) through the extra high frequency (EHF) bands and the design and management of analog and digital communication systems for both civilian and military applications. Topics: VHF/UHF propagation studies, experiments and modelling; International Satellites for Ionospheric Studies; Space Shuttle/Waves in Space Plasmas project; VLF/LF/MF/HF studies and models; microwave propagation studies and wireless environment local area networks; military communications technology, military communications systems.

DOC/CTR-135 Formerly Identified as: DOC/REC-135
Radio Technology and Environment
Description: Research and development in the area of radio communications technology, and the performance of radio communications equipment in its operating environment for military and civil applications. Topics: Radio communications technology: radio frequency environment, radio systems techniques; radio communications surveillance: high frequency radio findings, military communications.

DOC/CTR-140 Formerly Identified as: DOC/REC-140
Optical Communications
Description: Information on applied research in fibre optics, opto-electronics and photonics; transfer of new technology to industry; fostering of a Canadian fibre optics industry; national and international fibre optics standards; fibre optics-related research in universities; military requirements for fibre optics technology. Topics; Research; field trials; military programs; reports on high data rate fibre optics communications; industry contracts; fibre optics standards.

DOC/BRT-150 Formerly Identified as: DOC/REI-150
Informatics Research
Description: Information on research and development in information communications technologies and systems in Canada. Topics: Information technology; advanced information systems; networks and standards; behavioural research; artificial intelligence.

Behavioural Research
Description: This bank contains reports, studies, field trial evaluations, surveys, and interviews involving individual reactions, views and opinions related to the intellectual, creative and productive capabilities of human beings in information communication and related processes, especially human perceptual and cognitive processes, human behaviour, and the interaction between people and communications technology. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, reflect collective human behaviour and not personal information about an individual. Personal information may be obtained in the process of preparing a report to establish the identity and credibility of the source. This information is not used for administrative purposes and is not arranged by or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the report involved. The retention of information depends on the length of time it is needed for related research. It is active for the fiscal years that the project is active; otherwise, active for the current fiscal year; and thereafter, inactive but retrievable for the next two years, after which it is stored in archives.

DOC/COM-165 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RES-165
Electronics Research and Development
Description: Information on electronic subsystems, components and devices for space communications systems in the areas of millimeter wave, microwave, digital technology and reliability. Topics: Spacecraft transponders; earth terminals; antennas; device and component development; device and material reliability.

DOC/CTR-170 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RES-170
Space Systems Research and Development
Description: Information on the research and development of communications and other space systems and subsystems. Topics: Space communications systems research; military satellite communications; search and rescue satellite (SARSAT); mobile satellite communications; communications signal processing; low-cost satellite telephony terminals.

DOC/STR-175 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RES-175
Space Mechanics Research and Development
Description: Information on the research, design and development of spacecraft and their performance. Topics: Satellite orbits; satellite dynamics and control systems; satellite structures and mechanisms; satellite materials; system simulations, displays and graphics; solar arrays; in-orbit spacecraft experiments; research testing of control systems, flexible structures, thermal controls and materials for structures and mechanisms.

DOC/STR-180 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RES-180
Space Technology Research and Development
Description: Information on the overall program elements of space technology and research and development applications. Topics: Space research and development policy considerations; domestic and world space program activities; space technology transfer; branch program management and operations.

DOC/STR-182 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RES-182
David Florida Laboratory
Description: The David Florida Laboratory supports the Canadian aerospace and communications industries by operating environmental test facilities simulating conditions in space, by providing expert consultation on test programs and by developing integration and test techniques required by modern spacecraft. Topics: Facilities: certification; electronic support; electrical support; data processing system; radio frequency test; horizontal axis mass properties measurements system; spacecraft assembly; system test equipment; spin machines; thermal vacuum systems; vibration units modal testing; integration and tests; satellite testing.

DOC/RER-185
Research Policy and Planning
Description: Information on the planning of the communications research programs and the development of policies to govern Canadian research in communications. Topics: Present status of communications; planning; technology; communications; space, industrial development; military; university research.

DOC/WKP-190 Formerly Identified as: DOC/RET-190
Canadian Work Place Automation Research Centre
Description: This class of documents contains information about the programs carried out at the Centre. Topics: Integrated systems; advanced workplace technology; organizational and societal research; scientific and strategic information network.

DOC/RDR-195 Formerly Identified as: DOC/SMS-195
Spectrum Management Operations
Description: This class of documents contains information on the application of the Radio Act and the development and administration of regulations. Topics: Call signs; procedures; standards and practices; regulations; spectrum management; computer system operation: data management, Assignment Licensing System (PIB 2004), General Radio Service Licensing System; interference: complaints and suppressions; prosecutions for unauthorized installations; Radio Operator Certification Records; frequencies: co-ordination, amateur, experimental, private and public commercial, radio telephone, ships; monitoring (spectrum surveillance).

DOC/SMB-200
Broadcast Regulation
Description: This class of records contains information on the technical certification for the granting of broadcast and cable licences by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, technical standards for broadcasting equipment, development and implementation of radio frequency plans, and frequency assignment criteria and certification procedures. Topics: Call signs; technical methods; standards and procedures; broadcast and television engineering program; technical construction and operating certificates; frequencies: AM broadcasting, FM broadcasting, television.

DOC/RDR-205 Formerly Identified as: DOC/SME-205
Emergency Telecommunications
Description: Information on emergency telecommunication planning in support of the Department's mandate summarized in Emergency Planning Order PC 1981-1305 dated 21 May 1981. Topics: Emergency preparedness and crisis management; inter-departmental, inter-governmental and international committees on civil emergency planning; emergency telecommunications programs and contingency plans; national warning system emergency planning and support by regions; NATO and US/Canada military and civil exercises.

DOC/SMG-210
Engineering
Description: This class of document contains information on technical standards and procedures for radio equipment and systems, the development and implementation of radio frequency plans and frequency assignment criteria. It also contains the Terminal Attachment Program standards and procedures. Topics: Equipment type approval; technical methods, practices and procedures, and standards; development and engineering; spectrum management: assignment and licensing subsystems, research, special projects, pilot projects, spectrum surveillance system, automated systems development.

DOC/PPI-215
Policy Planning, Research and Special Projects
Description: Information on policies, programs and proposals for economic development agreements with the provinces, cross-sectoral issues and non-programming services, including videotex and teletext services, broadcasting, and related communication technologies. Information is also available on office communications systems, as the Department took part in a field trial on office automation. Topics: Special interest groups; videotex/teletext; new technology; software and services; applied technologies; arts and culture; office communications systems program; computer courseware; trade negotiations; subsidiary agreements to economic regional development agreements.

DOC/BCI-220 Formerly Identified as: DOC/ACF-220
Film, Video and Sound Recording, Policy and Programs
Description: Information on cultural industries in general, their markets, industry participants, related departmental and agency programs, industry associations and policy issues. Topics: Canadian ownership; imports and exports; federal cultural agencies: Telefilm Canada, National Film Board; foreign investments/FIRA; tax issues; financial assistance; training and development.

DOC/ACA-225
Museums, Libraries and Archives Policy
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports relating to museums, libraries and archives policy issues. Topics: Heritage; historical resources; libraries; museums; archives.

DOC/ACA-230
Canadian Cultural Agencies
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports relating to the following Canadian cultural agencies: National Library of Canada, National Museums of Canada, Canada Museums Construction Corporation, National Archives of Canada, Canada Council, and National Arts Centre. Topics: National Library: mandate, policies, programs, facilities; National Museums (including the National Gallery, the National Museum of Man, the National Museum of Natural Sciences, and the National Museum of Science and Technology): mandate, policies, programs, facilities; Canada Council: organization and legislation, programs and development, requests for information and assistance; National Arts Centre: facilities, organization and legislation, financial policy, resident companies.

DOC/ACA-235
Performing, Visual and Literary Arts Policy
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports relating to performing, visual and literary arts policy issues. Topics: Arts; performing arts; Capital Grants Program; music; theatre; dance; taxation: Canadian artists, tax issues and treatment of the artists; federal sales tax; tax expenditures; tax incentives and fiscal measures; Trade-in-Services (task force); visual arts; crafts; exhibitions and fairs; literary arts.

DOC/ACA-245 Formerly Identified as: DOC/ACC-245
Copyright Policy Development
Description: Information on the formulation and recommendation of departmental copyright policy and associated legislative development at departmental and inter-departmental levels. Topics: Criteria for copyright protection; subject matter of protection; economic and moral rights of copyright owners; ownership of copyright; exceptions to protection; term of protection; infringement of copyright and remedies; briefs and submissions relating to the above; copyright-based industries; interfacing of communications; copyright policies.

DOC/BCI-250 Formerly Identified as: DOC/PPP-250
Book Publishing Industry Development Program
Description: Separate files are maintained for each application under the program's components. Files contain information on the corporate and financial status of the book publisher or industry group involved. Project specifications and all correspondence is included on file. The program also maintains an automated data bank with financial information on each applicant. Topics: Assistance programs: sales and marketing assistance; production of Canadian textbook and related materials; company analysis and implementation; project research and implementation; foreign rights marketing; professional development; research and documentation; export development; studies related to program performance.

DOC/BCI-251
Publishing Policy and Concessional Postal Rates (New)
Description: Information on the development of policies related to books and periodicals as well as information related to concessional postal rates. Topics: Canadian ownerships, import and export, foreign investments, financial assistance, postal subsidies.

DOC/BCI-255 Formerly Identified as: DOC/ACF-255
Canadian Audiovisual Certification Office
Description: An automated information bank containing information on applications from producers for certification of their film and videotape productions. An additional manual and automated filing system exists containing individual application forms and supporting documentation. Special requests for statistics are accommodated whenever possible. Topics: Numbers of certified shorts and features by year, total budgets; percentages of Canadians performing key creative functions by year; percentages of remuneration paid to Canadians, individuals performing key creative functions, percentages of Canadian costs, location and time of shooting, as well as such confidential information as budgets, prospectuses and audited statements. This class of documents contains personal information of creative personnel, such as name, address and citizenship, which is listed in further detail in the Privacy Index.

DOC/ACA-265 Formerly Identified as: DOC/CIP-265
Cultural Initiatives Program: Applications for Financial Support
Description: Information concerning projects for which financial support has been requested from the program. Topics: Management and viability of cultural organizations; special activities and events; capital projects.

DOC/ACA-270
Travelling Exhibitions: Applications for Insurance
*Description:*The program maintains separate files on each application for insurance coverage from a Canadian museum, gallery, archive or library. The files contain information regarding the facilities of the applying institution, details of the materials making up the travelling exhibition in question and their value, and correspondence relating to the application. Topics: Insurance for travelling exhibitions; museums; galleries; archives; libraries.

DOC/ACA-275
Movable Cultural Property: Policy and Activities
Description: This class of documents contains information about the departmental activities related to the Cultural Property Export and Import Act. It includes files on the administration of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, the applications for designation of institutions and public authorities as eligible recipients of cultural property grants, loans and tax certificates: applications for grants and loans, and files on applications for export permits. Topics: Purpose of the Act, amendments and associated instruments; policy concerning patriation of cultural objects, certification for tax purposes, export and import control; case files of illegal imports and exports; designation of eligible institutions; cultural property grants and loans; export permits; cultural property export control; cultural property protection in other countries.

DOC/SCS-280
Communications Electronic Security
Description: Information on the communications electronic security (COMSEC) program in relation to the Department's mandate to provide advice and guidance to most federal departments and agencies, the development of COMSEC doctrine and policy formulation and the provision of engineering support and co-ordination of equipment acquisition. Topics: COMSEC policy, COMSEC equipment and COMSEC support.

DOC/PRL-285
Program Evaluation
Description: This class of documents contains reports, studies, surveys, case studies and interviews involving corporate and individual views, opinions, attitudes and reactions related to the assessment of Departmental policy or program effects and impacts. The evaluation and research studies themselves, published or unpublished, reflect aggregated information which cannot reveal personal or corporate identity. Third party information obtained in the process of preparing an evaluation or research report, and given in confidence, is normally retrievable only with the permission of the party involved. Information relating to government operations is exempted from access according to the relevant provisions of the Access to Information Act. The retention of information depends on the length of time it is needed for related research or program or policy decision purposes.

DEPARTMENT OF CONSUMER AND CORPORATE AFFAIRS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs was created in 1967 by the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Act.

Responsibilities

The Department promotes an effective and efficient market system by ensuring that the rules for marketplace behaviour are adequate, appropriate and effectively administered and by representing consumer interests within and outside the government.

Legislation

- An Act Respecting the Use of the Expression "Parliament Hill"
- Bankruptcy Act
- Bills of Exchange Act (sections 188-192)
- Boards of Trade Act
- Canada Agricultural Products Standards Act (section 7)
- Canada Business Corporations Act
- Canada Co-operative Associations Act
- Canada Corporations Act
- Competition Act
- Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act
- Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act
- Copyright Act
- Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Act
- Electricity and Gas Inspection Act
- Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act
- Fish Inspection Act
- Food and Drugs Act
- Government Companies Operation Act
- Hazardous Products Act
- Hudson's Bay Company Act
- Industrial Design Act
- Insurance Companies, Canadian and British (subsections 4(1), 4(3), 4(5))
- Interest Act
- National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act
- Patent Act
- Pension Fund Societies Act (sections 4, 6, 7)
- Precious Metals Marking Act
- Public Documents Act
- Public Officers Act
- Public Servant Inventions Act (section 4)
- Seals Act
- Shipping Conferences Exemption Act (section 12)
- Tax Rebate Discounting Act
- Textile Labelling Act
- Timber Marking Act
- Trade Marks Act
- Trade Unions Act
- Urea Formaldehyde Insulation Act
- Weights and Measures Act
- Winding-Up Act (Part 1)

Organizational Units and their Role

The Department is organized into four bureaus: Consumer Affairs, Competition Policy, Corporate Affairs and Policy Co-ordination. Their work is supported by three service bureaus and field staff in the Atlantic, Quebec, Ontario, Prairie and Pacific regions. The Deputy Minister, who is also the Deputy Registrar General of Canada, is responsible for the finance and administration directorates, the personnel branch, and the departmental secretariat. The Assistant Deputy Minister of the Bureau of Competition Policy is also the Director of Investigation and Research — a statutory appointment under section 5 of the Competition Act that is independent and autonomous from the Department and the Minister.

Bureau of Consumer Affairs

The Bureau promotes and protects the consumer interest in the marketplace by enforcing legislation respecting manufactured foods at all levels of trade and legislation respecting agricultural food products at the retail level. The Bureau is also responsible for consumer information, advocacy within government and with industry, and financial and technical support of consumer groups.

The Consumer Products Branch administers Acts and Regulations affecting the packaging, labelling, advertising, quality, quantity and composition of both food and non-food products. It also administers some provincial statutes respecting the grading and sale of agricultural and fish products at the retail level.

The Consumer Services Branch addresses consumer issues in the public, private and voluntary sectors through programs of market analysis, support to consumer organizations and by encouraging improved institutional practices in business to meet consumer needs. It also administers the Tax Rebate Discounting Act.

The Legal Metrology Branch administers the Electricity and Gas Inspection Act and the Weights and Measures Act to minimize inaccurate measurements and ensure equity at all levels of trade of commodities and services bought and sold on the basis of measurement. The Branch conducts approval examinations and inspections of devices, maintains and calibrates standards, and inspects goods and services. It also co-ordinates Canada's participation in the Organisation internationale de Métrologie légale.

The Product Safety Branch administers the Hazardous Products Act to ensure adequate safety standards for consumer products and to promote consumer and trader understanding of health and safety regulations and standards. It conducts product testing for regulatory development purposes and for compliance with regulations. Inspectors designated under the Act have powers of search and seizure.

Bureau of Corporate Affairs

The Bureau seeks to provide a legal and regulatory framework for the orderly conduct of business. It incorporates federal, commercial and non-profit corporations, regulates bankruptcy proceedings for insolvent companies and individuals, and licenses and supervises trustees in bankruptcy. It enforces standards of conduct for corporations in the treatment of shareholders and the disclosure of relevant corporate information. The Bureau also encourages invention, innovation and creativity in Canada through the granting of exclusive property rights for inventions (patents), trademarks, industrial designs and copyright of original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works.

Bankruptcy Branch

The Bankruptcy Branch administers the Bankruptcy Act by providing assistance in the filing of consumer bankruptcies; by protecting both bankruptcy creditors' and debtors' rights; by licensing and supervising trustees-in-bankruptcy; by detecting abuses of the bankruptcy process both before and after bankruptcy; by maintaining and disseminating general and statistical bankruptcy and insolvency information; and by acting as a depository for any documents to be filed pursuant to the Canada Business Corporations Act or any intellectual property legislation.

The Corporations Branch administers the Canada Corporations Act, the Canada Business Corporations Act, and several other statutes, through the examination and qualification of incorporation, continuance, amalgamation and dissolution of corporations; the management of a database of corporate names; and the acquisition, assessment and verification of information to the public. It issues exemptions from various requirements of the Canada Business Corporations Act; and conducts enquiries and investigations into corporate misconduct.

The Intellectual Property Directorate administers legislation dealing with patents, trade marks, copyright, industrial designs, and timber marks. The Directorate includes the Copyright and Industrial Design Office, the Patents Office and the Trade Marks Office.

Bureau of Competition Policy

The Bureau's chief responsibility is the administration of the Competition Act in supporting the maintenance of effective competition in a mixed system of public and private enterprise. The Act seeks to eliminate certain practices that restrain trade, and to overcome concentrations that tend to prevent the economic resources of Canada from being used most advantageously. The Act also contains provisions against misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices. In addition, certain trade practices such as merger, abuse of dominant position, and refusal to deal are subject to civil review by the Competition Tribunal.

The Director of Investigation and Research is empowered to appear before various regulatory bodies in Canada to make representations in support of the expansion or maintenance of competition in regulated markets. The Bureau also represents Canada's interest in international competition policy issues.

The Manufacturing Branch conducts inquiries under the Competition Act with respect to the manufacturing sector of Canadian industry, excluding the pulp and paper and petroleum industries. It is also concerned with matters relating to the construction industry.

The Regulated Sector Branch is primarily concerned with the behaviour and performance of regulated industries in the telecommunications, broadcasting, transport and securities fields. It also prepares studies on such matters as the effects of tariffs and quotas on competition in Canada.

The Economic Analysis and Policy Evaluation Branch provides analytical and policy evaluation support for the Director and the Bureau. It represents the Director's interests in international forums, including multilateral policy discussions and bilateral antitrust relations, especially with the United States. The Branch also prepares submissions by the Director to federal regulatory boards and tribunals and conducts policy-related applied industrial organization studies.

The Resources Branch is responsible for the conduct of all inquiries under the Competition Act with respect to the activities of firms in resource industries, including agriculture, fishing and food processing, trapping and fur processing, forestry, mining and primary processing of all minerals, and energy. The Branch is also concerned with the assessment of the competitive implications of specific regulatory activities. It maintains a general surveillance of competitive activities and issues in these industries.

The Services Branch analyses complaints and other evidence from a broad variety of sources with respect to alleged restrictions of competition in the service and distribution industries and conducts inquiries where warranted. The Branch is responsible for all wholesale and retail distribution activities not otherwise assigned to the Manufacturing or Resources Branch, and for all other services traditionally regarded as such, including finance, insurance and business, professional and personal services.

The Marketing Practices Branch administers the misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices provisions of the Competition Act. These include representations that are false or misleading in a material respect, unsubstantiated claims, misleading warranties, misleading price representation, untrue and misleading tests and testimonials, double ticketing, pyramid schemes, referral selling, bait-and-switch selling, sales above advertised price, and promotional contests.

Bureau of Policy Co-ordination

The Bureau co-ordinates the departmental research, policy analyis, and legislative development functions of consumer, corporate, and intellectual property areas. It also houses the ministerial briefing unit, which prepares and co-ordinates briefings in support of the Minister's participation at Cabinet Committees. It has overall responsibility for program evaluation of departmental programs, planning activities at the corporate level, strategic research, and communications services.

The Corporate Services and Research Branch is responsible for co-ordinating the Department's corporate planning activities, including the preparation of environment assessments, for corporate research activities, for the co-ordination of all departmental federal-provincial activities and for representation in selected international and intergovernmental fora. It performs periodic reviews of ongoing programs to improve operations and to provide a basis for strategic planning and regulatory review, and ensures effective interaction with central agencies on all planning and control activities.

The Legislative Review Branch is responsible for all research and policy development activities leading to the adoption of legislative and regulatory reforms of the Department's statutory and program base, and for developing and directing research activities on selected policy related issues requiring international and intergovernmental negotiations.

The Communications Branch ensures that government policies are taken into consideration in structured communication activities; designs and implements communications strategies to gain public understanding and support for the interests of the Department; provides expert advice on communication policies and logistics support through production; and provides distribution and liaison services. With the winding down of the Metric Commission, a Division of Measurement Information was created within the Branch to provide information in the ongoing adoption of the metric system.

Office of the Assistant Deputy Registrar General

The Assistant Deputy Registrar General administers the government's Conflict of Interest and Post Employment Code for Public Office Holders and provides policy advice to the Government, the Privy Council Office and deputy heads. This office is also responsible for the issue and registration of commissions and other documents pursuant to the Public Officers and Seals Act and as required by other Acts.

Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for co-ordinating activities and communications between the Minister, the Deputy Minister and the Department, as well as with other government departments and central agencies, private associations and the general public. The Secretariat also has the responsibility for applying the legislation on access to information and privacy and for responding to requests for UFFI homeowner information.

The Finance and Administration Directorate is responsible for the general administration of finance, material and property, records and information systems, library services and internal audit functions.

The Personnel Branch is responsible for administering the personnel management system within the Department.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

Previously known as the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) was created in 1966 by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act. Some branches of the Department have been in existence for more than a century.

Responsibilities

The objective of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is to promote the discovery, development and efficient use of the country's mineral and energy resources and to broaden the public's knowledge of Canada's landmass for the benefit of all Canadians. The Department comprises three programs: Energy, Minerals and Earth Sciences, and Administration. Through these programs it fosters national policies based on research and data collection, provides initiatives directed towards national economic development and makes available scientific and technical information to a wide range of customers across the country.

Legislation

- An Act to Amend the Canada Business Corporation Act
- Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act
- Atomic Energy Control Act
- Canada Home Insulation Program Act
- Canada Lands Surveys Act
- Canada Oil and Gas Act
- Canada-Nova Scotia Oil and Gas Agreement Act
- Canadian Ownership and Control Determination Act
- Co-operative Energy Act
- Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act
- Energy Administration Act
- Energy Monitoring Act
- Explosives Act
- Energy Supplies Emergency Act
- Home Insulation (N.S. and P.E.I.) Programs Act
- International Boundary Commission Act
- Motor Vehicle Fuel Consumption Standards Act
- National Energy Board Act
- Nuclear Liability Act
- Oil and Gas Production and Conservation Act
- Oil Substitution and Conservation Act
- Petro-Canada Act
- Petroleum Incentives Program Act
- Resources and Technical Surveys Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Three Crown corporations report to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources: the Atomic Energy Control Board, Atomic Energy of Canada Limited and Petro-Canada Limited. Five autonomous agencies also report to Parliament through the Minister: the Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveys, the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names, the Energy Supplies Allocation Board, the National Energy Board and the Petroleum Monitoring Agency.

Departmental Executive

The Departmental Executive represents the high-level decision-making groups which are supported by the three departmental programs: Administration, Energy, and Minerals and Earth Sciences. The Departmental Executive is responsible for the formulation of departmental policy and the execution of departmental programs.

Corporate Policy and Communications Sector

This sector is responsible for strategic planning for the Department, the provision of advice to the Minister and Minister of State on Cabinet and parliamentary matters, the co-ordination of central agency liaison, the integration of departmental policies with Communications, the development and management of the Internal Audit, Program Evaluation, and Communications programs, and the management of the Office of Environmental Affairs.

ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM

Human Resources Sector

This sector is responsible for human resources matters throughout the Department, including human resources planning, staffing, training and development, organization and classification, staff relations, compensation and benefits, official languages and affirmative action programs. These activities are carried out through the Personnel Program Development Branch, Personnel Program Operations Branch and the Management Category Personnel Division.

Finance and Administration Sector

This sector provides financial, administrative, electronic data processing (EDP) and management support services to departmental operations to ensure accountability and control. Aspects include the provision of financial services such as planning and analysis, policy and systems, and accounting services; the operation of (EDP) equipment and the provision of EDP application development services and in-house management consulting services. The Sector is also responsible for the development of departmental security policies and services and the development and maintenance of policies, procedures, systems and services required to support the general administration of governmental information management policies, through information collection, maintenance of a departmental information inventory and the management of records. In addition, the Sector provides department-wide services for the development, co-ordination and monitoring of electronic information systems, policies, strategies, plans, standards and guidelines. It also provides material management and facilities management services.

ENERGY PROGRAM

Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration

The Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration (COGLA) was established to administer the federal regulation of oil and gas exploration and development on Canadian land. It is the principal point of contact for proponents respecting operational matters. COGLA, on behalf of the Minister, negotiates exploration agreements, grants permits for drilling work, inspects drilling operations and negotiates related Canadian benefits plans for northern activity. The administrator of COGLA reports to the deputy ministers of Energy, Mines and Resources and Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Policy direction is provided by the Policy Review Committee, which includes senior personnel from both departments, thereby ensuring that oil and gas administration is consistent with both northern and energy policies.

Petroleum Incentives Administration

The Petroleum Incentives Administration is responsible for the administration of the Petroleum Incentives Program Act and the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination Act. In this capacity, the Administration is responsible for the collection, analysis and study of information pertaining to the determination of companies' and individuals' Canadian ownership rate and control status and their eligibility for reimbursement of certain approved expenditures. It is also responsible for the development of policy and regulations.

Energy Commodities Sector

This sector is responsible for the development and allocation of adequate, secure and cost-effective sources of petroleum, natural gas, uranium and nuclear energy, electricity and transportation fuels. It carries out economic and technical assessments of Canada's oil and gas reserves and requirements, and implements initiatives related to oil and gas, such as: heavy oil research, development and demonstration, oil, gas and natural gas monitoring, and the expansion of gas transmission and distribution systems. It provides policy advice, information and analysis on the electricity, nuclear and uranium industries. Finally, it is concerned with the development of alternative fuels and the improvement of energy management in transportation.

Energy Policy, Programs and Conservation Sector

The Sector provides analysis and advice on federal energy policies, strategies and activities, develops an energy policy framework to achieve the government's objectives, provides direction and analysis for energy policy initiatives, including the negotiation of federal-provincial agreements, and develops and assesses the financial and economic impact of energy policies. It plans, develops and maintains an energy taxation and incentive system and is concerned with managing and co-ordinating Canada's international energy relations.

The Sector is also responsible for the promotion of energy conservation in all end-use sectors in co-operation with the provinces, territories and the private sector, and for the development and commercialization of renewable energy resources. It delivers directly or jointly the programs included in the National Conservation and Alternative Energy Initiatives (NCAEI) and manages the Memoranda of Understanding with the provinces and territories.

Canadian Exploration Development Incentives Program

The Canadian Exploration Development Incentives Program (CEDIP) was established to encourage exploration and development activities on Canada's lands and offshore areas. In this capacity, the CEDIP is responsible for developing policy and regulations, and determining the eligibility of individuals and qualified corporations for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area.

MINERALS AND EARTH SCIENCES PROGRAM

Geological Survey of Canada Sector

This sector conducts geological, geophysical and geochemical research and surveys, operates national networks of geophysical observatories, and estimates mineral and non-renewable energy resources. It investigates geological phenomena posing hazards to human activities and the environment, develops geophysical and other technologies, develops national geoscience standards, and fosters Canadian geoscience and Canadian participation in international geoscience. The Sector provides advice to governments, and produces and disseminates maps and reports. It also contributes fundamental information on the geophysical framework and processes of the landmass, including a knowledge of the gravity and magnetic fields, geothermal properties and seismicity of the country.

The Sector is also responsible for the Polar Continental Shelf Project which provides co-ordinated logistic support to public and private sector groups conducting scientific studies in the Arctic. The Sector also provides professional, technical and managerial advice and support to clients, and information about scientific operations in the Arctic to the scientific community and to the local inhabitants.

Surveys, Mapping and Remote Sensing Sector

This sector is responsible for the acquisition, establishment and maintenance of geodetic, topographical and geographical information on the Canadian landmass. It is the main source of information for other government departments, municipal and provincial governments and agencies, and industry in matters relating to national surveying and mapping. It is also responsible for the periodic production of a national atlas, the cyclic revision of aeronautical charts and electoral maps, and the surveying of Canada's lands. In addition, the Sector is responsible for the development and demonstration of systems, methods and instruments to acquire, disseminate and analyze remote-sensing data from aircraft and satellites as a contribution to the development of effective information and management systems for Canada's land and ocean resources and for the environment.

Mineral and Energy Technology Sector

This sector is responsible for conducting research and engineering development in mineral and energy technology, including mining, mineral extraction and processing, metallurgy, utilization of metals and materials, and the supply, conversion and utilization of heavy oil, oil sands, coal, uranium and other fuels. It also conducts research and development in selected areas of energy conservation and energy fuels transportation. The Sector promotes, co-ordinates and supports R&D in industry, universities and research institutes in the mineral and energy fields; identifies technological opportunities in mining, metallurgy, and energy; and transfers technology to the private sector.

The Sector also administers the Canada Explosives Act which entails regulating, throughout Canada, the manufacture, importation, storage and sale of explosives by inspecting and licensing factories and magazines, by testing and authorizing explosives, providing technical advice to other government agencies (international, federal and provincial) and providing training courses on explosives safety. In addition, the Sector is responsible for the development of federal research and development (R&D) policies to support national energy strategy options; the management of energy R&D programs through contracts and co-operative agreements; and the collection and provision of information on Canadian energy R&D.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

Mineral Policy Sector

This sector is responsible for developing, promoting, co-ordinating and recommending national policies, plans and programs for non-fuel minerals. It is also responsible for the collection, assembly and publication of national mineral statistics, on behalf of the federal government, in co-operation with the provinces and for the management, on behalf of the federal government, of mineral development sub-agreements with the provinces. In addition, the Sector provides direction for the management of the Minerals Program within the Department.

Its work includes the collection of national and international data and intelligence, the conduct of ongoing appraisals, studies and representations in a provincial, national and international context on matters of exploration, development, production, processing, transportation, trade and use of non-fuel minerals. The Sector is divided into three branches: Minerals and Metals Strategy, Economic Policy and Financial Analysis, and Resource Supply and Information.

Classes of Records

EMR/DEX-005

Science and Technology

Description: Information relating to scientific and technological research, and activities pertaining to Canada's landmass and its energy and mineral resources. In 1981, the Science and Technology Sector was restructured into the Research and Technology, and Earth Sciences Sectors. This class also includes information on general co-operation and liaison with provincial governments and foreign countries. Topics: Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society; international science and technology; unsolicited proposals; environment; air pollution; long range transport of air pollutants; Environmental Assessment and Review Process (EARP); land; water pollution; international environmental issues; co-operation and liaison; federal/provincial liaison; international liaison; energy technology; coal technology; explosives; remote sensing; international remote sensing.

EMR/DEX-010

Earth Sciences

Description: Information relating to Earth Sciences activities ensuring the availability of scientific data on the earth's crust necessary for effective resource management. Topics: Earth Sciences Sector program planning; interdepartmental liaison; provincial liaison; Advisory Committee on Northern Development; Earth Sciences international bilateral and multilateral relations; EMR Research Agreements Program (RAP); RAP applications assessments; Canadian universities/RAP; departmental grants review committee; provincial research councils/RAP; research institutes and societies/RAP; Earth Sciences Sector communications; Earth Sciences operations; Earth Physics operations; Geological Surveys operations; Polar Continental Shelf operations; Surveys and Mapping operations; Marine Geoscience; minerals issues.

EMR/DEX-015

Minerals

Description: Information relating to the advice and recommendations made in reference to strategies and policies concerning mineral exploration and development. Topics: Mineral supply and development; mineral evaluation and monitoring; mineral information systems; mineral information exchanges; mineral technology; international minerals.

EMR/DEX-020

Energy Policy

Description: Information relating to the establishment of federal energy policies, strategies and activities and to Canada's international energy relations. Topics: International Energy Agency (IEA); provincial energy policies; international energy policies; National Energy Program (NEP); Canadianization; acquisition and establishment of coal, oil and gas, mineral and uranium industries; provincial relations.

EMR/DEX-025

Economic Analysis

Description: Information relating to the analysis of the Canadian economy and economic outlooks and forecasts. Includes the assessment of macroeconomic impact of mineral and energy policies, regional development taxation, and the economic environment of foreign countries. Topics: Economic analysis; economic analysis of the Minerals Sector; Interdepartmental Economic Intelligence Committee; Committee of Deputy Ministers on Economic Development; Ministry of State for Economic Development (MSED); MSED auctions; regional economic development; federal economic development co-ordinators (FEDC); general and subsidiary development agreements; regional economic analysis and development in the Minerals Sector; international economic analysis; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); Canada/USSR Economic Co-operation Agreements and Mixed Commission; UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC); economic analysis of taxation policies and systems.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

EMR/DEX-030
Emergency Planning
Description: Information relating to the development of policies, regulations, control systems, and information systems for the allocation of refined products to wholesale petroleum customers, and a supplementary rationing program to reinforce the allocation programs as required; to the monitoring of trends in petroleum supply and demand, and the administration of national emergency and demand restraint measures. Topics: Emergency planning; Energy Supplies Allocation Board (ESAB) administration; allocation and rationing.

EMR/DEX-035
Energy Conservation
Description: Information relating to the analysis of energy demand, to define the potential for energy conservation and the development of policies and programs to ensure that full economic potential for conservation is attained. Includes information on the provision of incentive grants and loans, and on related programs in support of energy conservation in the transportation, building, industry and federal government sectors. Topics: Energy conservation; provincial energy conservation; energy conservation in buildings; Canadian Oil Substitution Program (COSP); energy conservation in industry and transportation; Internal Energy Conservation Program; renewable energy resources.

EMR/DEX-040
Energy Research and Development
Description: Information relating to energy research and development, including public correspondence on various energy programs, liaison with Canadian universities, publications and press clippings on energy issues, as well as committees involved in energy research development. Topics: International energy research and development; IEA Committee on Energy Research and Development (CRD); provincial energy research and development; Alberta/Canada Energy Resources Research Fund (ACERRF), industry, Interdepartmental Panel on Energy Research and Development; research and development tasks and programs, proposals and fundings; conservation task; oil and coal task; nuclear energy task; renewable energy task; new liquid fuels task; conventional energy systems task; Office of Energy Research and Development (OERD); co-ordination and generic environment task; management of non-renewable resources; Canada Oil and Gas Act (Bill C-48); transfer of mineral rights; offshore mineral rights.

EMR/DEX-045
Non-Petroleum Sources
Description: Information relating to the assessment of Canada's non-petroleum sources and reserves such as coal, electrical energy, nuclear energy and uranium. Topics: Coal; coal resource development, production and marketing; international coal; electrical energy; resource development; production and marketing of electricity; electrical transmission lines; nuclear energy and uranium; nuclear and uranium resource development, production and marketing; nuclear waste management; irridated fuel waste (high level); low level radioactive waste (LLRW); international nuclear energy and uranium.

EMR/DEX-050
Petroleum Sources
Description: Information relating to the assessment of Canada's petroleum sources and reserves; supply and demand for these resources; resource exploration, development and translation. Topics: Petroleum industry; petroleum products pricing; gas pricing; petrochemicals; petroleum sources and reserves; petroleum exploration; offshore drilling; petroleum utilization; petroleum supply and demand; petroleum exports and exchanges; international petroleum industry; transportation; transportation studies; pipelines; certificates of public convenience and necessity; pipeline activities and projects.

EMR/DEX-055
Pricing and Compensation
Description: Information relating to the analysis of imported petroleum compensation; system of price blending and reference (incentive) pricing. Topics: Petroleum Incentive Administration (PIA); Petroleum Monitoring Agency (PMA).

EMR/CGA-065
Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration
Description: Information relating to the management of federal interests in development, exploration and production of oil, gas and other mineral resources in the Canada Lands. Topics: Interdepartmental, provincial and international liaison; northern development; constitutional development; energy and economics studies; federal, provincial and international legislation; resources management legislation; Public Land Grants Act and Territorial Lands Act; Oil and Gas Production and Conservation Act; socioeconomic concerns; environmental concerns; committees; company information; Petroleum Incentives Program.

EMR/CGA-070
Canada Benefits
Description: Information relating to analysis and management of procurement plans submitted by oil and gas operators seeking exploration agreements, to ensure benefits to the Canadian economy. Topics: Canada benefits packages; employment benefits; East Coast employment benefits; northern regions employment benefits; industrial benefits; social benefits; consultant services; project notification; research and development programs; sector supply and services; technology transfer; work plans and status reports.

EMR/CGA-075
Environmental Protection
Description: Information relating to the protection of oil and gas operations in marine and coastal areas from environmental risks, as well as the protection of the environment from the effects of drilling operations. Topics: Environmental protection and marine pollution; contingency planning; industry contingency planning; international contingency planning; environmental assessment; East Coast offshore environmental assessment; environmental assessment and review process; environmental studies revolving fund; environmental research and development; biological environment; northern environment; physical environment; physical oceanography; meteorology and climate studies; financial security; work plans and status reports.

EMR/CGA-080
Land Management
Description: Information relating to the negotiation, issuing and administering of oil and gas exploration and production rights. Topics: Mineral rights on Canada Lands; accounting; production reports; oil and gas leases; mineral rights on public lands; mining leases; reservation of mines and minerals; royalties; titles; production evaluation; guaranty deposits; mineral rights transfer; work plans and status reports.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

EMR/CGA-085

Policy Analysis and Co-ordination

Description: Information relating to analysis, development and interpretation of policy with respect to the management of oil and gas exploration and development activities on Canada Lands. Topics: Provincial oil and gas issues; provincial negotiations; policy review; work plans and status reports.

EMR/CGA-090

Resource Evaluation

Description: Information relating to the estimation of oil and gas reserves and potential on Canada Lands. Topics: Deep seabed resources; deep ocean mining; ocean mining industry; international ocean mining; offshore mining of non-fuel minerals; mineral resource inventory; deep seabed resource management; shelf resources; shelf mining; shelf resource management; ocean resources citation retrieval; geoscientific projects; scientific research offshore and East Coast.

EMR/CGA-095

Engineering

Description: Information relating to the operational and occupational safety of drilling and developing activities on Canada Lands as it relates to the regulatory basis which governs equipment and procedures for drilling and production of oil and gas. Topics: Offshore operations; operations statistics; geological and geophysical offshore operations reports; marine diving; offshore drilling; pipelines and transportation; reservoir and reserve studies; offshore structures; field developments; Ocean Ranger accident; Ocean Ranger organization; Ocean Ranger investigations; Ocean Ranger Royal Commission and hearings; Ocean Ranger recommendations; Ocean Ranger public reports; work plans and status reports.

EMR/CGA-100

Offshore Programs

Description: Information on industry activities in the East Coast, Hudson Bay and Hudson Strait, and West Coast areas relating to offshore programs. Topics: Drilling operations on the Scotian Shelf, Grand Banks, Labrador Shelf, Gulf of St. Lawrence, and other offshore and onshore drilling; geophysics including combined geophysical surveys, air and sea magnetometer measurement, gravity, seismic reflection and refraction, shallow seismic measurement, processing and interpretation, and onshore geophysical surveys; geology including combined geological surveys, offshore geological surveys, paleontological/palynological studies (biostratigraphic), geochemistry, petrography (lithology), purchase of geological studies, in-house geological studies and onshore geological surveys; research involving environmental and feasibility studies, physical, biological and socioeconomic studies, engineering feasibility studies and geotechnical research.

EMR/CGA-105

Northern Operations

Description: Information on northern operations in the Yukon Territory, Northwest Territories, Mackenzie Delta, Beaufort Sea, Arctic Islands, Arctic Lowlands and Eastern Arctic Offshore (Baffin Bay, Davis Strait, etc.) areas relating to offshore programs. Topics: Drilling operations on conventional landings; ice platforms; artificial islands; caissons (MAC); jack-up types and floaters; geophysics including combined geophysical surveys; air and sea magnetometer measurement; gravity; seismic reflection and refraction; shallow seismic measurement, processing and interpretation and onshore geophysical surveys; geology including combined geological surveys; offshore geological surveys, paleontological/palynological studies (biostratigraphic); geochemistry; petrography (lithology); purchase of geological studies, in-house geological studies and onshore geological surveys; research involving environmental feasibility studies; physical, biological and socioeconomic studies; engineering feasibility studies and geotechnical research.

EMR/PNA-110

Petroleum Incentives Administration (PIA)

Description: Information relating to administering both the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and the Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act in order to actively contribute to the federal government's energy policy by increasing Canadian ownership and control of the petroleum industry and energy security in Canada. Topics: Committees; conferences; energy issues; oil and gas issues; Petroleum Incentives Administration reports; liaison; interdepartmental, international and provincial liaison.

EMR/PNA-115

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD)

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations to administer the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act. Includes receiving, processing and certifying applications for the Canadian Ownership Rate and Control Status Program. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) corporate information; COCD guidebook; COCD operations; COCD committees; COCD conferences; COCD operations reports; Canadian ownership rate and control status programs (COR/CS); COR/CS documentation; COR/CS certificates; COR/CS guidelines; COR/CS operating procedures.

EMR/PNA-120

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination Policy

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, precedents, and special studies in administering the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and Regulations in order to encourage increased Canadianization of the petroleum industry. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) policy committees; COCD policy conferences; COCD policy reports; COCD Act; COCD Act interpretation; COCD Act qualified applicants; Canadian ownership rate and control status determination; COCD Act applications, certificates and administration; COCD Act disclosure of information; COCD Act regulation making authority; COCD Act enforcement; COCD Act judicial review and transmission provisions; Canadian ownership and control determination regulations; COCD Regulations interpretation and applications; specified Canadian ownership rates; Canadian ownership rates other than specified rates and rates of insurance companies and trust; COCD regulations administration; Canadian ownership rates of insurance companies; Canadian ownership rates of trust; COCD regulations schedules.

EMR/PNA-125

Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP)

Description: Information on the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations related to the provision of the eligible costs and Crown share incentives to applicants. Includes receiving, analyzing and processing company applications for incentive contribution and issuing payments. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP); petroleum incentives committees; petroleum incentives information management system; petroleum incentives research, analysis and forecasting; petroleum incentives operations; petroleum incentives applicant documentation; petroleum incentives processing procedures; petroleum incentives case assessment; petroleum incentives financial payments and controls; petroleum incentives data control and operations; petroleum incentives case control; well and geochemical; geological and geophysical data analysis; quality control and standards; petroleum incentives reviews and audits; reviews and audits standards and practices.

Petroleum Incentives Program Policy
Description: Information relating to development and interpretation of the Petroleum Incentives Program legislation and regulations to increase Canadianization in the petroleum industry and to increase exploration and development in Canada. Includes assessment of case precedents and the development of policy, consistency of application of the PIP Act and Regulations, and the conduct of research, analysis and forecasting of demand in the oil and gas industry. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act; PIP Act interpretation; Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP); PIP administration; PIP disclosure of information; PIP enforcement and general sections; PIP regulations; interpretation of the PIP regulations; interpretation of PIP regulations Part 1 (general) and Part 2 (adjusted eligible cost or expense).

EMR/ECS-140 Formerly Identified as: EMR/ESB-140
Energy Emergency Planning
Description: Information relating to the preparation, testing and maintenance of contingency plans for the control and relation of energy production, distribution and use in an emergency, including the Energy Supplies Allocation Board (ESAB). Topics: Energy emergency planning; International Energy Agency(IEA); allocation systems tests; liaison on energy emergency planning issues; crude oil and petroleum products allocation planning; petroleum products rationing program; Energy Supplies Allocation Board (ESAB); compliance and audit; stand-by organization; National Emergency Agency for Energy (NEAE); departmental emergency planning; federal government emergency planning; North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

EMR/DIP-151
Canadian Exploration Development Incentive Program (New)
Description: Information relating to the Canadian Exploration Development Incentive Program established to encourage exploration and development activities on Canada's lands and offshore areas, including the development of policy and regulations and the determination of the eligibility of individuals and qualified corporations for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area. Topics: Canadian Exploration Development Incentive Program; committees; liaison and industry consultation.

EMR/EPC-161
Energy Policy, Programs and Conservation (New)
Description: Information relating to the overall management of energy policy, programs and conservation activity to establish federal energy policies, strategies and activities and to promote energy conservation and the development of renewable energy resources to meet Canada's energy requirements, with due regard to the economic, social, regional and environmental impact of these policies, strategies and activities, as well as to Canada's international energy relations. Topics: Regional operations delivery of the national conservation and alternative energy initiatives; regional operations liaison with federal economic and development co-ordination on industrial/commercial activities; industrial/commercial activities; publications; promotional activities; transportation/residential energy activities; Management Information System consolidated monthly reports; M.I.S. monthly reports; provincial relations and liaison; regional operations; energy policy, programs and conservation; energy research and development; petroleum energy resources; non-petroleum energy resources; energy policy issues; energy conservation issues; liaison on energy conservation issues; energy policy and conservation committees.

EMR/EPC-166
Energy Conservation (New)
Description: Information relating to the development and implementation of policies and programs to increase energy efficiency in all end-use sectors, in co-operation with the provinces, territories and the private sector, including technology development and transfer, industry development and consumer education. Topics: Energy conservation; policy and co-ordination; home energy programs; new housing; business and government energy management; federal energy management programs; R2000 Super Energy Efficient Housing Program (SEEH); Buildings Energy Technology Transfer (BETT) Program; heatline; regional operations delivery of the federal energy management programs; Enerdemo Program.

EMR/EPC-171
Energy Strategy (New)
Description: Information relating to co-ordination of the review and analysis of policy objectives and instruments and the analysis, development and co-ordination of new policy recommendations. This includes the planning, development and implementation of policies on Canadianization of the petroleum industry, economic analyses of energy initiatives and the evaluation of governmental policies in the uranium and nuclear areas. Topics: Energy strategy; energy policy planning; economic analysis; federal energy planning.

EMR/EPC-176
Financial and Market Analysis (New)
Description: Information relating to the planning, development and maintenance of an effective federal energy taxation and incentive system; the evaluation of the interaction of federal and provincial royalty/taxation and incentive systems; the development of forecasts of energy revenues; and the encouragement of new petroleum incentive projects. Also included are the analysis of new policy recommendations on energy supply/demand and price issues, analysis of the impacts of energy policies on the economy and the development and dissemination of energy statistical databases. Topics: Financial and market analysis; fiscal analysis; energy market analysis; energy statistics.

EMR/EPC-195 Formerly Identified as: EMR/EPS-195
International Energy Relations
Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and advice for the effective management of Canada's energy relations with other countries and international organizations. This includes analysis and advice on international energy issues, policies and developments of interest to Canada. Topics: International energyy relations; energy relations with foreign countries, the United States and international organizations; international relations on Canadian energy.

EMR/EPC-196

Energy Policy Co-ordination (New)

Description: Information relating to the planning and implementation of energy programs and services in support of the Minister's parliamentary functions, including the development and execution of program planning, evaluation and information functions directed towards national energy policy objectives. Topics: Energy policy co-ordination.

EMR/ECS-215 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CNP-215

Electrical Energy

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and policy advice regarding all aspects of electrical energy to effectively and efficiently implement policies relating to electrical energy, provide effective information services to the public and manage the federal government's contribution to the Canadian Electrical Association's (CEA) research and development program. Topics: Electrical organizations and associations; Canadian Electrical Association (CEA); research and development; international electrical energy; electricity exchanges between Canada and the United States; Canadian electrical energy; economics and finance; supply and demand; technology; regional and interprovincial electrical energy; Lower Churchill Electricity Development; Annapolis River Tidal Project; Coleson Cove Conversion Study; Lepreau One nuclear project; Churchill Falls dispute between Quebec and Newfoundland; electrical energy.

EMR/ECS-220 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CNP-220

Uranium and Nuclear Energy

Description: Information relating to the provision of advice and policy formulation in order to ensure that the uranium and nuclear industries make optimal contributions to Canada's economic development by providing a secure and economic source of energy and by realizing export opportunities. Topics: Uranium and nuclear energy; heavy water production; uranium and nuclear industries and Crown corporations; international uranium and nuclear activities; International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA); uranium and nuclear liaison; Canadian Nuclear Energy; nuclear power systems exports; generation; nuclear waste management; uranium and nuclear research and development; uranium resources; exports; foreign ownership of uranium resources; uranium mining; pricing; processing and refining; supply and demand.

EMR/ECS-240 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CNP-240

Transportation Energy

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and advice to encourage the development and adoption of cost effective transportation-energy technologies and alternative fuels through co-operative information and research activities with the private sector in order to ensure that Canada acquires the technical and economic capability to supply future requirements for transportation fuels under varying conditions of oil price and availability. Topics: Transportation energy; transportation fuels; gaseous hydrocarbon; propane and natural gas vehicle development; liquid hydrocarbon fuels; liaison on transportation-energy issues; transportation systems; outreach programs; regional operation delivery of the transportation energy outreach programs; ridesharing; vehicles; exhaust emission standards; Motor Vehicle Fuel Consumption Standards (MVFCS) Program; Government Industry Motor Vehicle Energy Committee (GIMVEC).

EMR/EPC-245 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CNP-245

Renewable Energy

Description: Information relating to the promotion of the orderly development and commercialization of renewable energy technologies through research, development and demonstration, in order to ensure long-term energy supply for Canada. Topics: Renewable energy; Biomass energy sources; bioenergy development program; liaison on renewable energy issues; Solar Energy Development Program (SEDP); solar domestic water heating programs; remote Community Demonstration Program (RCDP); P.E.I. Alternative Energy Development Program (AEDP); Enerdemo Program.

EMR/ECS-291

Energy Commodities (New)

Description: Information relating to the overall management of energy commodities activity to ensure the orderly development and efficient allocation of adequate, secure and cost-effective sources of petroleum, natural gas, uranium and nuclear energy, electricity and transportation fuels to meet Canada's forseeable energy requirements and export opportunities on an economically viable basis, consistent with national energy policy and fiscal and trade goals, and to prepare contingency plans for responding to energy emergencies. Topics: Energy commodities; energy commodity committees; energy commodity legislation and regulations; liaison on energy commodity issues; international liaison on energy commodity issues; provincial liaison on energy commodity issues; energy commodity research and development.

EMR/ECS-295 Formerly Identified as: EMR/PTS-295

Petroleum Resources

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and policy advice for the optimal development of Canada's petroleum resources and to ensure that governmental policies and programs respond to the need for future petroleum supplies. This is done through technical and economic reporting on oil and gas exploration, conventional reserves, enhanced recovery, oil sands and undiscovered resources, drilling and production engineering, management of heavy oil agreements and implementation of related programs. Topics: Petroleum resources; economic analysis of petroleum resources; petroleum resource organizations and associations; environmental impact of petroleum activities; federal and provincial petroleum resource acts and legislation; liaison on petroleum resource issues; liaison with petroleum resource industries; petroleum engineering; petroleum engineering costs and expenditures; ownership of petroleum resources; pricing of petroleum resources; petroleum resource research and development; petroleum reserves; oil reserves; gas reserves; transportation of petroleum; upstream petroleum activities.

EMR/ECS-300

Oil

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and advice regarding the supply, transportation, processing, utilization and pricing of crude oil, petroleum products, gas liquids and petrochemicals to ensure that governmental policies and programs respond to current and future domestic and international market conditions. Topics: Oil; emergency oil inventory; liaison on oil issues; domestic oil; international oil; petroleum utilization; petroleum products marketing; downstream petroleum technology; oil price review and analysis.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY, MINES AND RESOURCES

EMR/ECS-305 Formerly Identified as: EMR/PTS-305

Natural Gas

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and advice on the supply, demand, transmission, distribution, pricing and marketing of Canadian natural gas resources in domestic and export markets in order to ensure that governmental policies and programs support and are responsive to optimal market development, consistent with overall energy, economic and fiscal goals. Topics: Natural gas; organizations and associations; Canada Lands; exports; fiscal regime; industry; international natural gas; natural gas major projects; export pricing; domestic natural gas marketing; pricing; supply and demand; provincial natural gas activities; liquids; market development; transmission and distribution systems expansion.

EMR/GSC-350

Geological Surveys

Description: Information relating to the management of the geological surveys activity to ensure the availability of comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise pertaining to the geology of the Canadian landmass and offshore areas for the identification, exploration and exploitation of Canadian mineral and energy resources. Aspects include studies and research on the earth's surficial deposits, crust and upper mantle. Topics: New technology and international programs; liaison with companies; federal-provincial mineral development agreements — Department of Regional and Industrial Expansion (DRIE); universities & colleges liaison; Geological Survey of Canada field work; research & development; Industrial Research Agreements Program; Program for Industry Laboratory Projects; Panel on Energy Research & Development; Geological Survey unsolicited proposals; Geological Survey Agreements; federal-provincial mineral development agreements (MDA); boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; research projects; ocean mining and research program; oil and gas resources and exploration; liaison with societies; interdepartmental liaison; departmental liaison; international liaison; USSR international liaison; United States international liaison; international liaison — associations and organizations; provincial liaison; geological survey; committees; conferences; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; liaison with institutes; Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) geoscience aid projects.

EMR/GSC-355

Mineral Resources

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of Mineral Resources activities which are to provide scientific and technical support services for Geological Survey of Canada and to maintain a national information base of Canada's non-hydrocarbon mineral resources and deposits. Topics: Regional metallogenic studies; uranium resources information bank; evaluation; rock and mineral information services; national collections; international strategic minerals inventory; mathematical applications in geology; mineral resources; mineral resources — publishing and editing, information systems, special projects; mineral deposits geology; mineralogy and analytical chemistry; regional mineral resource assessments; exploration geophysics instrumentation research and development; radiation geophysics; borehole geophysics; exploration geophysics; special projects; exploration geochemistry; national geochemical reconnaissance surveys; exploration geophysics skyvan aircraft equipment and use.

EMR/GSC-360

Geophysics

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Geophysics Division whose mandate is to ensure the availability of geophysical data, information, technology, standards and expertise concerning the configuration, evolution, structure and dynamic processes of the solid earth and the hazards associated with natural and induced geophysical phenomena. Topics: Geophysics; committees; conferences; Canadian Geoscience Council — liaison; liaison — associations and organizations, institutes, societies, companies; interdepartmental, departmental, international, provincial liaison; liaison — universities and colleges; Geophysics field work; research and development; Industrial Research Agreements Program (IRAP); Program for Industry Laboratory Projects; Panel on Energy Research and Development; Geophysics unsolicited proposals; federal-provincial agreements; federal-provincial mineral development agreements; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Geophysics research projects; ocean mining and research programs; oil and gas resources and exploration; nuclear fuel waste management program; lithosphere studies; seismology; geophysics publications; Canadian siesmograph networks; seismograph network standard stations; eastern Canadian telemetered (SEISMIC) network; western Canadian telemetered (SEISMIC) network; strong-motion seismograph network; Yellowknife geophysical observatory; geoscience of nuclear explosions; geomagnetism; Canadian magnetic observatory network; paleomagnetism; gravity; gravity standards; Canadian gravity standardization network; international gravity standardization network; geodynamics; global dynamics; crustal dynamics; geothermics; aeromagnetics; seismology data centre; earthquake and seismic hazards; meteorite impact processes and studies.

EMR/GSC-365

Geoscience Information

Description Information relating to the management and operations of the Geoscience Information Division whose role is to ensure that the results of the Branch's scientific programs are made available to industry, other government agencies and the general public. Topics: National Geoscan hardware/software operations; geoscience information library technical services; liaison with other libraries; exchange agreements; geoscience information; Geoscience Information — cartography services, editing services, library requests; geoscience information library international exchange agreements, United States exchange agreements, provincial exchange agreements; national geoscan; federal/provincial contributing agencies; publication production; publication services; technical photography services; technical information collection.

EMR/GSC-370

Lithosphere and Canadian Shield

Description: Information relating to management and operations of the Lithosphere and Canadian Shield Division activities ensuring the availability of comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise on the bedrock geology and mineral resources of the Canadian Precambrian Shield, and also plutonic and igneous rocks in Atlantic Canada. Topics: Petrology; lithosphere and Canadian Shield; publishing and editing; geochronology; paleomagnetism.

EMR/GSC-380

Terrain Sciences

Description: Information of a general nature relating to the management and operations of Terrain Sciences activities to ensure the availability of comprehensive knowledge and expertise on surficial materials, natural terrain hazards, and the capabilities of the terrain to support human activities. Topics: Quaternary environments; paleoecolocy and radiocarbon laboratories; sedimentology research; terrain sciences; environmental studies, publishing and editing; nuclear fuel waste management program, committees, external involvement, EMR/AECL co-ordinating program; terrain dynamics; terrain dynamics — permafrost research; geothermics; geothermal energy.

EMR/GSC-385
Atlantic Geoscience Centre (AGC)
Description: Information relating to management and operations of Atlantic Geoscience activities to ensure a comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise on the geology of the Atlantic and Arctic offshore regions of Canada and the sedimentary basins of the Appalachian region not filed elsewhere by specific subject. Topics: Environmental marine geology; Atlantic Geoscience publications — cartography; oil and gas resources and exploration; Program for Industry Laboratory Projects (PILP); Atlantic Geoscience surveys; United States international liaison; USSR international liaison; eastern petroleum geology; liaison — universities and colleges; Atlantic Geoscience field work; provincial liaison; international liaison; departmental liaison; interdepartmental liaison; liaison — companies, societies, institutes, associations and organizations; conferences; committees; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; Atlantic Geoscience Centre (AGC); liaison; research and development; Panel on Energy Research and Development; Atlantic Geoscience unsolicited proposals; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Atlantic Geoscience research projects; ocean mining and research; Atlantic Geoscience publications.

EMR/GSC-390
Cordilleran and Pacific Margin
Description: Information relating to management and operations of the Cordilleran and Pacific Margin Geology activities to increase the knowledge of the composition, age, distribution and origin of regionally mappable rock units to better access the mineral and hydrocarbon potential in Canadian Cordillera and adjacent offshore regions not filed elsewhere by specific subject. Topics: Juan de Fuca geoscience studes; liaison — companies; research and development; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin library; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin unsolicited proposals; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; field work; universities and colleges liaison; liaison — provincial, international, departmental, interdepartmental, societies, institutes, associations and organizations; conferences; committees; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin research projects; publications; marine geology.

EMR/GSC-395
Sedimentary and Petroleum Geology
*Description:*Information relating to the overall activities, management and operations associated with the sedimentary and petroleum geology activity which specifically entails the provision of a geological knowledge base for Canada and arctic sedimentary basins. *Topics:*Oil and gas resources and exploration; sedimentary and petroleum geology publications — cartography, books; industrial research agreements program; regional geology- curation and technical services, mainland, arctic islands; paleontology; frontier energy geoscience program; federal-provincial agreements; sedimentary and petroleum geology unsolicited proposals; field work; liaison — associations and organizations, companies, societies, institutes, Canadian Geoscience Council, universities and colleges; conferences; sedimentary and petroleum geology; committees; interdepartmental liaison; departmental liaison; international liaison; provincial liaison; research and development (R&D); Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); research grants; federal-provincial mineral development agreements; boundary disputes; sedimentary and petroleum geology research projects; ocean mining and research; coal geology; petroleum geology; petroleum geology — geochemistry, petroleum geology — resources; petroleum resources appraisal secretariat; calibration testing and facilities.

EMR/SMR-400 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-400
Surveys and Mapping
Description: Information relating to management of the Surveys and Mapping activity to ensure geodetic, topographic and selected geographic information required for effective resource management, land use and demarcation, engineering works, urban development, transportation, defence and public safety. The program includes a national network of horizontal and vertical positional reference monuments; topographical and geographical information on the Canadian landmass; preparation, publication and distribution of maps, charts, publications, aerial photographs, gazetteers, and the National Atlas of Canada; boundary and property surveys on federal land and international boundaries. Topics: Surveys and mapping associations; organizations; committees and conferences; liaison; projects; research and development.

EMR/SMR-405 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-405
Canada Lands Surveying
Description: Information relating to management and regulation of all surveys carried out in Canada Lands, as stipulated in the Canada Lands Surveys Act. Canada Lands include all land in the Yukon and Northwest Territories that is not privately owned, Indian Reserves, national parks and the lands offshore. Topics: Board of examiners for Canada Lands surveyors; survey contracts; co-ordinated survey areas; boundary surveys; electoral districts legal surveys; federal government surveys; Indian reserves; legal survey monument co-ordinate file; national and historical parks and sites; offshore surveys; survey information procedures; survey records; territories surveys; territorial resources base mapping; mining surveys; rights of way; settlement site surveys.

EMR/SMR-408
Geographical Information (New)
Description: Information relating to the acquisition and generation of geographical information and knowledge on Canada comprising scientific and scholarly research and surveys on the geography of Canada and the cartographic design, compilation, preparation and completion of maps, publications, computerized information and display systems containing the results of geographical investigations. Topics: National atlas information system — liaison; information services, systems - development; physical geography research; human geography research; historical geography research economic geography research; national toponymic database; Gazetteers of Canada; Canadian permanent committee on geographical names; geographical names organizations; aeronautical charts planning and development; aeronautical charts automated system; physical geography; human geography; historical geography; economic geography; geographical research; international map of the world; cartographic services; geographical mapping; Canadian permanent committee on geographical names; geographical terminology;

historical information and publications; decisions, proposals and enquiries; liaison; principles and policies; Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names (CPCGN); Visual Flight Rules (VFR) products; Instrument Flight Rules (IFR) products; flight information; aeronautical charting; geographical information — liason, services, contracts, committees.

EMR/SMR-410 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-410
Geodesy
Description: Information relating to the creation and maintenance of a national geodetic survey network, which is fundamental to all forms of surveying. Aspects of geodetic information include measurements of latitude, longitude, elevation, geometry of the earth's surface and its physical anomalities. Topics: Geodesy committees; global positioning system; liaison; projects; geodetic information; data analysis and adjustment; data services; secondary integration; field surveys; inertical survey system (ISS); primary horizontal control; primary vertical control; satellite doppler; secondary control; research and development.

EMR/SMR-420 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-420
Map Publishing
Description: Information relating to the publication of maps, aeronautical charts, air photographs and related publications, and the maintenance of an adequate supply of these materials for sale to governments, industry and the public through a national network of dealers in the private sector. Topics: Associations; committees; liaison; aerial photographic services; National Air Photo Library; map distribution; map reproduction; map marketing.

EMR/SMR-425 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-425
International Boundary
Description: Information relating to maintenance and regulation of the land and water boundary between Canada and the United States. Aspects include positioning of boundary line points, settlement of disputes and jurisdictional questions, regulation of construction and removal of boundary obstructions. Topics: Canadian boundary; boundary regulation; field operations; liaison; geographical co-ordinates; reports; United States boundary.

EMR/SMR-430 Formerly Identified as: EMR/SMB-430
Topographical Mapping
Description: Information relating to mapping of the Canadian landmass in detail, showing relief elevation, lakes, rivers, roads, buildings, airports and canals, including names of features and places. Topics: Aerial survey database; associations; committees; contract mapping; digital mapping; nomenclature and toponomy; cartographic monitor system; Gestalt photo mapper; national digital topographic mapping standards; new mapping; remote sensing; research development; revisions mapping; standards and specifications; survey control; air profile recorder; photo identification.

EMR/GSC-435 Formerly Identified as: EMR/PSP-435
Polar Continental Shelf Project
Description: Information relating to management and functions of the Polar Continental Shelf Project. Includes the study of scientific problems unique to Arctic Canada, provision of co-ordinated logistic support to public and private sector groups, provision of information on scientific operations to the scientific community and local inhabitants. Topics: Appreciation for support and services; associations and organizations; scientific committees; communications; photography; conferences; expeditions; information services; liaison; research agreements; unsolicited proposals.

EMR/GSC-440 Formerly Identified as: EMR/PSP-440
Arctic Science
Description: Information relating to scientific investigations of Canada's Polar Continental Shelf, Arctic Ocean and mainland region in maintaining effective policies, and co-ordination of scientific activities relating to Arctic paleoclimate and climate forecasting. Topics: Climatology; glacier physics.

EMR/GSC-445 Formerly Identified as: EMR/PSP-445
Logistical Support
Description: Information relating to provision and co-ordination of annual logistical support by the Polar Continental Shelf Project for field parties from federal departments, foreign governments and their agencies, Canadian and foreign universities and groups from the private sector. Includes such aspects as safety, living and working conditions, transportation, equipment and communications. Topics: Base camp operations; land use permits; field activities; fuel issues; procurement; aircraft procurement; materiel procurement; scientific services; vehicles; radio and navigation systems frequencies.

EMR/MET-450 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CAB-450
Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology
Description: Information relating to the co-ordination, promotion and administration of research and development activities in the explosives, energy and minerals field. Topics: Associations and organizations; committees; conferences; environmental issues; industrial and economic analysis; inventions, patents, copyrights; Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); program management; contracts administration; project selection; project monitoring and review; liaison; international liaison; research and development programs; technical information; electronic data systems; energy issues; international energy; metallurgy; mineral processing; mining; publications; technical services; technology evaluation; technology transfer.

EMR/MET-455 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CAB-455
Canada Explosives Act Administration
Description: Information relating to administration of the Canada Explosives Act by testing and confirming the new explosives submitted for authorization, providing technical advice and investigating accidents. Topics: Liaison; testing and research; international liaison; certification and technical advice; research and development of new technical standards.

EMR/MET-460 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CAB-460
Energy Technology
Description: Information relating to energy research and development to ensure the availability to Canada of adequate technology for the extraction, processing, use and conservation of energy resources, such as oil, gas, coal and uranium. Topics: Coal: carbonization; coal-liquid mixtures; combustion technologies for pollution abatement; conventional combustion; co-processing; co-processing pilot plant; fine coal beneficiation; fluidized-bed combustion; gasification; liquefaction processes; materials for utilization and conversion; mine atmospheres; mining; novel liquefaction and pyrolysis; preparation techniques; international and provincial liaison; reserve assessment; safety certification of equipment; strata mechanics; conservation: industrial processes; industrial mineral processes; plasma technology; road vehicle fuel economy; residential heating systems; nuclear:

geomechanics in nuclear waste disposal; uranium extraction; alternate and conventional uranium extraction; uranium mine evaluation; uranium reserve assessment; petroleum supply: treatment of bitumen/oil emulsions and effluent waters; catalytic refining to transportation fuels; characterization of synthetic crudes and distillates; disposable catalysts; extraction of bitumen from oil sands; hydrocracking; in-situ recovery of bitumen and heavy oil; materials for hydrocarbon processing; tar sands; materials for offshore structures; materials for oil and gas pipelines; conversion of natural gas to liquid fuels; separation processes for synthetic fuels; thermal oil shale/catalytic residium conversion; renewable energy technology: biomass; materials for advanced energy conversion; photo-electrochemical cells; liaison; wood-fired residential heating.

Minerals Technology
Description: Information relating to mineral resource policies and the support and monitoring of research and development in the minerals field in order to ensure the availability to Canada of adequate technology for the extraction, processing, use and conservation of mineral resources. Topics: Mineral technology; cost recovery; conservation and resource assessment; environmental technology for mining and processing; pollution control in industrial processes; uranium tailings technology; research and development in health and safety in the mine environment; noise and vibration in mines; materials development technology: advanced materials and instrumentation; failure control of materials; non-metallic minerals; aggregate technology; properties of engineering alloys; metals processing; transportation materials; heat-treated rail; marine materials; naval materials; metal casting; degradable sand and core binders; improved iron melting practice; low pressure mould casting, mobile foundry laboratory; ultra-clean steels; metal working; welding; mineral processing; by-product recovery of valuable metals; silver recovery in the zinc industry; metal extraction from concentrates or residues; hydrometallurgical lead process; microbiological leaching; mineral beneficiation; iron ore processing; mineral processing plant simulation; mining methods and equipment; rock mechanics; standards and specifications in analytical methods; chemical standards; materials testing; certification of non-destructive personnel; technology transfer.

EMR/SMR-470 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-470
Canada Centre for Remote Sensing
Description: Information relating to co-ordination and administration of research and development activities to improve remote sensing technology and facilitate the acquisition, dissemination and analysis of remotely sensed data from aircraft and satellites for resource management and environmental monitoring. Topics: Associations; committees; Canadian Advisory Committee on Remote Sensing; conferences; program management; provincial and international liaison; National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA); research and development programs.

EMR/SMR-475 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-475
Air Operations
Description: Information relating to utilization, operations, maintenance and calibration of aircraft and of electrical and electronic equipment engaged in remote sensing activities. Topics: Airborne data acquisition; aircraft operations and maintenance; aircraft systems support.

EMR/SMR-480 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-480
Automated Systems and Methods
Description: Information relating to research and development in computer systems and methods for the processing, analyzing and storing of remotely sensed data acquired from satellites and airborne platforms and the provision of technical assistance and advice for hardware procurement and software development. Also includes the provision and operation of facilities for processing satellite and airborne remotely sensed data. Topics: Synthetic aperture radar digital processor; digital storage technologies; the Digital Image Correction System; image analysis systems; visible infrared spectroscopy; image processing systems; instrumentation laboratory; National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) satellite systems; Digital Image Analysis system; Multi-Observation Satellite Image Correction system; standard computer compatible tape format.

EMR/SMR-485 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-485
Data Applications
Description: Information relating to research and development in remote sensing information extraction techniques and the development and demonstration of applications of remotely sensed data to resource management and environmental monitoring problems. Topics: Applications development and demonstration; agriculture; forestry; geology and cartography; hydrology.

EMR/SMR-490 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-490
Data Application Services
Description: Information relating to provision of analysis facilities, and information and advisory services to assist users in applying remote sensing technologies. Topics: Marketing; image analysis services; library services; publications; transfer of remote sensing technologies to industry; technology enhancement program.

EMR/SMR-495 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-495
Radarsat
Description: Information relating to Radarsat projects for the development of a radar satellite capable of supplying sea ice information; research and development in spaceborne radar technologies; administration and co-ordination of the Radarsat projects. Topics: Economic studies; concept design studies; mission (user) requirements; technology development; spaceborn synthetic aperture radar; scientific liaison.

EMR/SMR-500 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-500
Satellite Data
Description: Information relating to the Satellite Data sub-activity ensuring the availability of data from satellites. Aspects include satellite operations and products, the acquisition of data, and research and development of new remote sensing techniques. Topics: European Space Agency (ESA) ERS-1 satellite program; National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Landsat satellites; Landsat products; National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Landsat-D satellites; Landsat-D receiving stations upgrade; receiving stations; NASA seasat and sursat program and projects; Satellite pour l'Observation de la Terre (SPOT).

EMR/SMR-505 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RSB-505
Sensors Research and Development
Description: Information relating to development and evaluation of new and novel remote sensors for use from airborne and satellite platforms. Topics: Airborne sensors; airborne laser sensors; microwave radiometer and scatterometer; visible and infrared sensors.

EMR/MET-510 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-510
Explosives
Description: Information relating to administration of the Canada Explosives Act, in the interest of public and worker safety throughout Canada through the manufacture, storage, sale, transportation and use of explosives and the co-ordination of testing of explosives by the Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology. Topics: Committees; interdepartmental, provincial and international liaison; model rocketry; explosives types and classification.

EMR/MET-515 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-515
Authorization and Testing of Explosives
Description: Information relating to the co-ordination of testing and authorization by the Canadian Explosives Research Laboratory of explosives which are imported, sold or used in Canada. Topics: Explosives Act and Regulations; fireworks; incidents; accidents.

EMR/MET-520 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-520
Manufacturing and Production
Description: Information relating to the manufacture and production of all types of explosives. Aspects include safety certificates; information on companies producing or manufacturing explosives. Topics: Manfacturing; production; safety certificates; factory sites.

EMR/MET-525 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-525
Safety Standards
Description: Information relating to policy development and management of safety standards for explosives. Topics: Equipment; magazines; packaging, labelling and marking; transportation.

EMR/MET-530 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-530
Licences
Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries regarding licences and preparation of forms for explosive licenses. Topics: Factories; fireworks magazines; magazines; temporary magazines.

EMR/MET-535 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-530
Permissions
Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries and preparation of forms for explosives permissions. Also includes two-components permissions. Topics: Ammonium nitrate, fuel oil permissions; re-loading ammunition permissions.

EMR/MET-540 Formerly Identified as: EMR/XPB-540
Permits
Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries and preparation of forms for explosives permits. Topics: Annual importation permits; general importation permits; transportation permits.

EMR/MET-545 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RDO-545
Energy Research and Development
Description: Information relating to development of research and development policies to ensure that Canada has the necessary research capabilities to support national energy strategies. Topics: Coal research and technology; provincial coal policy; international research and development; IEA Committee on Energy Research and Development; provincial activities; the Alberta Canada Energy Resources Research Fund (ACERRF); federal-provincial demonstration agreements; industrial research and development.

EMR/MET-550 Formerly Identified as: EMR/RDO-550
Energy Research and Development Tasks and Programs
Description: Information relating to the development and implementation of plans for research and development activity in response to energy research policy and strategy, and to the coordination and administration of the interdepartmental research and development program. It includes the management and allocation of resources for projects that will help achieve and sustain domestic energy self sufficiency. Topics: The Inter-departmental Panel on Energy Research and Development; energy research and development tasks and programs; proposals for funding; Office of Energy Research and Development (OERD); generic environment program; the Laval University Green Program; conservation task; Industrial Energy Conservation Research and Development Program; industrial conservation; new process technologies; conservation in the agriculture and food sector; conservation in building; conservation in transportation; energy systems; district heating and cogeneration; industrial energy recovery and reuse; oil and coal task; oil sands and heavy oil; coal supply; coal combustion; oil and coal environmental issues; nuclear energy task; nuclear fission and fusion; fuel resource base; nuclear energy utilization and support; nuclear fusion; renewable energy sources task; hydraulics; solar; bioenergy; wind; geothermal; peat; new liquid fuels task; direct liquefaction; gasification; biological processes; fuels processing; fuel use; hydrogen and energy storage; new liquid fuels and environment; conventional energy systems; geoscientific research and development; marine engineering; offshore geotechnics; enhanced recovery; materials for offshore structures; oil and gas transportation; conventional energy systems and environment; electric research and development.

EMR/MPS-555
Mineral Policy
Description: Information relating to mineral development activities for the establishment, promotion and assessment of impacts of mineral policies and strategies and the provision of advice to senior officials on the implications of international mineral development. Topics; Environmental issues; mineral policy operations — personnel issues; mineral policy liaison — provincial; mineral policy liaison — interdepartmental; Mining Association of Canada (MAC); conferences; committees; mineral policy; associations and organizations; earth sciences; mineral policy liaison; mineral policy sector operations; research agreements program.

EMR/MPS-560
Mineral Economic Analysis
Description: Information relating to the assessment of economic and fiscal factors affecting the competitiveness of Canadian minerals and metals industry. Topics: Mineral economic analysis; associations and organizatons; contracts; data systems; economic prospects; federal policy analysis; federal micro policy analysis; financial and corporate analysis; financial and corporate analysis of mining companies; mining costs; mineral industry forecasting; foreign country economics; foreign ownership; mining equipment; mine and profitability models; taxation models; mining project analysis; non-ferrous smelter study project analysis; Queen's Centre for Resource Studies; regional economic analysis; tax policy analysis; federal tax policy analysis; federal income tax policy analysis; foreign tax policy analysis; provincial tax policy analysis.

EMR/MPS-565
Human Affairs in the Mining Industry
Description: Information relating to the analysis and development of strategies and programs in order to ensure the availability of human resources and enhance the quality of work life in mining communities. Topics: Mining community remote area development; human affairs in the mining industry; human affairs liaison; trade unions liaison; health and safety in metals and minerals; minerals and metals job creation programs; minerals and metals labour markets and issues.

EMR/MPS-570
Minerals and Metal Information Services
Description: Information relating to the production, distribution, management and operation of minerals and metals information services. Topics: Mineral and metal information services, corporation information; information requests; mineral statistics; information requests mineral statistics; mineral statistics — provincial relations; mineral and metal survey program; annual mineral and metal surveys; census of mines, quarries and sand pits annual surveys; lightweight aggregates annual surveys; mineral and metal operators annual surveys; monthly mineral and metal surveys; production of mineral commodities monthly surveys; national mineral inventory; minerals and metals publications.

EMR/MPS-575
International Mineral Relations
Description: Information relating to bilateral and multilateral mineral relations, discussions and negotiations. Topics: International mineral relations; international mineral conferences, meetings and seminars; domestic associations and organizations; international mineral relations interdepartmental liaison; international organizations; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); United Nations; United Nations Committee on Trade and Development (UNCTAD); United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS); mineral trade analysis; mineral tariff structure analysis; foreign countries mineral profiles; African countries mineral profiles; Asian and pacific countries mineral profiles; Caribbean countries mineral profiles; East European countries mineral profiles; Latin American countries mineral profiles; Middle Eastern countries mineral profiles; United States of America mineral profile; Union of Soviet Socialist Republic mineral profile; West European countries mineral profiles; United Nations Committee on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) Committee on Tungsten (COT); domestic mineral conferences, meetings and seminars; Korea mineral profile; General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT); General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) Tokyo Round; South Africa mineral profile; world mineral notes; North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO); Japan mineral profile; Japan international mineral relations; Australia mineral profile; China mineral profile; European Economic Community (EEC); Romania mineral profile; France mineral profile; Federal Republic of Germany (FRG) mineral profile.

EMR/MPS-580
Minerals and Metals Commodities
Description: Information relating to the assessment and analysis of domestic and foreign mineral and metal commodities for the development and promotion of policies and programs. Aspects include annual and monthly mining and mineral surveys. Topics: Mineral and metal commodities; minerals and metals transportation; industrial commodities; domestic industrial commodities; industrial commodities committees, associations and organizations; Baie Verte Mining Corporation; Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy (CIM); industrial commodities information requests.

EMR/MPS-581
Ferrous Commodities (New)
Description: Information relating to ferrous commodities in order to assess and analyze Canadian and world supply, demand, development and production. Aspects include development of ferrous commodity strategies, private sector liaison, domestic and international commodity-specific committees and commodity-oriented projects and studies. Topics: U.S. coal environmental issues; rare earths; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Steel Committee; European Economic Communities (EEC) Iron and Steel; U.S. iron and steel; Latin American countries iron ore; European countries iron ore; Australia iron ore; Asian and Pacific countries iron ore; African countries iron ore; Quebec Task Force on Iron Ore; shipping of iron ore; transportation of iron ore in the Great Lakes/St. Lawrence Seaway System; direct reduction of iron ore; agglomeration of iron ore; United Nations Economic Commission for Europe Steel committee; coal utilization; transportation of coal; coal resources; coal research and development; Canadian Electrical Association research and development; coal; ferrous commodities; iron ore; iron and steel; Coal Association of Canada; CEA Generation Research and Development Committee; CEA Advisory Panel on Flue Gas Desulphurization (FGD); ferrous commodities information requests; OECD International Energy Agency.

EMR/MPS-582
Non Ferrous Commodities (New)
Description: Information relating to the overall analysis and assessment of non ferrous commodities supply, demand, development and production. Topics: Lead policies; lead demand; lead prices; lead marketing; United Nations Conference on Nickel; International Nickel Company of Canada (INCO); domestic nickel mining; provincial negotiations; non ferrous commodities; non-ferrous smelter modernization/pollution; abatement program; company negotiations; Intergovernmental Nickel Discussion Group (INDG); precious metals; zinc uses; Emergency Gold Mining Assistance (EGMA); copper supply; aluminium uses; copper trade policy; non-ferrous commodities information requests.

EMR/MPS-585
Regional Mineral Development
Description: Information relating to the regional mineral development strategies and policies in order to contribute to the mineral economic development of Canadian regions. Topics: Nova Scotia Mineral Investment Stimulation Program (MISP); Northern Land use planning; Saskatchewan planning agreement; Co-operative Mineral Development Programs; regional analysis; northern development; northern development — native land claims; infrastructure; regional mineral development; regional mineral development liaison; federal regional programs; mineral development agreements (MDA); regional mineral land use; regional mineral ecological issues.

EMR/MPS-590
Resource Supply Analysis
Description: Information relating to the analysis of mineral resource supply to ensure adequate supplies of minerals and metals for Canada. Topics: Canadian resource supply research and development; resource supply analysis; Canadian resource supply; exploration activity survey; mine monitoring liaison; surveys and analysis; reserves; foreign mineral supply; import dependence of strategic minerals; international strategic minerals inventory; ocean minerals; emergency planning and stockpiling, supply shortages; import studies on strategic minerals; geological information and mineral discoveries; mining exploration expenditures and mineral economy.

EMR/CPC-605 Formerly Identified as: EMR/CPE-605
Corporate Policies Evaluation
Description: Information relating to the direction and co-ordination of federal and departmental program objectives, to the achievement of federal goals by pursuing the departmental mission and to the management of allocated resources. Specific activities include departmental management and support, corporate planning, program evaluation and internal audit. Topics: Corporate policies evaluation; management consulting services; management consulting services projects; internal audit; internal audit methodology; Auditor General audits; Treasury Board Comptroller General; co-operative audits; exclusive audits; follow-up audits; strategic planning; A-Base Review; Finance and Administration Sector A-Base Review; Personnel and Management Practices Sector A-Base Review; Energy Sector A-Base Review; Mineral Policy Sector A-Base Review; Research and Technology Sector A-base Review; Earth Sciences Sector A-Base Review; management accountability and control; program activity structure; program planning; strategic planning; strategic overview; program long-term plans; activity approval documents and reviews; operational work plans; program evaluation; departmental program evaluation; co-ordination and liaison; co-ordination of cabinet documents; co-ordination of cabinet committee briefings; co-ordination of Cabinet Committee on Economic and Regional Development (CCERD) briefings; co-ordination of Cabinet Committee on Priorities and Planning briefings; co-ordination and liaison with departmental organizations; co-ordination and liaison with other departments and agencies; co-ordination and liaison on provincial issues; co-ordination and liaison on provincial issues — cases; co-ordination of background material for briefings.

EMR/CPC-610 Formerly Identified as: EMR/EVA-060
Environmental Affairs
Description: Information relating to the co-ordination of departmental participation in environmental assessment review. Includes advice and recommendations to senior management on environmental matters as they pertain to Energy and Mineral policy. Topics: Associations and organizations; environmental conferences; liaison; environmental committees; air emissions; acid rain; lead in gasoline issues; long range transport of air pollutants; Arctic environmental issues; climatic issues; energy research and development; energy sources; environmental assessment and review process; mineral industry issues; nuclear issues.

EMR/CPC-620 Formerly Identified as: EMR/COM-620
Communications
Description: Information relating to the provision of communications and public relations services to all departmental sectors, including marketing services, the analysis of public information requirements, the supply of information to the media and the arranging of exhibitions. Topics: Communications; exhibitions and displays; quality of service to the public; biographies; briefings; distribution of information; requests for publications and general information; photography; audio visual services and media relations; press clippings and articles; departmental press releases and newsletters; non-departmental press releases and newsletters; departmental speeches and addressed; non-deparmmental speeches and addresses; public information programs; earth sciences public information programs; Geos Publication; publishing and publications; energy conservation and renewables publications;advertising; conservation and non-petroleum sector advertising.

EMR/HRS-650
Human Resources Management
Description: Information relating to the development of human resources policies and programs to deliver personnel management services to all departmental employees in order to meet the current and future personnel management needs of the Department. Activities include the provision of complete and comprehensive services in the areas of staffing, organization and classification, pay and benefits, counselling services, staff relations, human resources planning, training and development, affirmative action and official languages. Topics: Human resources management.

EMR/HRS-655
Personnel Program Operations (New)
Description: Information relating to the provision of personnel administrative services and programs and to the provision of personnel advice to management and employees of the Department. Aspects include information relating to training and development, official languages, personnel management information systems and services, staffing, classification and organization, staff relations, compensation and benefits program, work force adjustment, and employee assistance and counselling. Topics: Departmental training; long-term training; Treasury Board Secretariat — Training; Public Service Commission — training; non-departmental training; investigations; harrassment; Personnel Management Information Systems and Services (PMISS); Central Agency Human Resources Systems; Human Resources Systems Development; Human Resources Sector Systems; Personnel Administrative and Reporting System; Operational Tracking System (OTS); Incentives Awards Program; Suggestion Awards Program; Merit Awards Program; staffing; Student Employment Programs; special employment programs; staffing actions; staffing resources training and development; staffing selection standards; monitoring and review; appeals; employment; transfers; competitions; National Joint Council; collective bargaining; managerial and confidential exclusions; grievances; Employee Assistance Program; unions; strikes and work stoppages; disciplinary action; hours of work and overtime; pay and benefits; superannuation; performance pay plan; scientific research pay plan; senior merit pay plan; pension plans; insurance; income tax; garnishment of pay; work force adjustment; unemployment insurance; staff relations.

EMR/HRS-660
Management Category and Human Resources Planning Programs (New)
Description: Information relating to the co-ordination of personnel services for the Management Category and the development of departmental policies and procedures for the improved management of human resources to achieve equitable representation in the employment of women, handicapped, and other minorities, including the development of official languages policy and programs on services to the public, language of work, and equitable representation of anglophones and francophones, and the delivery of classification services to management. Topics: Management category and human resources planning programs; affirmative action; human resources planning; management category personnel; senior management inventory system; downsizing senior management positions; classification and organization.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of the Environment officially came into being on June 11, 1971, following proclamation of the Government Organization Act, 1970. The Government Organization Act (1979) reorganized the Department of the Environment, adding Parks to it.

Responsibilities

The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the Department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment and ensures the preservation of nationally significant natural and cultural heritages.

Legislation

- Ambient Air Quality Objectives, Nos. 1 and 2
- Asbestos Mining and Milling National Emissions Standards Regulations
- Canada Water Act
- Canada Wildlife Act
- Chlor-Alkali Mercury National Emissions Standards Regulations
- Chlor-Alkali Mercury Liquid Effluent Regulations
- Clean Air Act
- Department of Transport Act
- Environmental Contaminants Act
- Fisheries Act
- Fuels Information Regulations
- Game Export Act
- Government Organization Act
- Heritage Canals Regulations
- Historic Sites and Monuments Act
- International River Improvements Act
- International River Improvements Regulations
- Leaded Gas Regulations
- Lead-Free Gasoline Regulations
- Meat and Poultry Liquid Effluent Regulations
- Metal Mining Liquid Effluent Regulations
- Metallurgical Industries Arsenic Information Regulations
- Metallurgical Industries Mercury Information Regulations
- Migratory Birds Sanctuary Regulations
- Migratory Birds Convention Act
- Migratory Birds Regulations
- National Battlefield Act of Quebec
- National Parks Regulations
- Ocean Dumping Control Act and Regulations
- Parks Policy
- Phosphorus Concentration Control Regulations
- Potato Processing Liquid Effluent Regulations
- Pulp and Paper Effluent Regulations
- Secondary Lead Smelter National Emissions Standards Regulations
- The Lake of the Woods Control Board Act, 1921
- Vinyl Chloride National Emissions Standards Regulations
- Weather Modification Information Act and Regulations
- Wildlife Area Regulations

Organizational Units and their Role

Parks

The Parks Program Management Directorate is responsible for the overall management of program planning and evaluation functions; the preparation of multi-year forecasts and estimates; the development and implementation of policies, programs and standards related to general administration, information services, liaison and co-operation at the national and international level; marketing management consultation; reviews and audits; socio-economic research; townsite management; realty policy and engineering and architectural activities.

The Realty Services Branch provides direction and guidance on the management of real property administered by Parks. It administers leases, licences, agreements, rentals, acquisitions, disposals and titles.

The Socio-economic Branch provides advice and research to the Parks program; maintains a research data accumulation and analysis capacity; and develops research methods to meet recurring Parks Program needs and to maintain a socio-economic information program.

The Marketing Branch provides strategic orientation and corporate direction to the marketing function throughout the Parks Program; develops and implements comprehensive national Market Plans, and manages the Marketing Management Process. It also monitors progress against Market Plans and develops and directs program marketing strategies accordingly.

The Engineering and Architecture Branch is responsible for establishing technical policies, standards and guidelines for engineering and architectural services and for providing direction and support to the Parks program in historic restoration, engineering, building and landscape architecture. This includes the development of comprehensive systems to effectively manage Parks' contemporary and historical physical assets.

The National Parks Directorate is responsible for the development and operation of a system of national parks which protect significant natural areas, the development of a system of natural landmarks, the development of co-operative heritage areas through federal-provincial agreements, participation in the Canadian Heritage Rivers System, and the development of the Canadian Heritage Trail System in co-operation with the provinces/territories. The Directorate is also responsible for the development and implementation of policies, procedures and legislation for planning and managing these systems to enable their use and enjoyment by the public.

The National Historic Parks and Sites Directorate is concerned with the preservation, development, maintenance, operation and interpretation of national historic parks and sites and heritage buildings and canals. The activities of the Directorate include archaeological, historical and architectural research; interpretation through live animation, exhibits, films and slide programs; conservation of artifacts and provision of curatorial services for period furniture, costumes and apparel.

The National Battlefields Commission is a Crown corporation responsible for the preservation, management and operations of the national battlefields in Quebec. It is funded through the annual appropriations of the Department of the Environment and is responsible to Parliament through the Minister of the Department.

Conservation and Protection

The Policy and Program Development Directorate develops and implements national environmental conservation and protection policies and strategies, evaluates and controls the effectiveness and efficiency of Conservation and Protection programs; and develops, implements and co-ordinates integrated Department-wide programs.

The Canadian Wildlife Service has responsibility for the management and protection of migratory birds in co-operation with the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior, and other foreign governments.

The Program, Marketing and Operational Services Branch is responsible for the administration of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES), the secretariat of the Committee on the Status of Endangered Wildlife in Canada (COSEWIC), and co-ordination of the Department of the Environment's program on humane trapping systems.

The Migratory Birds and Wildlife Conservation Branch is responsible for population and habitat enhancement of migratory birds, the enforcement and co-ordination of regulations under the Migratory Birds Convention Act and Canada Wildlife Act, and for endangered species recovery plans and transboundary wildlife.

The Wildlife Toxicology and Surveys Branch is responsible for migratory bird surveys, research on effects of toxic chemicals on wildfife, and management and interpretation of a national data base of chemical residues in wildlife.

The Inland Waters/Lands unit plans and formulates water management programs and policies, especially in international and interjurisdictional water systems. It implements flood damage reduction programs with the provinces under the provisions of the Canada Water Act. It conducts research and data collection programs on the quantity and quality of Canada's inland waters. The research is carried out at the National Water Research Institute in Burlington and at the National Hydrology Research Institute in Saskatoon, in order to provide expert advice on water issues of national significance. Inland Waters/Lands encourages effective land use planning by both provincial and federal governments through land inventory and land use planning studies.

The Environmental Protection Program Directorate is responsible for protecting the quality of the environment through the prevention or reduction of the harmful effects of pollutants on health and the environment. The Directorate develops and implements regulations and guidelines, and consults with and provides environmental advice to other federal departments, provincial governments, industry, and non-government organizations.

The Industrial Programs Branch provides a centralized knowledge base for minimizing the adverse environmental impacts of industrial activity. The Branch is responsible for conducting and co-ordinating studies, developing and promoting preventive and remedial measures for sectoral environmental problems, and assessing the cost effectiveness of environmental protection measures.

The Commercial Chemicals Branch develops and implements regulatory and non-regulatory approaches to controlling the manufacture and marketing of new chemicals, including the design and administration of enforcement and compliance policies and strategies. It is also responsible for the evaluation and assessment of pest control products, new chemicals and chemical releases, and the administration of a chemical notification process.

The Technology Development and Technical Services Branch promotes and undertakes development, demonstration, and transfer of environmental technology to enable cost effective attainment of improved environmental quality. It also provides technical services, primarily involving pollution measurement, and develops training materials to promote environmental protection.

The Environmental Analysis Branch reports on the state of the Canadian environment, develops and provides information on the sources and releases of pollutants, performs socio-economic analyses in support of regulations and other intervention strategies, and documents and communicates the environment-economy linkage.

The Management and Emergencies Branch manages the planning and implementation of environmental protection programs in general (such as environment assesment, compliance and enforcement) and is responsible for specific programs, including ocean dumping and environmental emergencies.

Atmospheric Environment Service

The Atmospheric Research Directorate is responsible for the management of atmospheric and related environmental research and development.

The Air Quality and Inter-Environmental Research Branch is responsible for the provision of an efficient and effective federal program in air quality and technology transfer.

The Atmospheric Processes Research Branch conducts research in the following areas: monitoring of the stratospheric ozone layer, depletion of the stratospheric ozone layer, solar radiation instrumentation, cloud and precipitation processes, precipitation scavenging of pollutants, weather modification and weather radar. It also administers the U.S.-Canada Weather Modification Information Act.

The Meteorological Services Research Branch carries out research on weather, ice and sea-state observing and forecasting systems to ensure full and efficient utilization of technological and scientific advances. It also conducts research on meteorological and ice problems related to surface transportation, aeronautics, wind energy, building construction and the utilization of satellite data.

The Weather Services Directorate is responsible for the co-ordination, national implementation and on-going development of the following four main activities or systems within Field Services: data acquisition, meteorological communications, forecasting, and the provision of weather services. These activities are integrated to provide timely data, weather warnings, forecasts and advice to users.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

The Canadian Meteorological Centre is responsible for forecast operations, computer operations and operation development.

The Canadian Climate Centre conducts research into climate predictions, man's impact on climate and cause-and-effect relationships between the climate system, society and the environment. The Centre provides climate data, information, applications services and consultations to federal departments and national organizations, and supports regional offices in serving regional and provincial needs. The Centre is also responsible for the documentation, quality control and archiving of all official Canadian climate data.

The Central Services Directorate is responsible for providing ice information as well as consultation and advice on the use of the information. It also provides computing services, technical and professional training, long-range planning and network maintenance for data acquisition networks and expertise for the development and implementation of atmospheric instruments and systems.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

Classes of Records

DOE/PKS-005
Management Information and Outreach
Description: Information on the general management and operational responsibilities of the Parks Program. Topics: Policy and program activities; information exchange with foreign countries; hours of operation; levels of service; awards and honours; co-operative activities with public and private organizations; capital development projects and planning systems; operational planning; management improvement; central system program evaluation; public consultation and participation; general resources — inventories, management and research; park signs; general surveys and studies.

DOE/PKS-010
Realty
Description: Information on the management of real property including National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites, Heritage Canals and Corridors, Admiralty, Dominion and Ordnance lands. Involves the acquisition of land by the Crown, the leasing, licensing and granting of concessions on Crown-owned land, the sale or disposal of Crown-owned land, and other related land matters. Topics: General agreements; agreements for bridges and causeways; road, walks and highways, wharves and docks; boundary lines and encroachments; freehold lands; lettings and concessions; franchises; lease of land; licences of occupation; use of electric power, water power, surplus water; land acquisition; sale and disposition of land; utilities — land use, rental setting. Storage Media: EDP and microfiche. Retrievability: The general realty records are arranged by subject. Individual leases, licences of occupation and concessions are arranged by location, the number of the lot and block and by the name of the individual.

DOE/PKS-015
Socio-Economic Research
Description: Information on socio-economic surveys and studies carried out by Parks in support of the planning, development and operation of National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. Topics: Research review process, information enquiries from internal and external sources research projects, surveys and studies, historical data. Storage Medium: EDP Systems. Special Access Note: These records are located at Parks headquarters and regional offices. Final reports available to the public through departmental libraries and specialized document collections located at headquarters and regional offices.

DOE/PKS-020
Public Use Database
Description: Information on the collection of attendance data for National Parks and National Historic Parks and Sites; collection of information on interpretation, camping and gateways at National Parks; vessel movement data on the Heritage Canals. Topics: Attendance data for National Parks and National Historic Parks and Sites; interpretive facility and services data collection; campgrounds utilization, volume of vehicular traffic at National Park gateways; vessel movement data on the Heritage Canals. Storage Medium: EDP Systems. Retrievability: These records are located at Parks headquarters, regional offices and park offices. A Parks Use Statistics report is issued annually and distributed widely (300 copies) to government agencies, universities and libraries. Monthly attendance reports (200 copies) are also distributed widely in a similar manner.

DOE/PKS-030
Historical and Contemporary Technical References
Description: Plans, drawings, specifications, standards, guidelines and report on historical and contemporary engineering and architectural projects in Parks. Also historical records and training material on historical preservation. Topics: Plans, drawings, specifications (contract, construction and manufacturing), standards and guidelines, "as-found" information, archaeological reports, feasibility studies, recording field notes, general information and training packages. Storage Medium: EDP and microforms.

DOE/PKS-035
Projects
Description: Information on engineering and architectural projects carried out in the Parks Program, including the project authorization form, project brief, design data, cost estimates, management reports and project schedules. (See also DOE/PKS-005, Management Information and Outreach). Topics: Planning, design, construction, operation, maintenance, equipment, services, utilities, facilities, claims and evaluation.

DOE/PKS-040
Environmental Protection
Description: Information on environmental protection in the National Parks, including pollution of air, land and water, as well as regulations, studies and reports compiled on environmental protection. Topics: General correspondence and reports on environmental protection, pollution and pollutants, regulations, reports and returns, surveys and studies, water supplies and wildlife.

DOE/PKS-045
Flora
Description: Information on botany, ecology and forestry management in the National Parks. Topics: General correspondence and reports; forest fires, regulations, silviculture, pest control, statistics, surveys and studies; timber cutting.

DOE/PKS-050
Health and Social Services
Description: Information on the various health and social services provided to people in a park. Topics: Health services for park visitors; ambulance, hospital and nursing stations; health and welfare services for Park residents by the provincial governments.

DOE/PKS-055
Justice and Law Enforcement
Description: Information on justice and law enforcement in the National Parks, and the National Historic Parks and Sites. Topics: Justice and law enforcement, crimes and violations, judicature, police services, reports and returns, statistics, surveys and studies.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

DOE/PKS-060
Marine National Parks
Description: Information on marine environments (both salt and fresh water) which merit protection because of their natural phenomena. Topics: General development and planning, surveys and studies.

DOE/PKS-065
Mineral Resources
Description: Information on mining, oil and gas activities at or near Parks facilities. Topics: Mineral exploration and development, mineral claims, quarrying and various mining activities, oil and gas exploration and development, leases and permits.

DOE/PKS-070
National Landmarks
Description: Information on potential National Landmarks which merit protection of specific natural phenomena without requiring large land holdings in order to preserve and interpret them. Topics: Development and planning, surveys and studies.

DOE/PKS-075
National Parks
Description: Administration, management and control of National Parks. Topics: Archaeology and artifacts, camp sites, cemeteries, development and planning, management plans, interpretive planning, townsite planning, regional planning, ski areas, day use areas, interpretive services, nature trails, signs, talks and tours, special events, extension services, interpretive centres, permits to collect specimens, public participation, research, sports, statistics, surveys and studies, tourists and tourism — accommodation, bath houses, hot springs, catering and restaurants, souvenirs and handicrafts.

DOE/PKS-080
Water Resources
Description: Information on the use of water resources in the Parks. Topics: Water levels; water rights; hydrological surveys; hydro power development within a park for park use only; hydrometric networks; regulations; reports; surveys and studies.

DOE/PKS-085
Wildlife
Description: Information on all types of wildlife in the National Parks and National Historic Parks, including the management and protection of wild animals, birds, fish and insects. Topics: Diseases; rare and endangered species; census; licences and permits; hunting; regulations; surveys and studies; trapping; immobilization drugs; live capture; gifts of animals; preserves; furs and hides; fish culture; hatcheries and stocking; sport and commerical fishing in National Parks; insects and their control; use of insecticides.

DOE/PKS-090
National Historic Parks and Sites
Description: Information on the preservation, development, management, interpretation, operation and maintenance of the National Historic Parks and Sites of Canada. Topics: Monuments and plaques; Canadian Inventory of Historic Buildings; proposed parks and sites; heritage canals; public participation; permits; heritage conservation and building programs; other heritage agencies; historic resources in other countries; seasonal closing; archaeology and artifacts; identification, inventory and recording of historic buildings; cemeteries; development and planning, including management plans; interpretation planning; programs for the acquisition, development and control of lands and facilities within national historic parks and sites; interpretive services — exhibits, interpretive routes, costumes, period ordinance and furnishings, personal interpretive contracts, theatres, guided tours, extension programs, special events and interpretation centres; documentary, archaeological and architectural research; restoration; statistics, surveys and studies; tourist activities and tourism, souvenirs and handicrafts and Register of Federal Heritage Buildings.

DOE/PKS-095
National Battlefields Commission
Description: Responsible for the preservation, management and operation of the National Battlefields Park, Québec. Topics: Administration, policy, planning studies and reports.

DOE/CAP-100
Program Activity Structures and Objectives
Description: Information on systems for strategic and operational planning and program evaluation, management practices and controls, performance measurement, priority settings, resource based economic strategy and perspective, socio-economic and scientific development studies, implementation of integrated programs. Topics: Program activity structures and objectives, surveys and studies, Improvements in Management Practices and Controls (IMPAC), toxic substances, Co-operative Projects with Industry (COPI), Pilot Industry Laboratory Program, Shore Zone Program, Biomass.

DOE/CAP-105
Biometrics
Description: Information on the biometrics of migratory birds. Topics: Migratory birds hunting permits; waterfowl surveys; data processing.

DOE/CAP-110
Enforcement
Description: Information on the enforcement of Migratory Bird Convention Act, Migratory Bird Regulation, Migratory Bird Treaty. Topics: General correspondence; authority to purchase migratory birds; authority to issue permits; payments of fines; Migratory Birds Conviction List, report convention; legal fee; appointment of game officer; appointment of agents; protocol with U.S.A.; enquiries and questions; Indians and Eskimos; treaties — Canada-France, Canada-Mexico, Canada-U.S.A., U.S.A.-Japan, U.S.A.-Mexico, U.S.A.-U.S.S.R.

DOE/CAP-115
Native People
Description: Information on correspondence on native harvest surveys and native land claims. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indian, Inuit Tapirisat of Canada, Northern Québec Cree, Inuit, Naskaps, Western Arctic Inuit-Cape. Retrievability: Files are arranged by name of individual.

DOE/CAP-120
Ornithology
Description: Information on all aspects of wildfowl. Topics: North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; permits for bird sanctuaries; delegation; agreements; leases; damage to crop by bird; agreements with provincial governments on compensation for crop damage; diseases and parasites; effects of sprays; predation; use of drugs; lead poisoning repellents; ornithology permits; taxidermist licences; propagation and agriculture; research on species; use of birds; commerical shooting of birds; plumage of birds; public shooting grounds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Retrievability: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations.

DOE/CAP-125

Interpretation

Description: Information on interpretive programs to promote public awareness, and appreciation of Canada's wildlife and natural environment through personal experience. The interpretive programs offer people the opportunity to see, smell, taste, touch and hear their environment in a firsthand way. Topics: Interpretation Centres — Midland (Ontario), Percé, Cap Tourmente (Québec), Swift Current (Saskatchewan), and Creston (British Columbia). General correspondence; national plans; evaluation of interpretation centres; research; marketing and publicity; special projects. Program cancelled in 1984.

DOE/CAP-130

Mammalogy

Description: Research and general information on selected species of mammals. Topics: Mammals hides; fur-bearing animals; trapping;diseases and parasities; rare and endangered species; locations where species are found.

DOE/CAP-135

National Wildlife Areas

Description: General correspondence on policies and regulations as they affect provinces and specific geographical location. Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases.

DOE/CAP-140

Parks

Description: General information on National Parks and the preservation of their wildlife. Topics: General correspondence; proposed parks; slaughter of animals; national park authority; investigation in the national parks; fish culture; liaison with U.S. National Parks on wildlife management. Program cancelled in 1984.

DOE/CAP-145

Wildlife Toxicology

Description: Information on toxic substances and their effects on birds and mammals; also related research and studies. Topics: Advice to outside agencies on chemicals and pesticides; National Registry of Pesticide Residues; registration of agricultural chemicals; toxic chemical management program; toxic substances program; analytical data quality program; chemical analytical services; forest spray operations; heavy metal; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); wildlife sampling program; study of fish-eating birds. LRTAP — Toxic Substances. Retrievability: By subject.

DOE/CAP-150

Wildlife Management

Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Hunting performance program; transboundary wildlife; distant early warning line; bird hazard to aircraft; problems at airports; restricted material on birds and aircraft; correspondence from Air Canada; bird strike bulletins; bird strike field notes; bird strike reports; reports on visits to airports; RCMP reports; application for species; Eastern Arctic-Scientific Research; scientific collection of specimens; transplants; Kluane Sanctuary Yukon; Mackenzie Mountain Sanctuary N.W.T.; Thelon Sanctuary N.W.T.; Canadian National Zoological Garden; National Zoo.

DOE/CAP-155

Land Use Policy and Research

Description: Information on the development and assessment of federal land-use objectives, policies and guidelines; the co-ordination of interdepartmental and intergovernmental activity on land policy and program matters; the analysis of land-use policy instruments with recommendations on their effectiveness in addressing land-use issues of national significance; the identification and assessment of the impact of federal programs on the use and management of Canada's land resources, and the recommendation of mitigating measures to offset any adverse effects; the provision of advice and policy positions on land quality, land-use and other land-related environmental issues raised in native land claim negotiations, and the co-ordination of the Department's relations with Indian and Northern Affairs Canada; the provision of advice and assistance in developing or assessing policies in which land resources and environmental matters are important considerations; the representation of Environment Canada on the TBAC/FLM and the co-ordination of the discharge of the Department's responsibilities under the Federal Land Use Policy; the assistance of representing Canada's land resource interest in bilateral relations with other countries, and international organizations; and to assist in foreign aid, technical exchange and advisory programs. Topics: General correspondence; integrated planning and management; public awareness; Canada Land-Use; policy research and co-ordination; policy advice to federal departments and agencies.

DOE/CAP-160

Land Monitoring and Evaluation

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land; dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques for surveying and classifying land by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land soil processes of concern in environmental management; the production of nationally consistent spatial data on national and regional land-use patterns and trends for creating national and regional perspectives on the use of Canada's lands. Topics: General correspondence, integrated planning and management, public awareness, land-use planning, inter-regional projects, policy research and co-ordination; mapping; land use information map series.

DOE/CAP-165

Land-Use Research

Description: Information on the advancement of public understanding of land-use in Canada, the determinants of land-use, and the environmental, economic and social implications of national and regional land-use issues and problems; the development, assessment, improvement and recommendation of methods and techniques for environmentally sound land-use planning and practices by providing technical assistance to federal and provincial departments and agencies on land-use planning matters; providing financial contributions to provinces for land-use planning; the provision of land research, planning and management services, and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. Topics: General correspondence, integrated planning and management, resource management data, public awareness, policy research and co-ordination — general land-use planning.

DOE/CAP-170

Land Data Systems and Services

Description: Information on the development, maintenance and operation of a computerized national land data bank capable of storing, processing and retrieving geographic-specific bio-physical and socio-economic data on, or related to land, land capability, land-use and resource management issues of national or regional significance; the development, assessment, improvement and recommendation of computerized technologies designed to enhance the effectiveness, efficiency and greater use of spatial information systems in land-use planning and management; the provision of data on processing and advisory services in support of the production of land statistics and the solution of land related planning and management problems; and the provision of training services on the use of the Canada Land Data Systems for existing and potential clients. Topics: Canada land inventory, Canada land data system — projects. Storage Medium: EDP systems, maps.

DOE/CAP-175

Canada-U.S. and Interjurisdictional Waters

Description: Information on all activities carried out under specific Canada-U.S. agreements or arrangements such as investigative, control, or surveillance board activities for the International Joint Commission (IJC) or in other bilateral Canada-U.S. situations; studies and implementation programs under formal federal-provincial arrangements; and Canada-U.S. activities on shared basins. Policy development, data collection and research carried out as a part of any of these formal arrangements are included as well as specific federal-provincial agreements required to carry out Canada's obligations in boundary waters (the Canada-Ontario Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality) and interprovincial arrangements (Prairie Provinces Water Board). Information is also available on water use for selected years and geographic areas. Topics: Great Lakes connecting channels, Great Lakes programs and studies, International and Interprovincial Waters, Lake of the Woods, Ottawa River Regulations, etc. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUARET.

DOE/CAP-180

Flood Damage Reduction

Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting. It also includes policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection programs and research for many water management purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, or in support of anticipated new agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Conservation and floods, flood damage reduction. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUAREF.

DOE/CAP-185

Water Quality Management Data

Description: Information on the quality of surface waters based on analysis of samples and interpretive reports used for the establishment of water quality objectives and the; setting of requirements for specific areas. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal-provincial basin studies, nor does it include research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title; water quality parameters are assessed on-line through NAQUADAT. Storage Medium: Magnetic tapes.

DOE/CAP-200

Water Quantity Management Data

Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location. Storage Media: Computer printouts, magnetic tapes, microfiche, interactive on-line access through HYDAT.

DOE/CAP-205

Water Management Research

Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways and fate of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management, co-ordination, and research contracts and subventions. Topics: Glaciology; glaciological programs; groundwater flows; ground water quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; drought; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available. Storage Media: Microfiche, magnetic tapes, computer printouts, punchcards.

DOE/CAP-215

Mobile Sources

Description: Information on air quality and emission data; test methods and procedures; test results; studies and surveys; standards and regulations. Topics: Abatement programs; engineering and evaluation; fugitive emissions; fleet programs; mobile source compliance; special studies. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, company, and project.

DOE/CAP-220

Chemical Process Sources

Description: Information on chemical process industries; producers; emissions; industrial studies questionnaires and guidelines development. Topics: Chemical products; agricultural and food industry process analysis; agricultural operations and processes; food processes; agricultural and food products manufacturing; pulp, paper and wood products; forest products operations; pulp and paper processes; textiles and related manufacturers; woods and allied products manufacturing; petroleum, petrochemical, polymers and plastics; surface coating industry. Retrievability: Files are arranged by name of individual, company and product.

DOE/CAP-225

Mining, Mineral and Metallurgical Industries

Description: Information on mining operations and processes relative to atmospheric pollution; mining mineral and metallurgical industrial studies and questionnaires. Topics: Mining operations and processes; mineral products processing; primary metallurgical industries; secondary metallurgical industries. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, products and plant types.

DOE/CAP-230

Fuels

Description: Information on fuel studies. Topics: Fuel producers; types; composition; resources marketing and processing; pollution investigations; pollution control equipment, and regulations and quidelines development, synthetic fuels, gasoline; natural gas; coal; petroleum producers; petroleum marketing; energy conservation; sulphur and by-products; fuels and fuel additives composition; fuel additives inventory; pollution control costs; fossil fuel resources; effects to health and environment. Retrievability: Files are arranged by name of individual, company, product.

DOE/CAP-235

Combustion Sources

Description: Studies and surveys; questionnaires; analytical reports; also information on emissions and emission controls; investigations; abatement systems; guidelines; air quality measurement instruments. Topics: Interdepartmental programs; thermal power-fuel; thermal power-fuel processing and storage; combustion systems; internal combustion engine; emission calculation and analysis; emission data; air quality surveillance; air quality criteria; incinerators; incinerator investigations, studies and surveys; incinerators inventory; heating system; fuels; equipment and controls; heating systems inventory; research and development; special studies and projects; heating systems-federal activities.

DOE/CAP-240

Data Analysis

Description: Information on air pollutants; emissions source categories; industrial questionnaires; studies and surveys and air pollution costs. Topics: Emission inventory; air pollutants, source categories; effects of regulations; socio-economic impact studies and surveys-industrial; geographical; economy impact studies and surveys-pollutants; analytical concepts and methodology-statistical, economic.

DOE/CAP-245

Program Co-ordinator

Description: Information on regulations development; monitoring of agreed implementation schedules, program evaluation and acid rain control strategies. Topics: Acts and legislation; regulations enforcement; federal/provincial programs; international activities; international organizations; intradepartmental activites; interdepartmental activities long range transport of air pollutants.

DOE/CAP-250

Surveillance

Description: Information on national air pollution surveillance monitoring equipment; monthly and annual summary reports; source testing methods. Topics: National air pollution surveillance; operations and maintenance; equipment testing and evaluation; source testing procedures; studies, surveys and investigations; specific pollutants. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, location and specific pollutants.

DOE/CAP-255

Technology Development

Description: Information on development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology (DPAT); instruction in air pollution control; pollution analysis and instrument testing. Topics: Development and demonstation of pollution abatement technology; APCD-sponsored courses; chemistry files. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject and company.

DOE/CAP-260

Abatement and Compliance

Description: Information on inventories of pollution services and cost of abatement; state of the art of pollution abatement by industry; regulations development; policy and technical advice on enforcement programs; technical audits of incentives programs; energy related studies. Topics: Paper fibre and allied products; mining and metallurgical processes; petroleum and industrial organic chemicals, inorganic chemical processes; food and allied industries; municipal waste and miscellaneous industries; power generation; marine pollution; legal services; pulp and paper modernization program. Retrievability: Files are arranged by company, product.

DOE/CAP-265

Technology Development

Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; wastewater technology. Retrievability: Files are arranged by company.

DOE/CAP-270

Water Pollution Programs

Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs co-ordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program co-ordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program co-ordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis.

DOE/CAP-275

Contaminants Control

Description: Information on predicting and evaluating environmental effects of new chemical substances; determining amounts and end uses of chemicals in Canadian commerce; regulating substances which pose a significant threat to human health and environment; reviewing pesticide registrations; and co-ordinating tests of chemicals for environmental effects. Topics: Studies and surveys; chemical elements compounds; Environmental Contaminants Act; toxicology assessment and ecological protocols; regulation development; enforcement and compliance; transportation of dangerous goods; response to notices; mandatory reporting; automated information system; pesticides-control programs, registration, re-evaluation, research and trade information, research permits, compendium, non-chemical, mercury program. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, company and product.

DOE/CAP-280

Waste Management

Description: Inventory of commercial and industrial solid wastes; technology development; studies and surveys; handling, storage and disposal of industrial and hazardous wastes; inventory sources and amounts of hazardous wastes; regulations development. Topics: Wastes and types; waste material management and disposal; committees; systems; collection; handling; waste management systems — disposal; state of the art; resource recovery and reclamation, materials; information and training; solid waste information retrieval system, inventory; guidelines and codes of practice; consultation services; technical evaluation; solid waste projects and development; area studies; equipment development; process development; taxes and incentives; waste nature and behavior projects; resource recovery — economic and marketing; technical capabilities. Retrievability: Files are arranged by subject, company and project.

DOE/CAP-285

Environmental Emergency

Description: Information on environmental accidents; emergency teams; reporting and alerting operating procedures; special studies; research and development; contingency plans; pollution clean-up agents for collection and dispersal. Topics: Environmental emergency teams; operations and procedures; resource inventory; accident prevention; transportation; accident detection; pollution abatement; pollution containment; disposal; restoration; analysis-prediction, research and development projects; information. Retrievability: Files are arranged by individual environmental accidents.

DOE/CAP-290

Planning, Assessment and Policy

Description: Information on the development of an environmental protection strategy; program, planning and systems development; socio-economic analysis of proposed major regulations. Topics: Program planning system development; activity program development; operational plans; activity management reports; policy development and analysis; program evaluation; program development; organization and systems project; economics; socioeconomic program; socioeconomic impact analysis — Clean Air Act, Environmental Contaminants Acts, Fisheries Act. Retrievability: By subject.

DOE/CAP-295

Federal Activities Assessment

Description: Information on the evaluation of federally funded pollution control projects; demonstrating of pollution control technology at federal facilities; surveillance and monitoring programs for federal projects; environmental impact assessment of uranium refineries and radioactive waste facilities; and guidelines for radiation control programs. Topics: Federal activities projects; clean-up program; methods, techniques and refinements; federal government marine activities; Vessel Pollution Abatement Program; shore reception facilities; nuclear programs, projects, organizations. Retrievability: Files are arranged by company.

DOE/CAP-300

Toxic Chemical Management

Description: Information on the toxic chemical management program. Topics: Toxic chemical mangement centres; regional operations; program research; pesticides; radionuclides; environment measurement.

DOE/AES-310

Research Management and Policy

Description: Meteorological, atmospheric, air quality, ice in navigable waters, remote sensing and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature — decisions and large scale agreements; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the goals, objectives and policies for atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories, contracting-out of federal research and development. Topics: Agreements, treaties, studies, projects, federal activities, committees, plans and programs, fellowships, training and development, grants, unsolicited proposals, contracting, technology transfer. Retrievability: Files are located at 4905 Dufferin St., Downsview, Ontario.

DOE/AES-315

Air Quality Research Projects

Description: Information on research dealing with the quality of air. Topics: Field studies, wind energy, LRTAP Programs (Acid Rain), federal-provincial co-operative projects, IFYGL, Alberta Oil Sands, hazardous and toxic chemicals, air quality assessment processes, regional and international studies of meteorological potential for air pollution, boundary layer processes, experiments, analyses, scientific papers, program planning and international co-operation, air quality sampling, siting, analytical methodology for ambient atmospheres, workspace atmospheres and instream emissions.

DOE/AES-320

Atmospheric Research

Description: Information on weather modification, cloud physics, weather radar, ozone monitoring, stratospheric pollution, solar radiation and energy. Activities aimed at increasing precipitation (rain, snow) or suppressing hailfall; research in the physics of cloud and precipitation and in the detection of precipitation by weather radar; research conducted into the processes of the stratospheric ozone layer and its depletion by trace constituents (typically chlorofluorocarbons); calibration of solar radiation instruments and development of new solar radiation instrumentation and development of specialized solar radiation database. Topics: Weather Modification Policy, Agreement (with U.S.) and Co-operative projects; WMO PEP program, weather radar and cloud physics, ozone instruments, World Ozone Data Centre, stratospheric pollution, solar radiation.

DOE/AES-325

Atmosphere — High Atmospheric Vehicles

Description: Information on weather ice and other related environmental satellite research and development, ground receiving stations, data processing and distribution, and related hardware, instrumentation technology; aeronautical meteorology, aviation studies, marine meteorology and meso-meteorology, wind energy, weather radar and radar satellite combined system; wind tunnel experiments, related field experiments and wind engineering. Topics: Canadian space policy, repairs of satellite receivers; high atmosphere vehicles, satellite data lab operations, satellite meteorology research and development projects (TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS), Aeromet Facility, Rockcliffe STOL project; Meso-met Network, data collection platforms; GOES Wind Energy Field Studies; radar satellite system; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Program; NOSS; SURSAT; wind tunnel experiments, operation and maintenance.

Description: Information on the development of forecast methods and techniques for AES forecast systems (including models — numerical, statistical). Topics: Weather prediction methodology; snow squall modelling; ice and sea state models; oil spill trajectory models; freezing spray; investigations.

DOE/AES-425
Telecommunications
Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts, installations, procedures, traffic; teletype contracts, installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects.

DOE/AES-430
Forecast Procedures
Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; professional training and development; satellite operations; plans and programs.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

DOE/AES-435
Weather Services
Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets.

DOE/AES-440
Data Acquisition
Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating; satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies.

DOE/AES-445
Forecast
Description: Information on analyses and forecasts; hemispheric analyses, heights (pressure) temperature, moisture, winds from surface to 100 mbs; analyses of surface, 850, 700 and 500 mb levels from 1957 to date; historical data; verification statistics. Storage Media: Computer files — grid point data, microfilm, printed WX charts, charts and teletype message forms, written and graphic forms.

DOE/AES-450
Observations
Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms.

DOE/AES-455
Climatology
Description: Information on applied climatology; climatological data and studies; information and requests; monitoring and prediction; numerical modelling. Topics: General climatology; climatology normals; recreation and tourism; station history system; National Parks; agrometeorology; ice accretion studies; biometeorology; energy; Canadian Climate Program; Climatic change. Storage Media: Microfilm, magnetic tape.

DOE/AES-460
Hydrometeorology
Description: Information on development of hydrometeorological techniques for measurements and analysis; application of meteorological techniques and data to hydrology and marine problems (hydrology, water resources, oceans, lakes and reservoirs); hydrological time series data; climatology of water temperature. Topics: International Hydrological Decade; hydrometeorological projects; investigations, research, studies and surveys; wind wave studies, evaporation. Storage Medium: Magnetic tape.

DOE/AES-465
Ice Information, Consultation and Advice
Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance).

DOE/AES-470
Communications — Computing Services
Description: Information on communications and communications-programming.

DOE/AES-475
Meteorology Training
Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology.

DOE/AES-480
Data Acquisition Networks
Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards.

DOE/AES-485
Instruments and Instrument Systems
Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind.

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of External Affairs was established by an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire, and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the Immigration Service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade operation. Since then, two additional cabinet ministers, a minister for International Trade and a minister for External Relations have been appointed. The new Department of External Affairs Act came into force on December 7, 1983.

Responsibilities

The Department of External Affairs has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are: to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and in international organizations, including close contact, communication and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interests; to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; to ensure the co-ordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organizational Units and their Role

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises regional passport offices in Canada and missions abroad. Within Canada, the regional offices of the Department of Regional Industrial Expansion (DRIE) support the export promotion program of the Department.

The Department headquarters in Ottawa is organized into the Office of the Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs and 12 branches, each under an assistant deputy minister, which supervise the work of the Department on a geographic, functional or administrative basis. Each branch is divided into two or more bureaus, each under a director general. The bureaus in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director.

Autonomous agencies reporting to Parliament through the Secretary of State for External Affairs include the Foreign Claims Commission, the International Boundary Commission, the International Joint Commission, the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, the Canadian International Development Agency, the International Development Research Centre, the Asia-Pacific Foundation and the Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security. With the restructuring of the Department, the Export Development Corporation and the Canadian Commercial Corporation have been added, and ministerial responsibility for these corporations has been delegated to the Minister for International Trade.

Office of the Under-Secretary

The Under-Secretary, as deputy head, bears general responsibility for departmental policy and objectives. There is an associate under-secretary, who shares the management and direction of the Department, and a deputy minister for international trade. The 12 branches are each under an assistant deputy minister. There are also special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for multilateral and Canada-United States trade negotiations, and for disarmament.

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Missions Abroad

The Department of External Affairs Act defines "head of mission" in broad terms. There are at present 60 ambassadors resident abroad, 18 high commissioners to Commonwealth countries, 17 consuls-general, one commissioner and eight resident heads of mission to international organizations. There are also four small embassy offices with non-resident ambassadors and two other missions, giving a total of 114 posts abroad, a figure which may vary slightly from time to time. Many ambassadors and high commissioners are doubly accredited, which adds 79 more countries to the list of those where Canada is represented. There are, in addition, 32 honorary consuls in cities with no other resident representative of Canada. Full details may be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually. One hundred countries have diplomatic missions in Ottawa and another 46 have non-resident accreditation. Many countries have consulates in principal cities throughout Canada.

International Organizations

Canada has permanent missions to international organizations. There are missions to the United Nations (UN) in New York and in Geneva, the latter also accredited to the Secretariat of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and to the five UN specialized agencies located there. There are permanent representatives to the UN Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), both in Vienna; to the UN Centre for Human Settlements (HABITAT) and to the UN Environment Program (UNEP), both in Nairobi; and to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in Rome. There is also a permanent delegation to the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in Paris.

There are permanent missions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Brussels; to the European Communities (EC), also in Brussels; to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in Paris; and to the Organization of American States (OAS) in Washington. There are delegations to the Mutual and Balanced Force Reduction Talks (MBFR) and the Conference on Security and Co-operation in Europe (CSCE), both in Vienna and in Canada. There is a representative to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), with headquarters in Montreal.

Trade Negotiations Office

This office, headed by an ambassador as Chief Negotiator, is responsible for the negotiation of a comprehensive trade agreement between Canada and the United States and for the conduct of the present round of multilateral trade negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). It is located at 50 O'Connor Street, 17th Floor, Ottawa, K1A 1O1.

The Department's International Trade Communications Group carries out media and other communications requirements related to the United States and multilateral trade negotiations.

Office of the Inspector General

The Office helps senior management implement sound management practices and identify opportunities for improving the organization and morale of human resources abroad and at headquarters.

Office for Federal-Provincial Relations

The Office is responsible for providing policy advice and co-ordination on federal-provincial relations generally. It works closely with senior management and with other units in the Department to support their relations with the provinces and to ensure that the international interests and activities of the provinces are compatible with the Department's general responsibility for the conduct of Canada's foreign relations. The co-ordinating role of the Office includes overseeing the Department's information service to the provinces, which keeps the latter informed of important Canadian foreign policy and operational developments. It also involves providing assistance as required with official international visits to and from the provinces and acting when necessary or appropriate as first point of contact for provincial requests for departmental services.

Office of Access to Information and Privacy

This unit, headed by a co-ordinator, is responsible for the Department's compliance with the Access to Information Act, which provides access to information under the control of the Government of Canada, and with the Privacy Act, which protects the privacy of individuals and provides individuals with a right of access to personal information about themselves.

Office of Protocol

The Chief of Protocol, through the Office of Protocol, handles the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada, and that of Canadian heads of diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. This involves questions of diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities, respecting both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad. The Chief of Protocol is the principal liaison between the Department and the Diplomatic Corps accredited to Canada. This office plans, organizes and manages state and official visits to Canada and participates in the logistical planning and conduct of travel abroad by the Governor General, the Prime Minister, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Minister for International Trade and the Minister for External Relations. In addition, the Office organizes, arranges, and manages official hospitality functions for the ministers and senior officials of the Department.

LEGAL, CONSULAR AND IMMIGRATION AFFAIRS BRANCH

Legal Affairs Bureau

The Bureau is divided into three areas. The Legal Operations Division handles UN and other multilateral legal issues, peace and security law, the law of the sea, maritime boundaries, environmental and fisheries law, and humanitarian law. The Economic Law and Treaty Division provides advice on subjects such as investment, energy, transport and communications, intellectual property, extraterritoriality, science and technology, and trade agreements, and is also concerned with the protection of the property interests of Canadian citizens abroad, including claims arising from the take-over of property by foreign governments. The Legal Advisory Division provides services on private international law, such as the authentication of Canadian certificates and documents, and advice on the federal-provincial aspects of Canada's international relations, sovereign immunity, recognition of states and governments, protection of Canadian citizens, and diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities.

The Bureau houses an extensive library on international law and contains a unit to give advice on domestic law questions.

Consular and Immigration Affairs Bureau

Since April 1981, the Department of External Affairs has been responsible for the delivery of the Immigration Program abroad. The Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (CEIC) sets overall policy and administers the Immigration Act and the Immigration Program in Canada. The Immigration and Refugee Affairs Division provides guidance to posts abroad on the delivery of both the Immigration and Refugee programs and humanitarian assistance. The programs divisions in the geographic bureaus are responsible for the day-to-day management of immigration programs in the countries of their regions. Visa sections located in many Canadian missions abroad handle the selection and processing of immigrants and visitors.

Two consular divisions — Policy and Operations — are responsible for the protection of, and assistance to, Canadian citizens abroad who encounter difficulties or require government services. In some countries there are honorary consuls to assist Canadians.

GEOGRAPHIC BRANCHES

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided into five geographic regions, each constituting a branch under an assistant deputy minister. These are: Africa and the Middle East, Asia and the Pacific, Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean, and the United States. Each branch is divided into sub-regional bureaus, with further separation into divisions. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaus have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and co-ordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in their area, their guidance and instruction, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of External Affairs Act, a head of mission, as defined, has the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The work of the geographic bureaus is distributed among three types of divisions: relations, trade development, and programs. The relations divisions handle bilateral political and economic relations; country, sub- regional and regional analysis and policy; and, where appropriate for Third World countries, aid relations. All the trade development divisions handle export promotion. Most of them deal in tourist promotion in conjunction with Tourism Canada, fairs and trade missions, and some are concerned with investment development. The trade development divisions are the main point of contact for the business community. The programs divisions are concerned with immigration and, in some cases, refugees and family reunification, cultural and academic relations, public affairs, including information activities, and the management of visits to and from the area in question.

The structure of the two United States bureaus differs somewhat from that of the other bureaus, as they handle a large number of additional issues and problems. Some of these relate to the size and importance of our trading and investment relationship and the need to resolve trade disputes. Others are of a transboundary character, such as air and water pollution, the export of energy, trucking and broadcasting, and the work of the International Joint Commission and of the International Boundary Commission.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE DEVELOPMENT BRANCH

Export Development Planning and Programs Bureau

The Bureau manages a number of programs designed to inform and assist exporters and potential exporters in meeting the competitive challenges of the international marketplace. It consists of: the Export Finance, Capital Projects and Trading Houses Division, the Export Programs Division, the Trade Development Liaison and Special Projects Division, the Trade Development Policy and Planning Division, the Win Exports Division, and the Transportation Division.

Agriculture, Fish and Food Products Bureau

This bureau provides programs and services specifically adapted to the needs of agri-food and fish exporters, to enhance their contribution to Canada's trade performance. Programs and services include identifying buyers for Canadian products, trade counselling and assistance in development of export marketing plans, market research for agriculture and fish products in key market areas, providing trade leads to exporters, and sponsorship of specialized seminars, missions and trade fairs. The Bureau also provides financial assistance, under the special Food and Fish program for export market development, to reduce the risks associated with moving into new market areas. The Bureau's specialists keep track of trade barriers in the sector to ensure that Canadian business interests are well represented in international trade negotiations.

Grain Marketing Bureau

This bureau co-ordinates and carries out trade development activities and contributes to the development of trade policy for grains and oilseeds products. It has close relations with various Crown agencies, quasi-governmental bodies involved in the grain industry, and the private grain trade. It administers the Grains and Oilseeds Program and, in conjunction with the departments of Agriculture and Transport, provides support to the minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board. The primary objective of the Bureau is to encourage sustained and orderly growth in the production, processing and marketing of grains, oilseeds and their products.

Defence Programs Bureau

The Bureau's principal function, in acting as a focal point for the Canadian defence and high technology industries, is to develop optimum export markets for such goods and services. The Defence Trade Program assists Canadian manufacturers in developing and expanding exports for the defence requirements of friendly foreign nations.

Within the federal government, the Bureau co-operates with other departments such as DRIE, DSS and DND, provides sourcing services to posts abroad, formulates new policies to expand defence exports, participates actively in interdepartmental countertrade studies and policy formulation, and acts as Market Advisor for the Defence Industry Productivity Program (DIPP). In support of these activities, the Bureau incorporates two sectorally-oriented divisions: a policy planning function and a sector for research and co-ordination.

Technology and Investment Development Bureau

The Bureau provides a departmental focal point for participation in policy development in the areas of science, technology, space and communications. It is a co-ordinating point for the management of international programs, including export market development programs for advanced technology in fields such as telecommunications, space, computers and instrumentation. The Bureau helps staff Canadian delegations to bilateral and multilateral meetings on these subjects, and works with provincial governments and private sector organizations on both policy and export program activities. The Bureau acts as the focal point within the Department for Investment Canada's overseas investment development program.

Trade Policy Bureau

This bureau consists of the Trade Services and General Policy Division, the GATT Affairs Division, the Agriculture and Commodity Policy Division, the Industrial Trade Policy Division, and the Resources Policy Division. The bureau is responsible for the development and review of general trade policy, including import policy, the co-ordination and management of Canada's participation in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, international aspects of agricultural trade policy and industrial policy, and the development of domestic policies in the resource sector to ensure that full advantage is achieved in the multilateral trade framework.

Economic Policy Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for the co-ordination and development of policy on international economic issues and the advancement of Canadian economic interests in the international sphere. It consists of: the International Economic Relations Division, the International Financial and Investment Affairs Division, the Economic Relations with Developing Countries Division, and the Energy and Environment Division.

Special Trade Relations Bureau

This bureau is responsible for the development, implementation and administration of import and export control measures under the authority of the Export and Import Permits Act and Regulations. It also handles international nuclear issues. The Bureau consists of: the Import Controls I Division (textiles and clothing), the Import Controls II Division (agricultural goods, footwear), the Export Controls Division (military, nuclear and strategic goods), and the Nuclear Division.

POLITICAL AND INTERNATIONAL SECURITY AFFAIRS BRANCH

International Organizations Bureau

This bureau co-ordinates Canada's general participation in the United Nations and most of the specialized agencies (for example, UNESCO), and institutions that form part of the UN system. It also includes the Commonwealth Division and the Francophone Affairs Section which, respectively, co-ordinate Canada's multilateral relations with English- and French-speaking countries.

International Security and Arms Control Bureau

The Bureau consists of the Arms Control and Disarmament Division and the Defence Relations Division. It is responsible for the preparation of policy on arms control and disarmament, in liaison with the Department of National Defence and other departments and agencies, for briefing Canadian delegations attending arms control and disarmament meetings, and for the co-ordination and preparation of policy proposals on the defence aspects of Canada's foreign policy.

Foreign Intelligence Bureau

This bureau produces current and long-term political and economic intelligence assessments and has contacts with other departments and governments for the exchange and dissemination of intelligence. An Interview Division collects information about foreign countries which is not otherwise readily available from Canadian residents.

Security Services Bureau

This bureau is responsible for the personal safety of the Department's personnel; for the security of personnel, property and documents, both in Ottawa and abroad; and for liaison with other departments and governments on national security questions involving foreign relations.

The Emergency Preparedness Division is responsible for Canadian government policy and countermeasures to deal with international terrorism, contingency planning and crisis management.

COMMUNICATIONS AND CULTURE BRANCH

International Cultural Relations Bureau

The Bureau consists of: the Academic Relations Division, the Arts Promotion Division, and the Cultural Policy Division. It is responsible for the development of a sustained interest in Canada among members of the academic community abroad, especially in certain countries, the promotion of tours abroad by Canadian performing artists, the exhibition of Canadian art, participation in film festivals, and international cultural policy issues.

Foreign Policy and General Communications Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for fostering an understanding of Canada's foreign policy, answering enquiries from Canadians on external relations, and determining policies and activities to support the public information programs of Canadian missions abroad. It consists of the Domestic Communications Division, the External Communications Division, and Library Services, which operates the Department's library in Ottawa and provides an International Trade Data Bank that Canadian exporters can access to learn about international trade flows.

Trade Communications Bureau

This bureau is responsible for developing and implementing, in close collaboration with other trade development sections of the Department, export information programs for Canadian business and communications support for trade policy and trade development initiatives. It publishes CanadExport, a bi-weekly newsletter that circulates widely in the business community, and operates the trade information centre, InfoExport, on the main floor of the Pearson Building in Ottawa. A division of this bureau handles Canadian participation in world expositions registered by the Bureau International des Expositions in Paris.

Media Relations Office

This unit is headed by a director who serves as official spokesman to the media for the ministers and the Department. The director provides the official position on foreign policy and international trade questions. Besides answering questions from journalists and handling the Department's day-to-day press relations, the Office arranges general press conferences for ministers, at home and abroad, and special briefings by departmental officials on complex subjects. It issues press releases for the Department and ministers containing formal announcements from the Department and texts of statements and speeches by ministers. It assists Canadian journalists going abroad on assignment and makes arrangements for journalists accompanying ministers when they visit other countries or attend international conferences. It also organizes programs for members of the press accompanying foreign leaders on official visits to Canada.

FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION BRANCH

This branch serves the Department in Ottawa and Hull and the missions throughout the world through four bureaus.

Passport Bureau

The Bureau issues passports to Canadian citizens in Canada. The main passport office in Hull has a public counter and there is also a counter at headquarters in the Pearson Building in Ottawa. There are 18 regional offices: Calgary, Edmonton, Fredericton, Halifax, Hamilton, London, Montreal, Quebec, Saint Laurent, St. John's, Saskatoon, Scarborough, Toronto, North York, Vancouver, Victoria, Windsor and Winnipeg. Passport services are provided abroad at Canadian diplomatic missions and consulates. The Bureau also issues Certificates of Identity and United Nations Refugee Convention travel documents to non-Canadian legal residents and those currently living in Canada who are eligible to receive them.

Finance and Headquarters Administrative Services Bureau

This bureau directs the Department's expenditure accounting operations at home and abroad. It designs, develops and operates the Department's financial planning and analysis system, including the preparation and presentation of the departmental budget estimates and plans. The Headquarters Administrative Services support the Department by providing office space and the delivery of services such as furniture, equipment and supplies and inventory data.

Information Resource Management Bureau

This bureau is responsible for providing support services to the Department at home and abroad through three divisions: Telecommunications, Records Information Management and Information Systems. Major activities are: a global, secure, common communications service for all government departments represented abroad; diplomatic courier, mail management and messenger services; automated information storage and retrieval; records management and guidance; EDP co-ordination, systems analysis and project management; centralized word processing and office automation services; publishing and printing; telephones and audio visual technical support; technical and communications security co-ordination and audit.

Physical Resources Bureau

This bureau is responsible for the planning and provision, through purchase, lease or construction, of all Crown-held property that the Department provides in support of the government's integrated foreign operations. These include the acquisition of related materiel and the provision of maintenance services for embassy properties abroad.

Personnel Branch

The Branch, which is concerned with the whole range of the Department's human resources, is divided into two main bureaus which handle recruitment, training and development, staffing and service abroad, appraisal, promotion and remuneration of officers and administrative staff, as well as, to some extent, locally engaged employees abroad. Some headquarters personnel are classified as non-rotational but many of the bureaus' functions relate specifically to the operations of the Foreign Service, such as assignment to missions and conditions and compensation of service outside Canada. A Posting Services Centre gives advice to those going on foreign service. One division is responsible for all aspects of the Department's official languages program and another unit handles foreign language training.

Corporate Management Bureau

This bureau is concerned with the overall planning, evaluation, improvement and internal audit of the Department's operations and management, including the allocation of resources.

The Cabinet Liaison and Co-ordination Secretariat ensures that the three ministers of the Department receive full information and briefing on the international and departmental implications of submissions to Cabinet. It also co-ordinates departmental submissions to Cabinet. There is a separate unit, the Senior Management Secretariat, which prepares a broad range of policy and administrative information for the deputy ministers, the ministers and the Department at large. The Secretariat serves principal committees of the Department; co-ordinates official visits abroad, visits by foreign representatives to Canada, and representation at major international meetings; and provides the departmental liaison for parliamentary relations.

Policy Development Bureau

The divisions of the Bureau provide advice to senior management of the Department on medium- and long-term policy and on new policy options and directions. They provide advice in both political/strategic and trade/economic policy areas. They also draft notes for speeches on contemporary policy themes.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Finance was formed in 1867 and received legislative authority pursuant to section 8 of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Department of Finance is responsible for advice to the federal government on the economic and financial affairs of Canada. It oversees all government initiatives affecting the economy and monitors external factors that may bear on domestic economic performance. The Department's most visible output is the federal Budget. The Minister of Finance's budget speech reviews the government's accounts and presents fiscal projections for the coming years including expenditures, revenues, tax changes and debt levels. In addition, the Minister is responsible for the management of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Organizational Units and their Role

The Access to Information and Privacy Division is responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for the Department, as well as the Office of the Inspector General of Banks. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to departmental officials on matters which implicate the legislation.

Consultations and Communications Branch

This branch is responsible for maintaining a comprehensive communications and consultations program for the Department. The Consultations Division is responsible for developing a long-term approach to the consultative process so that consultations with the private sector are a permanent feature of economic policy development. The Communications Policy and Strategy Division's role is to research and write major ministerial speeches and prepare departmental communications plans and strategies for economic initiatives. The Information Services and Media Relations Division's program includes the preparation of announcements and the publication of reports on the media coverage of financial and economic news. The Visits and Conferences Division provides co-ordinating expertise and service for the Department in the areas of official conferences and meetings.

Office of the Inspector General of Banks

The Office of the Inspector General of Banks is the supervisory authority for banks and banking in Canada. It has statutory responsibilities for the administration of the Bank Act and responsibilities under the Quebec Savings Banks Act.

Fiscal Policy and Economic Analysis Branch

This branch analyzes and appraises all factors affecting Canada's economic and financial situation and recommends measures to meet the requirements of appropriate fiscal policies. It also analyzes and forecasts the financial requirements of the government of Canada. The Fiscal Policy Division advises on all aspects of fiscal policy and analyzes its current and forecasted effects on the economy. The Special Projects and Policy Analysis Division undertakes research to assist in the development of economic projections and policy initiatives. The Economic Forecasting and Analysis Division keeps the developing economic situation under review by analyzing economic developments and preparing forecasts of such economic structures as production, employment, national income, consumption, the balance of payments, capital spending and changes in the price level.

Financial Sector Policy Branch

This branch provides policy analysis and advice with respect to the financial sector. The Financial Institutions and Markets Division analyzes and develops policies respecting the functioning and regulation of Canadian financial institutions and markets. The Debt Management Division provides policy analysis and recommendations with respect to the management of the federal government's borrowing program, the public debt and debt issues in both domestic and foreign markets. The Financial Analysis Division provides analysis of monetary policy and its interaction with fiscal policy, as well as analysis of the exchange rate and balance of payments.

Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice on federal-provincial fiscal arrangements and social policy programs. The Federal-Provincial Relations Division provides advice and develops, in consultation with the provinces, legislation respecting fiscal arrangements, including revenue sharing, conditional and unconditional transfers to provincial governments, and financial and tax harmonization. The Social Policy Division advises on the development of the federal government's social policies as well as on specific proposals in the major functional areas of labour market, income security and socio-economic programs.

Economic Development Policy Branch

The major role of this branch is to develop policies and programs for Canada's natural resources and other sectors such as industry, regional economic development and transportation. The Energy and Resource Policy Division examines and evaluates proposals made by other government departments on energy and resource related policies including nuclear and hydro-electric energy, renewable energy, oil and gas, minerals, northern development and environment. The Economic Development Division provides advice on program and policy formulation of other departments in the areas of industrial and regional development and all non-energy related sectors. The Crown Corporations Directorate, which is co-managed by the Treasury Board Secretariat, provides a focal point for the government's relations with Crown corporations by advising on the financial requirements of Crown corporations and their subsidiaries for the development of policy and legislation.

International Trade and Finance Branch

This branch has the responsibility for international trade, investment and economic co-operation; the Canadian customs tariff and other legislation governing imports; the international monetary system, international development assistance and export financing. The International Economic Relations Division assists in the development of Canada's policies on international trade by monitoring and evaluating the international trading environment. The International Finance and Development Division is responsible for all aspects of international monetary and financial issues. The Tariffs Division investigates and conducts economic assessments on proposals for amendments to the customs tariff and related matters.

Tax Policy and Legislation Branch

This branch undertakes analysis of and makes recommendations on tax policy issues and prepares appropriate legislation for passage through Parliament. The Tax Policy — Legislation Division provides advice on income tax related issues applicable to persons, corporate entities and tax-exempt entities. The Tax Analysis and Commodity Tax Division analyzes tax policies that have an impact on the tax system such as personal income tax, sales and excise taxes and international tax. The Corporate and Resource Tax Analysis Division conducts economic and quantitative analyses of tax policies in the areas of corporate income tax, international tax and resource taxes for all other levels of government.

Administration Branch

The role of this branch is to assist the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the Comptroller General, the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Deputy Minister of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs in the internal administration of their organizations and to provide financial, personnel, administrative and management advice to branches and divisions. The Branch consists of five divisions: Administrative Services, Financial Services, Personnel, Security Services and Systems.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES AND OCEANS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans was created in April 1979 by the Department of Fisheries and Oceans Act. The Fisheries Act was enacted in 1867 in accordance with the responsibility for "sea-coast and inland fisheries" placed on the federal government by section 91(12) of the Constitution Act, 1867.

Responsibilities

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans is responsible for a wide range of fisheries activities, including fisheries management and research in coastal and inland waters, fisheries economic development, international fisheries negotiations, oceanographic research, hydrographic surveying and charting, and the development and administration of fishing and recreational harbours.

Legislation

- Atlantic Fisheries Restructuring Act
- Coastal Fisheries Protection Act
- Department of Fisheries and Oceans Act
- Fisheries Act
- Fisheries Development Act
- Fisheries Improvement Loans Act
- Fisheries Prices Support Act
- Fisheries and Oceans Research Advisory Council Act
- Fish Inspection Act

- Saltfish Act
- Territorial Sea and Fishing Zones Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Science

The Science Sector includes an extensive range of programs which contribute to the management and development of renewable and non-renewable ocean resources, and to the understanding of ecological processes within the aquatic and marine environment. It also includes precautions and remedies required to restore and protect that environment and the resources associated with it.

The Fisheries and Biological Sciences Directorate provides a scientific basis for the management and development of Canada's fisheries and biological resources. Research programs are focused on resource assessment, aquaculture and resource development, and biological oceanography.

The Physical and Chemical Sciences Directorate is responsible for the study of physical properties, processes and phenomena in marine waters, and the study of the flux, distribution and behaviour of organic and inorganic materials on fish and on the pathways of pollutants throughout the ecosystem. Technology development is carried out not only in support of the research activities but also for transfer to Canada's ocean industry. In addition to physical and chemical oceanographic research, activities include the operation of a Marine Environmental Data Service which collects and distributes oceanographic and wave climate information, tide and water level measurements and related data.

The Canadian Hydrographic Service is mandated to carry out all necessary hydrographic surveys and to publish, maintain and distribute the navigational charts, sailing directions and tide tables needed to permit safe and efficient navigation in all Canadian navigable waters.

Atlantic Fisheries

The Sector is responsible for the planning, direction and co-ordination of field operations relating to fisheries management in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Quebec. The Sector is also responsible for the development and implementation of commercial and recreational fisheries policies and programs in those areas. The work involves resource allocation, implementation of development programs, fulfilment of foreign arrangements, and the conservation, protection and enhancement of fishery resources and fish habitat on the Atlantic coast.

The Atlantic Operations Directorate is responsible for providing advice and support to the assistant deputy minister (Atlantic Fisheries) on issues related to fisheries management in the various regions of the Atlantic coast. This involves co-ordinating policies and programs on a national basis and working with the regions towards the surveillance and management of the 200-mile exclusive fisheries zones. Specifically, these programs include the design and administration of a licensing system, resource allocation, including yearly fishing plans, and the co-ordination of enforcement activities. The Directorate also works towards quality improvement and the provision of assistance to fishermen and processors in the development of new methods of harvesting and processing.

The Atlantic Fisheries Licence Appeal Board was established to hear appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions. The Board also considers general problems on licensing policy, and makes recommendations to the Minister and the Atlantic Regional Council, an advisory body to the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans.

Pacific and Freshwater Fisheries

The Sector is responsible for the planning, direction and co-ordination of field operations related to the marine and anadromous fisheries in British Columbia and all fisheries in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Work in these areas includes resource allocation, implementation of development programs and fulfilment of foreign arrangements. In Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the federal government supports a strong research program, carries out inspection of fish and fish products and enforces federal fisheries regulations. The provinces are responsible for all other aspects of fisheries management, although the federal government develops and implements commercial fisheries policy for the short- and medium-term in these areas. The Sector also has national responsibility for fish habitat (including enhancement activities).

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES AND OCEANS

The Fisheries Operations Directorate is responsible for providing advice and support to the assistant deputy minister (Pacific and Freshwater Fisheries) on issues related to fisheries management in the various regions of western Canada. This involves co-ordinating and working with the regions for the surveillance of the 200-mile exclusive fisheries zones, conservation programs, fish and fishery products upgrading, and assistance to fishermen and processors in the development of improved and new methods of harvesting and processing.

The Fish Habitat Management Branch provides advice on fish habitat management issues in all regions of Canada. This involves the preparation of national policy quidance on habitat affairs and the co-ordination of work with the regions. Related activities include habitat protection, conservation, compliance with legislation, restoration and development. The Branch also advises on research in support of departmental protection of fish and fish habitat.

The Arctic and Inland Fisheries Branch provides the focus for all departmental policy and program co-ordination and delivery in the Arctic and Inland Fisheries sector of the Department. These programs include marine mammal stock assessment and surveys, inland fisheries management, monitoring of fish habitat disruption, and conservation and protection of fishery and marine mammal resources in the Northwest Territories.

Policy and Program Planning

The Sector is responsible for strategic policy and planning, economic and commercial analysis and communications.

The Strategic Policy and Planning Directorate includes corporate policy development and co-ordination, strategic planning, federal/provincial relations and Native fisheries policy.

The Economic and Commercial Analysis Directorate encompasses analysis in support of policy development, market analysis and intelligence, and the administration of the Fishing Vessel Insurance Program and the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act. It also provides policy analysis and advice with respect to the Fisheries Prices Support Board, the Canadian Saltfish Corporation and the Freshwater Fisheries Marketing Corporation. It is also responsible for policy development regarding oceans and recreational fisheries.

The Communications Directorate is responsible for the Department's corporate communications activities. It develops communications strategies and supports the initiatives of all sectors as well as scientific publications.

International Directorate

The Directorate encompasses the conduct of international relations to advance Canada's fisheries conservation and trade interests in co-operation with the Department of External Affairs and other government departments. This includes the negotiation and administration of international treaties and agreements affecting bilateral and multilateral fisheries relations with other countries, as well as the formulation and representation of fisheries trade positions. The International Directorate focuses on three main subject areas: Atlantic fisheries, Pacific fisheries and trade policy. The Directorate is accountable for policies, strategies and programs aimed at advancing, developing and protecting Canada's fisheries conservation and trade interests through international fisheries relations and the settlement of maritime boundary disputes with countries bordering on or near the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. These endeavours include lowering tariffs and removing non-tariff barriers, expanding access to foreign markets and providing advice to the Trade Negotiations Office in current Canada/U.S. talks.

The Department participates in nine multilateral fisheries commissions involved in scientific and conservation activities. Financial contributions to these organizations are non-discretionary obligations on behalf of Canada pursuant to various treaties.

Corporate and Regulatory Programs

The Sector is responsible for corporate financial and administrative services and human resource planning, for directing the acquisition and management of capital assets, for developing the Department's national regulations and enforcement activities, and for developing and implementing policies, regulations and programs to ensure that fish and fish products meet appropriate inspection standards.

The Inspection Directorate is responsible for providing assurance that fish and fish products in export, import and interprovincial trade do not present a health hazard, are of acceptable quality and are not fraudulently marketed. The program also provides the focus for departmental involvement in quality improvement initiatives, such as dockside and final product grading, designed to improve the consistency of fish quality, reduce wastage of the fishery resource and improve processing yields. It is a comprehensive program carried out nationally in all regions of the Department for inspection of fish and fish products, fish processing establishments, and vessels and facilities used in handling and tranporting fish.

The Regulations and Enforcement Directorate is responsible for developing and promulgating the Department's national regulations and directing the Department's enforcement activities.

The Capital Assets Directorate includes the management of the capital asset inventory of the Department, which consists of small craft harbours and all other departmental assets such as special-purpose buildings and other facilities, vessels and a wide range of equipment.

The Finance and Planning Directorate provides financial and planning advice and services to the departmental executive, program managers and regional finance officers.

The Informatics and Administration Directorate provides corporate leadership in the development and implementation of national information and administrative systems. The Directorate's major objective is to ensure that the Department is provided with well-designed, efficient and cost-effective systems to meet operational, research, administrative and management information needs.

The Internal Audit Directorate advises on the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls, and identifies areas where improvements are needed.

The Program Evaluation Directorate is responsible for undertaking specific evaluation studies and making recommendations for the discontinuation, modification or confirmation of policies and programs.

CANADIAN SALTFISH CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Saltfish Act, 1970, gives the Corporation a monopoly on the inter-provincial and export trade in cured salt fish (bulk and dried) produced in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador and on the lower north shore of the province of Quebec. The corporation is listed in Schedule C, Part I, of the Financial Administration Act.

The Canadian Saltfish Corporation is mandated to maximize returns from the saltfish trade through central desk selling, and to rationalize production.

Legislation

- Saltfish Act (1970)

Organizational Units and their Role

The board of directors of the Corporation is composed of a chairman, who is also president of the Corporation, one director from each participating province, as well as five other directors. Each is appointed by the Governor in Council to hold office for a period not exceeding five years. Provincial directors are recommended by the lieutenant governor of the province concerned.

Saltfish processing companies in the regions specified in the Corporation's mandate have become its agents for the purchase, handling and preparation of products.

B. CLASSES OF RECORDS

Access Procedures

A formal request under the Access to Information Act should be made by completing an Access to Information Request Form and forwarding it to:

The President
Canadian Saltfish Corporation
P.O. Box 6088

Reading Room

In accordance with section 71 of the Access to Information Act, an area on the premises of this institution has been designated as a reading room where members of the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs and activities that affect the public. The address is: Torbay Road, St. John's, Newfoundland.

FRESHWATER FISH MARKETING CORPORATION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Freshwater Fish Marketing Act, 1969, gives the Corporation a monopoly on the interprovincial and export trade in designated products of the freshwater fisheries supplied from the Northwest Territories, the Prairies and part of northern Ontario. The Corporation is listed in Schedule C, Part I of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The objective of the Corporation is to unify the trade in freshwater fishery products in response to economic distress among primary producers caused by fragmentation of assembling, processing and exporting operations. Some 20 companies had previously been involved, as compared with three major importers in the U.S., where 90 per cent of the production was sold. The Corporation has responsibility for the orderly marketing of fish, the promotion of interprovincial and export trade, and an increase in returns to fishermen. To accomplish this, it has powers to purchase, process, store and ship fishery products, employ agents, enter into agreements, and borrow, lend and invest money.

Legislation

- Freshwater Fish Marketing Act (1969)

Organizational Units and their Role

The board of directors consists of 11 members: the chairman, the president of the Corporation, one member from each participating province and four members appointed by the federal government. There is also an advisory committee composed of 15 fishermen.

The Corporation has a main plant at Transcona, Manitoba and processing plants at Hay River, Northwest Territories, The Pas, Manitoba, Edmonton, Alberta and La Ronge, Saskatchewan.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development was established under section 15 of the Government Organization Act, 1966, now the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act (R.S.C. 1970 chapters I-7 as amended). The Department is, in effect, an amalgamation of the responsibilities of the then Department of Northern affairs and Natural Resources and the then Department of Citizenship and Immigration.

Responsibilities

The Department is responsible for promoting the interests of Canada's Indian and Inuit peoples, ensuring that lawful obligations to them are met, and settling outstanding claims related to their traditional use and occupancy of lands. It is also responsible for encouraging the orderly economic and political development of the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Increasingly though, the Department is devolving its powers and responsibilities to the native peoples and territorial governments directly concerned.

Legislation

- Arctic Waters Pollution Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter 2 and Regulations
- British Columbia Indian Cut-Off Lands Settlement Act, S.C. 1984, chapter 2

Organizational Units and their Role

Self-Government Program

The objective of the Self-Government Program is to implement the Government's intentions to alter fundamentally the relationship between the native peoples and the government of Canada through the settlement of comprehensive claims and through community specific self-government models which recognize the cultural, organizational and regional difference among native peoples.

The Program provides a focus for development of constitutional proposals, new legislation, legislative amendments and policy adjustments required for self-government. It investigates, researches and consults on major government initiatives to restructure the administrative contact between Indian communities and the government of Canada.

The program is divided into four branches: Policy and Constitution, Self-government Negotiations, Financial Transfer Arrangements, Implementation and Operations, and Comprehensive Claims Negotiations.

The Policy and Constitution Branch, consisting of two directorates, the Policy Directorate and the Constitution Directorate, is responsible for developing policies and strategies relating to self-government, comprehensive claims, and related implementation matters. It provides advice on constitutional matters, especially those relating to aboriginal rights and treaty issues; assesses positions regarding the interpretation of existing policies and constitutional provisions; and takes the lead in the Department's input on international aboriginal and human rights issues.

The Self-government Negotiations Branch conducts community-based negotiations on self-government which result in legislation and negotiated agreements. These negotiations are tailored to the diverse needs and traditions of Indian people and are conducted in response to community initiatives.

The Financial Transfer Arrangements, Implementation and Operations Branch is responsible for the preparation of general plans for the implementation of self-government and comprehensive claims agreements. This branch is also responsible for monitoring the fulfillment of departmental financial obligations and other commitments with respect to comprehensive claims and self-government agreements. It consists of two directorates: the Operations Directorate and the Financial Transfer Arrangements and Implementation Directorate.

The Comprehensive Claims Branch assesses comprehensive claims submitted by aboriginal groups, develops negotiating mandates, and conducts negotiations on behalf of the Department and the Government of Canada, all according to the Comprehensive Land Claims Policy. It also provides services to native people and departmental officials regarding native claims research and analysis through the Treaties and Historical Research Centre.

The Economic Development Program

The mandate of the Program is to assist Indian and Inuit people and their institutions to increase skill, commercial, industrial and resource development activities in support of their economic and employment goals.

The activities of the Economic Development Program are directed towards improving the participation of native people in the Canadian economy as entrepreneurs, employees or equity-holders. It responds to the needs and aspirations of native communities, institutions and individuals by providing policy direction, programs, advocacy and interdepartmental and intergovernmental co-ordination. It assists bands in the management of natural resources, both renewable and non-renewable, for the use and benefit of the respective band and it manages statutory requirements and regulations pursuant to the Indian Act with regard to minerals and oil and gas resources on reserves. It provides data and information on the resource and economic base of Indian lands.

The Economic Development Program consists of four branches: Planning and Operations, Indian Oil and Gas Canada, Policy, and Co-ordination.

The Planning and Operations Branch is responsible for overseeing and co-ordinating the regional implementation of economic development strategies and programs which assist Indian and Inuit individuals, bands, communities and business enterprises. The Branch directly assists Indian and Inuit Bands and communities to identify and utilize on-reserve mineral and natural resource holdings as well as to obtain benefits from off-reserve resource development. The Branch is divided into the following directorates: Economic Programs, Resources and Institutions, Indian Minerals East and Minerals West.

The Indian Oil and Gas Canada Branch has a mandate to provide Indian bands with advice and technical support and services, and to ensure the indentification, disposal, exploration, development and administrative protection of the bands' oil and/or gas resources and rights. In this regard, Indian Oil and Gas Canada is accountable under the Minister's statutory responsibility to obtain optimum benefits of involvement, employment and revenues for the Indian people.

Indian Oil and Gas Canada comprises four distinct but interlocking divisions: Oil and Gas Technical; Land; Finance and Royalty Accountability; and Administration and Training.

Policy and Co-ordination Branches are responsible for developing all policy and legislative and program strategy development in the Economic Development Program and for carrying out substantive analysis and reviews. The Branches also develop proposals and conduct consultations with Indian organizations, the banking sector and federal and provincial governments.

Indian Services

The objectives of this program, in keeping with the principles of self-development, access to opportunity, responsibility and joint participation within Canadian society, is to assist and support Indians and Inuit in achieving their educational, cultural, social and community development needs and aspirations. The Indian Services Program includes the four following branches.

The Band Support and Capital Management Branch provides assistance for Indians living on reserves by providing subsidies for the construction and renovation of units as well as management and technical support and training to bands. The Branch encourages local control of, and accountability for, Indian programs and services. The Branch is divided into four directorates: Housing, Band Support, Capital Management and Transfer Payments Management.

The Education Branch ensures that on-reserve Indian children have access to elementary and secondary schooling throughout the ordinary school years. It administers kindergartens, supports Indian students in extensive vocational and post-secondary education, provides counselling, and assists cultural education centres.

The Social Development Branch provides funds for social assistance and related services, funds for administering and purchasing child and family welfare services, and for adult care rehabilitation services. Advice and training are provided to assist Indian communities in administering their own services. The Branch includes the Income Maintenance Directorate, Personal and Community Services Directorate, and the Information System and Data Base Directorate.

The Program Planning Directorate designs and co-ordinates processes in the Department for operational planning, work planning, monitoring and control, and related management practices. The Branch co-ordinates the Directory of Services, Band Service Profile, and the Directives Management System for the Indian Services Program.

Lands, Revenues and Trusts Program

The Program's mandate is to fulfill the legal obligations of the Government of Canada in all matters respecting Indians and lands reserved for Indians excepting the development of natural resources; and to settle accepted specific claims. The Lands, Revenues and Trusts Program consists of the four following branches.

The Policy Branch provides the Program with the capacity for the formulation or development of new or amended legislation, regulations, and national policies on matters within the Program's responsibility.

The Indian Environmental Protection Branch provides Indian and Inuit people with funding, and policy, program and technical support to enable them to respond to the environmental protection challenges. The Branch is also responsible for fulfilling the legal obligations of the Minister of Indian Affairs with regard to lands and waters reserved for Indians, for the protection of these lands from potential adverse environmental impacts, and for ensuring remedial, mitigation, or compensation entitlements to Indian people where impacts occur.

The Specific Claims Branch has assumed the responsibilities in the specific claims area assigned to the former Office of Native Claims. The Branch reviews specific claims that have been presented to the government, in order to identify and analyze the historical and factual elements relating to the claims, and consults with the Department of Justice regarding their legal basis. The Branch also represents the Minister and the federal government in specific claims negotiations with Indian bands across the country, and identifies policy issues and recommends their resolution.

Northern Affairs Program

The Northern Affairs Program, directly or in collaboration with the territorial governments, focusses its activities in the North towards developing fully responsible political and social institutions, promoting sustained economic development, effectively managing the renewable and non-renewable northern natural resources, and protecting the northern environment. It also co-ordinates all federal government activity in the two territories.

The Program has regional offices in the Yukon and in the Northwest Teritories and consists of the two following branches.

The Constitutional Development and Strategic Planning Branch is responsible for the formulation, review, co-ordination and implementation of national priorities and strategies for the North; federal/territorial relations; special federal programs for the social, cultural and economic development of northern native people; the formulation and co-ordination of federal positions on northern claims; and the fostering of northern science and research and circumpolar activities. It is also responsible for the Northern Canada Power Commission (NCPC) and for Northern Energy Subsidies in the Northwest Territories. The Branch is comprised of three directorates: Constitutional Development, Circumpolar and Scientific Affairs and Strategic Planning. The Branch is also responsible for administering the Northern Oil and Gas Action Program (NOGAP).

The Natural Resources and Economic Development Branch is responsible for economic planning and development, and for administering the Economic Development Agreements in each territory. It encourages exploration and development of non-renewable resource projects, promotes native businesses, and plans for the development of a northern transportation infrastructure, including the construction of northern roads. It is responsible for the co-ordination of federal government review and regulation of major resource development projects. The Branch is accountable for the conservation and orderly development of the water and land resources of the North, the forests in the Yukon, and provides for the protection of the northern natural environment.

The Branch is comprised of six directorates: Northern Renewable Resources, Economic Development and Land Use Planning, Northern Environmental Protection, Socio-Economic Agreements and Native Economy, Mining Management and Infrastructure, and Northern Oil and Gas Management and Major Projects. The Branch is also responsible for administering the Northern Environmental Studies Revolving Fund (ESRF).

The Corporate Services Directorate is responsible for providing support to the Associate Deputy Minister (North) for planning, financial and human resource control, co-ordination of briefings and correspondence, parliamentary relations, and for the implentation of the C.O.P.E. claim.

The Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration (COGLA) has been established to administer the federal regulation relating to oil and gas exploration and the development on frontier lands. It is the principal point of contact for proponents respecting operational matters. COGLA, on behalf of the Minister, negotiates exploration licences, grants permits for drilling work, inspects drilling operations and negotiates related Canadian benefits plans for northern activity. The administrator of COGLA reports to the deputy ministers of Energy, Mines and Resources, and Indian Affairs and Northern Development. Policy direction is provided by the Policy Review Committee, which includes senior personnel from both departments thereby ensuring that oil and gas administration is consistent with both northern and energy policies.

Finance and Professional Services Program (Administration)

Finance and Professional Services is responsible for the development, management, operation and maintenance of the Department's resource planning and allocation mechanisms and of related financial administration systems. It provides all departmental automated data processing services, manages the Department's Improvement Management Practices Accountability and Control (IMPAC) initiatives, and assists departmental management to promote and encourage the use of sound management practices, processes and systems. The Program provides a range of technical and contract services relating to such matters as capital construction projects and the maintenance of capital assets and contract administration. It is also responsible for the conduct of functional and management reviews and special audits.

The following branches make up the Program: Finance, Contracts, Management Practices and Departmental Audit.

The Finance Branch is responsible for resource planning, management financial reporting and accounting operations within the Department. Its functions include the development and implementation of resourcing and accounting policies, systems and procedures; advice to senior management and regional financial staff on all financial matters; the operation and maintenance of financial systems; and the provision of financial management training.

The Contract Branch is responsible for the provision of operational and advisory services related to the development and delivery of the contracting process, including such activities as tender call, requests for proposals, review of responses, contract awards, claims, disputes and contract administration covering construction, consulting and non-consulting contracts.

The goals of the Management Practices Branch include promoting, fostering and maintaining sound managerial practices, processes and systems within the Department, as well as their assessment, development or integration by undertaking projects and special assignments identified by senior management. The Branch is also mandated to develop the tools that will provide more effective and efficient management. As well, it provides the Department's central information systems and data processing services.

The Departmental Audit Branch carries out a systematic review and appraisal of all departmental operations for purposes of advising management as to the efficiency, economy and effectivemess of internal management policies and controls. The Branch develops and implements departmental audit policies and programs; co-ordinates and executes all departmental audit operations (execpt band audits); and co-ordinates all audit matters emanating from the offices of the Auditor General, Comptroller General and other central agencies.

The Communications Branch is responsible for promoting a better understanding of the Department's policies and programs to the general public and various special interest groups. It provides advice to the Minister, the deputy minister and senior management. It also provides a full range of communications services to the operating programs, which include communications planning, media relations, special events, public enquiries, publications, exhibits, and films. At the same time, the Branch is responsible for an internal communications program directed towards departmental employees, for defining departmental communications objectives, and for developing and maintaining communications standards within the Department.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS AND NORTHERN DEVELOPMENT

The main responsibilities of the Human Resources Branch are to advise the deputy minister with regard to the management of the department's personnel resources, to formulate the personnel administration program in the Department, and to develop policies and programs designed to enhance the Department's performance in personnel administration and human resources utilization. It also provides support, advice and functional guidance to senior managers and regional personnel officers in relation to the implementation of personnel administration policies, programs and procedures, monitors and evaluates personnel administration activities within the Department, and ensures the quality, effectivness and statutory compliance of the personnel administration services provided to managers throughout the Department.

The Executive Support Services Branch is mandated to direct strategic planning, evaluation, correspondence, briefing and analytical services in support of the Minister, the deputy minister, and the departmental executive generally. This includes co-ordinating the Department's relations with Parliament, Cabinet and the central agencies, as well as managing evaluations in accordance with Treasury Board Office of Comptroller General (OCG) policy, the executive correspondence and briefing system, and special policy or program analyses assigned by the deputy minister.

DEPARTMENT OF INSURANCE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Insurance was formally established by the Insurance Act, 1910.

Responsibilities

The Department of Insurance is responsible for the supervision of federally registered or licensed insurance, trust, loan and investment companies, fraternal benefit societies, and co-operative credit societies. It also supervises employer-sponsored pension plans relative to employment under federal jurisdiction. In addition, the Department is responsible for the provision of actuarial advice to other departments and performs extensive actuarial services in the valuation of government pension and insurance programs, except Unemployment Insurance and Government Annuities.

Legislation

- Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act
- Civil Service Insurance Act
- Co-operative Credit Associations Act
- Foreign Insurance Companies Act
- Investment Companies Act
- Loan Companies Act
- Part I, Excise Tax Act
- Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985
- Trust Companies Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Operations Branch

This branch involves the supervision of companies, including periodic on-site examinations of books and records of all federally registered or licensed financial institutions other than chartered banks. It also provides examinations, other technical services and advice to the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation and, by agreement, provides similar services to certain provincial jurisdictions concerning provincially incorporated companies.

Actuarial Branch

This branch provides actuarial services and advice to other government departments and performs extensive actuarial services in the evaluation of government insurance and pension programs, including the employer pension plans relative to employment under federal jurisdiction.

Finance and Administration Branch

This branch administers the Civil Service Insurance Act and Part I of the Excise Tax Act. Under the Civil Service Insurance Act, life insurance was made available by the government to public servants on a voluntary basis until 1954. Current activities involve receipt of premiums on premium-paying policies; correspondence with policy holders regarding changes of beneficiary, mode of payment, etc.; and processing of death claims and cash surrender values. Under Part I of the Excise Tax Act, a ten percent premium tax is imposed on certain insurance premiums paid to unauthorized insurers, and to authorized insurers through brokers outside Canada.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities

The work of the Department may be described as consisting of litigation, the provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares or reviews recommendations for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal statutes and regulations.

In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research, and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants are made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial governments in connection with Compensation of Victims of Violent Crimes, Legal Aid in criminal cases, Unified Family Court pilot projects, and Native Courtworker Programs. The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organizational Units and their Role

Deputy Minister's Office

This office provides essential support services to the Deputy Minister. It ensures appropriate communication and liaison on policy and operational issues between the Deputy Minister and the Minister's Office, the Department and other government departments and agencies.

Corporate Policy and Co-ordination Branch

The Branch combines five groups which provide policy and mangement direction and co-ordination.

The Corporate Services Directorate provides a variety of legal, policy and support services to the Minister, Deputy Minister and departmental officials. The Directorate includes a Cabinet Liaison Office, a Ministerial Briefing and Parliamentary Affairs Unit, the Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordination Unit, and the Ministerial Correspondence Unit.

The Liaison and Federal-Provincial Relations Directorate develops and ensures effective mechanisms for improved co-ordination among all parts of the Department and provides timely information to responsible officials. It also develops and manages a co-ordinated and ongoing relationship between the Department and the appropriate provincial and territorial departments and agencies for the advancement of federal government policies and objectives in the Canadian justice field. Moreover, the directorate provides liaison with national and international organizations in the field of justice.

The Bureau of Program Evaluation and Internal Audit undertakes evaluation and audit studies of the full range of departmental operations and programs, ensuring their continued relevance and positive impact, and examines methods of improving operational performance and the adequacy of controls to ensure appropriate, efficient and effective expenditure of public funds.

The Corporate Planning Section is responsible for the development, implementation and operation of mangement systems for the Department. The section ensures that management issues, problems and opportunities are identified and addressed.

The Communications and Public Affairs section plans, develops and implements the Department's communications policy, identifies and establishes communications goals, objectives, priorities and delivery mechanisms. It also recommends and evaluaties communications activites in accordance with the Cabinet Paper System, federal-provincial policies and departmental mandates. The section conducts public and media relations on a national basis and responds to public enquiries for information and publications. Finally, it manages and co-ordinates programs and activities relating to public informaton and public affairs.

Legislative Programming Branch

This branch prepares, in both official languages, all bills the government plans to introduce in Parliament. It also drafts motions to amend bills and examines all bills introduced by ministers in the House of Commons to ascertain whether they are consistent with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms or the Canadian Bill of Rights.

The Statute Revision Commission is engaged in the revision, consolidation and indexing of federal laws and regulations and prepares administrative consolidations of federal laws.

Public Law Branch

This branch advises the government on legal and policy issues in the public law field. Specifically, it advises on constitutional, international, administrative and native law as well as on matters relating to the machinery and operation of government and to statutory instruments.

The Constitutional and International Law Section provides policy and legal advice to the government on constitutional issues. It participates in federal-provincial negotiations, the legislative process, the development and implementation of international instruments and litigation involving constitutional questions.

The Advisory and Administrative Law Section is particularly concerned with areas of law relating to the machinery and operation of government. It is actively engaged in developing proposals for administrative law reform, assisting other branches of the Department on such subjects as amendments to the Federal Court Act and preparing legal opinions on a variety of administrative and other legal matters.

The Native Law Section provides legal and policy advice in the area of native affairs. It is involved in the aboriginal constitutional process and the development of initiatives on Indian self-government, as well as the application and revision of the Indian Act.

The Privy Council Office Legal Section functions in regard to the Department's responsibilities under the Statutory Instruments Act and reviews all proposed regulations. Counsel in this section also serve as legal advisers to officers of the Privy Council Office and in particular to the Assistant Clerk of the House of Commons responsible for Orders-in-Council.

Civil Litigation Branch

This branch represents the Attorney General of Canada in civil litigation involving the federal government.

The Civil Litigation (Common Law) Section handles litigation for or against the Crown which arises everywhere in Canada, except out of the province of Québec.

The Civil Litigation and Real Property Law (Québec) Section handles litigation for or against the Crown arising out of the province of Québec and is also responsible for providing services in property law matters in the province of Québec.

Criminal Law Branch

This branch discharges, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada and the Minister of Justice, the obligations, duties and responsibilities imposed on the Minister by legislation and under the common law.

The Criminal Prosecutions Section is responsible for prosecution of infractions under federal statutes (other than the Criminal Code over which the provincial Attorneys General exercise prosecutorial authority) and related matters including the implementation of Canada's obligations under the Extradition Act and the Fugitive Offenders Act. The Section also reviews applications under the Criminal Code for the mercy of the Crown by or on behalf of persons who have been convicted in proceedings by indictment or who have been sentenced to preventive detention, and makes recommendations to the Minister as to their disposition.

Policy, Programs and Research Branch

This branch plans, develops and implements government justice policies and administers programs, some of which are cost-shared with the provinces. It also administers the Department's grants and contributions programs.

The Federal Regulatory Remedies Projects are concerned with modernizing implementation policies and practices associated with some 200 federal statutes. The projects study and advise on, departmental and agency programs designed to influence public behaviour and to obtain compliance with the law.

The Criminal and Family Law Policy and Amendments Section identifies and analyses emerging criminal justice and family law issues of national significance and develops policies designed to address these issues. It reviews recommendations of the Law Reform Commission and also develops proposals for amendments to specific federal statutes.

The Programs and Research Section is responsible for developing the Department's program and law information policy objectives and initiatives and for the management of its federal-provincial cost-shared programs as well as its contributions funds. It is also responsible for defining, undertaking and overseeing the conduct of all policy-related socio-legal research on behalf of the Department.

The Criminal Law Review Group is responsible for carrying out an accelerated and fundamental review of criminal law.

Tax Law Sector

This sector is generally responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in tax law matters. The Sector also acts on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada in all civil appeals from reassessments to income tax and some litigation pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Canada Pension Plan. The litigation work is divided between the tax litigation sections at Headquarters and the Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Edmonton and Vancouver regional offices.

Human Rights Law Section

This section gives legal opinions to the Crown on the interpretation and application of constitutional provisions, federal legislation and international instruments having human rights implications.

Admiralty and Maritime Law Branch

This branch is responsible for admiralty litigation, maritime legislation, maritime commercial law, marine casualty investigations and marine international law, and provides specialized legal advice and expertise in these fields.

General Counsel Group

This group conducts, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, litigation which requires counsel of particular seniority and expertise. Members of the group often participate in legal education, such as panel discussions and seminars arranged by the Department or by provincial and local bar associations

Departmental Legal Services Branch

This branch provides a wide variety of in-house legal services to federal departments and agencies and specialized legal advice on property law, commercial law and the law of privacy and access to information.

The Commercial Law and Property Law Sections are generally responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in commercial and property law matters, as well as the provision of policy and legal advice to federal departments and agencies in matters of commercial and property law.

The Information Law and Privacy Section deals with a wide range of legal issues relating to information held by the government and is a centre of expertise in respect of access to information, privacy legislation and related areas.

Administration Branch

This branch provides administrative support services relating to finance, personnel, library, legal information retrieval, accommodation, security, telecommunications and all other logistical elements common to government departments. Its Central Divorce Registry Unit administers a computerized register of petitions for divorce in Canada, to ensure that courts in different parts of the country are not dealing with the same matter concurrently. The Central Divorce Registry also provides data to Statistics Canada.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Labour (Labour Canada) was established in 1900 under the Conciliation Act. It now operates under the Department of Labour Act.

Responsibilities

Legislation administered by the Department includes working conditions, federal mediation and conciliation services, government employee and merchant seamen compensation, occupational safety and health, and labour adjustment assistance benefits for workers affected by redundancies and layoffs.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, chapter L-1)
  - — Part III (Labour Standards)
  - — Part IV (Safety of Employees)
  - — Part V (Industrial Relations)
- Department of Labour Act (R.S.C. 1970, chapter L-2)
- Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act (R.S.C. 1970, chapter L-3)
- Government Employee Compensation Act (R.S.C. 1970, chapter G-8)
- Labour Adjustment Benefits Act (R.S.C. 1980-81-82-83, chapter 89) amemded by R.S.C. 1980-1981-82-83, chapter 109,169
- Merchant Seamen Compensation Act (R.S.C. 1970, chapter M-11) as amended by R.S.C. 1970, chapter 19, 2nd Suppl.

Organizational Units and their Role

Management Systems and Services

Management Systems and Services consists of Financial and Administrative Services, Corporate Services, Data and Documentation Services, and Information Processing. It is responsible for the implementation of corporate systems and policies in the general areas of administration, finance, information, audit and evaluation.

Communications Directorate

Communications Directorate draws public attention to and encourages public support for the Department's programs and services. It is responsible for media relations, audio-visual services, editorial and creative writing services, and publishing. It produces the Department's annual report and its newsletter.

Personnel

The Personnel Branch is responsible for the Department's personnel relations: human resources, classification, pay, staff relations and employee services. In addition, it looks after the Department's official languages plan, language training and affirmative action.

Merchant Seamen Compensation Board

The Merchant Seamen Compensation Board administers the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act which provides worker's compensation coverage for seamen who are employed on vessels registered in Canada and who are not covered by a provincial workers' compensation act.

Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service consists of the Technical Support and Operational Research Branch, the Legislative and Special Projects Branch, the Arbitration Services Branch, and the Mediation and Conciliation Branch. It is responsible for the administration of the dispute resolution provisions of the Canada Labour Code.

The Technical Support and Operational Research Branch carries out specialized research activities and projects pertinent to the resolution of labour-management disputes. It provides operational research support to conciliation officers and mediators in the field and at headquarters. In addition, it analyses developments and trends in industrial relations in Canada, the United States and other countries.

The Legislative and Special Projects Branch analyses labour board and court decisions to ensure the maintenance of an appropriate framework for labour-management relations. Legislative developments in provincial jurisdiction are also monitored. The Branch provides advice on the labour implications of various government initiatives and policies.

The Arbitration Services Branch is responsible for effecting the ministerial appointment of grievance arbitrators under collective labour agreements, and of adjudicators to hear complaints of alleged unjust dismissal made by non-unionized employees. The Branch also maintains an inventory of all arbitration/adjudication decisions. These decisions are analysed, indexed and summarized in scope note format in the monthly publication, the Arbitration Services Reporter.

The Mediation and Conciliation Branch provides neutral third-party assistance to labour and management to resolve disputes arising during the negotiation of collective agreements or during the term of an agreement by appointing conciliation officers, conciliation commissioners or boards and mediators under Part V of the Canada Labour Code. It also helps improve labour relations between specific parties through the practice of preventive mediation, and the general labour relations climate through the appointment of Industrial Inquiry Commissions.

Policy Program

The Policy Program consists of the Women's Bureau, the International Relations Branch, the Federal-Provincial Relations Branch, the Policy and Strategic Analysis Branch, the Labour Adjustment Branch, the Bureau of Labour Information and the Labour Outreach Secretariat. It is responsible for the management of programs that offer funding or services to groups and individuals, for advising officials on labour policy and for publishing data and discussion papers on policy options. It also co-ordinates the Department of Labour's relations with provincial governments, international organizations and the Canadian private sector.

The Women's Bureau reviews legislation, programs and policies on the employment of women, and recommends initiatives indicated by socio-economic developments which affect women in the workplace. It co-operates with federal, provincial and international agencies to improve the situation of women working for pay and conducts in-depth research on relevant current issues. The Bureau has a regular publication program and is the focal point within and outside the Department for information concerning women in the labour force. Promotional activities are carried out to facilitate the improvement, support and recognition of women's concerns in the world of paid work. The Bureau's Reference Centre is open to the public.

The International Relations Branch is responsible for the Department's international labour activities including those connected to the International Labour Organization (ILO) and other international bodies of which Canada is a member or in which it has strong interest. It also acts as an intelligence unit generating information and suggestions to appropriate centres in the Department, consults with the provinces' labour and employer organizations on ILO matters, and maintains liaison with the Canada branch of the ILO.

The Federal-Provincial Relations Branch works towards strengthening consultative efforts between levels of government and developing new mechanisms, either on a bilateral or multilateral basis, to assist in the resolution of problems between federal and provincial governments in the labour field. It also assesses various federal-provincial labour policy issues, arranges federal-provincial labour meetings and provides secretariat services to the Canadian Association of Administrators of Labour Legislation. The Branch monitors and analyses the trends and issues pertaining to labour matters in provincial jurisdictions. In support of this, it maintains a documentation centre on Canadian labour legislation, which provides the government and public with analysis and research.

The Policy and Strategic Analysis Branch studies major economic and social issues and ensures that labour concerns are fully integrated into the government's policy-making process. Among its key responsibilities are providing regular briefings for the Minister's use at Cabinet Committee meetings, and providing information and analysis on current issues of importance from a labour perspective.

The Labour Adjustment Branch is responsible for the policy, planning, management and monitoring of the Department's labour adjustment programs, that is, the Labour Adjustment Benefits Program and the newly proposed Program for Older Worker Adjustment, which is in the development stage. The Branch also contributes to the overall policy, planning and program development work of the federal government in the area of labour and industrial adjustment.

The Bureau of Labour Information collects, processes, publishes and disseminates information on current major collective bargaining settlements, the wage implications of settlements and various provisions in collective agreements, work stoppages due to strikes and lock-outs, labour organizations and union membership. The Bureau also maintains a computerized database containing information on major agreements and an extensive library of collective agreements from all jurisdictions in Canada. The Bureau provides direct service to clients seeking information on the above matters. The Bureau also retains copies of non-confidential labour union returns received under the Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act (CALURA). These are available for public viewing.

The Labour Outreach Secretariat is responsible for the operations of the Labour Outreach Initiative which consists of three programs: the Labour Assignment Program, the Technology Impact Program and the Labour Issues Assistance Fund. The secretariat apportions funds to successful applicants in the areas of applied research on social and human impacts of technological change, and for participation in public policy issues for the enhancement of labour-government and labour-management relations and understanding. Financial assistance is also available to individuals involved in temporary assignments between labour organizations and the federal public service.

Operations Program

The Operations Program consists of the Employment Relations and Conditions of Work Branch, the Occupational Safety and Health Branch, the Fire Prevention Branch, and Regional Operations. The Program is responsible for implementing policies and delivering services designed to foster the economic and social well-being of working Canadians, and for administering the labour standards and occupational safety and health provisions of the Canada Labour Code and other legislation under the Department of Labour's jurisdiction. Its work is conducted at departmental headquarters in the National Capital Region and across Canada through the Department's 6 regional and 23 field offices.

The Employment Relations and Conditions of Work Branch is concerned with improving working conditions in the federally regulated private sector through the interpretation, application and periodic review of Part III (Labour Standards) of the Canada Labour Code and the development of constructive labour-management relations through the promotion of labour education. As well, the Branch promotes, educates and provides technical advice and guidance to employees and unions for the implementation of equal pay for work of equal value.

The Occupational Safety and Health Branch develops policies and programs to promote safe and healthy working conditions through the application of Part IV of the Canada Labour Code (Safety of Employees). It also provides industrial safety and occupational engineering services and is responsible for policy on the administration of work injury compensation for federal employees and penitentiary inmates.

Fire Prevention and the Fire Commissioner of Canada provide policies and programs to promote fire prevention. The unit also provides fire protection services to the Treasury Board, as the employer.

Regional Operations has the responsibility, through its 6 regional and 23 field offices, of delivering the Department of Labour's programs that cover occupational safety and health, conditions of work, labour education and injury compensation. They also serve as focal points for information about other Department activities.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENCE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

Although the militia had been organized in the Canadas by the late eighteenth century, a full-fledged department was not established until 1868 to administer militia affairs in Canada. In 1922, under the National Defence Act, it amalgamated with the Department of the Naval Service and the Air Board to form the Department of National Defence.

Responsibilities

The role and function of the Department of National Defence, and its principal component, the Canadian Forces, have historically been to ensure the security of Canada and to contribute to the maintenance of world peace.

Its basic roles and responsibilities are to supplement and support the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over and security within the national territory of Canada and areas of Canadian jurisdiction, to assist civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster, to provide search and rescue services, and to contribute to national development. To enhance the security of Canada against military threat, the Department co-operates with the United States in the defence of North America, and co-operates in collective defence measures under the North Atlantic Treaty. The Department promotes international stability by contributing to peacekeeping activities in co-operation with other members of the international community, and by providing military training assistance to friendly nations. It controls, manages, and administers all activities of, and provides the services necessary to ensure adequate supply and technical support for, both the Department and the Canadian Forces. It also provides all levels of training for the Canadian Forces. Finally, the Department works to maintain and advance Canadian scientific and technological knowledge and analytical capability in the area of defence.

Legislation

- Aeronautics Act, R.S.C. 1970; for matters therein relating to defence; otherwise, the designated minister is the Minister of Transport.
- Canadian Forces Superannuation Act, R.S.C.
- Defence Services Pension Continuation Act, R.S.C. 1970
- National Defence Act, R.S.C. 1970
- Visiting Forces Act, R.S.C. 1970

Organizational Units and their Role

Emergency Preparedness Canada

Emergency Preparedness Canada is the federal agency responsible for co-ordinating the emergency planning and response of the Government of Canada for peacetime and wartime emergency situations.

National Search and Rescue Secretariat

The Secretariat is an independant body outside the line authority of the Department that has as its central focus the co-ordination of the national search and rescue program in Canada.

Office of the Judge Advocate General

The Office provides legal advice to the Department and the Canadian Forces and oversees a system of courts and justice applicable to all members of the Canadian Forces and to civilians subject to the code of service discipline under section 55 of the National Defence Act. The Office also administers and settles damage and injury claims by and against the Department; administers the service estates of all deceased members of the Canadian Forces; and administers the Service Pension Board.

Executive Secretariat Division

The Division is responsible for providing and managing administrative services to ensure the effective functioning of the Department in general, and National Defence headquarters in particular. This includes providing departmental administrative support such as library services, records management services, personnel identification services, and National Defence headquarters accommodation management services. The Division also provides departmental policy co-ordination and review, and secretarial support for senior management meetings. The director general of this division is the corporate secretary for the Department of National Defence.

Information Services Division

The Division provides advice and guidance to the minister, deputy minister, chief of defence staff, commanders, and managers on public information and communications matters in support of National Defence and Canadian Forces policies, objectives, programs and activities. It also plans, conducts, and evaluates information programs for groups within and outside the Department; provides the public and media with the maximum amount of information on defence consistent with national and international security; and arranges Canadian Forces participation in exhibitions and displays. The Division maintains a working relationship with communications agencies of federal, provincial, and allied governments.

Military Review Services Branch

The Branch provides departmental advice and functional authority on review matters. It is responsible and accountable for the planning and conduct at the National Defence Headquarters (NDHQ) level of program evaluations, internal audits, and military reviews of all aspects of departmental and military operations and activities. It also provides independent, objective reports on the effectiveness, efficiency and economy of the Department of National Defence and the Canadian Forces.

Directorate of Military History

The Directorate's main function is the production of official histories of the Canadian Forces. The Directorate collects source documents on Canadian military history, acts as an information centre on the history of the Canadian Forces, and provides historical research facilities.

Vice Chief of the Defence Staff

The Military Intelligence and Security Branch develops policies and plans for the management of National Defence intelligence and security resources, and produces and disseminates timely defence intelligence. It controls the activities of Canadian Forces attachés and advisers, is the point of contact for foreign military attachés and advisers accredited to Canada, and provides security services to the Department.

The Flight Safety Directorate makes recommendations and develops programs that will result in the prevention of accidental losses of aviation resources. This function includes identifying hazardous areas of Canadian Forces air operations and support functions, developing and monitoring the flight safety program, reviewing aircraft occurrences for trend analysis, providing educational information, participating in the development of new aviation resources, conducting flight safety surveys at civil contractor facilities, and exchanging flight safety information with other military and civilian agencies for accident prevention purposes.

The General Safety Directorate is responsible for overall development, co-ordination, and administration of the Department's general safety program and for advising on general safety accident experience, risk and loss control management, and occupational health policy.

The Infrastructure Planning and Co-ordination Directorate is responsible for co-ordinating base planning activities within the Department. It prepares base planning guidelines, monitors the implementation of a base development plan, plans for joint use and occupancy of Canadian Forces bases by civil authorities and foreign military powers, provides advice to other staff agencies on base planning matters, and co-ordinates civil use of military airfields.

Assistant Deputy Minister (Policy)

The Defence Program Branch develops and maintains the defence program management systems, controls and reviews the defence services program, analyzes options to meet the Department's capability goals, reviews and guides the management of major projects, and prepares the defence services program forecast.

The Policy Planning Branch is responsible for originating and advising on policy matters, evaluating strategic developments, developing defence policy proposals (including defence objectives) and guidance for the planning of defence capabilities, and co-ordinating policy planning with external agencies, NATO in particular.

The Policy Co-ordination Division effects liaison with Cabinet through the Privy Council Office, monitors departmental policy and conducts relations with Parliament.

The Operational Research and Analysis Branch directs the operational research and systems analysis program, and is responsible for the maintenance of scientific quality and support of financial research elements.

The Organization and Manpower Division is responsible for generating departmental organizational policy, procedures, structures, changes, and orders; and for identifying current and future military and civilian manpower requirements with the Department. It also controls military rank and occupational code structures, develops and maintains the official position list of continuing civilian employees, controls the casual person-year allocation, develops and maintains manpower scales and standards, manages the on-site manpower evaluation program, and produces and maintains unit establishment documents.

Deputy Chief of the Defence Staff

The Maritime Doctrine and Operations Branch is responsible for the development of maritime policy and doctrine relating to force structure, capability requirements, equipment requirements, contingency plans, operational employment, resource management, staffing, training standards, and training and employment policy related to the naval reserve.

The Land Doctrine and Operations Branch is responsible for army future force development, doctrine (material taught), force structuring, operational training and planning, equipment requirements, and scaling of equipment.

The Air Doctrine and Operations Branch is responsible for all air force matters, including the type of air force that is required and how it should be used, equipped, and trained to meet established departmental objectives. This branch also advises on air reserve employment and training policy, and provides representation to meet national and international liaison and representational requirements.

The Military Plans and Operations Co-ordination Division aligns military (sea, land, air) operations and plans so that they are mutually supporting and centrally controlled. The Director General, Military Plans and Operations applies a National Defence Headquarters overview to current national concerns in planning for war and peacetime emergencies. As well, the Division acts as a focal point for operational training and activity planning by assigning and monitoring operations of the Canadian Forces and co-ordinating Canadian Forces activities on standardization agreements and equipment requirements for nuclear, chemical, and biological defence operations.

The Military Engineering Operations Division acts as principal adviser on all military engineering and cartographic matters for both Regular and Reserve Forces. This includes training standards, policy, and doctrine for the employment of military engineering and cartographic units. The Division also provides operational information, advice, and guidance for the military engineering and cartography portion of the departmental force structuring, operational planning, training, and resource management processes. In addition, it meets national and international liaison and representational requirements.

The Military Communications and Electronics Division is responsible for providing communications and electronics support to National Defence by directing or co-ordinating all military communications and electronics matters. This includes co-ordinating communications for exercises and operations, communications security, communications plans and requirements, the management of radio frequencies, co-ordination of international military communications matters, and electronic warfare.

The Reserves and Cadets Division is responsible for advising on policy, training standards, and doctrine for the employment of Reserve Force sub-components; operational information; structuring and development; operational training; equipment acquisition; and the implementation of National Defence Headquarters reserve policy. The Division also provides advice on departmental support to cadet programs sponsored by the navy, army, and air cadet leagues.

Assistant Deputy Minister (Personnel)

The Personnel Development Branch is responsible for developing personnel policies, for officer training and education, and for conducting research in these areas. The Branch is also responsible for the effective overview and administration of special research, planning, and development studies.

The Recruiting, Education and Training Division is responsible for the development and implementation of policy with regard to Regular Force recruiting and selection, and individual training and education of military and civilian members of the Department.

The Personnel Services Branch is responsible for developing and implementing policies on physical education programs for military personnel and for recreation activities for Canadian Forces members, their dependants, and resident Department civilian employees. The Branch administers all non-public fund operations, programs, activities, and the Canadian Forces Exchange System (CANEX). It determines military standards of dress, drill and ceremonial. The Branch also monitors conditions of service as experienced by service members and their dependants, operates the National Defence Dependants school system, and plans and advises on matters concerning the employment of women in the Forces.

The Compensation and Benefits Division is responsible for planning and directing the development of policies and programs for military and civilian compensation, allowances, and personal benefits for personnel employed in a wide variety of environments who require special compensation plans and practices specific to the Department's requirements and equitable with outside compensation policies.

The Dependants Education Programs Division is responsible for developing policy on, and administering, organizing, constructing, equipping, and operating the National Defence Dependants school system. This includes teacher establishments and salary agreements; the attendance of children at municipal schools on payment of school fees; and the payment of education allowances, under Privy Council authority or the Military Foreign Service Regulations, 1979, for children of members of the Canadian Forces serving in Canada and abroad.

The Chaplain General Protestant Division is responsible for upholding and fostering spiritual values and pastoral care of Protestant Canadian Forces personnel and dependants. This includes the implementation of ecclesiastical and military policy as it affects the ministry of chaplains; administration of chapel-oriented programs that provide a comprehensive pastoral ministry; development of lay participation and leadership; administration of all religious activities, including those involving chaplain service with the reserves and cadets; and the maintenance of a close working relationship with the Canadian Council of Churches, through its committee on chaplain service in the forces and various civilian committees concerned with sponsorship of Protestant chapel stewardship projects.

The Chaplain General Roman Catholic Division is responsible for upholding and fostering spiritual values and the pastoral care of Catholic service personnel and dependants. This includes recommending and implementing ecclesiastical and military policy as it affects the ministry of chaplains, and administering programs that provide a comprehensive pastoral ministry to meet the needs of service personnel and their dependants. In ecclesiastical matters, the Chaplain General is responsible to the Roman Catholic military vicar of the Canadian Forces.

The Surgeon General Branch is responsible for the organization and administration of the Canadian Forces medical services to conserve military manpower and provide medical support for military operations. This includes the development, review, and evaluation of medical policies, plans and programs relating to operational commitments; therapeutic medicine; preventive medicine; social development services; training and staffing of medical, nursing and medical associate officers, and medical trades personnel; pharmaceutical and financial services; the design and maintenance of medical facilities; and the negotiation of medical agreements with other government departments, civilian hospitals, and affiliated universities in support of Canadian Forces requirements.

The Dental Services Division is responsible for formulating dental policies, plans, and programs to ensure the dental health of all members of the Canadian Forces and, in certain areas, their dependants and other civilians. This includes providing treatment, accommodation, equipment and supplies; preparing the budget; co-ordinating command and dental unit resource allocations for the provision of dental services; determining both the professional and technical training standards and requirements for dental personnel; maintaining liaison; and representing the Canadian Forces to dental services of other nations, federal and provincial dental associations, and educational agencies in Canada.

The Personnel Careers and Senior Appointments Branch is responsible for controlling and administering the assignments and career progression of military personnel who have completed basic training; developing, implementing, and interpreting personnel management policies; selecting personnel for career development and academic upgrading; and administering honorary military appointments.

The Manpower Utilization Division is responsible for developing personnel policies and systems through which departmental objectives, both present and forecast, are translated into statements of manpower requirements. It ensures that personnel requirements, establishments, and actual strengths are in accordance with approved policies and budgets; allocates military manpower resources within staffing priorities to fill established positions; and prepares and controls annual personnel estimates for military and civilian personnel pay, allowances, salaries, wages, and pension contributions required by the Deparment. In addition, the Department forecasts and controls military posting and removal expenses and is responsible for determining the occupational analysis requirements for the Canadian Forces.

The Classification Division is responsible for the administration and application of the classification system for all Department civilian employees. In addition, the Division handles employees' classification grievances, audits regional classification offices, and develops policies, directives, methods and procedures.

The Civilian Personnel Services Division is responsible for developing policies and plans and implementing programs for the recruitment, promotion, transfer, training and development, career management, and lay-offs of departmental civilian employees. It implements and maintains a complete departmental civilian personnel administrative service, represents the Department in the development of government-wide policies and programs in all of these personnel areas, and provides advice to senior military and civilian officials on personnel administration matters. The Division also plans, co-ordinates and advises on the Affirmative Action Program.

The Personnel Co-ordination and Administrative Services Division is responsible for the administrative functions of the departmental personnel management information systems. It investigates and replies to personnel enquiries and complaints, including those under the provisions of the Canadian Human Rights Act and the Privacy Act; publishes newsletters for both military and civilian personnel; and provides records management services for personnel and fatal casualties records.

The Official Languages Division is responsible for the development of all departmental official languages policies, both military and civilian, while ensuring that they are in accordance with the Official Languages Act, government policies, and departmental requirements. This includes evaluating, monitoring, and amending existing policies; and formulating, when necessary, new directives on terminology, translation, language training programs, and testing. In addition, the Division identifies the language requirements of all civilian positions, maintains an automated information system on civilian personnel, and schedules their language training.

Assistant Deputy Minister (Materiel)

The Weapons Systems and Equipment Engineering and Maintenance Branch is responsible for providing all aspects of design, engineering, maintenance, and standardization service for all weapons systems, support systems, and related equipment for the Canadian Forces.

These functions are carried out by project managers and life cycle materiel managers organized in maritime, aerospace, land and communications, electronics engineering, and maintenance divisions. It is responsible for providing and managing ammunition design engineering, maintenance, storage, explosive safety, and disposal services for the Department. In addition, it develops and recommends ammunition-related policies and programs, and provides guidance and co-ordination for their implementation.

The Supply Branch is accountable for the provision of materiel for the Canadian Forces.

The Transportation Division is responsible for the provision of transportation and postal services. This includes planning, programming, and managing the actual provision of these services, and managing the Department's vehicle accident prevention program.

The Materiel Quality Assurance Division is responsible for planning and directing departmental quality assurance policies and activities, compiling and publishing Canadian qualified products lists, and maintaining surveillance over defence contractors and departmental manufacture and repair facilities. It looks after quality control and inspection systems, establishes and ensures the implementation of quality assurance standards for the repair, overhaul, modification, and acquisition of new equipment; and ensures the quality of materiel being procured for the Department of National Defence, other government departments, and foreign governments, as required.

The Construction and Properties Branch is responsible for formulating plans and programs for the design, construction, operation, maintenance, protection, and evaluation of accommodations, fixed facilities and utilities. It implements the approved programs, manages real property and utility services, co-ordinates the disposal of surplus real property and facilities, formulates related policies, and provides the necessary control and guidance for their application.

The Research and Development Branch is responsible for the formulation and conduct of the departmental research and development program. It participates in the formulation and implementation of departmental policies for research and development activities, controls and directs the operation of the defence research establishments, and ensures that knowledge and application of actual and anticipated advances in science and technology are brought to bear on all departmental functions.

The Research and Development Services Division exercises control over the administrative functions for those units of the Canadian Forces permanently allocated to the assistant deputy minister materiel, provides administrative support to the defence research establishments, provides documentation and discussion papers for review, administers the departmental inventions and patents program, and co-ordinates the departmental logistics operations.

The Research and Development Policy Division is responsible for planning and directing the Department's position on all NATO matters relating to research, development and production of defence equipment. It markets defence equipment and participates in all aspects of national and international marketing activities. This includes costing, evaluating, and obtaining necessary approvals for all departmental commitments in support of defence equipment sales. In addition, the Division co-ordinates export permits, memoranda of understanding, and metric conversion.

The Research and Development Operations Division is responsible for the planning, control, and operation of research and development in the maritime, land, air and communications elements, and in the field of human performance.

Assistant Deputy Minister (Finance)

The Financial Services Branch is responsible for controlling and co-ordinating the financial administration functions of the Department. This involves ensuring the effective functioning of the departmental budgetary system, the internal controls over funds and assets, and accounting systems, procedures and practices. It is also responsible for the interpretation and communication of financial policies and procedures, the provision of costing, military pay, superannuation administration and financial services, and the operation of the Department's financial information system.

The Audit Division advises management on the adequacy, efficiency, and effectiveness of the Department's management control framework (including controls over military operations) in facilitating the economic, efficient, and effective achievement of departmental objectives.

The Automated Information Services Branch is responsible for controlling the administration of departmental management consulting services, providing a departmental forms management program, and administering the departmental reports control program. It also controls the administration of automatic data processing support to military commanders and departmental managers by formulating appropriate policies, procedures and plans, as well as conducting evaluations. In addition, the Division directs the analysis and design of departmental information systems.

Manuals

The bilingual publication entitled Defence Canada is published annually by the Department of National Defence. It is designed to provide an overview of current strategic considerations relative to defence planning, and to highlight departmental activities during the preceding year.

Because of the wide range of manuals, regulations and orders used by the Department of National Defence to fulfill its functions, it is impractical to include a complete list of its holdings in this publication. The Department may, on request, provide a list of existing manuals relating to a particular subject or activity.

Reading Room

A section of the Department's library at National Defence Headquarters has been designated under section 71 of the Access to Information Act as a reading room where the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs or activities that affect the public. Its address is 101 Colonel By Drive, Ottawa, Ontario.

Because of the security classification and the necessity to continually amend an unusually wide range of technical and training manuals, regulations and orders used by the Department of National Defence to fulfill its functions, it was found impractical to put all 90 000 publications on display. However, a complete list of its holdings is available in the AIA Reading Room and the Department may, on request, provide for viewing a copy of existing manuals relating to a particular subject or activity, provided the material is releasable and sufficient time is allowed to retrieve the publication from the depot.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of National Health and Welfare was established in 1944 by the Department of National Health and Welfare Act.

Responsibilities

The Department was created for the purpose of promoting and preserving the health, social security and social welfare of the people of Canada over which Parliament has jurisdiction. Since then, advances in the fields of health, social security and social welfare have led to the introduction of a number of new and extensive programs. The Department's mandate also includes the Fitness and Amateur Sport Program and the participation of the Government of Canada in the 1988 Winter Olympics, which were transferred to the Minister of National Health and Welfare in October 1982.

Departmental welfare programs are designed to maintain and improve the income security and the social well-being of Canadians. Fitness and Amateur Sport programs are designed to promote, encourage and develop fitness and amateur sport in Canada.

Organizational Units and their Role

CORPORATE MANAGEMENT BRANCH

Financial Administration Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for ensuring that policies and systems of financial administration are established, maintained and operated, and for advising senior departmental management on financial management matters.

Personnel Administration Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for assisting departmental managers in achieving their overall program objectives and in discharging their responsibility for personnel management by providing services and advice in personnel matters and by providing for the fair and equitable treatment of employees.

Administrative Services Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for the development and implementation of effective departmental policies, guidelines and systems for the following services: Accommodation, Materiel Administration, Document Management, Security, and Occupational Health and Safety.

Informatics Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for the development, implementation and maintenance of all policies, guidelines, and standards related to electronic data processing, office automation and related telecommunication. It also monitors their application throughout the Department, on an ongoing basis.

Program Audit and Review Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for co-ordinating, appraising and improving the control framework applicable to departmental programs and objectives, the efficiency of departmental operations, systems and procedures, and the measures of efficiency and effectiveness used by management.

Principal Nursing Officer

The principal nursing officer advises the Deputy Minister on all matters related to nursing in the Department, as well as nationally and internationally.

Status of Women

The Senior Adviser, Status of Women, co-ordinates, monitors and advises on departmental policies and programs as they relate to women.

The Intergovernmental and International Affairs Branch

The Branch has responsibility for the co-ordination, monitoring and, where required, initiation of departmental policies and strategies on international and federal-provincial-territorial issues in the health, social security and social affairs fields, where those issues affect more than one branch or require interdepartmental consultation. It is composed of three organizational units: the Health Affairs Directorate, the Social Affairs Directorate, and the International Information and Planning Directorate.

POLICY, COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION BRANCH

The Branch undertakes research on health, social, income and economic policy issues, analyzes proposed initiatives, and makes recommendations concerning the various policy issues under consideration by the Deputy Minister and the Minister.

Information Systems Directorate

The Directorate collects, collates and disseminates information on health and social programs and related socio-economic conditions in support of the planning and development of departmental policies and programs, including financial and technical assistance to the provinces and nationally recognized associations to support the development of management information systems. The Access to Information and Privacy Centre for the Department is also located within the Directorate.

Communications Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for public awareness of the Department's objectives and programs, for the proper use of communications resources and for advice and services on communications matters.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WELFARE

The National Council of Welfare was established by the Government Organization Act, 1969 as a citizens' advisory body to the Minister of National Health and Welfare. Its mandate is to advise the Minister on matters pertaining to welfare.

The Council consists of 21 members drawn from across Canada and appointed by the Governor in Council. All are private citizens and serve in their personal capacities rather than as representatives of organizations or agencies.

The publications of the Council are available in English and French. For copies, please write to the National Council of Welfare, Brooke Claxton Building, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0K9.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COUNCIL ON AGING

The 18-member National Advisory Council on Aging is a citizens' advisory body charged with counselling the Minister of National Health and Welfare on matters relating to the quality of life of Canada's aging population. In addition to advising on programs and policies, the Council reviews the needs and problems of older people and recommends remedial action, consults with institutions and groups involved in aging or representing the aged, publishes reports, helps in information dissemination, and stimulates public discussion on aging.

The publications of the Council can be obtained free of charge in both official languages by writing to the National Advisory Council on Aging, Room 1264, Jeanne Mance Building, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0K9.

THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA OFFICE FOR THE 1988 OLYMPIC WINTER GAMES

The Office is responsible for co-ordinating all federal activities in support of the 1988 Olympic Winter Games and for liaison and negotiation with the key bodies associated with the organization of the Games.

HEALTH PROTECTION BRANCH

The responsibility of the Branch is to reduce illness and untimely death associated with hazards in the environment, both man-made and natural. Specific programs protect the public from any present or potential health hazards in foods, drugs for humans and animals, cosmetics, medical devices, radiation-emitting devices and environmental contaminants. Other programs carry out disease surveillance services, standardize laboratory methods and control psychoactive and psychotropic drugs and tobacco. There is close co-operation and assistance between the federal and provincial governments and liaison with international governments and agencies.

The Health Protection Branch publishes information for the public, industry and specific groups and also warns of dangers through the media. Branch information for the public may be obtained from the offices of the Assistant Deputy Minister and the regional directors, as follow:

Food Directorate

The Directorate conducts programs to ensure the safety and nutritional value of food. These include laboratory research, the development and standardization of analytical methods for use by regional laboratories and the development of standards and regulations based on the assessment of monitoring and surveillance data.

Drugs Directorate

The Directorate is engaged in a wide spectrum of regulatory and research programs aimed at promoting the judicious use of drugs as well as providing assurance to Canadians that the drugs sold in Canada are safe and effective and that cosmetics do not pose safety hazards.

Laboratory Centre for Disease Control

This directorate provides epidemiological, laboratory surveillance and diagnostic systems for communicable and other diseases, integrated national programs for a microbiological reference service, quality assurance systems in laboratory medicines, and options for the control of nosocomial, community and laboratory-acquired infections.

Environmental Health Directorate

The Directorate is composed of three bureaus which collectively serve to identify, assess and reduce health hazards in the environment, in consumer products and in medical devices.

Field Operations Directorate

The Directorate acts as the inspection and enforcement arm of the Branch in order to reduce health hazards in marketed products. It also provides other government agencies with technical assistance.

Medical Services Branch

The objective of the Branch is to promote, improve and preserve the health of Canadian citizens whose care, by legislation or custom, is the responsibility of the Department. The clients include the status Indians and Inuit, all residents of the Yukon and Northwest Territories, federal public servants, immigrants, refugees and temporary visitors, international travellers, civil aviation personnel, and disaster victims.

Indian and Inuit Health Services Directorate

The responsibilities of the Directorate include the provision of community health services, hospital and dental services, a national native alcohol abuse program, an environmental health and nutrition program.

Health Advisory Services Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for centralized health-care services in civil aviation medicine, emergency services and prosthetic services. It also provides specified advice in the fields of public service health, quarantine and regulatory and immigration medical services to the Department and other federal government departments and agencies.

HEALTH SERVICES AND PROMOTION BRANCH

The responsibilities of the Branch are to develop, promote and support measures designed to preserve and improve the health of Canadians by encouraging and assisting them to adopt a way of life that enhances their physical, mental and social well-being. The Branch also provides leadership and co-ordination in assisting the provinces and territories to bring their health services to, and maintain them at, national standards. This includes the administration of federal contributions to the provinces with respect to hospital insurance, medical care and extended health care services programs.

General information on the operation and programs of the Branch may be obtained from the Communications Directorate, where a Branch Directory of Publications is available.

Health Services Directorate

The Directorate develops, in co-operation with provinces, territories and other federal departments, guidelines and standards for health-care services and facilities. It also provides consulting services to provincial governments and other federal departments, financial assistance and consulting services to provinces and voluntary health organizations, as well as training, supply and distribution requirements of health personnel. The Directorate also manages programs concerned with health technology, institutional and professional health services, health assessment, and community and mental health.

Health Promotion Directorate

The Directorate develops and implements programs of health information, education and health promotion. Programs include nutrition, smoking, drugs, alcohol, health risk assessment, women and health, child health, birth planning, school health education, the elderly, and health protection in the work place.

Extramural Research Programs Directorate

The Directorate administers the National Health Research and Development Program (NHRDP) which supports health research, demonstration projects, symposia, workshops and conferences, and health research personnel training and development, in order to provide scientific information needed by the Department to fulfil its responsibilities.

INCOME SECURITY PROGRAMS BRANCH

The objective of the Branch is to maintain and improve the social security of Canadians through the programs it administers. These programs are as follows:

The Canada Pension Plan (CPP) — a compulsory, contributory social insurance program which provides members of the Canadian labour force with a basic level of protection for themselves and their families against the loss of income due to retirement, disability or death.

The Old Age Security Program (OAS) — provides a basic level of income for older Canadians through a basic pension which is supplemented by the income-tested Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS) for pensioners who have little or no income as well as by an income-tested Spouse's Allowance (SPA) for spouses, ages 60 to 65, of pensioners in receipt of the Guaranteed Income Supplement. Under the authority of the Old Age Security Act and the Canada Pension Plan, benefit payments are also made to those individuals who are eligible under the terms of international social security agreements concluded with other countries.

The Family Allowances Program (FA) — supplements the income of families with dependent children in order to help meet the additional costs associated with raising children. It also provides for the payment of an allowance to welfare and government agencies and other institutions which maintain children.

Programs Policy, Appeals and Legislation Directorate

This directorate, through three divisions, is responsible for ongoing Old Age Security, Family Allowances and Canada Pension Plan legislative reviews and updates, for related policy planning and development, for the application of legislation and the administration of appeals, for the review and analysis of information programs. An additional responsibility is the secretariat service provided to the Canada Pension Plan Advisory Committee.

The Policy and Legislation Division is responsible for providing policy advice on, and analysis of, income security programs for use by senior management and the Minister; for the development of legislative changes to the three Acts administered by the Branch, Canada Pension Plan, Old Age Security Act, and the Family Allowances Act; and for information activities.

The Data Development and Analysis Division is responsible for forecasts of program expenditures, for the development of specialized data banks through survey activities, and for program costs and beneficiary estimates for various policy initiatives and branch planning activities.

The Appeals Division develops operational policies and guidelines related to the payment of income security programs benefits, and administers the appeals system. It is also responsible for the preparation of ministerial and other correspondence related to the income security programs.

International Liaison Directorate

This directorate is responsible for developing, drafting and negotiating social security agreements with other countries, as well as administrative arrangements to implement those agreements. The Directorate also co-ordinates the Department's activities related to bringing the agreements into force.

Canada Pension Plan Advisory Committee

The Committee, appointed by Order-in-Council, reviews the operation of the Act, the status of the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, and the adequacy of benefits under the Plan.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE

Programs Operations Directorate

This directorate, through four divisions and a network of regional offices and client service centres, is responsible for the administration of the Old Age Security, Canada Pension Plan and Family Allowances programs and for all aspects of client services.

The Regional Programs Operations Co-ordination Division develops, maintains and documents EDP programs used in the administration of the three income-security programs. It also provides operational and procedural guidelines and co-ordination for systems and non-systems processing at Headquarters and regional offices. It also facilitates data exchanges with other federal departments for the purposes of administering legislation.

The Regional Offices and Client Service Centres are located in major cities across Canada and in 150 small towns. These centres provide information and services to the public in all matters relating to income security program benefits, including the distribution of applications for such benefits. Each regional office provides administrative and operational support for the network of client service centres under its control. Applications for Income Security Program benefits, with the exception of Canada Pension Plan disability benefits, from residents within its area of jurisdiction are adjudicated and processed in the regional offices. The resulting benefit accounts are also maintained in the regional offices.

The Disability Division is responsible for determining, through the evaluation of an applicant's medical history and profile, eligibility for Canada Pension Plan disability benefits. It is also responsible for the processing and maintenance of all disability benefit accounts, including benefits to dependent children of disabled contributors.

The Canada Pension Plan Central Operations Division processes dual accounts (those whose contributions were made to both the Canada Pension Plan and the Quebec Pension Plan), Quebec residents' accounts (those whose contributions were made to the Canada Pension Plan only but who now reside in Quebec), division of unadjusted pensionable earnings (credit splitting) accounts, those accounts affected by the child-rearing drop-out provision, and all accounts which require manual processing of benefits. Central Operations' other responsibilities include the provision of administrative and data management services to the two sections for which it is responsible.

The International Operations Division, established in 1978, participates in the development and negotiation of administrative arrangements and operational accords, and produces the relevant procedures, application forms and booklets for the administration of international social security agreements. The Division also adjudicates and processes all applications which are covered by an international agreement.

Income Security Programs Systems Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the improvement of the benefit delivery systems of the Old Age Security, the Canada Pension Plan and the Family Allowances programs.

SOCIAL SERVICE PROGRAMS BRANCH

The focus of the Branch is on persons whose economic circumstances are inadequate to meet their basic needs or whose social circumstances expose them to the risk of poverty, isolation or dependency. The role of the program is to subsidize assistance and services for these people, primarily by sharing the cost of provincial and municipal programs directed to them, including programs of vocational rehabilitation for the disabled. Other methods of support and advice include financial aid for programs that encourage seniors to remain active in the community, as well as grants and consulting services for voluntary and professional organizations, for research and for training.

General information on the operation and programs of the Social Services Programs Branch may be obtained from the Communications Directorate at Headquarters in Ottawa.

Canada Assistance Plan Directorate

The Canada Assistance Plan is a shared-cost program through which Canada pays 50 per cent of the cost to provinces and municipalities of providing social assistance, welfare services of a preventive, supportive or rehabilitative nature, and work activity projects intended to improve the employability of persons who have employment difficulties.

The Vocational Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons Act is a shared cost program through which Canada pays 50 per cent of the costs incurred by the province in providing a comprehensive program for the vocational rehabilitation of the physically and mentally disabled. The Act also enables Canada to make direct contributions to individuals and non-governmental organizations for research.

Family Violence Prevention Division

Created in December 1986, the Division is responsible for co-ordinating all federal initiatives in the area of family violence, elder abuse, child abuse and child sexual abuse. It is also mandated to: liaise with the provinces, other federal departments and national non-governmental organizations; develop national policies and programs, provide information services to government officials and the public; promote the development of services relative to the prevention of family breakdown; provide financial assistance in support of pilot and research projects on family violence and child sexual abuse.

New Horizons Program

The Program provides opportunities for older and retired persons to plan, operate and participate in meaningful activities of their own choice which will prove beneficial to themselves and their community.

Social Development Directorate

The Directorate provides consultation and information services and undertakes policy development activities to enhance the development of social services in Canada.

National Welfare Grants Directorate

The role of the Directorate is to promote improvements in welfare services and self-help activities by providing financial assistance, consultation, information and advice to governmental and non-governmental welfare agencies (including citizen organizations) for short-term research, demonstration and other project activities, and to individuals for advanced studies in social work.

FITNESS AND AMATEUR SPORT BRANCH

The responsibility of the Branch is to promote, encourage and develop fitness and amateur sport in Canada. Fitness and Amateur Sport pursues these purposes through the activities in its two program areas, Fitness Canada and Sport Canada. Both fulfill their functions primarily through the provision of financial contributions and consultative assistance to national sport and fitness organizations and agencies.

General information on the operation and programs of the Fitness and Amateur Sport Branch may be obtained from the departmental Communications Directorate at Headquarters in Ottawa or the Fitness and Amateur Sport regional offices at:

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (CUSTOMS AND EXCISE)

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of National Revenue was established under the provisions of the Department of National Revenue Act, R.S.C. 1979, chapter 5. The Department consists of two components: Taxation, and Customs and Excise, each of which is headed by a deputy minister and operates administratively as an independent unit.

Responsibilities

The Customs and Excise division of the Department of National Revenue collects revenue on both imported and domestic goods and controls the movement of international travellers and product shipments of every description. Customs is concerned primarily with the control of people and goods across Canada's international boundaries, which comprise not only our frontier with the Unites States, but also international airports and other locations in Canada where Customs service is provided. The other main function of Customs is collecting revenue, mainly import duties and taxes, through the administration of the Customs Act, Customs Tariff, Special Import Measures Act Duties Relief Act and some 60 other Acts of Parliament that touch on matters as varied as illicit narcotics and firearms, animal diseases and fisheries protection.

Excise administers the Excise Act, the Excise Tax Act and the Softwood Lumber Products Export Charge Act. It is primarily concerned with the licensing of manufacturers and wholesalers; the collection of sales and excise taxes on domestic and imported goods; the regulatory control of breweries and distilleries; and the collection of excise duties on spirits, beer and tobacco.

The Customs and Excise Offshore Application Act extends Customs and Excise jurisdiction beyond 12 nautical miles to the outer edge of the continental shelf or to 200 nautical miles, whichever is greater. Its impact is limited to the offshore, non-living, natural resource industries. All equipment, ships, drilling vessels, etc. operating in the defined area are subject to Canadian customs and excise laws and regulations. Canadian manufacturers and suppliers to the offshore drilling rigs and related industries have the same tariff and other protection as exists on the mainland.

Legislation

- Customs Act
- Customs and Excise Offshore Application Act
- Customs Tariff
- Duties Relief Act
- Excise Act
- Excise Tax Act
- Softwood Lumber Products Export Charge Act
- Special Import Measures Act

Organizational Units and their Role

EXCISE

The Excise Branch administers the Excise Act, the Excise Tax Act and the Softwood Lumber Export Charge Act. The Branch is composed of three directorates.

Excise Programs

The Directorate comprises three divisions. Policy and Legislation researches, develops and evaluates legislative proposals, regulations and remission orders relating to the Excise Act and the Excise Tax Act, and co-ordinates Excise litigation efforts. Program Development researches, analyses and develops plans and programs for the Excise Branch. Project Management designs and implements major computer system enhancements and development projects.

Excise Operations

The Directorate provides technical direction, co-ordination and monitoring for quality control of the operational aspects of the Excise program. The divisions of Excise Operations reflect the operational units in the Excise regional offices. Tax Interpretations is responsible for the licensing of firms under the Excise Tax Act and the Softwood Lumber Products Export Charge Act, for determining the classification and value of goods to establish tax liability and for ensuring national uniformity in the interpretation of these Acts. Audit and Compliance provides operational policies, procedures and direction to the field staff who collect taxes and duties, approve claims for refunds, audit taxpayers' records and control the production of goods subject to excise duty. Special Bureau co-ordinates the investigation and prosecution of taxpayers who have deliberately failed to comply with the law. Excise Gasoline Tax Refunds and Rebates provides functional direction to field staff and processes applications for the excise gasoline tax refund and the fuel sales tax rebate. Technical Support administers the Excise Branch national technical information program and maintains operational automated systems and the Branch performance measurement system.

Excise Appeals

The Directorate is accountable for the evaluation of Notices of Objection and the issuance of decisions under formally delegated authority of the Minister of National Revenue. These objections and decisions are related solely to the Excise Tax Act or the Softwood Lumber Products Export Charge Act.

Excise Regional Offices

The nine regional Excise offices perform the day-to-day administration of the Excise Tax Act, the Excise Act and the Softwood Lumber Products Export Charge Act. Each regional office contains tax interpretations, audit, duty, revenue accounting and collections units. These units perform licensee identifications and investigations, provide interpretation of the law, audit taxpayers' records, approve claims for refunds, collect and account for sales and excise taxes and excise duty, and supervise and control the production of beer, spirits and tobacco products.

CUSTOMS

Customs is made up of the Customs Operations Branch and the Customs Programs Branch. Program Management and Support, and Program Development and Systems Maintenance are shared by these branches. Program Management and Support is responsible for management direction, planning, co-ordination and central administrative services for both branches. Program Development and Systems Maintenance is responsible for minimizing and resolving difficulties respecting equitable and responsive administration of Customs legislation and the legislation of other government institutions.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (CUSTOMS AND EXCISE)

Customs Operations Branch

The Customs Operations Branch is responsible for developing and operating the systems and procedures relating to the assessment and collection of import duties and taxes, and the examination and release of goods, persons and vehicles entering Canada. It is also responsible for interpreting and administering all relevant legislative and administrative requirements related to the international movement of people, goods and conveyances at the point and time of entry or exit, including the application of relevant provisions of statutes and regulations on behalf of other departments and agencies. The Branch is composed of three directorates, together with ten Customs Regions, which implement the various programs.

The Field Support Directorate, located in Ottawa, is responsible for providing co-ordination and liaison between the Operational Policy and Systems Development Directorate, the Customs Commercial Systems Directorate, and the various Customs ports and regional offices. The Directorate is also responsible for providing advice to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Customs Operations, on the use of field resources, and for assessing the impact of new programs on these resources. It co-ordinates specialized intelligence and investigation activities to ensure compliance with Customs and Excise and related laws governing the international movement of people, goods and conveyances.

The Operational Policy and Systems Development Directorate is responsible for the development of departmental customs policies and systems, and for the provision of interpretation and guidance to the public and to field personnel.

The Customs Commercial System Directorate is responsible for the development and co-ordination of major policy, system and procedural changes related to the commercial stream of transactions, particularly with respect to the implementation of the Harmonized System and various automated commercial systems in order to achieve compliance with all legislative provisions for which Customs and Excise has administrative responsibility.

The ten Customs Regions implement the various programs developed to control the international movement of people, goods and conveyances. They also provide a direct and convenient local contact for the public and business communities in providing the full range of customs services. Regional offices are located in Halifax, Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver.

Customs Programs Branch

Customs Programs is responsible for interpreting the customs laws, particularly for the classification of goods for tariff purposes and the determination of value for duty. Major responsibilities include investigating allegations of dumping, subsidization and undervaluation of imports, processing appeals made to the Deputy Minister, adjudicating seizures and providing advice to the public in response to enquiries. It is divided into five divisions.

The Tariff Programs Division is responsible for the development of national policies, systems and procedures concerning tariff classification, tariff status and tariff relief. This includes administrative policy, systems and procedures on the tariff itself, individual tariff items (except returning Canadians and settlers), the Made-in-Canada system, the end-use system, prohibited importations (except firearms), the refunds system, drawbacks and remissions. Legislation administered includes Customs Tariff (except the provision for subsidized goods and surtax) and Schedules A, B and C thereto, the appeal provisions of the Customs Act, other provisions of the Customs Act relating to drawbacks, the Duties Relief Act and many standing and special Orders-in-Council relating to the remission of duty or exemption from prohibition on imported goods, particularly, the Machinery Remission program, the Auto-Pact, Temporary Entry, Inward Processing, Canadian Goods Abroad Remission Order, Articles for Special Use Remission Order, Obsolete or Surplus Goods Remission Order, Goods Not as Ordered Remission Order. The Division is also responsible for administrative policy, systems and procedures in respect of the appeal provisions in the Customs Act and for the processing and settlement of appeals in respect to tariff classification, tariff status and tariff relief matters. It is divided into seven directorates: Tariff Policy and Systems Development; Primary Industries; Industrial and Consumer Goods; Machinery and Transportation; Prohibited Importations and Administrative Services; the Machinery and Equipment Advisory Board Directorate; and the Harmonized System/Customs Commercial System.

The Assessment Programs Division is responsible for the administration of the Department's anti-dumping, countervail and surtax programs as well as the administration of the valuation provisions of the Customs Act at headquarters. This concurrent administration largely involves the conduct of investigations relating to imported goods, the assessment of applicable duties and the processing of statutory appeals from decisions relating to such duties. The Division is comprised of three major areas: Analysis and Investigations, Enforcement and Appeals, and Policy and Administration.

The Adjudications Division is responsible for ensuring that the forfeiture provision of the Customs Act are applied in a uniform and equitable manner across Canada; that the public is afforded a high degree of protection from unnecessary seizure action; that a claimant is given the opportunity to make representations pursuant to section 130 of the Customs Act and that decisions rendered under section 131 of the Customs Act are in accordance with law, equity and jurisprudence and are defensible before the Federal Court. The Division is responsible for initiating collection of unpaid assessments when a debt has been established in the Federal Court.

The Legislative Affairs Directorate is responsible for the development and maintenance of customs legislation and related regulations as well as for reviewing and analysing legislation sponsored by other government departments and agencies which relates to Customs regulations and policies. The Directorate also provides advisory and evaluative services to branch managers concerning the legislative implication of prepared programs and policies. It also co-ordinates the departmental submissions to the annual Regulatory Plan as part of the Regulatory Process Action Plan.

The Management Systems and Service Division is responsible for branch planning, administrative support, co-ordination and management systems development.

SERVICES

Corporate Management Branch

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Management Branch, is the departmental comptroller for Customs and Excise. The integration of operational planning and control with financial planning and control provides a single focus and authority for the management control and management support processes. It also provides a cohesive approach to the management of departmental affairs, a single point of direction and authority for the establishment of corporate plans, and a focal point for the determination of priorities and resource allocations. It is responsible for the executive direction in the following areas: financial administration, planning, performance measurement, information management, performance/operational analysis, contracting, all aspects of electronic data processing, assets management laboratory and scientific research and analysis, and all aspects of general administration.

The Systems Planning and Development Directorate provides all areas of the Department with functional support and advice in the planning, development, maintenance and operations of automated systems. The Directorate currently operates two Honeywell mainframe computers with three front-end computers, all linked to some 400 terminals in more than 30 locations across Canada. The Honeywell site is being replaced by a large-scale IBM-compatible mainframe facility, operating under Facilities Management, that will be progressively linked to some 1300 terminals across Canada. In addition, the Directorate provides a departmental Microcomputer Systems Centre which provides on-call support, including training, to the users of some 500 microcomputers.

The Corporate Planning Directorate has full responsibility for the co-ordination and development of the departmental strategic, operational and budget year plans as well as for the development and implementation of related policies, systems and guidelines. It is responsible for the provision of functional direction to other organizational units of the Department in the production of their input to corporate plans. It is responsible for assessing performance against plans and for reporting performance results to management. It is also responsible for improvement in management practices.

The Finance Directorate is responsible for developing and implementing departmental policies and procedures, for developing policy and guidelines concerning revenues, accounts receivable and deletion of debts, and for directing the operation and control of budgeting, accounting, and financial reporting operations. It is also responsible for developing, publishing and maintaining the Departmental Financial Management Manual for monitoring the effectiveness of financial operations and for reporting in public accounts.

The Laboratory and Scientific Services Directorate is responsible for the provision, on a Department-wide basis, of analytical and scientific advisory services with respect to imported industrial products, domestic goods subject to excise duties, and technical terminology of legislation and international trade nomenclature sytems. It is also responsible for research and development into new scientific equipment, methodology and contraband detection systems; and functional direction, advice and support services in the areas of the departmental Metric Conversion Program and the acquisition of laboratory and scientific services.

The Administration Directorate is responsible for the planning, managing and controlling of administrative programs such as the departmental portfolio of administrative and operational records, as well as the departmental directives, forms, security, emergency planning and library services.

The Capital Assets Programs Directorate is responsible for the integrated management of the Department's total Capital Assets base, including real property, furniture and furnishings, equipment and machinery, motor vehicles, EDP, radio, and laboratory and scientific equipment. It is also responsible for the development of capital policies based on responsible assets management, taking into account operational requirements, maintenance of a required assets base, cost and the disposal of assets, implementation of functional control over, and engineering support to, all departmental radio communications and voice telecommunication systems, and the procuring of goods and services.

Personnel Administration Branch

The Director General is responsible for providing management direction to all the components of the Personnel Administration elements.

The Staffing Division is responsible for providing all levels of management with staffing service and functional advice on all aspects of the staffing function so as to ensure that highly competent employees are selected and recruited effectively and efficiently. It is also responsible for monitoring the administration of staffing delegation throughout the Department so as to ensure that operational needs are met and that the integrity of the Public Service Employment Act, Central Agency requirements, and departmental policies and priorities are respected.

The Planning and Program Development Division is responsible for providing departmental management, at all levels, with advice and assistance concerning human resources planning and affirmative action programs to encourage active management commitment to, and support of, objectives geared to increase the participation and representation of special-interest groups. It also maintains a personnel data system. The Division co-ordinates the application of departmental management systems within the Personnel Administration Branch (such as planning, performance measurement and financial systems). It provides national co-ordination and headquarters service for the Employee Assistance Program.

The Staff Relations Division is responsible for providing departmental management, at all levels, with advice and assistance concerning the application and interpretation of collective agreements, the principles and procedures for handling grievances, the union-management meeting process and the areas of discipline, managerial and confidential exclusions, designation, health and safety, and pay and benefits. It provides pay and benefits service to headquarters' employees. It also administers long-service and incentive awards.

The Customs and Excise College provides both centralized and decentralized training and development for departmental human resources in response to training needs identified in the Departmental Training Plan.

The Official Languages Division is responsible for the development and monitoring of official languages policies, systems and procedures; for providing functional direction, guidance and support services to departmental managers and employees; and for reviewing and authorizing the language requirements of positions and payment of the bilingualism bonus. It is also responsible for co-ordinating and providing language training and language testing services; controlling the use of translation services and providing linguistic services such as text revision and writing assistance.

The Organization and Classification Division is responsible for providing management at all levels directly, or through functional direction of regional specialists, with classification services for those groups and levels delegated to the Department. It also advises management and liaises with the Central Agency in respect to those groups and levels not delegated to the Department. It provides a direct classification service, for senior regional positions and all positions in those regions lacking an accredited officer, to classify and review all national jobs (approximately one-half of the Department's positions). It also provides management at all levels with an organization-design consulting service, advice and assistance in the preparation of all organizational change submissions, and advice to senior management in the appropriateness of proposed organizational changes to ensure sound organizational structuring and effective monitoring of same while respecting the departmental organization philosophy, policies, principles and practices.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (CUSTOMS AND EXCISE)

Audit and Evaluation Branch

The Branch is responsible for conducting periodic independent and objective audits and evaluations for the Deputy Minister on all aspects of departmental endeavour, and for making recommendations to management on the activities reviewed. Program Evaluation assesses program components to determine the adequacy of their objectives and design, and their results, both intended and unintended. Audit assesses the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls.

The Branch has three operational audit divisions executing comprehensive audits and a program evaluation division executing evaluations. In addition, a fifth division is engaged in research and development to improve audit techniques and provide branch administrative services.

Communications Branch

The Branch is responsible for the development of a public relations strategy and for the provision of services to managers and staff in such matters as communicating with the public, media relations, and production for print, displays, exhibits, film, radio, television and advertising. The Branch also provides information to the public that will foster compliance with the laws and regulations administered by the Customs and Excise component of the Department.

The Departmental and International Affairs Division operates in direct support of the Minister and the Deputy Minister. It uses its co-ordinating abilities to help provide more efficient management of the Department's internal and international affairs and to facilitate communications with the public, members of Parliament, parliamentary committees and other government agencies.

Some of the major duties of Departmental Affairs include administration of the Access to Information Act, the Privacy Act and Canadian Human Rights Act; preparation of briefs for the Minister; control, review and analysis of Cabinet documents, Orders-in-Council, and Treasury Board submissions; preparation of replies to parliamentary questions and motions; control and monitoring of ministerial and deputy-ministerial correspondence; assurance of an accurate flow of timely information to the Minister on public issues; and preparation of the annual review and other papers, an example during 1985-86 being a Customs Excise document for inclusion in the regulatory agendas published by the Canada Gazette. The agendas provide the public with early notice of proposed or contemplated changes in legislation and regulations.

The International Affairs Directorate acts as liaison between the Department and international organizations specializing in comparative studies of administrative and technical questions related to Customs; co-ordinates the Department's participation in the international organizations; develops and implements bilateral Customs agreements between the different countries, and administers the Department's visits and external contacts policies.

DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL REVENUE (TAXATION)

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of National Revenue was established in 1927 to administer the Income Tax Act, a responsibility that had been carried out until then by a commissioner from the Department of Finance. Customs and Excise was brought into the Department at this time under the same minister, but as a separate component with its own departmental organization.

Responsibilities

The Department of National Revenue (Taxation) is responsible for administering the income tax legislation enacted by Parliament. The Department collects taxpayers' federal income taxes, as well as their provincial and territorial taxes in all provinces and territories except Quebec, and corporate taxes on behalf of all provinces and territories except Ontario, Quebec and Alberta. It also collects Canada Pension Plan contributions and Unemployment Insurance premiums imposed under the law.

Legislation

- Canada Pension Plan Act, Part I
- The Income Tax Acts of Canada and nine provinces
- Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act
- Unemployment Insurance Act, Part IV

Organizational Units and their Role

Communications and Corporate Development Branch

This branch ensures the development, implementation and management of policies, programs, procedures and services in the areas of external and internal communications, corporate management information, strategic planning, corporate secretariat services, internal audit and program evaluation. The Branch comprises the following divisions: Corporate Projects and Strategic Planning, Communications, Internal Audit and Evaluation, Corporate Management Information and Corporate Secretariat.

Policy and Systems Branch

This branch is accountable for the formation and assessment of national policies for a variety of programs relating to tax administration. It is made up of the following directorates: Assessing and Enquiries, Collections and Accounting, Audit Programs, Compliance Research and Investigations, and Systems.

Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs Branch

This branch is responsible for interpreting the Income Tax Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act and the Unemployment Insurance Act. The Branch also provides advice on technical matters to other federal departments and governments. The Branch comprises the following directorates: Technical and Intergovernmental Affairs, Provincial and International Relations, Legislative Affairs, Registration, and Statistical Services.

Management Services Branch

This branch is responsible for the planning, development and review of national policies, procedures and programs in the areas of finance, personnel, administration, security, training and tax forms, as well as the direct provision of services at Head Office. The Branch comprises the following directorates: Office Policy and Technology, Tax Forms, Finance, Personnel, Security, and the Centre for Career Development.

Appeals Branch

This branch establishes policies and guidelines for notices of objection submitted by taxpayers who do not agree with their notices of assessment. The Branch also deals with appeals under the Canada Pension Plan and the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Legal Services

Legal Services provides an advisory service to the Deputy Minister and the Department on legal matters arising from the administration of the Income Tax Act and related Statutes. (Staff are employed by the Department of Justice.)

Access Procedures

Although a single Minister presides over both Taxation and Customs and Excise, for Access to Information and Privacy purposes, the departments are considered separate entities. Therefore, formal access requests should clearly specify the Department — Taxation or Customs and Excise — from which the information is being sought. A formal request under the Access to Information Act should be made by completing an Access to Information Request Form and forwarding it to:

Access and Privacy Co-ordinator
Revenue Canada (Taxation)
Head Office
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0L8
(613) 598-4091

Reading Room

In accordance with section 71 of the Access to Information Act, Revenue Canada (Taxation) has established reading rooms in the following district offices and taxation centres:

Atlantic Region: St. John's, Charlottetown, Halifax, Sydney and Saint John.

Quebec Region: Quebec City, Montreal, Rouyn, Sherbrooke, Laval and Saint-Hubert and the Jonquiere and Shawinigan Taxation Centres.

Ontario Region: Ottawa, Kingston, Belleville, Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Catharines, London, Windsor, Sudbury and Thunder Bay.

Organizational Units and their Role

Architectural and Engineering Services

Business Planning and Management consists of three directorates. Consultant Services is responsible for the selection and approvals process relating to professional services purchased from the private sector in architectural, engineering and related disciplines. Contract Management Services manages matters related to the delivery of projects and services where these are contracted, which includes the development of policies and procedures for the resolution of contract problems, disputes and claims. Business Planning and Systems is responsible for the provision of planning expertise and administrative support.

The Buildings organization provides professional architectural and engineering services pertaining to the design and construction of buildings to clients including managers of the Services Program, the Accommodation Program and client departments. These services include, among others, specialized architectural and engineering services and other industry support programs.

The Technology organization provides professional architectural and engineering services to clients including managers of the Services Program, the Accommodation Program and client departments. These services include, among others, applied research and development studies, technology transfer through demonstration projects, publications and seminars, building performance analysis, barrier-free design, the National Master Specification and other industry support programs.

The Marine division is responsible for all aspects of marine construction, design, planning and engineering as required of the Department of Public Works Canada. It is also responsible for the development and co-ordination of the marine works programs funded by this and other government departments.

The Transportation division is responsible for all activities of a national scale relating to transportation works, such as transportation structures (bridges) and highways, under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works. It is also responsible for the planning and implementation of technical and administrative policies, standards and guidelines relating to the field of transportation as it pertains to the Department.

Realty Services

Real Estate Services consists of three main divisions. Acquisition, Leasing and Disposal Services is responsible for the provision of these services as they relate to real property in the government. Municipal Grants Services is responsible for the payments of grants in lieu of real property taxes. Property Development and Legal Land Surveys Services is responsible for the identification of development opportunities through "highest and best use" and market analysis, the application of Federal Land Management principles (FLM), the preparation of Area Screening Canada reports, the maintenance of the Central Real Property Inventory and the provision of legal land surveys.

Property Management Services is responsible for the provision and marketing of a full range of property management services on a national basis, such as building operations, tenant services, signage, barrier-free access, physical security, facilities inventory systems and the implementation of fire safety procedures. It is responsible for developing and monitoring policies related to real property management and for the development and implementation of agreements for the management of federal and other real property.

Facilities Maintenance Services is responsible for the establishment and monitoring of policies, guidelines and standards for building operations and maintenance services of departmental facilities. These services include electrical, mechanical, energy conservation, architectural commissioning and general building maintenance,

Accommodation

This organization, through five directorates, is responsible for the management of four of the Department's five programs, the exception being the Services Program. These four programs are the Accommodation Program, fulfilling the custodian service role of providing accommodation required to support the operations of government; the Government Realty Assets Support Program, providing a capability for the government to achieve wider social, economic and environmental objectives related to real property; the Marine Transportation and Related Engineering Works Program and the Land Transportation and Other Engineering Works Program, both designed to provide specific locks, dams and dry dock services and related infrastructures, as well as to support wider government objectives related to those works. The functions supporting program management include planning, organizing, resourcing, directing and controlling, among others. These activities are carried out through the regional directors general at the regional level.

Comptroller

The Contract Policy and Administration directorate is responsible for the development, recommendation and implementation of policies, guidelines, procedures and documentation as they relate to the management and administration of all types of Department of Public Works contracts.

Financial Services directs departmental financial planning, prepares multi-year operational plans and estimates, negotiates resources with the Treasury Board of Canada, allocates resources, and provides budgetary control and financial analysis.

The Corporate Finance division processes, records and reports on the Department's financial transactions and accounting activities; develops, co-ordinates, monitors and evaluates departmental management accounting systems and structures, including a full cost disclosure system, in compliance with central agency and departmental policy or directives; supports all departmental travel and relocation programs and (in conjunction with personnel) the pay administration system; produces public accounts year-end submissions; and ensures accountability for non-budget fiscal accounts. The Treasury function controls and reports on cash management. The division provides related policy advice and feasibility assessments for departmental, interdepartmental and central agency committees.

Informatics Services is responsible for providing a full range of electronic data processing (EDP) and computer systems services to support all activities systems serving common national requirements, the management of departmental databases, and central planning and control of all EDP in the Department. The directorate also provides technical computing services in support of the Department's professional and technical program and management science services to support departmental planners, analysts and managers.

Administrative Policy and Services is responsible for the provision of all administrative support policies and services such as materiel and facilities management, information research and library services, word processing, records management, forms, manuals and directives control, parliamentary returns, executive correspondence control, security, safety, in-house energy conservation program and suggestion award program.

Market-Based Charging co-ordinates departmental activities related to the Department's Management Improvement Plans, (M.I.P.). It also co-ordinates the implementation of a system for charging other government departments for Department of Public Works accommodation, professional and technical services, and the conversion of the Department of Public Works to operating in a revenue-dependent mode of mangement. The project team issues statements of principles and goals, calls for annual departmental work plans by functions and regions, directs and co-ordinates activities in support of the M.I.P.

Corporate Affairs

Corporate Affairs is responsible for corporate policy development and analysis, program and project evaluations and corporate projects. The Branch also provides administrative direction to the Management Audit Unit, and advises the Minister and Deputy Minister on corporate policy matters of concern to the Department as a whole. The Director General, Corporate Affairs serves as senior liaison officer on matters of interest to Cabinet.

Personnel

This organization provides national policy and services in the areas of staffing, classification, staff relations, career planning, training and development, human resources planning, employee assistance and other areas concerning personnel. It maintains several automated national information systems relative to personnel management.

Corporate Communications

This organization is responsible to the Deputy Minister for developing, implementing, maintaining and evaluating communications programs and mechanisms addressed to the Department's employees and the public, for receiving feedback on communications activities, maintaining effective communications with the media; maintaining liaison with public affairs and information services divisions in other government departments; and for advising on the implementation of the federal identity program.

Executive Secretary

The Executive Secretary is accountable for the provision of secretariat services for the Department, the Senior Executive Committee and other senior committees; for the development of policies, standards, guidelines and procedures in support of these services; for the provision of executive support to the office of the Deputy Minister and the Minister; and for some liaison with central agencies.

Organizational Units and their Role

Industry Marketing

This organization promotes regionally balanced development of internationally competitive, adaptable enterprises in the industrial sectors of Canada, including the capital and consumer goods sectors, the service sector and the resource processing industries.

The Aerospace and Defence Branch promotes the development and expansion of viable businesses in the aerospace and defence sectors. It formulates policies; implements government programs and services; assembles, analyzes and disseminates information; and provides counsel and advice on all matters relating to these sectors. The Branch is also responsible for managing the Defence Industry Productivity Program (DIPP).

DEPARTMENT OF REGIONAL INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

The Automotive, Marine and Rail Branch formulates sectoral policies, and plans and executes programs and services to promote the establishment, improvement, efficiency, international competitiveness and export market growth of the automotive, marine, rail and urban transportation sectors.

The Food and Consumer Products Industries Branch is responsible for overall sectoral and regional industrial and economic development in the food and consumer products industries. It is the focal point of policy issues that affect these industries.

The Information Technologies Industry Branch encourages the application of information technology across all industry sectors and in all regions of Canada. Its objective is to foster the growth and international competitiveness of Canada's ability to satisfy the information technology needs of businesses, governments and consumers in Canada and abroad.

The Machinery and Electrical Equipment Branch formulates sector policies and helps the industry to identify and exploit domestic and export market opportunities. It applies the Department's incentive programs to improve the competitive position of the industry. The Branch's responsibilities include all machinery and electrical equipment used by Canada's resource processing, manufacturing and service industries.

The Office of Industrial and Regional Benefits is the departmental focal point for policy development and co-ordination of industrial benefits activities relating to federal procurements. It also has operational responsibilities for industrial benefit work on all federal major Crown projects (i.e., over $100 million), and is the Department's co-ordinator for defence, industrial and emergency planning activities.

The Resource Processing Industries Branch provides government liaison with the chemicals, forest products, and metals and mineral industries; formulates policy recommendations and administers programs affecting the three sectors; and consults and works with companies and trade associations.

The Service Industries Branch provides departmental liaison with construction and consulting services, wholesale and retail organizations and other merchandising operations, transportation services, trading houses, computer services, financial services, education services and other services to business; and provides expertise to formulate policy and implement and deliver appropriate programs. It develops policy recommendations in support of the Department's regional industrial development objectives.

The Special Projects Branch provides comprehensive financial, economic and strategic analysis and financial management of major projects for which the Industry Marketing organization is responsible.

The Textiles, Clothing and Footwear Branch works with industry and government representatives to develop and implement policies and programs to assist the textile, clothing, footwear and leather industries. It provides strategic intelligence on these industries to policy-makers in other departments, and administers financial assistance agreements under the Canadian Industrial Renewal Program.

The Planning, Co-ordination and Control Branch provides planning and co-ordination services for the industry sector branches in the Industry Marketing organization and assists with the management and control of the organization's financial and human resources.

Development Programs and Investments

This group is responsible for the design, development, resourcing, maintenance, performance monitoring and management reporting of effective, funded programs and loan guarantee programs for industry and small business; and the co-ordination and integration of responsibilities for international industrial co-operation, trade development, investment promotion and technology transfer. It is also responsible for the provision of award programs to promote entrepreneurial and developmental achievement; the management of major and sensitive readjustment accounts, sales financing, loan guarantees and receivables; the development of industrial benefits plans and strategies, small business strategies and sources of supply associated with major Crown projects.

The Market Development Branch is the focal point in DRIE for domestic market development policy, and for a number of specific services designed to help businesses increase sales and productivity, locate new markets, and assess new production opportunities. These services include the "Think Canadian" Program, the Business Opporunities Sourcing System (Boss), import analysis and related market information services, the Interfirm Comparison Program, and the Canada Awards for Business Excellence. In addition, the Branch maintains a program and policy development capacity to improve and extend its range of services, and markets these and other DRIE services to private sector and departmental clientele.

The Program Affairs Branch adjusts the design and delivery of program mechanisms in response to changing policy objectives, efficiency and effectiveness results from program evaluation, and in the light of delivery experience in sectoral and regional offices. The Branch provides secretariat services and related administrative support to all case boards and is responsible for monitoring program delivery and compliance.

The mandate of the International Co-ordination Branch is to manage the Department's responsibilities in international trade, investment and technology transfer. Much of this activity takes place in the context of industrial co-operation agreements with priority countries. The work is co-ordinated with the Department of External Affairs and Investment Canada, as well as other federal departments and agencies.

The Crown Investments and Guarantees Branch is responsible for providing analysis and advice on business strategy, operations, financial performance and adherence to the requirements of the Financial Administration Act (FAA) of Crown corporations and other major holdings for which the Minister is responsible; providing analysis, advice and operational and policy recommendations on specified divestitures; and the resolution of policy and decision-making requirements associated with these corporations. As well, it is responsible for the assessment, negotiation and monitoring of large and complex restructuring projects involving Crown assistance to support applicant firms in their adjustment to changing business conditions; for managing the credit insurance program for DASH-7 and 8 aircraft sales financing; for administering major corporate accounts and associated recovery of Crown contributions where applicant defaults occur; and for managing the delivery and administration of the Small Businesses Loan Act directed towards the small business community.

The Regional Co-ordination and Special Initiatives Branch co-ordinates and integrates cross-sectoral and cross-regional activities throughout the country as they relate to the conceptualization, formulation and development of special initiatives to address regional or local problems. It provides regional offices with support in, and advice on the formulation of unique regional industrial development packages of policy, program and delivery options targeted towards specifically identified regional/local needs, issues and opportunities; and maintains a network of information and intelligence contacts on regional concerns, issues, strategies and initiatives.

Policy and Evaluation

This sector is responsible for policy development and co-ordination of departmental/government-wide functions in the areas of economic, industrial and trade policy. It monitors policy issues across the whole range of Cabinet Committees, and provides strategic policy, economic and statistical analysis and intelligence, including the evaluation of departmental policies, programs and services.

The Industrial, Economic and Trade Policy Branch integrates policy and program formulation and analysis activities, and develops and co-ordinates short- and long-term plans with respect to horizontal framework and trade policies. The Branch is the departmental focal point for the development of Canadian policy positions for meetings related to GATT and the OECD. It participates directly with foreign governments in bilateral/multilateral discussions (i.e. Canada/U.S. trade), and co-ordinates DRIE's trade involvement with other departments.

The Economic and Statistical Analysis Branch provides economic and statistical analysis, and intelligence and forecast judgement in support of policy and program development within the Department. This includes the provision of policy advice on the short-term implications of the current and prospective state of the Canadian economy and that of other major OECD countries.

The Planning and Evaluation Branch provides the strategic planning framework for departmental operations. It directs the co-ordination of departmental policy development and briefings on CCERD and Priorities and Planning Committee of Cabinet agenda items; evaluates departmental policies, programs and services; and manages special projects and the corporate planning process.

Finance, Personnel and Administration

This office advises on policy making and program direction; designs and co-ordinates the Department's management planning and control process; and provides financial and information services and management support.

The Human Resources Branch is responsible for human resource planning and staffing; training; employee advisory and career services; job classification; staff relations; grievances; pay and benefits; Affirmative Action; official languages; and redeployment.

The Financial Operations Branch is responsible for developing and implementing financial policies and systems, accounting for and controlling financial resources, auditing assistance projects, and providing financial advisory services.

The Resource Management Branch provides financial management advice on policy, planning, programming and budgeting decisions.

The Information Management Branch is responsible for computer operations and user services; systems development, data and technical services; office systems; and telecommunications and information resource management.

The Administrative Services Branch oversees all headquarters matters relating to administrative policy development, contracting and materiel administration, property administration, telecommunications, forms management, printing and duplicating, word processing, records management and micrographics, travel services, library services, mail and messenger services, the management of administrative floor units and security.

The Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Office oversees the administration and policy development of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act as related to the Department. It processes formal requests, advises senior management on the operation of the legislation and the disposition of cases, and promotes awareness of the legislation within the Department.

The Office of the Corporate Secretary

The Office directs and co-ordinates the organization and analysis of the information and the decision-making systems required by the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister.

Operations Audit

This office provides senior management with an independent assessment of the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls.

Small Businesses

This office provides support to the Minister of State (Small Businesses and Tourism) in fulfilling an advocacy function on behalf of small business. This office is also responsible for the development assessment of national policies and programs affecting small business. In addition, the office co-ordinates the activities of the Small Business Consultative Committee and directly responds to the needs of its small business constituents through its Small Business Hotline.

Tourism Canada

This program promotes Canada's industry abroad and assists the industry in improving its product and competitiveness.

The Product Development Directorate analyzes and seeks to improve the competitiveness of Canada's tourism industry, and works with the private sector and the provinces to form tourism development programs.

The Market Development Directorate establishes, develops and implements the principal federal government policies for the marketing of tourism outside Canada. It provides leadership in the co-ordination of federal, other government and private sector tourism marketing activities in order to optimize tourist revenues, enhance the tourism industry's contribution to the national economy and reduce Canada's tourism deficit. As well, it attempts to increase spending by U.S. and overseas visitors, and encourages Canadians to travel in Canada.

The Management Services and Liaison Directorate is responsible for the development and management of a national travel counselling service. The liaison program's primary focus is on the development and implementation of viable consultative mechanisms and processes to facilitate federal, provincial and territorial government consultations and liaison with national and regional tourism associations. Management Services and Liaison is also responsible for the distribution of information, and provides Tourism Canada with administrative services.

The Research Directorate undertakes the planning, initiation and completion of market, product and economic research studies and related surveys. It plays a key role in providing major decision-making and commercial intelligence information on tourism to the Market and Product Development Directorates; industry; industry associations; other federal agencies; and foreign governments.

Native Economic Programs

The Native Economic Programs Sector is responsible for all policy, planning and co-ordination of DRIE programs targeted to Native people. The Sector is also accountable for the delivery of the Native Economic Development Program which provides direct financial assistance to viable, Native business ventures and economic development projects. The Program operates in conjunction with the Native Economic Development Board, which is composed of mostly Native people appointed by Order-in-Council to advise the Minister of State (Small Businesses and Tourism) on projects meriting assistance under the Program and to provide advice on how federal government programs and policies can be improved to support Native enterprise.

Regional Development Secretariat

This secretariat is responsible for the co-ordination and evaluation of federal economic development programs, plans and strategies; the management of Economic and Regional Development Agreements (ERDAs) in each province in support of the Minister of Regional Industrial Expansion and the Cabinet Committee on Economic and Regional Development. It is also responsible for liaison with the central agencies and the headquarters of economic development departments, and liaison with and support to the Federal Economic Development Co-ordinators (FEDCs).

Communications Branch

The Branch provides a focal point for relaying information about DRIE programs, policies and projects to the business community and the general public; and provides films, visual materials and publications on DRIE programs and services. It co-ordinates the activities of regional communications services and provides specialized assistance to these offices as required; maintains contact with other federal institutions, other levels of government and the private sector.

Federal Economic Development Co-ordinators (FEDC)

Located in each province, FEDCs are responsible for providing regional information for decison-making by the Cabinet Committee on Economic and Regional Development (CCERD). FEDCs provide regional officials of sector departments with a better understanding of cabinet decisions and objectives, and co-ordinate the implementation of government decisions affecting economic development in the regions.

Regional Offices

Regional offices provide information on the full range of DRIE programs to industries in their respective region, and administer the programs locally. In addition, the regional offices provide information and advice on domestic and export market possibilities and offer general assistance to Canadian industry for the expansion of trade and tourism.

Records of the former Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce

Canadian Government Office of Tourism (CGOT)

The main objective of the CGOT is to sustain the orderly growth of tourism in Canada. This is achieved by promoting travel to and within Canada and developing tourism markets through the activities of officers located in the Department of External Affairs posts abroad and ITC regional offices in Canada; and by assisting in the development and improvement of the Canadian tourism industry. These functions are performed with a maximum of co-ordination of federal, provincial and private sector activities bearing on tourism. The following branches report to the assistant deputy minister of Tourism.

Tourism Marketing Branch

The branch promotes travel to Canada from other countries, travel within Canada by Canadians, and co-ordinates its activities with those of the provinces and territories and the private sector. It provides a focal point for the co-ordination of Canadian public and private sector tourism marketing activities. The branch uses a complex marketing program to both identify the tourism market and to create further demand within the market. It carries out a full range of tourism marketing activities directly from headquarters, and works closely with market development and promotion officers at various posts abroad and at ITC regional offices in Canada.

Tourism Development Branch

The branch promotes growth and improvement in Canadian tourist attractions, facilities and services and helps them to remain competitive in attracting, receiving and catering to the needs of visitors. It analyzes the tourism industry's strengths and weaknesses and, together with private industry and the federal and provincial governments, strives to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the industry.

The branch consults with regional tourism development officers located across Canada on a continuous basis to ensure that both national and regional tourism development objectives are being met to the fullest extent possible.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE OF CANADA

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of the Secretary of State of Canada was established in 1868 as the official channel of communications between the new Dominion of Canada and the United Kingdom.

Responsibilities

The Department's present responsibilities are to encourage the acquisition and use of the two official languages in Canadian society, thereby reinforcing the equal status of both languages; to advise on matters of state protocol and to manage state ceremonies and events; and to ensure the co-ordinated development, formulation, implementation, and review of education policies and programs in support of national objectives in consultation with the provinces. Additional responsibilities are to provide translation and interpretation services in all languages in accordance with the needs of Parliament, the Government and its agencies; to promote and to assist in the development of a Canadian identity and of effective Canadian citizenship; to co-ordinate the formulation and development of national strategies and policies affecting citizenship; to provide facilities to grant and to give proof of Canadian citizenship and to encourage and assist eligible persons to acquire and value such citizenship. Finally, the Department attempts to promote the integration and quality of life of disabled citizens; to increase the enjoyment of human rights,and to foster compliance with Canada's domestic and international human rights commitments.

Organizational Units and their Role

Official Languages and Translation

The Official Languages and Translation sector fosters a better appreciation among Canadians of the equal status of the two official languages, assists in the implementation of adequate service to official language minority groups and facilitates communication in both official languages within the federal public service, and between the public service and the general public. It consists of four branches and one directorate.

Promotion of Official Languages Branch

The Branch promotes the equal status of the two official languages. The Branch encourages and assists the official language minorities (francophones in the provinces and territories outside Quebec, and anglophones in Quebec) at the national, provincial and community levels to establish and maintain their institutions; to develop their organizations; and to participate, in their language, in the social, educational, cultural and economic life of Canadian society. It provides financial and technical assistance to organizations seeking equality for the two official languages and the adoption of bilingualism policies. It also offers financial and technical assistance to institutions, companies and organizations in the private and non-federal public sectors so that they can provide services in the language of minority official language communities.

Translation Operations Branch

The Branch provides translation of texts and multilingual services to Parliament and government departments. The Interpretation Directorate provides simultaneous or consecutive interpretation, as well as multilingual interpretation and sign language services, to the House of Commons, courts, and official conferences.

Terminology and Linguistic Services Branch

The Branch is responsible for terminology, training and language quality evaluation.

Planning, Management, and Technology Branch

The Branch provides management services including planning, policy evaluation, management information and administrative services. The Branch also provides advice in the field of technology and assists in implementing appropriate technology in the sector.

EDUCATION SUPPORT

Policy, Analysis and Liaison Branch

The Branch consists of three directorates: Policy and Analysis, Liaison and Canadian Studies. The Branch administers post-secondary education payments to the provinces and territories under the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act and the Federal Post-Secondary Education and Health Contributions Act (1977). It co-operates with the Department of External Affairs in ensuring the effectiveness of Canada's participation in international educational activities. The Branch conducts research and analysis in support of the development of a national education policy. It develops responses to questions from institutions related to education, from Parliament, and from the public. It works with Statistics Canada to collect statistics concerning education, maintains a database on information relevant to education, consults with federal and provincial departments, and produces an annual report to Parliament on Federal and Provincial Support to Post-Secondary Education in Canada.

The Canadian Studies Directorate provides advisory and financial assistance to individuals, organizations, and Canadian businesses and corporations working to advance the field of Canadian studies. The Directorate administers a series of programs designed to increase the public's knowledge of Canada by the development of Canadian studies learning materials on a number of specific content areas, and by encouraging greater private sector funding of Canadian studies projects.

The Student Assistance Directorate manages the Canada Student Loans Program (CSLP). Established in 1964, the program is designed to make post-secondary education more accessible to interested and qualified Canadians by loans to students with demonstrated financial need. As well, it offers interest relief to unemployed ex-borrowers and forgiveness of loans to permanently disabled borrowers.

The Official Languages in Education Directorate promotes, encourages and assists the development and provision of education in the language of the official language minority community of each province and territory, and provides opportunities for Canadians to learn their second official language. Under the broad framework of a Protocol of Agreements signed between the Government of Canada and the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada, bilateral agreements are concluded with each province and territory. Under the agreements, support is provided for four program expenditures categories: Infrastructure Support, Program Expansion and Development, Teacher Training and Development, and Student Support. The Protocol of Agreements also provides for the funding of two national programs: the Summer Language Bursary Program and the Official-Language Monitor Program. Through the Language Acquisition Development Program, financial assistance is provided to institutions and organizations for projects concerning the compilation and dissemination of information on the learning and teaching of the official languages, and the development and improvement of teaching methods and techniques related to minority official language education and second official language instruction. This assistance supplements the agreements on official languages in education. Through the Queen Elizabeth Silver Jubilee Endowment Fund, scholarships are awarded to university students who wish to pursue studies in their second official language.

CITIZENSHIP

The Citizenship Sector comprises major activities that help individuals and organizations participate more fully in our society and enjoy the benefits of Canadian citizenship. It includes Citizenship Co-ordination, Citizenship Registration and Promotion, Citizenship Development and Human Rights.

Citizenship Co-ordination

Citizenship Co-ordination is structured in the following manner:

The Policy Co-ordination, Analysis and Management Systems Branch provides executive and co-ordination support and monitors the Citizenship Sector activities.

The Policy and Planning Directorate provides advice on policy directions as well as executive and co-ordination support on policy matters. It maintains liaison with other sectors of the Department, with central agencies and with other departments, thereby facilitating the decision-making process on policy and expenditures relating to citizenship.

The Social Trends Analysis Directorate gathers information on major social trends in Canadian society and undertakes new research in support of policy development, or develops joint research projects with program directorates. It collaborates with national or international organizations conducting social science or statistical research.

The Secretariat and Systems Unit is responsible for the development and administration of systems and procedures for the Department's grants and contributions funding process.

Citizenship Registration and Promotion

The Citizenship Registration and Promotion Branch is responsible for the administration of the Citizenship Act and Regulations, and provides a national service for the granting of Canadian citizenship and the issuing of certificates of proof of citizenship; a service for record searches, the registration of births abroad, the retention, resumption, and renunciation of citizenship; and self instructional materials to help citizenship applicants acquire a knowledge of Canada. It also promotes public awareness and understanding of Canadian citizenship and its privileges and responsibilities through the development of promotional programs and materials. The organizational structure of the Branch includes a headquarters located partly in Hull, Quebec (executive direction, advisory services and quality control) and partly in Sydney, Nova Scotia (processing and maintenance of more than 5 000 000 records), and 30 courts which are managed by the Regional Operation Activity, but which are under the functional direction of the Registrar of Canadian Citizenship.

Citizenship Development

Citizenship Development assists Canadians to achieve more equitable and equal access to all spheres of activity in Canadian society and to fully participate in shaping the social, cultural, political and economic environment that affects them. Emphasis is on the provision of financial, technical and advisory assistance through the following programs.

The Women's Program is the major federal program responsible for providing advice, guidance, information and financial assistance to voluntary associations working to improve the equality of women. Its objective is to encourage the full participation of women in Canadian society. The Program promotes understanding and action on status of women issues and encourages all institutions and organizations to integrate women's concerns into their decision-making structures, policies and programs. It also funds Chairs of Women's Studies.

The Status of Disabled Persons Secretariat promotes a collaborative partnership among federal and provincial governments, business, labour, religious institutions, academics, service providers and disabled persons. It plans and co-ordinates federal government initiatives, such as the national action plan in response to the United Nations World Program of Action concerning Disabled Persons, and the implementation of the recommendations of the report of the Special Committee on the Handicapped and Disabled entitled Obstacles. It promotes the abilities of disabled persons to participate fully in Canadian economic and social life.

The Disabled Persons Participation Program offers financial and technical assistance in support of the activities of voluntary organizations of disabled persons. It consists of three distinct elements: representation, access and community options.

The Native Citizens Directorate co-ordinates and administers programs that serve organizations of Status Indians, Non-Status Indians, Métis and Inuit. A consistent feature in all programs is that projects are community-based, initiated and managed by aboriginal people. The Directorate provides assistance through the Native Friendship Centre Program, the Native Communications Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Native Social and Cultural Development Program and the Canada-Northwest Territories Official and Aboriginal Languages Program.

The Youth Participation Directorate encourages and facilitates the participation of young people in Canadian society. The Open House Canada program provides opportunities to young Canadians aged between 14 and 22 years, or to full-time post-secondary students, to increase their knowledge about a different Canadian community and to increase mutual understanding through reciprocal exchange projects. Funding is available for exchanges organized directly by the Department of Secretary of State of Canada as well as for exchanges organized by non-government organizations.

The Voluntary Action Directorate encourages active citizenship by supporting the participation of Canadians in community affairs. It provides technical, professional and financial support to national, regional and local voluntary organizations in carrying out citizenship activities. (Voluntary associations are non-profit, community-oriented and concerned with public issues.)

The Human Rights Directorate achieves its objectives through a program of support for education, research and development work by non-governmental organizations, as well as by operating a secretariat for the two major governmental human rights committees chaired by the Department: the Federal Interdepartmental Committee on Human Rights, which facilitates the co-ordination of the federal government's human rights responsibilities; and the Continuing Federal-Provincial-Territorial Committee of Officials Responsible for Human Rights, which provides a mechanism for liaison and consultation on matters relating to Canada's international human rights commitments. The Human Rights Directorate co-ordinates the preparation of Canada's reports to the United Nations on human rights. The activities of the program include the provision of both financial aid and technical support to non-governmental organizations concerned with human rights education, development and research, and assisting and co-ordinating the progress of human rights in Canada.

MULTICULTURALISM CANADA

The Sector is dedicated to pressing for equal opportunity for all Canadians in the economic, social, political and cultural life of Canada, with particular responsibility for those of other than French or English background. The Sector includes three directorates.

Community and Cultural Programs Directorate

The Directorate administers the following programs: the Group Development Program, the Cultural Integration Program, the Intercultural Communications Program, the Canadian Ethnic Studies Program, the Writing and Publications Program, the Cultural Enrichment Program and the Performing and Visual Arts Program. The Directorate provides support to immigrant women, and to the enhancement of multiculturalism in education.

Race Relations Directorate

The Directorate promotes the elimination of racial discrimination and offers financial and technical assistance for race relations projects and initiatives directed at community and mainstream organizations.

Policy, Research and Analysis Directorate

The Directorate conducts research and analysis to identify issues and contributes to policy development.

MANAGEMENT PRACTICES

The sector is charged with developing and maintaining a management system that serves the needs of the Department. It consists of two branches and one directorate.

Finance Branch

The Branch is responsible for financial controls and for providing services and advice to management to ensure that the financial directives and regulations are respected. The Branch is also responsible for operational planning.

Informatics and Administrative Policies and Services

The Branch is responsible for developing, implementing and controlling departmental administrative and informatics policies. The Branch also provides departmental services such as contract services, records management, data and tele-processing, office automation systems, security, library, mail and accommodation. It administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Through the Management Improvement Directorate, it ensures the quality of management procedures throughout the Department.

Internal Audit Directorate

The Directorate carries out periodic, objective reviews of all departmental programs, operations and management systems to determine their efficiency and cost-effectiveness. It recommends, to the Under Secretary of State and departmental managers, corrective measures likely to improve operations.

PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

The Personnel Administration Branch provides personnel services and advises managers on all matters involving human resource management, such as affirmative action, internal training, employee assistance programs, official languages, and workforce adjustment.

CORPORATE POLICY AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

This sector is responsible for the development of corporate policy, strategic planning, co-ordination of departmental research, and liaison and policy functions associated with federal-pronvincial relations and international affairs.

Corporate Policy Branch

The Branch carries out its responsibilities for policy development and analysis of social policy issues. The Branch prepares the Strategic Plan as well as Cabinet proposals and substantive analyses for the Secretary of State and the Under Secretary of State on numerous policy issues and proposals. The Branch also co-ordinates projects involving multilateral and bilateral co-ordination, either between departments or at the international level.

Corporate Secretariat

The Secretariat provides various services to the offices of the Secretary of State, the Under Secretary of State and the Department's senior management. These include writing and advisory services relating to the minister's correspondence; secretariat services to the senior management committee of the Department; and preparation and monitoring of the list of departmental activities in areas of policy development. It also ensures departmental liaison with Parliament and the Privy Council Office, and monitors parliamentary and cabinet activities.

Program Evaluation Directorate

The Directorate reports on the efficiency and effectiveness of the Department's activities in order to provide the Department with timely and objective information useful in making decisions about program continuance, resource allocation and accountability, and to recommend improvements in planning, program design and policy development.

Legal Services

Legal Services are provided by lawyers from the Department of Justice who offer program managers a wide range of services, including preparing opinions on the laws administered by the Department, editing regulatory texts and giving advice on policies being developed. In addition to serving managers, lawyers participate in legal training sessions for newly appointed citizenship judges.

Communications Directorate

The Directorate develops, co-ordinates and implements communications plans for all sectors of the Department. Its services include writing, editing, graphic design, publishing, audio-visual presentations, exhibitions, advertising and internal communications. It is responsible for media relations, distribution of information about the Department, and responses to public enquiries.

State Ceremonial Directorate

The Directorate promotes national symbols (Canadian flag, national anthem) to increase their visibility through the development and distribution of brochures and through the administration of a gift bank containing gifts which reflect Canadian crafts, to be used by Ministers and Deputy Minsters when receiving guests from abroad or when travelling internationally. It participates in the organization of ceremonies and celebrations to commemorate events of national significance such as provincial and national anniversaires and Canada Day. It also supports the role of the Crown in Canada through the organization of visits to Canada by Members of the Royal Family, the administration of the obligations of the federal government to the offices of the lieutenant governors including salaries, travel and hospitality expenses, and the provision of advice on the exercise of royal prerogatives; and it administers the National Exhibitions and Regional Fairs Program to co-ordinate the participation of the Government of Canada in national and regional exhibitions.

REGIONAL OPERATIONS

Regional Operations manages the Department's programs in all regions, focussing special attention on the individual needs of each region. It manages the resources and activities of nine regional offices, sixteen local offices, seven translation services and thirty citizenship registration offices. Under agreements signed with departmental programs, Regional Operations manages citizenship promotion and registration activities, including the operations of the Canadian citizenship courts; administers grants and contributions to provincial, regional or local associations for all departmental programs administered at the regional level, and ensures certain translation services in liaison with provincial and local governments.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of the Solicitor General was established in 1966 when Parliament enacted the Department of the Solicitor General Act. The Department has since been reorganized into a ministry, incorporating the Secretariat, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Correctional Service of Canada, the National Parole Board, the Office of the Correctional Investigator, the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) and the Office of the Inspector General.

Responsibilities

The Ministry of the Solicitor General brings together the major operational elements of the federal government concerned with the administration of the criminal justice system, under the direction and supervision of the Solicitor General. The Solicitor General is responsible for the management and direction of reformatories, prisons, penitentiaries, parole, remissions, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The Ministry Secretariat provides policy analysis and development, research, consultation, liaison, co-ordination and program management services to the Solicitor General in support of his general responsibilities as a Minister of the Crown and in support of his specific responsibilities for national security, policing, corrections and release, and for certain other aspects of criminal justice.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act
- Criminal Identification Act
- Criminal Code of Canada
- Criminal Records Act
- Diplomatic and Consular Privileges and Immunities Act
- Fugitive Offenders Act
- Immigration Act 1976
- Migratory Birds Act
- Parole Act
- Penitentiary Act
- Prisons and Reformatories Act
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Police and Security Branch

The Branch provides policy advice to the Solicitor General on the role, priorities, programs and operational activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service. The Branch also develops policy on federal law enforcement, national policing issues, national security, contingency planning and counter-terrorism. To facilitate the realization of the government's commitment to provide clear direction to the RCMP and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, and to ensure the accountability of these organizations to Parliament, the Branch has three Directorates.

The Security Policy and Operations Directorate comprises two divisions: Security Policy, and Security Operations. The Directorate is responsible for supporting the Deputy Solicitor General, in consultation with the Director of CSIS, on the general operational policies of the Service; for reviewing operational proposals referred to the Minister by the CSIS to ensure their conformity with legislation and ministerial guidelines and standards; and for reviewing applications made by the CSIS, following consultation with the Deputy Solicitor General, to the Solicitor General for approval to implement special investigative techniques provided for by the CSIS Act. It is also responsible for reviewing the government's national internal security policies and the CSIS' general operational policies in order to provide ongoing advice to the Solicitor General; and for reviewing all proposed changes in government policy and legislation which may have an impact on existing national internal security policies, with a view to advising the Solicitor General on co-ordinating the needs of national security and other areas of government policy.

The Security Planning and Co-ordination Directorate is responsible for co-ordinating the identification, development and maintenance of counter-terrorist program measures on an inter-departmental, federal-provincial and international basis; providing support to the Solicitor General in his capacity as lead Minister for the management of terrorist-related crises in Canada; and developing and maintaining contingency plans concerning public order emergencies. This directorate also manages the operation of the Security Advisory Committee (SAC), which is responsible for considering policy issues and identifying and planning future sectoral priorities.

The Police and Law Enforcement Policy Directorate is responsible for developing and reviewing policy proposals governing the overall effectiveness and accountability of the RCMP; developing and implementing federal policy on the management of RCMP policing agreements with provinces, territories and municipalities; and reviewing RCMP policy and expenditure submissions. It is also responsible for developing policy for federal-provincial law enforcement initiatives and participating in the development of policy initiatives with federal and national policing and law enforcement implications.

Programs Branch

The Programs Branch is the Ministry's research and development arm. Its principal aim is to produce sound information through demonstration, research and evaluation and to communicate this information to improve criminal justice legislation, policy, programs and operations. The Branch's research and development mandate encompasses: knowledge building, which is based on research, statistics and experimental programs, and dissemination of information from these activities; and the provision of technical expertise and services such as communications and media relations, EDP activities, library and reference services, criminal justice employment programs, and major public involvement campaigns such as Crime Prevention Week.

The Research Division conducts social science research on issues that are relevant to the priorities of the Ministry.

The Statistics Division provides professional and technical services to the Secretariat and the Ministry agencies and promotes the development of better information and statistics in the criminal justice system.

The Consultation Centre tests and develops innovative approaches to the resolution of complex and persistent criminal justice problems; increases community participation in criminal issues; facilitates information exchange and technology transfer amongst federal, provincial and municipal government organizations and private and voluntary sector organizations; and assists and encourages intergovernmental and intragovernmental planning for criminal justice policies and programs. To accomplish these objectives, the Consultation Centre's organizational structure includes a national headquarters in Ottawa and regional offices in Moncton, Montreal, Toronto, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver.

The Communications Group explains Ministry objectives, roles and activities to all those within the criminal justice system and to the public, and serves the information and communication needs of the Solicitor General. The Group places special emphasis on converting the results of research and development to appropriate forms for use by components of the justice system and on effective liaison with representatives from various Canadian media.

The Management Services and Systems Group provides management and executive support services to the Programs Branch to enable it to fulfill its Ministry-wide responsibility for criminal justice research and development, to ensure productive and efficient operations, and to co-ordinate interaction between the Branch and central agencies of the government and the central services of the Secretariat.

The Planning and Development Group is responsible for identifying emerging trends, issues and program needs of the Ministry; planning, designing, implementing and monitoring programs and model projects; co-ordinating the development of policies for the sustaining funding program for voluntary organizations; and co-ordinating Programs Branch strategic planning exercises. The Group is also responsible for recommending future directions in programs and program policies; providing accurate and timely advice to the Ministry on substantive and developing issues in criminal justice, and representing the Ministry on interdepartmental and intergovernmental task forces, steering committees and working groups established by ministers relating to the planning and development of justice initiatives and programs.

Policy Branch

The Policy Branch provides policy analysis and development, co-ordination, liaison and program management services in support of the Solicitor General's federal, national and international responsibilities for corrections services, parole, and certain other criminal justice matters, such as criminal records. The Policy Branch is also responsible for co-ordinating the preparation of the Ministry's strategic policy overviews and forecasts; monitoring and co-ordinating the analysis of, and response to, developments bearing upon the Solicitor General's responsibilities for policing and corrections within the parliamentary system, the Cabinet Committee system, the central agencies and the international corrections and criminal justice communities.

Program and policy responsibilities pertaining to young offenders and firearms have been transferred to the Department of Justice, subject to the recognition that the Solicitor General has a clear interest in related issues bearing upon security, corrections and policing.

Administration Branch

The Branch is responsible for the preparation, implementation and overall administration of personnel, financial and administrative policies, programs, systems, procedures and services to assist the Ministry Secretariat in meeting its organizational objectives. These responsibilities include providing specialized advice and services to ensure delivery of Secretariat programs in accordance with legislative and central agency requirements.

Corporate Systems is responsible for corporate level planning and management systems, management information systems, audit, program evaluation, management review and related management tools used in the Ministry Secretariat. It also co-ordinates the use of these instruments, where required, with other components of the Ministry or with external authorities.

DEPARTMENT OF SUPPLY AND SERVICES

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Supply and Services (DSS) was created on April 1, 1969 by the Government Organization Act.

Responsibilities

The Department is responsible for providing Receiver General programs in the areas of payment and banking services, as well as maintenance of the central government fiscal accounts and associated reports. It provides certain services in the area of compensation and personnel, and common services, on a revenue dependent basis, for the supply of goods and certain services required by departments and agencies and for the disposal of Crown-owned materiel. These activities are designed to enhance government effectiveness and economy, taking into account the contribution of these activities to the support of national objectives.

Legislation

- Defence Production Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter D-2, as amended
- Department of Supply and Services Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter S-18
- Public Service Superannuation Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter P-36 as amended
- Royal Canadian Mint Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter R-8
- Surplus Crown Assets Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter S-20
- Trading with the Enemy (Transitional Powers) Act, R.S.C. 1947, chapter 24, as amended

Organizational Units and their Role

SUPPLY OPERATIONS SECTOR

The Supply Operations Sector is responsible for providing common services to other government departments and agencies. These services include requirements definition; acquisitions of goods and services; printing, publishing, film and video services, exhibitions and displays; traffic management services; and advertising management.

Within the acquisitions service, it is the Sector's responsibility to procure complex technical engineering and science products and services, as well as those that are of a commercial nature. The Sector is also responsible for contracting out research and development requirements, co-ordinating the unsolicited proposals, and public awareness programs.

The Sector is composed of the Supply Management Branch and five directorates, each with specific responsibilities. The Supply Management Branch has the responsibility of undertaking a variety of studies on behalf of the assistant deputy minister and the directorates as well as providing a support function in its capacity as a staff group. The directorates are structured to more closely parallel the operational and engineering organization of the Department's customers. They provide acquisitions services and focus on total life-cycle management for a specified group of commodities. The five directorates are the following:

Aerospace, Marine and Electronics Systems

This directorate is responsible for providing electronics systems, aircraft, logistics, aerospace products support, marine inspection and technical services, armoured vehicles, marine and armament systems, as well as providing support within the commodity group. It also oversees the operation of a number of major crown projects, such as: Canadian Patrol Frigate (CPF); Canadian Airspace Systems Plan (CASP); Tribal Class Update Modernization Project (TRUMP); Drone Systems Project (DSP); Low Level Air Defence (LLAD); Ship Replacement Program II (SRP II); Polar 8 Icebreaker Project; Infra-Red Search and Target Designation System (IRSTD); Recovery, Assist, Secure and Traverse Project (RAST); the Light Armoured Vehicle Project (LAV); the Small Arms Replacement Project (SARP); Canadian Submarine Project (CASAP); CF-18 Project; the New Shipborne Aircraft Project (NSA); the Tactical Command, Control and Communication Systems (TCCCS); the North Warning System Project (NWS); and the Canadian Towed Array Sonar Systems (CANTASS).

Industrial and Commercial Products

This directorate oversees the operations of four procurement branches, each responsible for the supply management of a grouping of similar products and services. The Consumer Products and Traffic Management Branch is responsible for traffic services; personnel travel and removal services; food; drugs; and clothing and textile products. The Scientific, Electrical Mechanical and Construction Products Branch is responsible for scientific instruments and laboratory supplies; photographic equipment; construction equipment and tools; and commercially oriented electrical and mechanical products. The Transportation and Energy Products Branch is responsible for land transportation goods (standard and special vehicles); fuels; oils; coal; petroleum lubricants and industrial lubricants. The Military Operational and Support Trucks Branch oversees the following major crown projects: the ILTIS Project; the Heavy Logistics Vehicles Wheeled (HLVW) Project; and the Light Support Vehicle Project.

Office Automation Services and Information Systems (OASIS)

This directorate oversees the operations of three branches:

The Procurement Operations Branch is responsible for the procurement of all information processing systems, office automation systems, office equipment and supplies, as well as a wide range of data processing, micrographic and word processing services.

The Product, Technology and Account Management Branch is responsible for the products management of all goods and services within the OASIS mandate, the merging and emerging technology associated with office automation and the provision of account management services covering the total OASIS spectrum, while maintaining a one-stop shopping service for the client departments.

The Operations Support Branch is responsible for the provision of all support services including operations planning, performance assessment and evaluation, special projects and information systems. It is also responsible for document control and contract distribution; sourcing and vendor relations; the provision of financial services in support of procurement, including cost analysis and vendor financial viability studies; the provision of administrative services, including personnel, mail and general administration; and the provision of contract quality control services.

Science and Professional Services

This directorate has four branches:

The Science Branch provides a focal point in the areas of natural and human sciences, as well as a centre for the receipt and processing of unsolicited proposals from the private sector. It is responsible for the following services: mission-oriented research and development; feasibility studies in natural science; ongoing and new sciences and technologies; scientific data collection; scientific testing and standardization; human and social sciences; urban, regional and transportation studies.

The Professional Services Branch contracts for many diverse services: consulting services, office temporary help, aerial surveying, air charter, aerial spraying, forest fire-fighting, security services; writing, editing, audio visual and language training services.

The Science Programs Branch (SPB) is responsible for the management of the Unsolicited Proposals Program (UPP) which reviews and evaluates technological proposals submitted from the private sector; the Public Awareness Program for Science and Technology (PAPST), which provides funding assistance to organizations and individuals; the R&D Bulletin, a monthly publication used to promote science and technology, and the Science Procurement Information Network (SPIN), which is used to select companies for contract work.

The Canadian General Standards Board, by means of a voluntary consensus process, provides standards and certification-listing programs covering various products, services and systems, to all levels of government and the private sector.

Communications Services Directorate

The Communications Services Directorate has five branches:

The Communications Planning Services Branch provides a wide variety of services to all elements of the Communications Services Directorate as well as client departments, upon request. These services include advisory, technical, and engineering services as well as product management planning and strategy, method of supply development and analysis, systems co-ordination and administration functions. The Branch also provides assistance in communications planning, tracking and analysis of public opinion, creative services, and guidance in the development of clients' communications strategies.

Canadian Government Printing Services provides a wide range of graphic arts services to Parliament, government departments and agencies, either by procurement from commercial suppliers or by its own manufacturing facilities.

The Canadian Government Publishing Centre co-ordinates the publishing activities of departments and agencies of the Government of Canada, with the objective of efficiently maximizing public awareness of government policies, programs and services. These activities include managing the associated bookstores program which enables Canadians to purchase federal government publications through 171 commercial and university bookstores across Canada. It is also responsible for the depository services program whereby these publications may be consulted in over 800 public and university libraries throughout the country. The Centre's activities also include a telephone referral service which enables Canadians nationwide to call the federal government and obtain information on government services, free of charge.

The Communications Services Procurement Branch manages the contracting and payment activities for the provision of advertising services, public relations and related communications services on behalf of departments and agencies. The Branch contracts for the purchase of media space and time through the Agency of Record. The Advertising Management Group (AMG) is an organizational element of this branch and the operational component of the Cabinet Committee on Communications. The AMG advises departments on campaign themes, timing, media strategy and evaluation. It reviews proposed advertising projects or plans before they are undertaken or implemented and provides departments with a statement of project or plan concurrence from the Chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Communications.

The Canadian Government Film and Video Centre provides departments and agencies with a full range of exhibits, film, video and photographic services to support their communications objectives. These services include research and design; project management for exhibits; fabrication and refurbishment of exhibits and displays; and signage services in accordance with the Federal Identity Program (FIP) guidelines. These services are provided by in-house facilities or purchased from the private sector, both at home and abroad.

REGIONAL OPERATIONS SECTOR

The Regional Operations Sector is responsible for the provision of all services offered by the Supply and Services Administration at the local level both in Canada and abroad. To deliver its services, the Sector is currently divided into five directorates within the country and two regions outside of Canada: Europe and Washington.

Directorates

The five directorates are the largest components of the Sector, employing approximately 4 000 people and operating from over 100 locations across Canada. These directorates are responsible for the provision of services from both a supply and services perspective at the local level. They have Director General Offices located in Calgary, Alberta; the National Capital Region; Montreal, Quebec; and Halifax, Nova Scotia. The directorates provide acquisition, printing and other unique services such as stocked item supply; self-service stores; warehousing; maintenance and repair; assets management and disposal. They also provide payroll and related functions to clients, and produce socio-economic payments such as Family Allowance, Old Age Security, Canada Pension, Canadian Jobs Strategy, National Revenue Income Tax refunds and Census payments. In addition, a specialized branch in Shediac, New Brunswick is responsible for superannuation services.

The Regional Offices of the Department of Supply and Services, headed by Directors, are located in the following cities: Vancouver, British Columbia; Edmonton, Alberta; Regina, Saskatchewan; Winnipeg, Manitoba; Etobicoke and Ottawa, Ontario; Quebec City and Montreal, Quebec; Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; Moncton, New Brunswick; Charlottetown, P.E.I.; and St. John's, Newfoundland. They generally comprise a regional office, district office, purchasing offices, printing plants, copy centres and self-service stores.

The European Region, with its headquarters in London, England, is responsible for serving the needs of customer departments located in Canada, as well as federal agencies overseas. Its major client is the Canadian Forces European Command, for which it carries out commercial and engineering acquisitions. In common with their counterparts throughout the Department, procurement officers in the European Region are aware of purchases that could be made from Canadian sources and, when possible, they refer such requirements to the appropriate Canadian region or branch. Efforts are also made to support European industry in the licensing, co-production or transfer of technology and production capability to Canada. The London office is responsible for procurements from the Scandinavian countries and all of Europe except Germany, France, and Belgium. A purchasing office in Koblenz, West Germany buys from these latter three countries. In addition to the specialized items available only in Europe that are required by government clients in Canada and overseas, the office in Koblenz buys the everyday goods and services needed by the Canadian NATO bases at Lahr and Baden-Soellingen, West Germany. Additionally, the European Region has a Canadian Government Services Office in Lahr.

The Washington Region, with its office in Washington, D.C., is responsible for maintaining government-to-government contact with the United States for the purchase of specialized Canadian requirements in aerospace technology and armaments. In addition, the region's role includes source development, and the provision of more efficient access to DSS sourcing information on Canadian capabilities.

Disposal Operations

Disposal Operations provides a specialized service to government departments, agencies and Crown corporations in the disposal of their surplus material located in Canada and abroad. It acts as agent for the United States, British and other governments in the sale of their surplus assets located in Canada, and has arrangements with certain European governments for the disposal of Canadian military surplus located in their countries.

FINANCE, PERSONNEL AND ADMINISTRATION SECTOR

This sector provides direction and control for the Department in the following functional areas: finance, personnel, administration, corporate relations, security, statistical information and data management, and contractual dispute resolution. In the area of finance, responsibilities include contract cost and financial review, resource analysis, financial policy and accounting services. In personnel, responsibilities include classification and staffing, organization analysis, professional development, employee relations, official languages and affirmative action. In administration, responsibilities include policy development, forms and graphics management, materiel management, facilities management, library services, telecommunications, records management, and mail and messenger services. In the area of corporate relations, responsibilities include the delivery of corporate and customer/supplier relations programs. The chairman of the Contracts Settlement Board is responsible for contractual dispute resolution and settlement, and providing qualitative analysis with respect to contracts for the Department's dispute avoidance program.

Administrative Services Directorate

The Administrative Services Directorate is responsible, on behalf on the Deputy Minister, for the provision of support services that are required by virtually all programs and that are critical to the success of departmental components in meeting their goals and objectives. Those services include infrastructure (accommodation, lighting, heat, etc.), transportation and communications, information, (forms, graphics, records management, library, etc.) and real property (materiel management, furniture purchasing, warehousing inventories and assets management). The Directorate is also responsible for the establishment and management of the Shared Ministerial Offices and all other services of a like nature that are from time to time required and can be provided more effectively to the Department by an internal common service organization.

United Way Advisory Committee

The Committee provides assistance and guidance to the federal government United Way Campaign organizations on administrative and financial matters.

Security Branch

The Branch meets the Canadian government's national and international industrial security commitments; provides a broad range of internal security services including physical and personnel security and classified information protection; conducts a personnel security clearance program for the Department and industry; conducts internal investigations; and manages the departmental data processing and communications security program.

MANAGEMENT AND OPERATIONAL SERVICES SECTOR

This sector reports to an assistant deputy minister. Its primary concern is to maintain service levels to clients, both within and outside of the Department, in the most cost-effective and efficient manner possible. The Sector is responsible for liaising with all Department clients in matters pertaining to compensation, personnel, and financial and payment services. The Sector consists of two bureaus and three directorates:

Audit Services Bureau

The Bureau provides, on request, through regional offices across the country and Head Office in Ottawa, a full range of auditing services to client departments and agencies on a professional fee-for-service basis. There are offices in seven major Canadian centres in addition to the one in Ottawa.

Bureau of Management Consulting

The Bureau provides, on request, a comprehensive professional management consulting service to departments and agencies of the government of Canada as well as Crown corporations. The service is provided on a fee-for-service basis.

Account Marketing Directorate

The Directorate's mandate is to guide the Department in the area of information processing products to ensure that the Sector is responsive to evolving client needs and to monitor the Sector's services to the same end. As well, the Directorate will survey general market conditions, trends and factors, and identify opportunities for improved or new common services.

Accounting, Banking and Compensation Directorate

The Directorate carries out the responsibilities of the Receiver General for the public money, the banking program and the central accounting program. In carrying out these programs, the Directorate performs the following Receiver General functions: receives, transfers and disburses all public money; holds all public money in Receiver General bank accounts; directs the Receiver General's program to earn interest on balances; negotiates banking services and compensates financial institutions for these services; controls the redemption of Receiver General cheques and warrants; establishes, maintains and develops the Central Accounts of Canada; produces annually the Public Accounts; publishes the monthly Statements of Financial Operations and the annual preliminary financial statements of the Government of Canada which show the budgetary expenditures and revenues and the non-budgetary transactions of the government; prepares special reports. It also produces and distributes to client departments, upon request, management statements on a monthly basis. The Directorate is also responsible for administering Reciprocal Taxation Agreements between Canada and the eight provinces participating in the Reciprocal Taxation Program. In addition, the Directorate carries out the responsibilities of the Custodian of Enemy Property. It is also responsible for the planning, policy and systems development associated with the processing of various payments, such as public service pay and superannuation, social and economic assistance payments, and suppliers' payments. In addition, related file maintenance and accounting services are provided on behalf of client departments and agencies. The Directorate operates, on a fee-for-service basis, major personnel systems for the Treasury Board of Canada, and provides co-ordinated planning, data management and standards for service-wide personnel data systems.

Information Systems Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for information technology management in support of government-wide common services and Receiver General functions. It also provides information processing support for internal departmental functions such as procurement and acquisition. This support involves the development, implementation and maintenance of information processing products; the operation and maintenance of data processing facilities, data centres and communications networks; and the co-ordination and formulation of information processing policies, plans and strategies.

Program Development and Evaluation Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for the co-ordination of all corporate and program planning activities; the development, review and implementation of corporate policies; the maintenance of an adequate defence industrial base, pursuant to the Department's responsibilities under the Defence Production Act, including the co-ordination of related emergency planning; the contract quality assurance function within DSS; assisting customer departments in the establishment of appropriate quality assurance régimes in connection with their delegated purchasing authority; and the evaluation of departmental programs.

Canadian Arsenals Limited

Canadian Arsenals Limited is a legally chartered Crown corporation under Part I of the 1934 Companies Act. It was incorporated by the Dominion of Canada under letters of patent dated September 20, 1945, on the recommendation of the then Minister of Reconstruction. The corporation's main role is to maintain in Canada a centre of excellence for the filling and loading of high explosives and propellants, and a production capacity for medium- and large-calibre ammunition and additional military material for Canadian defence needs. It must also form the base from which production capacity could be expanded in the event of war. An agreement was signed on May 9, 1986 for the sale of Canadian Arsenals Limited to SNC Defence Products Inc. This agreement is in the process of being finalized.

Royal Canadian Mint

The Ottawa Mint was originally established in 1908 by royal proclamation as a branch of the Royal Mint, London, under the provision of the United Kingdom Coinage Act. In 1931, the Mint was established under statute as a branch of the Department of Finance and in 1969, as a Crown corporation under Part X of the Government Organization Act, 1969 (now the Royal Canadian Mint Act R.S.C. 1970, chapter R-8).

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Transport was established in 1936 by the Department of Transport Act (R.S.C 1970, chapter T-15), which amalgamated the functions of the Department of Railways and Canals, the Department of Marine and the Civil Aviation Branch of the Department of National Defence.

Responsibilities

The Department is responsible for the development and operation of a safe and efficient national transportation system that contributes to the achievement of general government objectives, and operates specific elements of that system. Some of the Department's objectives are: efficiency, safety, maximum productivity, accessible and equitable services, cost recovery, and support of government policies and objectives, especially as they relate to social and economic development.

Organizational Units and their Role

Overall responsibility for the direction of the affairs of the Department rests with the Deputy Minister, who is its permanent head and senior adviser to the Minister of Transport.

The following agencies report to Parliament through the Minister of Transport: the Canadian Transport Commission, the Grain Transportation Agency, Air Canada, Canadian National Railways, the Northern Transportation Co. Ltd., Marine Atlantic Inc., VIA Rail, The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, Canada Ports Corporation and the Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific Pilotage Authorities.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS GROUP

Public Affairs forecasts and analyzes probable reactions to existing and proposed departmental plans, policies and programs. It is responsible for providing support for the implementation of the Department's aims and objectives by handling media relations and public information programs, including advertising, special publications and exhibits. It provides general information about the Department through headquarters facilities in Ottawa and regional offices in St. John's, Dartmouth, Moncton, Montreal, Quebec City, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver. REVIEW GROUP

The Review Group develops and co-ordinates the departmental Productivity Improvement Program, validates human resource level standards and conducts special studies as directed by senior management. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Review, provides the Deputy Minister and senior management with independent, objective audits and reviews of departmental systems, functions and organizational units in order to improve the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of the management policies, practices and controls of the Department. Senior management is also provided with independent assessments and studies on the effectiveness of departmental accountability. The ADM fosters and promotes the development and implementation of performance measures through the provision of policy, guidance and advice. The ADM is also responsible for the departmental challenge function, which entails the assessment of all proposals with resource implications, prior to their submission to the Minister, Treasury Board or Cabinet.

SECURITY AND EMERGENCY PLANNING GROUP

The Security and Emergency Planning Group is the principal focus in the Department of Transport for co-ordinating the development and implementation of policies and programs to ensure the security and emergency readiness of the National Transportation System.

Security Policy, Planning and Legislative Programs Branch

This branch plans and develops policies, standards and legislation to ensure adequate levels of security for the National Transportation System, formulates the departmental position on international security activities, provides assistance in the implementation of transportation security policies, and develops the National Transportation Security Plan.

Security Operations Branch

This branch develops and recommends appropriate protective measures for Department assets and information. It is the principal departmental liaison with the RCMP and other police agencies on security and criminal matters. It has responsibility for headquarters' physical security, approves and monitors air carrier and airport security plans, develops standards for the use of security equipment and co-ordinates its acquisition, and manages the Department's security research and development program. Finally, it ensures security training programs are delivered, and supervises Regional Directors, Security in achieving industry's compliance with required security measures.

Intelligence, COMSEC and Security Training Branch

This branch implements the personnel security clearance program, co-ordinates intelligence and threat assessment activities for the protection of departmental assets and the National Transportation System, develops and co-ordinates departmental security awareness policies, directs the security training and awareness program, and directs the departmental Communications-Electronic Security, Electronic Data Processing Security and Technical Intrusion Programs.

Emergency Planning and SITCEN Operations Branch

This branch is responsible for the operation of the Situation Center (SITCEN), for planning and co-ordinating emergency preparedness exercises, co-ordinating multimodal crisis planning, and preparing, co-ordinating and maintaining Department of Transport wartime plans.

Regional Directors, Security

The six Regional Directors are responsible for inspecting and testing departmental security plans, policies, and standards and for identifying vulnerabilities in them. They monitor the effectiveness of site security exercises, carry out certification of security screening personnel, and ensure compliance of industry with transportation security legislation and regulations.

POLICY AND CO-ORDINATION

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Policy and Co-ordination (ADMPC), is responsible for the formulation, development and maintenance of the Department of Transport's long-range transportation objectives, strategies and policies. The ADM provides advice to the Deputy Minister on policies, programs and objectives which have implications for one or more modes of transport; on the management of transportation subsidy policy programs of the approved grants and contributions to organizations for transportation research and development; and on shared initiatives between private industry and various levels of government. The ADM advises the Minister on policy issues regarding Transport Crown Corporations, on the development and implementation of technological research and on the maintenance of the Department's external relations (federal, provincial, international and industrial). The ADM is supported by an associate assistant deputy minister and seven directorates. The ADM is also supported by seven regional directors who are responsible at the corporate level for communications activities, policy liaison, and non-operational program development and management in the regions.

Strategic Policy Directorate

This directorate prepares and monitors corporate-level strategic plans, identifies needs for amended or new policies, and directs the development of long-range multimodal transportation objectives and policies. It provides policy assessment, analysis services and advice on multimodal transportation issues, monitors and analyzes transportation systems and formulates system strategies, and prepares new or amended policies in response to policy assessments and analyses.

Co-ordination Directorate

This directorate directs departmental responses to complex issues that involve several departmental groups. It co-ordinates the Department's federal, provincial, industrial and international relations, acts as the focal point for the management of the regional directors and has overall responsibility for the negotiation and management of economic and regional development transportation sub-agreements. It also develops policies and programs concerned with transportation facilities for the handicapped, and co-ordinates, analyses and advises on matters concerning Crown corporations. As well, it is responsible for the Departmental Secretariat, which provides comprehensive co-ordination systems for the development and scheduling of policies through the departmental and Cabinet decision-making process. The Secretariat also prepares parliamentary returns and provides briefing services for the Minister, the Deputy Minister and senior departmental officials. The Director, Departmental Secretariat, is the departmental co-ordinator for privacy, access to information and human rights, and maintains a central consolidated registry of departmental statutes and regulations. In the Department of Transport, the federal government's information collection and public opinion survey program is co-ordinated by the Secretariat.

Research and Development Branch

The Research and Development Branch plans, programs and manages the central transporatation and development program, addressing the Department's operational and regulatory mandate as well as the safety and productivity aspects of the tranportation sector as a whole. This program includes the Department's multimodal initiatives such as Energy Research and Development, and Transportation of the Handicapped and Elderly (research, development and demonstration). The Branch is also responsible for strategic planning, policy, co-ordination and evaluation within the federal government relating to transportation research and development.

Economic Analysis Directorate

This directorate provides the Department with transportation statistics and forecasts, and analyzes these data for use in program planning and policy analysis by senior officials in the Department and develops and manages an economic research program in support of federal transportation objectives. As well, it provides economic analysis services to other senior managers in the Department and ensures proper co-ordination of economic research done by the transportation regulatory agency and Canadian universities.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

Marine Policy and Programs Directorate

The Directorate establishes policies, plans and programs for all aspects of water transportation assistance and associated services, over inland and coastal waters, as required by the federal government. It develops international and domestic shipping policies, including international bulk and liner shipping policies, and policy with regard to a Canadian flag deep-sea fleet and to the need for defensive legislation. The activity also includes the development of Canadian positions in regard to the deliberations of international organizations (e.g. OECD, UNCTAD) and the development of domestic shipping policies, including such matters as coasting trade, economic regulatory policy and shipping engaged in offshore exploration and development. Further, this activity includes the provision of a corporate overview of policies developed elsewhere in the Department and their impact upon shipping and the marine environment, including operating policies.

Air Policy and Programs Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the development and implementation of the government's policy initiatives for domestic, transborder and international air transportation services, and for the development and administration of domestic air transportation subsidies. In particular, it is responsible for the preparation of mandate papers for the negotiation of bilateral air agreements. It must also provide on-going policy and program advice to the Minister of Transport on measures to ensure an appropriate framework that will permit air carriers to provide adequate and efficient air transportation services which will respond to the needs of the general public for air travel within Canada and internationally.

Surface Policy and Programs Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the development, formulation and implementation of the surface transportation policies and programs, and for the management of all operational, developmental and economic regulatory activities of the Department in support of surface transportation. This includes all railway freight policies and programs (including grain); all surface passenger transportation policies and programs, including the development and administration of rail passenger legislation and regulations and of federal policies and programs for intercity bus and urban transportation. It also includes all federal government policy applicable to trucking and motor coach transportation undertakings; and the implementation, administration and evaluation of jointly funded highway construction and analysis programs on provincial highways.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

Personnel Group

The development and implementation of all departmental personnel policies and programs is planned and directed by the Assistant Deputy Minister, Personnel, whose responsibility it is to ensure the effective recruitment, compensation, utilization and retention of human resources in the Department.

Personnel Policy and Planning Directorate

The Directorate plans, directs and monitors policies and programs related to the Department's responsibilities in the areas of human resources planning, official languages, counselling services, employment equity, staffing, classification, organizational changes and personnel management information. It also provides advice and assistance to managers, and exercises functional authority over twelve regions on all of those subjects, and represents the Department in dealings with central agencies.

Training Directorate

The Training Directorate is the central co-ordinating authority for training and development within the Department of Transport. The Directorate provides the policy framework for the management of the Department's training function, and the administrative infrastructure for the planning and control of departmental training activities and costs. It is also mandated to respond to technical and non-technical training requirements which are national in scope. In that respect, it is responsible for the management of two major training centres. The Canadian Coast Guard College prepares officer-cadets for a career as navigating or engineering officers in the Canadian Coast Guard. The Transport Canada Training Institute trains personnel in the technical, professional and management areas required to meet the needs of the Department when suitable courses are not available at other institutes of learning.

The Training Directorate also conducts research into training methodology and instructional techniques with specific emphasis on the field of transportation. In addition, it directs the co-ordination and implementation of inter-group training, and co-ordinates and controls the Department's involvement in international training programs. It ensures the quality and assesses the continuing validity of training programs and activities through a Training Evaluation and Review Division.

Staff Relations Directorate

The Staff Relations Directorate assists departmental senior management in the development and maintenance of harmonious relationships between the Directorate and the eight unions representing employees of the Department. It also represents the interests of management in all aspects of staff relations as defined in the Public Service Staff Relations Act, Treasury Board policies and ministerial policies. The Staff Relations Directorate mandate also includes functional direction and control over all compensation matters, issues and systems within the Department. In addition, the Directorate monitors the implementation and administration of conflict of interest policy, recommends necessary amendments, processes all cases identified as level 2 and submits recommendations to the Deputy Minister for a final decision.

Senior Management Resourcing Directorate

The Directorate of Senior Management Resourcing (APM) reports to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Personnel, and is responsible for providing all personnel services to the Deputy Minister and his delegates in support of the management of the EX and SM population in the Department. These services include staffing, classification, human resources planning, performance appraisal administration, complement control, compensation and counselling.

Regional Personnel Operations Directorate

Reporting to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Personnel, the Directorate provides a full range of personnel services and functions to all departmental employees through twelve regional personnel offices. It also provides for the review and assessment of operational impact in respect of all personnel policy proposals emanating from Personnel functional groups.

Regional Managers — Personnel Administration

The Regional Personnel Manager is responsible for the provision of a full personnel service to all regional management groups, (Aviation, Airport, Airport Construction, Marine, Surface) and to Central Groups. As a member of several management groups, the Regional Manager is the focal point for advocacy of departmental personnel policies from corporate and regional perspectives. The Regional Manager participates on management teams with the various groups to ensure that regional needs are addressed, to resolve conflicts or to develop procedures and standards. The Manager represents the appropriate regional Group Head in dealing with staff associations, grievances, investigations and appeal hearings.

FINANCE GROUP

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Finance, directs the development, operation and maintenance of systems of financial, materiel and contract management. The ADM directs the provision of management consulting services, administrative, budgetary services and field services. The ADM is assisted by five directors and two directors general in Ottawa.

AVIATION GROUP

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Aviation, directs the management of all operational, developmental, and regulatory activities of the Aviation Group in support of aeronautics, and maintains and promotes all aspects of air safety. The Group implements, on behalf of the Minister, Parts I and III of the Aeronautics Act. The ADM, Aviation, is assisted by four directors general and two directors in Ottawa. Three directors located in each of six regions across Canada report respectively to the Regulation, Navigation and Flight Services directorates. They direct the implementation of policies, programs and services within the region related to such functions as aviation regulation requirements, air navigation services and flight operations.

Air Navigation Directorate

The Directorate provides, operates, and maintains Canada's air navigation system, which consists of a national system of airways, air traffic services and aeronautical information services. The Directorate plans, implements, monitors, and evaluates the performance of all aspects of the air navigation system. It also develops contingency plans for dealing with crisis situations affecting the system. The Directorate is divided into five branches:

The Air Navigation System Requirements Branch is responsible for the operational requirements, the levels of service, and the general integrity of the air navigation system. This includes airspace management, aviation weather facilities, en route and terminal aids, surveillance and communication systems, aerodrome certification and flight information services. The Branch also directs and manages policies and standards for the air navigation system as well as aeronautical information services and flight inspection.

The Air Traffic Services Branch develops and implements national policies for air traffic services and establishes systems and goals necessary to achieve the safe and efficient movement of air traffic within Canadian-controlled airspace and International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) airspace. It includes the Air Traffic Services Research and Experimental Centre in Hull, Quebec.

The Facility Engineering and Systems Development Branch is responsible for the co-ordination and effective utilization of telecommunications and electronics resources in the service and aid of civil aviation, to ensure the safety and efficiency of all flights operating in Canadian airspace. The Branch is also responsible for the design, development, installation, and maintenance of all electronic and computer-based systems required on a national basis to provide navigational surveillance, communications, airport security, and information systems.

The Air Operations Contingencies Branch is responsible for the development and co-ordination of civil aviation contingency plans designed to ensure the continued safe and orderly functioning of the air navigation system during disruptions caused by labour disputes, air disasters and terrorist activities. It is also responsible for maintaining an effective Air Operations Centre to serve as the focal point for the reception and distribution of air information and directives during an air-related crisis. Additionally, under the Emergency Planning Order, the Branch develops and maintains plans for the activation of the National Emergency Agency for Transportation (Air) NEATRAN (Air), the National Civil Aviation Information Centre (NCAIC) and the NATO Civil Aviation Support Requirements.

The Program Review and Analysis Branch is responsible for the effective and efficient utilization of capital, operation and maintenance, and human resources by the Air Navigation branches at Headquarters and the six regional organizations. The Branch is also responsible for ensuring compliance with federal government administrative policies and directives throughout the Directorate.

Aviation Regulation Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for all aspects of aviation safety, including: the preparation and enforcement of legislation; aviation occupational safety and health of aircraft crew members; the licensing of personnel, aircraft and airports; the certification of air services; the establishing and maintaining of airworthiness standards; the promotion of aviation safety; and the regulation of the transportation of dangerous goods.

The Directorate licenses all pilots, commercial operators, flying schools, airports, aircrafts, aircraft manufacturers and maintenance personnel. Civil aviation inspectors regularly examine all personnel and equipment they license to ensure that they meet safety standards and comply with the knowledge and skill requirements of the air regulations. The Directorate is divided into six branches:

The Licensing and Certification Branch is responsible for standards, policies, procedures, and national programs for efficient promotion and regulation control of civil aviation activities in Canada.

The Airworthiness Branch is responsible for the management of airworthiness programs, for approvals and for the continuing safety of all civil aeronautical products manufactured and operated in Canada. It also ensures the continuing airworthiness support for all Canadian manufactured aeronautics products used in foreign countries.

The Enforcement and Legislation Branch is responsible for the legislative development, promulgation and codification of aeronautical legislation, including the implementations of recommendations of a legislative nature made by the Commission of Enquiry on Aviation Safety. It is also responsible for the development and management of the Aviation Regulatory Enforcement Program, the standardization of aviation terminology, a substantive review and revamping of aeronautical legislation, and the attendant enforcement policies and procedures. The Aviation Occupational Safety and Health Section of the Aviation Enforcement Division is responsible for the application of the Canada Labour Code, Part IV, in respect of aircraft in operation. The Aviation Enforcement Training Section provides enforcement training to all Transport Canada Aviation Group areas as required.

The Civil Aviation Medicine Branch provides medical advice and assistance in setting medical standards as well as in assessing the medical fitness of civil aviation personnel. It conducts aeromedical training sessions for aircrews, medical examiners and air traffic controllers. It identifies, co-ordinates and executes aeromedical research and development. It also provides advice on all problems relating to the health of air travellers.

The ICAO Technical Liaison Branch is responsible for the co-ordination of the development of Canadian positions, the participation of Canadian experts and the dissemination of information in relation to the technical activities of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), a United Nations agency that sets standards for the safety and efficient operations of international civil aviation for the 156 member states of the Organization. In this regard, the Branch also co-ordinates consultation with Canadian industry.

The Program Analysis and Review Branch is responsible for the effective and efficient utilization of capital, operation and maintenance, and human resources by the Aviation Regulation branches at Headquarters and the six regional organizations. The Branch is also responsible for ensuring compliance with federal government administrative policies and directives throughout the Directorate.

Flight Services Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for the Department's fleet. These aircraft are assigned to various tasks across Canada, such as inspection, training, and joint operations with the Canadian Coast Guard, including environmental protection against oil spills. The Directorate also provides flight services for other federal departments and agencies such as the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources and the Canadian Aviation Safety Board.

The Directorate owns, on behalf of the Canadian government, 17 Canadair CL-215 Water Bomber aircraft which are leased to six provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. The aircraft are used to combat forest fires. In addition, the Directorate owns one de Havilland Dash 71R aircraft, which is operated under lease by a commercial air carrier in support of the Department of Environment's Ice Reconnaissance program.

The Directorate is divided into six branches: Flight Operations; Technical Services; Training, Resource Management and Special Projects; Avionics Engineering and Design; and Quality Assurance and Airworthiness Engineering.

Resource Management and Planning Branch

The Director-General provides support to the senior managers and advice to the Assistant Deputy Minister in the broad area of resource planning and program evaluation, as well as a range of administrative and co-ordination functions.

Aviation Safety Programs Branch

The role of the Aviation Safety Programs Branch is to contribute to the development of a safe National Air Transportation System (NATS) by: evaluating the ongoing safety performance of Canada's civil aviation activities; identifying safety hazards; providing aviation safety advice and information to senior Department managers to enable them to evaluate the efficient and strategic use of resources in order to fulfill their mandate; and conducting aviation safety promotional activities designed to prevent aircraft accidents by informing personnel within the aviation community about safe operating practices.

Special Projects Branch

This branch is responsible for a variety of short- and long-term projects which have flight safety or resource implications. It permits the Group to take action to resolve serious emerging problems, while maintaining the day-to-day activities which ensure flight safety for Canadian air travellers.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

AIRPORTS AUTHORITY GROUP

The Airports Authority Group (AAG) is headed by an executive director who is responsible to the Deputy Minister for the safe and efficient operation of the National Airports System. The Group also administers several programs of financial assistance to other airports owned and operated privately or by other levels of government.

The Group establishes policies and standards for safe and efficient airport operations, facilities, and services, provides direction to regions in these areas, and directs the development of plans and programs affecting the future of the National Airports System. It is structured to give high profile to marketing activities in order to maximize the cost-effective operation of the airports system.

The Executive Director is assisted by an assistant executive director and five directors general at Headquarters. The Director-General, Airports Operations, has operational responsibility for eight major international airports and for the provision of national direction for developing the other airports in the system and promoting their financial and managerial self-suffiency. The Director-General, Airports Marketing is responsible for promoting revenue and commercial opportunities, both nationally and internationally. The Director-General, Airports Commercial Development, is responsible for property management and the administration of commercial agreements and contracts. Director-General, Airports Corporate Management, co-ordinates all activities required for corporate direction, airports planning and policy development, and control of policies, standards and directives with an impact on resource levels and levels of services. The Director-General, Airports, Professional and Technical Services, is responsible for all architectural and engineering services, all major capital projects, and technical maintenance services required within the AAG. Also reporting to the Executive Director is the Airport General Manager of Lester B. Pearson International Airport.

Reporting to the Assistant Executive Director are six regional directors general who are responsible for all airport operations in their respective regions. Each regional director-general is assisted by a director of airport operations, a manager of resource management, a manager of safety and security services, a manager of commercial development, and a director of professional and technical services. Their responsibilities include airport programs, commercial development, property management, resource acquisition and management, and engineering, architectural and technical functions. In addition, regional directors general have advisers on community relations and communications.

MARINE GROUP/CANADIAN COAST GUARD

The Assistant Deputy Minister/Commissioner of the Canadian Coast Guard is responsible for the development, provision and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system in support of government marine objectives. As such, the ADM/Commissioner is the focal point for marine affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

The Group is responsible for major operational programs, safety and regulatory matters, and changes and amendments to relevant legislation, such as the Canada Shipping Act, the Arctic Shipping Pollution Prevention Act and the Navigable Waters Protection Act to ensure the proper enforcement of the marine regulatory system.

A description of the organization and responsibilities of The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, Canada Ports Corporation and the four Pilotage Authorities, as well as the records held by them, are provided elsewhere in this register.

Harbours and Ports Directorate

The Directorate administers public harbours and port facilities serving commercial water transportation interests, and provides functional direction to the regions in these areas. It also serves as a focal point for harbour commission's interests with the federal government.

Aids and Waterways Directorate

The Directorate develops and recommends policies for the provision of aids to marine navigation; provides functional direction to the Canadian Coast Guard regions for marine aids to navigation and vessel traffic services; reviews and approves works in navigable waters; and directs the development of commercial navigable waterways. It prepares legislation and regulations for marine aids to navigation, vessel traffic services and the Navigable Waters Protection Act. It is also responsible for the custody and disposal of wrecked vessels.

Telecommunications and Electronics Directorate

The Directorate develops and recommends policies for the provision of maritime mobile safety communications, directs the operation of the Coast Guard radio station network and the radio navigation system, and directs the provision of all telecommunications and electronics systems utilized by the Coast Guard. It also prepares legislation and regulations for the performance and inspection of radio equipment fitted in ships for safety purposes.

Fleet Systems Directorate

The Directorate develops national policies and plans for the composition, operation and maintenance of the Canadian Coast Guard Fleet, which provides shipping with ice-breaking and ice-escort services, gives support to other functions, such as aids to navigation, and participates in research and sea rescue activities.

Search and Rescue Directorate

The Directorate develops, maintains, and ensures the efficient operation of facilities and services to minimize loss of life and personal injuries in the marine environment as a result of search-and-rescue incidents.

Ship Safety Branch

The Branch develops and applies safety standards for the design, construction, operation and maintenance of ships, Mobile Offshore Drilling Units (MODU) and air-cushion vehicles, as well as for their machinery and equipment, for navigation, for handling and stowage of cargo, for the qualification and certification of ships, MODU and air-cushion vehicle personnel, and for the prevention of pollution by ships. It also participates in the development of international codes, conventions and regulations concerning marine safety, and maintains registries of vessels and ships' personnel.

Emergencies Branch

The Branch is involved in clean-up of pollution from shipping and acts as a resource agency for marine pollution incidents from other sources. It evaluates, acquires, and maintains the Coast Guard's pollution counter measures equipment and regularly provides exercises for the Coast Guard and other personnel.

Northern Branch

The Branch develops and implements policies and plans for the establishment of an all-season Arctic operational region. Responsibilities include: the provision of ship safety inspections north of 60° North; pollution prevention responsibilities under the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act (AWPPA) in regard to ships; the administration of a research and development program to update regulations and standards; the co-ordination of an annual Eastern Arctic Sealift to resupply northern settlements and defence sites; and the development of navigation systems policies and practices. The Branch also provides liaison with other government departments, northern governments, interest groups and Inuit communities on subjects such as: processes, sovereignty issues, ship support to offshore exploration, ship trials, experimental voyages, and season extension permissions. The Polar Class 8 Project Office, associated with the Branch, is responsible for delivery of the world's largest icebreaker, under the terms and conditions of a major Crown project.

SURFACE GROUP

The Assistant Deputy Minister, Surface, directs: the co-ordination of all programs relating to railway safety in Canada; the research, development, implementation and assessment of policies and programs for road safety; the promulgation and enforcement of safety, emission and fuel economy standards for new motor vehicles and components manufactured or imported into Canada; all aspects of safety in the handling, offering for transport or transportation of dangerous goods; and the development, preparation and maintenance of emergency plans and procedures for the surface modes during national emergencies.

The Surface Group is divided into three directorates and two branches:

Railway Safety Directorate

The Directorate co-ordinates all programs relating to railway safety in Canada. It is also responsible for the drafting of a railway safety bill and all other consequent changes to other legislation. As well, it administers the Railway Relocation and Crossing Act as it pertains to the Department.

Road Safety and Motor Vehicle Regulation Directorate

The Directorate co-ordinates federal government activities in motor vehicle and traffic safety in order to reduce deaths, the severity of injuries, health impairment, property damage, and fuel consumption. Principal responsibilities include development and enforcement of mandatory safety standards for motor vehicles, development of road safety countermeasures, liaison with motor vehicle agencies in other countries, management of the Motor Vehicle Test Centre and fuel economy programs, and participation in co-operative federal-provincial road safety programs.

Transport of Dangerous Goods Directorate

The Directorate administers the national Transportation of Dangerous Goods (TDG) program to promote public safety in the transportation of dangerous goods by all modes of transport throughout Canada; formulates and recommends policies respecting societal needs and expectations regarding the transportation of dangerous goods, and develops standards regulations and the means of implementing regulations governing the handling, offering for transport, transportation and in-transit storage of dangerous goods. It co-ordinates federal-provincial/territorial activities to ensure consistent Canada-wide delivery of the dangerous goods program as it relates to the highway mode of transport and interfaces with the other modes; and administers the availability of emergency response information through the operation of CANUTEC, a 24-hour emergency response and information centre for chemical transportation accidents. (To contact CANUTEC call collect (613) 996-6666.) The Directorate publishes a Dangerous Goods Newsletter and a number of awareness and explantory brochures which can be obtained from the Publication Co-ordinator, Transport of Dangerous Goods Directorate, Transport Canada, 320 Queen Street, Place de Ville, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0N5, or by telephoning (613) 998-6539.

Surface Emergency Planning Branch

The Branch develops the contingency plans, procedures, organizations and facilities necessary to ensure the efficient and effective operation of rail, ferry and highway transportation systems and facilities that are essential to the national transportation system during periods of national crisis, international tension or war.

Resource Management and Executive Services Branch

The Branch provides effective resource management as well as executive and co-ordination services to assist the surface group. It also administers the use and maintenance of government rail cars.

GRAIN TRANSPORTATION AGENCY

Historical Background

The Grain Transportation Agency was created by the Western Grain Transportation Act, 1983. It is a branch designated as a department for purposes of the Financial Administration Act. The Agency reports to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Responsibilities

The Grain Transportation Agency (GTA) is charged with the development, co-ordination and management of specific aspects of the grain handling and transportation system. The Agency, under the direction of the Administrator, is responsible for promoting transportation system efficiencies, monitoring railway performance relative to grain, allocating grain cars in co-operation with the Canadian Wheat Board and the Canadian Grain Commission, and generally co-ordinating the handling and transportation of grain. A Senior Grain Transportation Committee (SGTC), made up of senior representatives from all facets of the grain trade, was established under the Western Grain Transportation Act as an advisory body to the Minister of Transport and the Administrator. The Agency provides administration and technical support to the SGTC.

Legislation

- Western Grain Transportation Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Operations Division

The Operations Division is responsible for car allocation, involving the weekly determination of the number of railway grain cars required and available to move western grains to export and domestic destinations. It is also responsible for the overall co-ordination of grain movement, including port co-ordination at Vancouver and Thunder Bay, control of the government hopper car fleet, transportation administration tasks, and public information.

Planning, Development and Evaluation Division

The Division is responsible for improving the efficiency of the grain handling and transportation system, developing and implementing procedures for setting performance targets for the railways and other system participants, developing information systems (including EDP), and conducting studies and analysis.

Finance and Administration Divison

The Division provides financial and administrative support for the Agency, encompassing the areas of financial systems, accounting, budgetary control, goods and services acquisition, materiel management and contract administration, personnel services, secretarial and clerical support functions, and all general administrative functions.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Economic Council of Canada, an independent research and advisory body, was established by Parliament in 1963 by virtue of the Economic Council of Canada Act.

Responsibilities

Under the Council's mandate to study and report on Canada's economic development, it conducts economic analyses, undertakes studies and delivers policy advice to a broad range of clients with the goal of improving Canada's economic performance. The Council transmits an annual report, including financial statements, on its activities to the Minister responsible. The Council also publishes an annual review of medium- and long-term economic prospects and problems.

Legislation

- By-laws of the Economic Council of Canada
- Economic Council of Canada Act, 1963

Organizational Units and their Role

The Council is made up of an appointed board of up to three full-time members and twenty-five part-time members. The full-time members, the Chairman and two Council Directors, manage a staff of economists and research support personnel. There are two organizational aims: research operations, subdivided on a project team basis to manage ongoing research, and research support, which includes all publications activities, informatics, library services, media relations, planning and co-ordination, finance, administration and personnel. The research support units report, through the Council Corporate Secretary, to the Chairman. Each research project team reports to one of two Council Directors or to the Chairman.

Manuals

Classes of Records

Current Research (CRA)

These records comprise background research and unpublished material on topic areas which are the subject of current research by Council staff and outside contractors. Information is available mostly in print form, with some magnetic tape.

ECC/CRA-105
Twenty-fourth Annual Review (New)
Description: The Council's Twenty-fourth Annual Review of the Canadian economy, to be published in the fall of 1987, will examine some of the important structural changes, both domestic and international, that will influence Canada's long-term economic performance. These include fundamental changes in demographic patterns; the actual and potential widening of international financial and trading markets; the competitive opportunities thereby created; the growth, employment and inflation prospects for Canada, and the uncertainties that should be considered in any medium-run planning environment.

ECC/CRA-110 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-010
Performance and Outlook
Description: Analysis and unpublished documents on the Council's views related to the economic outlook for Canada, the United States and other OECD countries, derived from the use of a variety of analytical tools, including econometric models and personal computers. The models allow measurement of current performance and simulation of future performance under various scenarios and policy options. The simulations are designed to assess the impact of changes in economic performance that may result from changes in public policy or in economic conditions in Canada and abroad. The process of updating the analysis and assessing the influences of changing economic conditions is continuous.

ECC/CRA-115 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-025
Technological Change and Labour Markets
Description: Research and unpublished material on developments in technology and the implications thereof for labour markets. Topics:

The growth, change, and other occupational and industrial shifts in employment arising from technological change; institutional adaptations, such as industrial relations, patterns of working time, compensation, and the quality of working life, that may be associated with technological change; education and mobility required by the adjustment process; social measures required to distribute equitably the benefits and costs resulting from technological change.

ECC/CRA-120 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-030
Explorations
Description: Preliminary investigation of various economic issues to determine their nature, scope and pertinence to the Council's future research program and organization of colloquia to address major economic, social and environmental issues not currently being researched in depth by ongoing research groups. Topics: The status of Canadian agriculture; the interrelationships between the environment and the economy; health care in Canada; and economic status of women.

ECC/CRA-125 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-036
Manufacturing Firms Adjustment
Description: Research and background material concerning the adaptation of firms to trade pressures and opportunities in the manufacturing sector. Topics: Effects of bilateral and multilateral trade arrangements, international price changes, technological innovations and changing consumer preferences. Examinations of different adaptation responses: in Canadian-owned, compared to foreign branch, plants; in firms operating without tariff protection, compared to those which are protected; and in firms engaged in Canada-U.S. trade, compared to those which are not. Case studies which question whether federal policies promote or retard adjustment and what guidelines are appropriate to assist adaptation and to promote innovation.

ECC/CRA-130 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-037
Trade Policy Options and Structural Adjustment in Canada
Description: Research and background material concerning the output and employment effects of trade liberalization, by 40 industrial sectors, by occupation and by province. Topics: Nature and volume of trade among the industrialized and developing countries; output and employment of Canadian industries; shifts in output, investment, employment and occupations that should be anticipated under various scenarios of more liberalized trade; alternative stances and strategies that should be considered in negotiations leading to freer trade; policy options for dealing with dislocations that are bound to arise with more open trade.

ECC/CRA-135 Formerly Identified as: ECC/CRA-039
Social Policy
Description: Research and background material concerning the effectiveness, efficiency and adequacy of social policy in meeting expressed social objectives and the side effects of social programs on the functioning of the economy, particularly in the context of significant adjustment and adaptation. Topics: The highly fragmented and complicated nature of social programs; conflicting objectives between tax structures and transfer programs; links between economic and social policy; complexities introduced as a consequence of responsibility sharing between levels of government; reform options to simultaneously meet social objectives and minimize constraints to required work force adjustment.

ECC/CRA-140

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) was established in 1959 as a Crown agency reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture.

Responsibilities

The Corporation makes and administers farm loans under the authority of the Farm Credit Act and the Farm Syndicates Credit Act to enable Canadian farmers to establish, develop and maintain viable farm enterprises. As well, it administers programs as directed by the federal government and provides counselling and assistance in the planning, organization and development of farm businesses to all applicants and borrowers.

Legislation

- Farm Credit Act
- Farm Syndicates Credit Act
- Land Transfer Plan

Organizational Units and their Role

In order to fulfil its mandate, the Corporation has established a network of offices to serve the farming community. Corporate headquarters is located in Ottawa. Regional offices correspond geographically with provincial boundaries except for Atlantic Canada, where the four provinces are served by a Regional Centre located in Moncton, N.B., and the Yukon, which is served by the Alberta regional office located in Edmonton, Alberta. The regional offices are functionally organized into a lending services group, including all field operations, and a loan administration group. In addition to the seven regional offices, the Corporation has 90 district and field offices.

Corporate headquarters is organized into six component groups. The Executive Office consists of the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman. The Chairman is Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation and is responsible for the supervision and direction of all work and staff of the Corporation. The Vice-Chairman is a member of the board of the Corporation and exercises all of the powers and duties of the chairman in his absence. As Chief Operating Officer, he directs all work and staff engaged in lending operations, manages services of the Corporation, and exercises all other powers and duties as may be assigned to him by the Chairman or the board of the Corporation.

Lending Operations is responsible for the Corporation's overall lending activities, which include the making and administration of loans, research and program development, client services, program evaluation and regional operations.

Financial Services is responsible for the financial risk management, funding, cash management, financial administration, accounting and internal control functions; and for ensuring that the financial provisions of the Farm Credit Act and the financial management provisions of the Financial Administration Act are effectively employed by the Corporation.

Corporate Planning and Communications directs, controls, and advises on economic information, liaison, and corporate planning and communications services.

Corporate Audit directs financial, operational and management audits of the head office and regional operations. Corporate Audit is also responsible for assisting the Audit Committee in the co-ordination of internal audits and special examinations.

Management Services directs, controls, and advises on management information, administrative and human resources services.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Bank Act (proclaimed in force on October 2, 1975) to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

Responsibilities

The Federal Business Development Bank was created to assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, information and advice, and management counselling, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses.

The Bank is responsible for acting as a supplemental lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to independent businesses that cannot obtain the funds elsewhere on reasonable terms and conditions. It often caters to the needs of firms that may be either too small, too far from commercial centres, or too specialized to be able to attract the attention of conventional lenders. Through its Venture Capital Division, the Bank is also responsible for providing equity capital in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation

- Federal Business Development Bank Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Bank has a network of branches across Canada organized into five regions: British Columbia and the Yukon, Prairies and Northern region, Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic. The Bank's head office is located in Montreal and there are regional offices in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, and Halifax.

The regional offices provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits. They are responsible for all management services activities in the region, and for ensuring that the general public within the region has access to the Bank's information services, management training services management counselling and financial planning services.

The branches provide financing, counselling information and management training services to small businesses located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure. The branches are also responsible for the efficient operation of management services activities in their geographical area, and for ensuring that the general public has access to the Bank's services.

The various departments at Head Office include the following:

Financial Services

The Loans Division establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit.

The Venture Capital Division is responsible for all equity and venture capital financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest, underwriting of private placements, joint ventures, syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions, as well as assistance in mergers and acquisitions.

Management Services Division

The Management Services Divison is responsible for promoting and assisting the establishment and development of small business in Canada by providing management counselling, information services, management training and financial planning services.

The Management Counselling Service counsels business persons on how to engage in small business in Canada through the facilities of the Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises (CASE) program.

The Information Services Section operates an enquiry and referral service for the Canadian public about government assistance programs for small business. It also writes, publishes, and distributes to the public a continuing series of booklets on small business topics. The Section holds information sessions and exhibits for the general public to publicize various assistance programs for small business, including the Bank's financial and management services.

The Management Training Service presents a continuing program of small business and management seminars to the general public across Canada. In conjunction with business associations and small businesses, the Service presents management seminars oriented toward specific industries to groups of business people. It also writes, publishes and distributes a series of adult education courses on small business management (owner/manager courses) for provincial and territorial ministries of education. Finally, it organizes and supports workshops, conferences, and clinics for the promotion of good management practices with small businesses.

The Financial Planning Program offers four distinct services to small and medium-sized enterprises. Strategic Planning is a service designed to help businesses methodically plan each stage of their development. The Packaging service involves the Bank undertaking an analysis of business proposals and completing a report to be used by financial institutions and government agencies to properly assess the entrepreneur's application for funding. Financial Matchmaking is a referral service whereby people with money available to invest are matched with business people seeking funds. Finally, Do-It-Yourself kits are produced on such topics as arranging financing; forecasting and cash flow budgeting; analyzing financial statements; evaluating the purchase of a small business; and credit and collection tips.

GREAT LAKES PILOTAGE AUTHORITY, LIMITED

Historical Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor in Council and proclaimed on February 1,1972. The Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities — Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited was incorporated by Letters Patent on May 17, 1972 as a subsidiary of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and as a Schedule C Part I Crown corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries — all waters in the province of Québec south of the northern entrance to the St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. Pilotage in international waters within these boundaries is shared with U.S.A. Pilot Corporations which are under direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a Memorandum of Arrangements between Canada and the United States. The Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing sufficient revenues to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Authority By-Laws
- Canada Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Great Lakes Pilotage Regulations
- Memorandum of Arrangements between the Minister of Transport, Canada and the Secretary of Transportation, U.S.A.
- Pilotage Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited consists of a chairman, vice-chairman and five members appointed by the Governor in Council. The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District operations office is located at headquarters and the Western District operations office in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management, administrative, personnel, financial contracts and purchasing services are provided by the Cornwall office. The Authority is a Crown corporation, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Administration Branch

This branch provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

Operations Branch

This branch provides pilotage service by assignment, and dispatches qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited.

IMMIGRATION APPEAL BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Immigration Appeal Board is an independent court established under the Immigration Act, 1976 and derives its jurisdiction from Part IV of the Act.

Responsibilities

The prime objective of the Board is to make available to certain categories of persons who have been denied entry to or ordered removed from Canada, and to Canadian citizens and permanent residents whose relatives have been refused landing in Canada by officials of Employment and Immigration, an independent court to which such decisions may be appealed on both legal and equitable grounds. Furthermore, the Board is empowered to hear all applications for redetermination of refugee claims which have been refused by the Minister of Employment and Immigration.

Legislation

- Immigration Act, 1976
- Immigration Appeal Board Rules (Appellate), 1981
- Immigration Appeal Board Rules (Convention Refugee), 1981
- Immigration Regulations, 1978

Organizational Units and their Role

The Board may consist of no fewer than seven and not more than fifty members, including a chairman and thirteen vice-chairmen. Members are appointed to the Board by the Governor in Council.

Operations Branch

This branch operates as a secretariat to support the Board and is responsible for the planning, co-ordination and direction of Board activities at head office and in the regions. It provides legal advice and research services to the Board and responds to enquiries.

Administration Branch

This branch provides managerial advice and financial, administrative and personnel support to the Immigration Appeal Board.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF THE CANADIAN SECURITY INTELLIGENCE SERVICE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The first Inspector General was appointed by the Governor in Council on April 1, 1985, pursuant to section 30 of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act (the CSIS Act).

Responsibilities

The CSIS Act requires the Inspector General to monitor the compliance by the Service with its operational policies; to review the operational activities of the CSIS, including such reviews as the Security Intelligence Review Committee may direct; and to submit to the Solicitor General certificates stating the extent to which the Inspector General is satisfied with each report submitted by the CSIS Director under section 33 of the Act. The Inspector General must also indicate whether any act or thing done by the Service in the course of its operational activities during the period to which a report relates is, in the opinion of the Inspector General, not authorized by or under the Act, or contravenes any directions issued by the Solicitor General, or involves an unreasonable or unnecessary exercise by the CSIS of any of its powers.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organizational Units and their Role

For administrative purposes, the Office of the Inspector General forms part of the Secretariat of the Ministry of the Solicitor General. The Office is divided into two units:

The Policy and Standards unit analyses legislative and policy provisions or proposals relating to the operational activities of the CSIS; develops standards and guidelines for reviewing and monitoring CSIS operational activities; and provides advice on policy issues to the Inspector General.

The Operations unit develops and implements operational plans for monitoring and reviewing the CSIS operational activities; assists the Inspector General in undertaking specific reviews requested by the Solicitor General or the Security Intelligence Review Committee; and provides advice to the Inspector General respecting the CSIS operational activities.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH CENTRE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The International Development Research Centre (IDRC) was established as an autonomous public corporation by the International Development Research Centre Act of 1970.

Responsibilities

The International Development Research Centre initiates, encourages, supports and conducts research into the problems of the developing regions of the world and into the means of applying and adapting scientific, technical and other knowledge to the economic and social advancement of those regions.

Legislation

- International Development Research Centre Act, 1970
- General Bylaw of the IDRC

Organizational Units and their Role

The IDRC's headquarters are in Ottawa, where it has an international staff. Regional offices in Asia (Singapore and New Delhi), East Africa (Nairobi), West Africa (Dakar), Latin America (Bogota) and the Middle East (Cairo) link Ottawa with the researchers and policy makers of the developing countries, encourage and assist the development of research proposals, and monitor ongoing projects within their regions.

The IDRC's 21-member Board of Governors is appointed by the Canadian government. Under the International Development Research Centre Act, the chairman, vice-chairman, and nine other governors must be Canadian citizens; the other ten are non-Canadians.

The president of the Centre holds the rank of deputy minister and is responsible to Parliament through the Minister designated for that purpose by the Governor in Council (currently the Secretary of State for External Affairs). A management committee composed of all officers appointed by the Board of Governors and a president's committee composed of four vice-presidents assist the president in the Centre's operations.

The Centre's research activities are carried out by five program divisions and supported by a communications division.

Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Sciences Division

This division's emphasis is on crops, farming systems, and reforestation in arid and semi-arid lands. It also supports research on food crops that in the past have been neglected, such as root crops, food legumes, and oilseeds; agro-forestry, the combination of trees with food crops; multiple cropping systems; improvement of pasture lands; use of agricultural wastes and by-products in animal feed; fish farming and shellfish culture; post-production systems of protection, processing and distribution of cereal grains, root crops, legumes, fish, fruits, and vegetables; and the needs of the rural family.

Information Sciences Division

This division co-operates with United Nations agencies to establish worldwide information systems (for agricultural sciences and population policy) and assist developing countries to participate in such systems. It also supports the creation of specialized information centres on subjects of interest for development (e.g., particular crops, irrigation technology and sanitation for rural areas); improvement of industrial extension services; development-related communications research; improvement of library services; and provides an internal library and computerized information service to IDRC and the Canadian development community.

Health Sciences Division

This divison concentrates its support on five program areas: biological and environmental control of some major tropical diseases; techniques to improve water supply systems and sanitation in rural areas and peripheral urban squatter settlements; safer and more effective methods of fertility regulation; evaluation of the rural health care delivery system; and occupational health.

Social Sciences Division

This divison concentrates on research to ease the process of modernization and change, especially in rural areas; formation of appropriate science and technology policies; investigation of the effectiveness of traditional and non-traditional education systems; studies of the determinants of population change and its effects on social and economic development; and research leading to more efficient management of development activities.

Co-operative Programs Division

This division was established in 1980 in response to the need for greater access to research expressed by the developing countries at the United Nations Conference on Science and Technology for Development. The main aim of this program is to promote collaboration between research groups in the developing countries and their counterparts in the Canadian scientific community, whether academic, governmental or private. By providing increased opportunities for developing country researchers to work with Canadian research institutions, the program will strengthen the scientific and technological capacity of the participating third world institutions. By establishing channels of communication among scientists, it is designed to improve the transfer of research results.

Communications Division

The Centre has always placed considerable importance on the publication and dissemination of research results. The Centre's Communications Division produces a wide range of technical and scientific materials for worldwide distribution, particularly in the developing countries. It also produces more general materials to inform the public about the work of the Centre. Catalogues of all current IDRC publications and films are available on request.

All of the activities of the IDRC are supported by the services of the Office of the Secretary and General Counsel, the Office of the Comptroller General and Treasurer, the Office of the Director of Human Resources, and the Office of the Director of Planning and Evaluation.

INVESTMENT CANADA AGENCY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

Section 6 of the Investment Canada Act, which came into force on June 30, 1985, established the Investment Canada Agency to advise and assist the Minister of Regional Industrial Expansion, who is responsible for the administration of the Act.

Responsibilities

The program objective of Investment Canada is to contribute to Canada's economic growth by being a catalyst and the focal point for public and private efforts to foster increased investment which benefits Canada. The current investment program consists of one activity, which is broken down into these sub-activities: encouraging and promoting investment in Canada, including policy development and research; determining the reviewability of investments; assessing proposals and monitoring performance; and administration.

Legislation

- Investment Canada Act

Organizational Units and their Role

President's Office

Investment Canada is under the direction of a President who is named by the Governor in Council and who reports to the Minister of Regional Industrial Expansion. The President is responsible for the administration of the Investment Canada Act, as well as for the personnel, financial and administrative services of the Agency.

Investment Development Division

The Division is responsible for promoting and facilitating investment in Canada; developing general and targeted promotional strategies and activity plans both domestically and internationally; and acting as a focal point for federal/provincial and private sector efforts to promote investment. It is also responsible for creating an awareness of Canada's new investment climate and of the services available to investors from Investment Canada and federal trade offices at home and abroad; and providing information, guidance and assistance to potential investors in their efforts to invest in Canada. The Division is composed of three sectors: Investment Services, Investment Promotion and Communications.

Investment Review Division

The Division is responsible for identifying potentially reviewable transactions; reviewing and assessing investment proposals to determine net benefit to Canada; and ensuring that formal plans and undertakings given by investors are carried out.

Corporate Secretary Division

The Division is responsible for receiving all notices and applications to ensure conformity with the Act and Regulations, preparing ministerial opinions and responding to enquiries relating to the interpretation and application of the Act.

Investment Research and Policy Division

The Division is responsible for contributing to the formulation of policy options and advising on the impact of policies and programs on Canada's investment position. It supports the federal effort to encourage and facilitate investment that contributes to economic growth and job creation. The Division identifies and responds to the Agency's needs for strategic analysis and intelligence with respect to investment review and investment development activities. The Division also has the responsibility for developing and enhancing communication channels and liaison required for effective exchange of strategic, commercial or economic information and intelligence — whether internal to the Agency, interdepartmentally, or with the provinces and the private sector — on matters relating to investment.

Corporate Services Division

The Division is responsible for providing advice and guidance to Agency management in the areas of human resource management, co-ordination of strategic and operational planning, financial planning, administrative and computer services and program evaluation.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Commission was established by the Law Reform Commission Act, which came into effect on June 1, 1971.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Commission are to study and keep under review, on a continuing and systematic basis, the statutes and other laws comprising the laws of Canada with a view to making recommendations for their improvement, modernization and reform, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing: the removal of anachronisms and anomalies in the law; the reflection in and by the law of the distinctive concepts and institutions of the common law and civil law legal systems in Canada and the reconciliation of differences and discrepancies in the expression and application of the law arising out of differences in those concepts and institutions; the elimination of obsolete laws; and the development of new approaches to, and new concepts of the law in keeping with, and responsive to, the changing needs of modern Canadian society and of individual members of that society.

Legislation

- Law Reform Commission Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Commission proper comprises five members: the President, the Vice-President and three Commissioners, all full-time and all appointed by the Governor in Council. The President is named in the Law Reform Commission Act as the Chief Executive Officer of the Commission and, accordingly, is responsible for all aspects of policy direction, and execution of the Commission's activities both in the research program and in its administrative functions. All publications and recommendations for reform action are given consideration by the Commissioners, including the President, and the Vice-President, in plenary meetings. The Commission has direct responsibility for direction and supervision of the specific projects.

The Commission Secretary, the senior public servant, reports directly to the President. The Secretary acts as adviser to the President on matters of policies and/or the formulation and execution of the research program and related public consultation programs. The Secretary sets and monitors the standard of language used in Commission publications and correspondence, provides expert advice on the Commission's relations with other government organizations and with the public at large, and exercises a general direction over administrative policy matters.

The Director of Operations, who controls a staff of 28, reports to the Secretary of the Commission. In consultation with the Secretary, the Director is responsible for formulation of administrative policy, financial planning and control and the overall efficiency of the personnel management system and such supporting facilities as the library, text processing, publication distribution, translation, and information services.

Almost all of the Commission's research endeavours fall within three major categories: Administrative Law, Criminal Law, and Protection of Life. The scope of work in Criminal Law is such that it is handled as two projects; Substantive Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure. In keeping with its mandate, the Commission has a project called Ongoing Modernization of Statutes. Under this general heading, the Commission, from time to time, reviews various federal statutes which may be unfair, obsolete or in need of modernization. Reports to Parliament, which contain the final recommendations of the Commission for reform in a particular area, are submitted to the Minister of Justice who is required by the Law Reform Commission Act to cause each Report to be laid before Parliament.

The Criminal Law (Substantive) Project covers the substance of criminal law, i.e. the rules on definitions of offences and the rules on liability, jurisdiction, defences, participation and inchoate crimes. This project completed its work in fiscal year 1986-87 and is now merged into the Criminal Law Project. The Criminal Law (Procedure) Project encompasses legal procedures, police prerogatives and powers provided for the investigation, prosecution, trial, sentencing and appeal in criminal offences. It specifies the means by which proscriptions are enforced and punishments imposed.

The Protection of Life Project focuses upon environmental pollution and medical law. The role of criminal law in protecting the environment and health is of particular concern. The Administrative Law Project studies the effectiveness of administrative sanctions as well as procedures before administrative tribunals.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Medical Research Council (MRC) is a departmental corporation which became a separate entity in 1969 by the Medical Research Council Act, after some ten years of functioning as a semi-autonomous component of the National Research Council.

Responsibilities

According to the Medical Research Council Act, the Council's mandate is to promote and support health sciences research in Canada by funding research carried out primarily in faculties of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, as well as in affiliated institutions and hospitals. The Medical Research Council is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of National Health and Welfare.

Legislation

- Medical Research Council Act, R.S.C., chapter M-9 amended 1976-77, chapters 24, 34
- Queen Elizabeth II Canadian Research Fund Act 1959, chapter 33, section 1

Organizational Units and their Role

The Council comprises a full-time president, who is also the chief executive officer, and 21 members, representative of the scientific and lay communities, who serve without remuneration and are appointed by the Governor in Council. Council meetings are held three times a year to discuss policy issues and to review and approve all program funding.

The Executive Committee comprises seven Council members including the president and the vice-president. It carries out executive powers and functions under delegation from Council. There are usually five meetings each year. The Council also has standing committees to assist in formulating policies and procedures for priorities and planning, research and personnel funding, public affairs, and ethics in experimentation. Recommendations on grants and awards to be funded are made following an extensive examination of applications through a process of peer review. This peer review process consists of 24 grant and 9 award committees with a total membership of over 320 working scientists drawn chiefly from universities.

The Secretariat of the Council consists of 52 employees located in Ottawa. It is under the direction of the president and is divided into five responsibility areas: the President's Office, including the Secretary to Council; Programs Branch, responsible for the delivery of programs approved by the Council; Policy, Planning and Program Development, responsible for initiating and co-ordinating the development of new policies and programs, and for elaborating long-term plans (this branch is presently concentrating its activities on the implementation of the new University-Industry Programs); Corporate Management, responsible for the provision of central services such as financial, personnel, management information and administrative services; and Scientific Evaluation, responsible for administering the peer review process, including site visits, and ensuring the process is reflective of the policies and objectives of Council.

Classes of Records

MER/MER-005 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRO-005
Queen Elizabeth II Scientist Awards
Description: Awards designed to enable competent investigators to pursue a career in research on the diseases of children. Queen Elizabeth II Scientist Awards are tenable in Canadian universities or affiliated hospitals. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the awards; general correspondence.

MER/MER-010 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-010
Operating Grants
Description: Information about operating grants to provide support for new or continuing research activities by individuals or small groups of investigators working in collaboration. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-015 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-015

Program Grants

Description: Information about program grants to facilitate the further growth of team research in Canada. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-020 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-020

Major Equipment Grants

Description: Major equipment grants intended to provide for the purchase of single items of special research equipment costing $10 000 or more, or for the purchase of various items of equipment that cost more than $15 000 in total. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-025 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-025

Maintenance Grants

Description: Maintenance grants made to cover the costs of maintaining facilities that are shared by groups of researchers within a department, faculty, university, or region. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessments; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-030 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-030

Medical Research Council Groups

Description: Medical Research Council groups provide full support for teams of accomplished investigators who wish to develop collaborative programs in what appear to be especially productive areas. The members of a group are expected to devote their entire research effort to the program of the group and to be freed of the ordinary responsibilities of a faculty member. Topics: Application of group director and colleagues; executive and Council decisions; administration of the group; general correspondence.

MER/MER-035 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-035

Biotechnology Development Grants

Description: Grants designed primarily to assist in the recruitment of new faculty members with a major interest in applying the recombinant DNA and related techniques to problems directly relevant to the health sciences. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessments; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-040 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-040

Research Development Grants

Description: Grants designed to help initiate new and focused research programs which have the potential for impact on treatment and diagnosis, and for which there are requirements that cannot readily be met through other programs. At present, perinatology research is the only subject to which this program applies. Grants are awarded only in situations where there appears to be a definite university intention to establish and maintain a new research program in the subject concerned. Topics: Applications; Council decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

MER/MER-045 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-045

General Research Grants

Description: Grants made each year to the dean of each school of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, to be used for the support of research at the discretion of the dean, except for the stipulation that they not be used for the payment of supplementation of salaries of academic personnel, construction costs or overhead expenses. Topics: Notification of the grant to the dean; financial statement; general correspondence.

MER/MER-050 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-050

Development Grants

Description: Grants designed primarily to assist in recruiting or establishing new faculty members who have the potential for major accomplishments in research. They are intended to provide an impetus for research in those schools of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy where a more vigorous research program is considered by Council to be necessary to support professional education and health care. Topics: Applications of the principal investigator and colleagues; executive and Council decision; administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-055 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-055

Career Investigators

Description: Originally called the Associateship Program, the Career Investigators program was established in 1956 as a means of providing funds for salaries of a limited number of individuals of outstanding ability and training who made research a full-time career. No new appointments are being made by the Council. Career investigators appointed in 1975 and earlier will continue in their appointment, subject to the terms and conditions under which they accepted the award. Topics: Individual's career investigator application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-060 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-060

Medical Research Council Scientists

Description: This program provides salary support for independent investigators of outstanding ability who have shown promise of becoming leaders in their respective fields. committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-065 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-065

Scholarships

Description: Scholarships provide salary support, for a period not exceeding five years, to a limited number of young health science investigators who show particular promise as independent researchers. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-070 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-070

Centennial Fellowships

Description: Fellowships designed for outstanding young persons of distinguished academic standing who hold an M.D., D.D.S., D.V.M., Pharm. D., or Ph.D. degree and who wish to broaden their fields of interest and thus equip themselves for independent work in clinical investigation and interdisciplinary research in the health sciences. Awards are made for one to three years; no more than ten new awards are made in any year. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MEDICAL RESEARCH COUNCIL

MER/MER-075 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-075
Fellowships
Description: Fellowships offered in competition to highly qualified candidates with an M.D., D.D.S., D.V.M., Pharm. D., or Ph.D. degree who wish to take full-time research training in the health sciences. Awards are tenable for a specific term to a maximum of three years and may be renewed under certain conditions. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-080 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-080
Studentships
Description: Studentships provided in competition to highly qualified graduates with a B.Sc. degree who are undertaking full-time training in research leading to an M.Sc. or Ph.D. degree under the supervision of members of departments of schools of medicine, dentistry, or pharmacy, and under certain circumstances, schools of nursing or physical education. Awards are tenable for a specific term to a maximum of three years and may be renewed. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-085 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-085
Summer Scholarships
Description: Scholarships made available to undergraduates in medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy who wish to gain research experience in a health science department during the summer months. Funds are provided to the dean of each faculty of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy in accordance with a formula based on undergraduate enrolment. Recipients of the awards are selected locally. Topics: Deans' reports; general correspondence.

MER/MER-090 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-090
Biotechnology Training Centre Awards
Description: Awards to support opportunities for training students and post-doctoral fellows in the application of techniques of recombinant DNA and related methods, to a broad range of disciplines and problems. Topics: Applications; committee assessments; notification and administration of awards; general correspondence.

MER/MER-095 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-095
Biotechnology Retraining Awards
Description: Awards to enable established investigators to enhance their own research programs by the application of recombinant DNA strategies. These permit them to spend a year at another laboratory in Canada or abroad in order to gain experience with the relevant techniques. Topics: Applications; committee assessments; notification and administration of awards; general correspondence.

MER/MER-100 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-100
Visiting Scientists Awards
Description: Awards made in limited numbers each year to enable investigators to spend three to 12 months in laboratories other than their own. Proposals may be submitted by the deans of Canadian health science faculties on behalf of foreign scientists, or by Canadian investigators who wish to spend some time in another university in Canada or abroad in order to advance their research. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-105 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-105
Visiting Professors
Description: Visiting professorships intended to encourage collaboration and exchange of information among scientists in Canadian universities. Awards are made to the universities on a formula basis, following submission of proposals by the deans of health science faculties. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-110 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-110
U.S. National Institute of Health International Research Fellowships
Description: Initial screening of Canadian candidates for International Research Fellowships offered by the U.S. National Institute of Health, for which the Council is responsible. Topics: Individual's application form; general correspondence.

MER/MER-111 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-111
Fund for Research in the Fields of Dyskinesia and Torticollis
Description: The Medical Research Council has responsibility for administering a fund for research in the fields of dyskinesia and torticollis. The fund was established by an anonymous donor and the income derived from it is to be used for the support of research, either basic or clinical or both, in the broad field of movement disorders known as dyskinesia and more particularly for research in the movement disorder known as torticollis. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

MER/MER-112 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-112
Support for Workshops and Symposia
Description: As part of its program for research in the health sciences, the Council is prepared to support a limited number of applications for the support of workshops and certain types of symposia held in Canada. Topics: Individual's application; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

MER/MER-113 Formerly Identified as: MER/PRB-113
Travel Grants
Description: Limited funds for travel grants are available to Canadian health scientists who wish to spend short periods of time (maximum length of stay is 30 days) in a specific laboratory for the purpose of furthering their research. Topics: Applications in form of a letter; committee decision; administration of the grant; general correspondence.

MER/MER-115 Formerly Identified as: MER/PPD-115
Fields of Research
Description: Information on areas peripheral to medical research for which the Council has some responsibility. Topics: Research in the fields of dentistry; schools of pharmacy; psychology; occupational health and safety; gerontology; surgery and veterinary medicine; space research; mental research; general correspondence.

MER/MER-120 Formerly Identified as: MER/PPD-120
Research Survey
Description: Information on surveys established by the Council to gather general statistical data on selected aspects of the research community for use by the Council in determining the research requirements of the health science community across Canada. Topics: Graduate students; medical research support; research personnel; research trainees; research costs; health science research funding; academic degrees; fellowships and scholarships from other agencies; tropical and infectious diseases.

MER/MER-125
University-Industry Collaborative Research Program (New)
Description: The objective of this program is to help initiate focused research in the health sciences for which there is an industrial need. The program is designed to help industry collaborate with university-based researchers to solve specific research problems. Topics: Applications; reviews by external referees; committee assessment; notification and administration of grants; general correspondence.

MER/MER-130
Industrial Fellowships (New)
Description: The Industrial Fellowship Program provides individuals an opportunity to receive research training in an industrial milieu. Topics: Applications; committee assessment; notification and administration of the awards; general correspondence.

MER/MER-135
Industry-University Visiting Program
Description: The Industry-University Visiting Program is offered to facilitate visits of three to twenty-four months by health science researchers to industry and by industrial researchers to Canadian universities and their affiliated institutions. The intent is to enhance research and development in the health sciences in Canada in both universities and industry and to create linkages between industry and universities. Topics: Applications; committee assessment; notification and administration of the award; general correspondence.

MER/MER-140
Workshops (New)
Description: Council is willing to share with industry the cost for a limited number of workshops held in Canada. Council defines a workshop as a meeting of a limited number of persons (10-30) individually invited to address specific questions or problems important to research in the health sciences in Canada, with the purpose of reaching a consensus on recommendations or conclusions. The majority of participants should hold appointments in Canada. Topics: Applications; committee assessment; notification and administration of the grant; general correspondence.

MINISTRY OF STATE FOR SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST) was established by an Order-in-Council in 1971.

Responsibilities

The responsibilities of the Ministry are to formulate policies and provide advice to promote the development and use of science and technology in support of Canada's economic and social goals. The Ministry is the lead department for space research, policy development and the co-ordination of space activities among federal government departments and agencies. In addition, the Secretary of the Ministry of State for Science and Technology is the Chief Science Advisor to the federal government.

Organizational Units and their Role

Government Research and Universities Sector

This sector assists the federal government in co-ordinating and managing more effectively its expenditures on research and development programs and its support of university research.

National Science and Technology Policy Sector

This sector co-ordinates and participates in the development and implementation of policies and programs to improve the harmonization of, and collaboration in, federal and provincial science and technology initiatives.

Industry, Trade and Technology Sector

This sector promotes the better management and co-ordination of the government's programs that help industry increase its level of research and development, develop and exploit strategic technologies, and improve links between government, industry and academic institutions.

Space Policy Sector

This sector promotes the effective management and co-ordination of Canada's Space Program through the development of space research and development policies and strategies and the management and co-ordination of federal space programs.

Communications Branch

The Branch co-ordinates and implements the public affairs and information aspects of the Ministry, and the science and technology policy and program initiatives of the government.

Corporate Management Branch

The Branch provides strategic planning for the Ministry as well as core support services such as personnel, finance, administration, registry and library.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Archives of Canada was created in 1872 and has existed as a distinct organization since the National Archives Act of 1912. This act was replaced by the National Archives of Canada Act, which modified the name to the National Archives of Canada.

Responsibilities

The National Archives of Canada provides three basic services: collecting and preserving public (federal) and private historical records of national importance; organizing, managing, preserving or disposing of the current records of government institutions at the request of Treasury Board; and providing assistance to the archival community. This broad mandate obliges the National Archives to preserve material both from the private sector and federal government institutions. The classes of records described in this publication, however, do not include material placed in the National Archives by persons or organizations other than government institutions. Access conditions for collections acquired from the private sector are normally established by negotiation between the donor and the National Archives.

Legislation

- National Archives of Canada Act (1987)

Organizational Units and their Role

Dominion Archivist's Office

The Dominion Archivist is ultimately responsible for all activities of the National Archives and also participates nationally and internationally in various committees, associations and councils. The Assistant Dominion Archivist assists the Dominion Archivist, particularly in the policy and informatics and records services areas. The Assistant Dominion Archivist is the Access to Information and Privacy Co-ordinator for the Department.

Policy Branch

The Branch is responsible for relations with central policy agencies, other federal cultural institutions, provincial governments and non-government organizations, as well as for international relations. The Branch develops policy proposals related to archives. It also co-ordinates departmental planning for the National Archives, and provides for the cyclical and independent review and assessment of departmental programs for both the Dominion Archivist and the National Librarian. The Branch consists of the Program Evaluation and Research Division, Policy Analysis and Development and International Activities, Planning and Monitoring, and the Senior Management Committee Secretariat.

Historical Resources Branch

The Historical Resources Branch is responsible for the acquisition and the optimum custody of government and private records having national significance, in order to provide for their orderly care and maintenance, and in order to make them accessible for consultation, research and other services. There are five divisions in the Branch: Cartographic and Architectural Archives, Documentary Art and Photography, Government Archives, Manuscripts, and Moving Image and Sound Archives.

Government Records Branch

The Government Records Branch is responsible for programs and services that facilitate the management of information holdings controlled by federal government institutions. Information holdings include correspondence, computer data, microforms, and graphic works. The Branch controls the process of record destruction throughout the federal government; evaluates for Treasury Board the implementation of directives on information holdings in departments and agencies; provides training courses, technical publications, and advice to federal employees; offers records centre storage facilities to government institutions across the country; and controls the records of former public servants and members of the Armed Forces. There are five divisions in the Branch: Automated Information Systems, Federal Records Centres, Micrographic Standards and Development, Personnel Records Centre and Records Management and Micrographic Systems. The former Central Microfilm Operations Unit has been disbanded; however, their records still exist under the Government Records Branch.

Public Programs Branch

The Branch is responsible for the development and promotion of public programs (including publications and exhibitions), the provision of reference and researcher services, co-ordination of public events and media relations, departmental library services, and for assistance to the archival community. There are four divisions in the Branch: Archival Community Relations, Communication, Library and Reference and Researcher Services.

Conservation Branch

The Branch is responsible for the effective conservation of the holdings of the National Archives. The Branch plans and directs the implementation of the departmental conservation program, performs restoration and/or preservation functions for all archival media, provides photographic reproductions, arranges contracts for archival microfilming services, conducts conservation research, and offers advice on optical disc technology. In addition, the Branch provides conservation services upon request to the National Library. NATIONAL CAPITAL COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

By the National Capital Act (1958), Parliament established the National Capital Commission (NCC), as the successor to the Ottawa Improvement Commission (1899-1927) and the Federal District Commission (1927-58), to continue developing and improving the National Capital Region.

Responsibilities

The basic role of the Commission is to assist in the development, conservation and improvement of the National Capital Region so that it will be a fitting symbol of Canada's cultural and linguistic values, an efficient and aesthetically satisfying place in which to carry on the nation's business, and a model of urban planning and development. The NCC received a new mandate from Cabinet in 1986: to make the Capital a meeting place for all Canadians, to use the Capital to communicate Canada to all Canadians, and to safeguard and preserve its assets.

Legislation

- National Capital Act, 1958

Organizational Units and their Role

To ensure the national outlook of the NCC, the Act provides for twenty commissioners from across Canada who function as a Board of Directors, and who must be appointed by Order-in-Council. The Commission is headed by a Chairman who is also its chief executive officer and, with the assistance of an executive vice-president, acts as head of the Commission staff.

The staff of the Commission is organized into seven administrative elements, each headed by a vice-president: Corporate Affairs and Secretary-General, Planning, Property, Public Activities, Development, Finance and Inter-governmental Programs. These branches are further organized into divisions, headed by directors, to administer the Commission's programs, projects and services. The Commission reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works.

Corporate Affairs Branch and Secretary-General

The Branch carries out corporate planning and policy activities; provides informatics, corporate communications and legal services; and oversees the administration of the Commission's human and material resources. It also administers the external bilingualism program and provides administrative support to the Commission itself and its advisory and internal management committees.

Development Branch

This branch provides architectural, landscape and engineering design services and administers related standards and specifications. It also administers construction projects; maintains federal government grounds and parks and Commission assets such as service buildings; co-ordinates NCC project design and technical liaison with other agencies; and administers shared-cost programs with other levels of government.

Planning Branch

This branch is responsible for planning policies and research on physical-spatial and socio-economic issues within the National Capital Region; plans and guidelines for the development, conservation and improvement of the National Capital Region; and planning advice on long-term trends and prospects likely to have an impact on the National Capital Region.

Public Activities Branch

This branch administers Gatineau Park; develops heritage and nature interpretation programs; provides various services to visitors; and develops special events and activities utilizing NCC parks and open spaces.

Property Branch

This branch is responsible for the acquisition and disposal of real property. It also engages in leasing, property management, development and redevelopment of revenue-producing properties. The branch manages properties throughout the National Capital Region, including the urban core, the Greenbelt and Gatineau Park. In addition, it administers the Commission's program of grants-in-lieu-of-taxes.

Finance Branch

This branch formulates and implements financial plans and policies and provides necessary services in support of the effective utilization of the Commission's financial resources.

Intergovernmental Programs Branch

This branch is responsible for co-ordination of intergovernmental programs and provides liaison and linkages with all levels of governments and the local community.

NCC/PLB-059

Planning Policy and Research

Description: Planning policies and professional planning advice to National Capital Commission branches and other levels of government. Topics: Planning the use of federally owned lands; accommodation of commercial and institutional activities of the private sector and other levels of government; physical-spatial and socioeconomic studies; transitways and interprovincial transit assistance. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject. Special Access Note: Studies are catalogued separately. Storage Media: Plans and drawings, some in microform.

NCC/PLB-062

Regional and Urban Planning

Description: Information on project planning to promote integrated physical development of the Ontario and Québec portions of the National Capital Region. Topics: Urban development plans for federal properties in the core area such as the Canlands; detailed land-use plans for specific federal land holdings required for a project; proposals by others affecting the use, development and tenure of federal lands; planning studies and master plans. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject. Special Access Note: Studies are catalogued separately. Storage Media: Plans and drawings, some in microform.

NCC/FAB-066

Finance

Description: Information on financial planning and control, financial services and financial management systems. Topics: Finance and accounts generally; agreements; allotments and transfers; banks and banking; expenditures; fees, funds and grants; taxes; travel allowances and expenses; accounts payable and receivable; budgets and estimates; and audit generally. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject and by supplier name. Storage Media: Microform and EDP.

NCC/IGP-070

Intergovernmental Programs and Community Relations (New)

Description: Information on consultation and co-ordination, particularly at the policy developement level, with various governments at the federal, provincial, regional and municipal levels as well as with other organizations such as community associations and special interest groups. Topics: Co-ordination and liaison on land and property matters, construction, maintenance and renovations of buildings, grounds and varied structures, programs promoting national understanding, pride and awareness of the capital development of tri-partite apreements and program co-ordination. Retrievability: Records are arranged by subject files.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Energy Board (NEB) was created by the National Energy Board Act of 1959.

Responsibilities

The Board has two principal responsibilities under the National Energy Board Act: to regulate specific matters concerning oil, gas and electricity in the public interest (licensing of oil, natural gas, and electricity exports; certification of international and interprovincial pipelines and international and designated interprovincial power lines; and setting of tolls and tariffs on pipelines under NEB jurisdiction); and to advise the Government on the development and use of energy resources (keeping under review the Canadian supply of all major energy commodities and the demand for Canadian energy in Canada and in export markets).

Legislation

(National Energy Board)

- National Energy Board Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter N-6
- Gas Pipeline Regulations (section 39), C.R.C. 1978, Vol XI, chapter 1052, p. 8471
- Gas Pipeline Uniform Accounting Regulations
- International Power Line Regulations, C.R.C. 1978, Vol XI, chapter 1054, p. 8595
- National Energy Board Cost Recovery Regulations
- National Energy Board Order No. MO-62-69, C.R.C. 1978, Vol. XI, chapter 1055, p. 8597
- National Energy Board Part VI Regulations (sections 85 and 87), C.R.C. 1978, Vol XI, chapter 1056, p. 8599
- National Energy Board Rules of Practice and Procedures (section 7), C.R.C. 1978, Vol XI, chapter 1057, p. 8619

Organizational Units and their Role

Executive Director

The Executive Director is the Board's senior staff member, with responsibilities that include the overall management of the Board, the acquisition and allocation of human and financial resources, and the efficiency and effectiveness of Board activities and operations.

The Finance Branch co-ordinates and administers the financial policies under which the Board operates and provides advice and services relating to financial activities.

The Personnel Branch provides advice and services in the areas of staffing, human resources planning, training, affirmative action, health and safety, security, official languages, classification, staff relations, and pay and benefits.

Director General, Energy Regulation

The Director General, Energy Regulation is responsible for the integration of all staff activities involving the regulation of energy exports. This encompasses planning and co-ordinating all work affecting the regulation of exports of oil, gas, and electricity under Part VI of the National Energy Board Act, and co-ordinating the analysis of all matters related to energy demand, supply and surplus under Part II of the Act.

The Economics Branch advises the Board on economic and socio-economic matters and maintains an energy statistics unit. The Branch prepares projections of energy demand in Canada and maintains surveillance of similar studies done for the United States. The Branch's responsibilities include analysis of the impact of proposed energy projects on the economy and on the socio-economic conditions of Canada and its regions. It also assesses the extent to which Canadians will have an opportunity to participate in projects.

The Energy Supply Branch is responsible for advising the Board on matters relating to oil and gas exploration, drilling and production, and forecasts trends in oil and gas supply from conventional, oil sands, synthetic, and frontier sources. The Branch independently calculates the reserves and deliverability of gas and the reserves and producibility of oil. The calculation of gas and oil reserves by pool is carried out in the Board's Calgary office.

The Electric Power Branch advises the Board on matters relating to electricity export licensing, international power line certification, detailed route approval and export monitoring. The Branch prepares supply and demand forecasts for electricity that are used in dealing with electrical and other applications, reviews the American market for electricity, and provides advice to the Board on matters under federal jurisdiction that relate to the production, transportation, sale, and exchange of electricity.

The Gas Branch advises the Board on matters related to natural gas and gas products, including the regulation of all matters relating to traffic and discrimination in gas pipeline services and the export of gas and gas products by orders and licences. The Branch maintains a statistics unit, which is responsible for the collection and dissemination of operational data related to the consumption and transportation of gas and gas products. As well, the Branch is responsible for preparing short-term forecasts for domestic and export gas and gas products demand. In addition, it plays a supportive role in all other regulatory activity related to gas and gas products.

The Oil Branch provides advice on oil-related energy matters, including oil markets, transmission, processing, distribution, and the short-term balance of supply and demand for feedstocks and oil products. The Branch advises the Board on pipeline traffic matters and reviews the export prices of domestic crude oil and petroleum products and international oil prices.

Director General, Pipeline Regulation

The Director General, Pipeline Regulation integrates all staff activities relating to the regulation of gas, oil, and petroleum products pipelines. This encompasses the design, construction, operation, safety, and environmental concerns specified under Part III of the National Energy Board Act and matters regarding tolls and tariffs under Part IV of the Act.

The Environment and Right-of-Way Branch is responsible for providing advice to the Board with respect to assessing the protection of the environment and the acquisition of land for pipelines and international power lines. The branch assesses submissions from affected landowners regarding the detailed route of those facilitiies, verifies the accuracy of right-of-way acquisitions, and evaluates the technical requirements related to third-party crossings of pipelines.

The Pipeline Engineering and Operations Branch advises the Board on matters relating to pipeline certificates issued under the National Energy Board Act and for the regulation of the safety of pipeline facilities under the Board's jurisdiction. The Branch is the Board's principal source of advice on engineering matters included in applications by pipeline companies for facilities construction and tolls.

The Financial Regulatory Branch has the primary responsibility of advising the Board on all matters concerning rates, tolls and tariffs charged by the oil and gas pipelines. As such, it takes a leading role in dealing with all toll applications that come before the Board by providing financial analysis and co-ordinating staff support. It also monitors and audits the financial performance of pipelines under the Board's jurisdiction and conducts financial analysis of applications to the Board for the construction of pipeline facilities. In addition to being the Board's principal source of financial advice, it also conducts audits of petroleum export charges, gas export licences and transportation costs under specific sections of the National Energy Board Act and the Energy Administration Act.

Law Branch

The Law Branch provides legal advice to the Board on all matters relating to the Board's powers and responsibilities, acts as counsel for the Board at public hearings, and represents the Board in proceedings before the Federal and Supreme Courts of Canada.

Office of the Secretary

The Office of the Secretary receives all applications and submissions and co-ordinates their consideration by the Board. It advises the Board on the scheduling of hearings, and makes all administrative arrangements for public hearings in Ottawa and across Canada. In addition, it provides media and public relations services, publications services, property and materiel management, records management services, and operates the Board's library. It administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act and co-ordinates translation services with the in-house translation unit provided by Secretary of State.

The Information Technology Branch is responsible for computer systems services, word processing support, and data processing support. This includes consultative services on computer operations, data management, program design and development, and advisory services on the latest data processing techniques and applications. Branch responsibilities also include the integration of information and processing systems and services for the Board.

Reading Room

The Board's Library has been designated under section 71 of the Access to Information Act as a reading room where the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs or activities that affect the public. The Library is located at 473 Albert Street, 9th Floor, Ottawa, Ontario. The hours are 08:00 to 16:30, Monday to Friday.

Classes of Records

NEB/FRB-005
Rates and Tolls
Description: Information on the applications and supporting documents for rates and tolls submitted by pipeline companies; also copies of interventions submitted by interested parties, and copies of gas company sales and purchase contracts. Topics: Rate applications; interventions; complaints and investigations; price surveillance; sales contracts; purchase contracts; rates for gas. Retrievability: Files arranged by company and province. Special Access Note: Applications, transcripts and reasons for decision are held in the National Energy Board library.

NEB/FRB-010

Accounting and Auditing

Description: Audit reports and correspondence of companies under the Board's jurisdiction. Topics: Annual reports. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject and company.

NEB/FRB-020

Uniform Accounting Regulations for Oil and Gas

Description: Correspondence between companies in Canada, the United States government and the National Energy Board on uniform accounting regulations. Topics: Uniform classification of accounts and document retention regulations. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject, and oil and gas company.

NEB/FRB-025

Financial Reports

Description: Financial information on the oil and gas pipeline companies under the Board's jurisdiction; quarterly and annual financial reports.

NEB/ERW-030

Environmental Aspects of Energy Development

Description: Correspondence on oil, gas and electric power development. Topics: Arctic hydrocarbon transportation systems; Northern oil and gas pipelines; offshore oil and gas transportation; other agency reviews — Federal Environmental Assessment and Review Office (FEARO). Retrievability: Files arranged by committee, project.

NEB/ERW-035

Environmental Implications of Oil and Gas Pipeline Operations

Description: Correspondence on environmental aspects of operating pipelines and facilities including storage and processing facilities. Topics: Right-of-way conditions, gas plant emissions, tank farms, loading facilities, etc.

NEB/ERW-040

Lands and Routing

Description: Correspondence on land-use concerns; on complaints of landowners concerning pipeline construction; applications for plan, profile and book of reference approval; applications for right of entry; notices for land acquisition and applications to purchase or sell land, buildings, equipment, or to abandon pipelines. Topics: Complaints by landowners; plan, profile and book of reference applications; notices for service, publication and public hearings; cost recovery; right-of-entry applications; land acquisition procedures; application to sell/acquire land and property; applications to abandon pipelines. Retrievability: Files arranged by pipeline company for purchases, sales, leases, and abandonments; plan, profile and book of reference and right-of-entry applications. Complaints are filed by name of landowner, location and pipeline company.

NEB/ERW-045

Environmental Incidents or Emergencies

Description: Reports of environmental inspection of spills of oil, products or other substances and their impact on the environment. Topics: Leaks, breaks, spillage, environmental impact, clean-up, restoration. Retrievability: Files arranged chronologically by incident and by pipeline company.

NEB/ERW-050

Environmental Associations and Committees

Description: Correspondence between the Board and various pipeline, industry, and environmental associations; information on liaison with various committees, conferences, oil and gas pipeline companies, and environmental agencies. Topics: Environmental regulatory matters; co-operation and liaison with oil and gas pipeline companies, interdepartmental committees on environmental matters. Retrievability: Files arranged by association, committee, conference and pipeline company.

NEB/ERW-055

Environmental Assessment, Surveillance and Monitoring

Description: Published information on the environmental aspects of applications for certificates and orders to build a pipeline or power line, to commence construction, or to cross a pipeline by a facility over or under a pipeline, submitted by a company or by a private citizen; also documentation for interventions and appeals submitted by interested parties, surveillance and monitoring reports. Topics: Applications for certificates and orders; environmental information submitted prior to construction of a pipeline or power line; applications to construct a compressor station, gas plant, meter station, pump station and terminal; crossing of a pipeline by a buried cable, overhead cable, road, ditch, building, parking lot, etc.; crossing of facility by a pipeline; appeals and interventions; environmental assessment of the effects of pipelines or power lines; environmental surveillance; Retrievability: Files arranged by company and location of pipeline. Special Access Note: Applications to build a pipeline, transcripts of hearings and reasons for decisions are held in the Board library.

NEB/PEO-060

Pipeline Development Projects

Description: Correspondence on Northern oil and gas development. Topics: Task Force on Northern Oil Development; gas Arctic systems; northern gas pipelines; northern gas transportation; Petro-Canada proposed Arctic power project; polar gas project. Retrievability: Files arranged by task force committee.

NEB/PEO-065

Operation of Oil and Gas Pipelines

Description: Correspondence on the operation and maintenance of pipelines. Topics: Corrosion Control Program; letters patent; design factors; safety; signs and markers; schematic drawing of pipelines; sandblasting; line pipe specifications; high energy impact joining of line pipe; reversal of pipeline; negative salvage.

NEB/PEO-070

Pipeline Incidents or Accidents

Description: Reports of leaks, breaks, dents and buckles of oil and gas pipelines, including property damage, injury or death of personnel. Topics: Leaks and breaks; dents and buckles; storage and use of lubricants; metallurgical investigations; repair program for the Sarnia-Montreal extension. Retrievability: Files arranged by pipeline and location of the leak, break, dent or buckle.

NEB/PEO-075

Pipeline Associations and Committees

Description: Correspondence between the Board and various pipeline, oil and gas, and standards associations; also information on liaison with various committees, conferences and oil and gas pipeline companies. Topics: Associations dealing with pipelines and engineering matters; institutes for engineering and pipeline matters; committees of the Canadian Standards Association; Task Force on Pipelines; conference on engineering and pipelines; co-operation and liaison with oil and gas pipeline companies. Retrievability: Files arranged by association, committee, conference and pipeline company.

NEB/PEO-080

Pipeline Construction

Description: Information on the application for certificates and orders to build a pipeline, to commence construction, leave to open a pipeline (commence operation), or to cross a pipeline by a facility over or under a pipeline, submitted by a company or by a private citizen; also documentation for interventions and appeals submitted by interested parties. Topics: Applications for certificates and orders; applications to construct a pipeline; applications to construct a compressor station, gas plant, meter station, pump station and terminal; crossing of a pipeline by a buried cable, overhead cable, road, ditch, building, parking lot, etc.; crossing of a facility by a pipeline; appeals and interventions; environmental assessment and effect on pipelines, routine facility inspection reports. Retrievability: Files arranged by company and location of pipeline. Special Access Note: Applications to build a pipeline, transcripts of hearings and Reasons for Decisions are held in the Board library.

NEB/PEO-081

Inspection of Meters

Description: Reports by inspectors from Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada on inspections of export and import meters on international pipelines. Retrievability: Files arranged by meter station.

NEB/OOS-085

Public Hearing Process — Applications to the National Energy Board and Reasons for Decision

Description: Copies of all applications made to the Board, exhibits and other public hearing documents and reasons for decision. Topics: Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity for construction and operation of oil and gas pipelines and electric power lines; licences for the export of oil, gas and electric power; rates, tolls and tariffs of pipeline companies under Board jurisdiction. Retrievability: Files arranged by applicant, company and year. Special Access Note: Copies of applications and the Board's reasons for decision are held in the library.

NEB/OOS-090

Standing Panel Files

Description: Copies of documents considered at standing panel meetings, including applications on routine and non-routine matters, staff papers, and final documents approved by the panel including letters, regulatory instruments, etc. Topics: Certificates and orders — oil and gas pipelines and electric power lines; safety and environmental matters; tolls and tariffs of pipelines under the jurisdiction of the National Energy Board; licences and orders to export (and in some cases, to import) oil, gas, and electricity. Retrievability: The documents contained in the standing panel files are duplicated in the Board's subject files. The standing panel files are arranged by panel and by date of meeting and are retained for approximately two years. Special Access Note: Copies of some applications are held in the Board's library for six months after a decision has been rendered.

NEB/OOS-095

Certificates, Licences and Orders

Description: Originals of all certificates, licences and orders issued by the Board. Topics: Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity — oil and gas pipelines, electric power lines; licences for the export of oil, gas and electric power; safety orders; rates, tolls and tariffs; miscellaneous orders. Special Access Note: See "Prefix Identification of Certificates, Licences, Orders and Permits" issued by the National Energy Board (internal reference memo listing document prefixes and references to legislation).

NEB/OOS-100

Minutes of Meetings

Description: Official minutes of all meetings of the Board and officially constituted panels of the Board. Topics: Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity — oil and gas pipelines and electric power lines; licences and orders to export oil, natural gas and electricity; safety orders relating to pipelines; environmental matters with respect to oil and gas pipelines and electric power lines; rates, tolls and tariffs of pipelines under Board jurisdiction, Energy Administration Act; Northern Pipeline Act; supply, demand, surplus of oil, gas and electric power. Storage Medium: Microfilm.

NEB/OOS-105

Parliamentary and Ministerial Enquiries

Description: Information on questions raised by Members of Parliament in the House of Commons and correspondence to the Minister that has been referred to the Board for preparation of a reply. Topics: Parliamentary enquiries — may cover, but are not limited to, queries on personnel, budgets, advertising, accommodations, equipment, person-years; correspondence to the Minister, usually on energy-related matters for which the Board is responsible — certification of interprovincial and international oil and gas pipelines, international electric power lines, exports of oil, gas and electricity, supply and demand of oil, gas and electricity; complaints against pipeline companies.

NEB/LAW-110

Legal Opinions

Description: Legal opinions prepared by the branch for the purpose of giving advice to the Board. Topics: Duties and powers of the Board under the National Energy Board Act; Board jurisdiction; requirements of natural justice; interpretation of legislation.

NEB/LAW-115

Statutes and Regulations

Description: Working papers and other relevant material used by the branch in the preparation of amendments to statutes and regulations. Topics: National Energy Board Act and Regulations; Energy Administration Act; Northern Pipeline Act.

NATIONAL ENERGY BOARD

NEB/LAW-120

Legal Cases

Description: Decisions rendered by the courts that may affect the work of the Board. Topics: Administrative tribunals; American law; Bill of Rights; combines; Pipeline Act.

NEB/LAW-125

Litigation

Description: All documentation, legal opinions and working papers related to court cases with which the Board has been involved as a result of appeals of its decisions. Topics: Trial division; Federal Court of Appeal; Supreme Court of Canada; public hearings — reasons for decision; subpoenas. Retrievability: Files arranged by style of cause.

NEB/GAS-130

Natural Gas Pricing and Marketing

Description: Correspondence on marketing and pricing of natural gas and gas products, and reports of revenue by gas or pipeline companies. Topics: Special market research; market value; propane and butanes pricing; revenue flowback by gas and pipeline companies; Energy Administration Act, Part III (Domestic Gas). Retrievability: Files arranged by subject and gas or pipeline company.

NEB/GAS-135

Import and Export Gas Licences and Orders

Description: Applications and related correspondence for a licence to export or import natural gas, liquefied natural gas or liquefied petroleum gas and the interventions submitted by interested parties. Topics: Emergency orders to export natural gas and liquefied natural gas; licences and orders to export and import natural gas, liquefied natural gas and gas products; interventions; combined hearings (two or more companies applying jointly for a licence). Retrievability: Files arranged by subject, company and year of application.

NEB/GAS-140

Export Control of Gas Products

Description: Information on licences, orders and applications for the export of gas products; also proceedings of the Gas Panel, which includes reports to the Board and approval of export orders. Topics: Policy; instructions to the applicants; forms of licences and orders; proceedings of the Gas Panel; applications for licences and orders; monitoring of export volumes and prices. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject and applicant company.

NEB/GAS-141

Statistics (New)

Description: Statistical data on exports and imports of natural gas and gas products, and on supply and disposition of propane and butanes. Topics: Propane and butanes supply and disposition, export and import volumes and prices of natural gas and gas products and authorized volumes. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject and company. Special Access Note: Certain statistics are provided by companies on a confidential basis and are available in aggregate form only. Statistics are held in the Board's library.

NEB/GAS-142

Traffic (New)

Description: Applications and related correspondence for orders to obtain access to transportation services on interprovincial and international gas pipelines. Topics: Interim orders to receive transport and deliver gas. Retrievability: Files arranged by company.

NEB/GAS-145

United States Regulatory Agencies for Natural Gas and Gas Products

Description: Correspondence between the National Energy Board and U.S. federal and state departments and agencies on natural gas and gas product matters. Topics: Acts and regulations for natural gas; export and imports of natural gas; pricing of natural gas; supply, demand and storage; synthetic natural gas; gas rates; natural gas survey.

NEB/EPB-150

Licences and Orders for the Export of Electricity

Description: Company applications and supporting data for a licence or order to export electricity for a specific period of time. Topics: Application to export electricity in an emergency; to Canadian utilities. Retrievability: Files arranged by power company.

NEB/EPB-155

Canadian Electric Power Projects

Description: Information on Canadian electric power projects and studies; also generation of electric power and the transmission of extra-high voltage electric power. Topics: Electric power projects and studies — Churchill Falls, James Bay, Fundy Tidal Power Development study; power generation — power potential, load and supply, nuclear, technology for fuel cells, thermal coal-fueled and thermal gas-fueled. Retrievability: Files arranged by project or study.

NEB/EPB-160

Construction of International Electrical Power Lines

Description: Applications for certificates and supporting documents to construct or modify existing power lines. Topics: Policy; environmental guidelines; interventions filed by interested parties. Retrievability: Files arranged by power company.

NEB/EPB-165

Inspection of Meters

Description: Reports by inspectors from Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada on inspections of export and import meters on international power lines. Retrievability: Files arranged by power line certificate holder.

NEB/EPB-170

Associations and Committees on Electric Power

Description: Information on liaison with power transmission companies, associations and conferences on electrical matters. Topics: Reports on, and agendas of, meetings and conferences; associations; power and transmission companies. Special Access Note: Some files have been transferred to the Historical Branch of National Archives Canada.

NEB/EPB-175

Electric Power Failures

Description: Information on selected electric power interruptions. Topics: Hydro-Quebec power interruption on January 10, 1978; power interruption on the Maritime grid, November 14, 1978; Northeast power failure of 1965.

NEB/EPB-180

United States

Description: Information on liaison with American federal and state departments on mutual electric and atomic energy problems. Topics: Atomic Energy Commission; Acts and Regulations; uranium; nuclear electric power; Hanford Electric Generating Plant; geothermal energy; Jersey City Nuclear Power Project; U.S. Federal Power Commission; North American Electric Reliability Council; U.S. power — failures, projects, shortages, rates and statistics.

NEB/EPB-185
Statistics
Description: Statistical data on the export of electric power, supply and demand of electricity, forecasts, import of electricity. Topics: Monthly reports by power companies on the export of electric power and energy; supply, demand and distribution forecasts; various reports compiled by Statistics Canada; Ontario Hydro's forecasts of power load capacity report; Canadian Electric Utilities: Analysis of Generation and Trends. Retrievability: Files are arranged by company and forecast. Special Access Note: Report on Ontario Hydro forecast of load and capacity is held in the Board library.

NEB/OIL-190
National Oil Policy
Description: Correspondence on the national oil policy with various oil and pipeline companies, federal government departments and the National Energy Board. Topics: Policy; National Oil Policy Review, 1969; redefining the Ottawa Valley; imports and transfer — gasoline; control of movements across Ottawa Valley line; petrochemical industry — export and import; oil import and transfer program; crude oil price survey; oil import cost compensation program; deep water facilities; deregulation — 1985.

NEB/OIL-195
Allocation of Oil
Description: Correspondence between the Energy Supply Allocation Board and the Oil Branch of the National Energy Board on the allocation of oil resources in an emergency.

NEB/OIL-200
Liaison with United States on Oil Matters
Description: Correspondence with United States federal government and agencies on oil matters. Topics: Import and export of oil; offshore oil; pricing; pipeline tariffs; refineries; oil reserves; crude oil supply and demand; transportation by tanker; exchange agreements; import regulations; oil import statistics; turbine fuel; U.S. oil pipeline companies; refinery allocations; appeals and decisions; task force on oil imports; reports and returns on pipeline incidents and petroleum matters. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject under the United States block of files.

NEB/OIL-205
Crude Oil Movements by Pipeline
Description: Correspondence on pipeline capability and the availability of crude oil; also nomination, by refinery, of crude oil requirements. Topics: Pipeline capability — pipeline traffic; nominations by companies for crude oil requirements; allocations of domestic crude.

NEB/OIL-210
Export Charge for Crude Oil and Oil Products

NATIONAL FARM PRODUCTS MARKETING COUNCIL

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Farm Products Marketing Council was established in 1972 under the Farm Products Marketing Agencies Act.

Responsibilities

The National Farm Products Marketing Council is responsible for supervising the Canadian marketing agencies established under the Farm Products Marketing Agencies Act. The Council works with these agencies and with provincial governments and their marketing boards to promote an efficient and competitive industry for the products concerned, and to protect the interests of producers, processors and consumers.

Legislation

- Farm Products Marketing Agencies Act, 1972

Organizational Units and their Role

Executive Council

The Council is responsible for policy decisions and for the ultimate objectives and goals of the National Farm Products Marketing Council. All nine council members are appointed by Order-in-Council. Six of the nine members are paid on a per diem basis for those days that they are called upon to work on Council business.

Operations

This section is responsible for the day to day monitoring of the agencies' operations and for reporting their findings to Council. The staff is also called upon to perform special tasks or studies regarding existing or possible new agencies which would provide analysis and documentation for Council's decisions.

Communications

This section is responsible for media relations, the preparation and diffusion of Council's public information, and for the preparation and publication of annual reports and press releases.

Management Services

This section is responsible for records management, property management, material management, Access to Information and Privacy Legislation, general administration and for the financial, personnel and support functions for Council and its components.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Film Board (NFB) was established by the National Film Act on May 2, 1939, and revised in 1950. The NFB reports to the Minister of Communications.

Responsibilities

The Board's mandate is to produce and distribute and to promote the production and distribution of Canadian film and video.

The Board is a totally integrated production house, although a large proportion of its films are made by freelance independent filmmakers. The average annual production is approximately 100 original films and 50 versions and adaptations of existing films. The Board produces versions of its films in up to 60 different languages for foreign distribution. The Board also undertakes advanced technical research and development to advance the art and technology of film and video, and plays an active role in training people in all aspects of filmmaking.

Legislation

- National Film Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The board of trustees of the National Film Board is composed of the Canadian Government Film Commissioner — who is both the chairperson and chief executive officer of the NFB — and eight other members appointed by the Governor in Council, three of whom are selected from the Public Service of Canada or the Canadian Armed Forces and five from the public at large.

The head office of the NFB is in Ottawa, while its operational headquarters are located in Montreal. NFB films are produced by two distinct English and French program branches, which are also responsible for marketing their films to their respective audiences. The NFB began to decentralize its production studios in the early 1970s and there are now studios in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Moncton, Halifax and Montreal.

The Government Film Commissioner advises the Minister and the government on matters relating to film and video. He/she is chairperson of the Board of Trustees, and chief executive officer of the NFB. The Commissioner is responsible for all programming, administrative and policy decisions as well as the day to day operations and management of the NFB. The Commissioner is supported by an executive assistant and secretary to the board and senior secretaries in Ottawa and Montreal. The internal auditor and director of Communication Services and the co-ordinator of Planning and Program Evaluation report to the Commissioner.

Administration, Finance and Personnel Division

This division provides for overall management of NFB resources, financial planning and personnel management and counsel. It also administers data processing services and prepares financial statements.

Corporate Affairs and Vice Film Commissioner

The Corporate Affairs Division is based at Head Office in Ottawa. It is responsible for the development and implementation of institutional policies, and for the establishment and maintenance of contacts with the government and federal bureaucracy in Ottawa. The Vice Film Commissioner represents the Commissioner in his/her absence.

Communications Services

Communications Services operates programs for NFB staff, public and media; prepares speeches and documents for the Government Film Commissioner, develops the corporate image of the NFB; handles corporate public relations through special projects, public and media visits to the Film Board, and with the media; and is responsible for the NFB's participation in festivals, retrospectives and other film events. It also oversees NFB participation in conferences and corporate projects (internal and external corporate communications).

English Program Branch

This branch produces and markets English language films and videos in documentary, animation and fiction forms to reach audiences in Canada and abroad on relevant social and cultural issues. These programs are produced in five studios in Montreal, and one each in Halifax, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. English program production uses permanent staff and freelance filmmakers, and sometimes co-produces with outside organizations. The International Commercial Service, which is administered by the English Program Branch, ensures sales of NFB productions in French and English outside Canada.

French Program Branch

This branch produces and markets films and videos in French to reach audiences in Canada and abroad on social and cultural issues, and is responsible for marketing its productions in Canada. The Branch produces and co-produces documentaries, fiction and animation from its headquarters in Montreal and from regional production centres in Moncton, Toronto and Winnipeg. French program production uses permanent staff and freelancers to produce its films.

Services Division

This division provides technical production services and a versions service for the program branches, and operates a technical research and development section. It is also responsible for distribution services, including the delivery of prints and operation of libraries and film deposits in NFB audio-visual centres in Canada.

Employment Equity Division

The mandate of the Employment Equity Division is based on the principles of sound human resource management and includes two objectives: parity between male and female employees in all permanent and contract positions, in all professional categories and at all levels by the year 1996; and a more equitable place for women in all aspects of Canadian filmmaking, ensured through the creation of training and apprenticeship programs.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Library was created by the National Library Act of 1953 (revised in 1969).

Responsibilities

The Library's mandate is to ensure that the written heritage of the Canadian people is preserved and made accessible. To this end the Library maintains an extensive collection of book and non-book materials, supplemented by online databases, which focus primarily on Canadian materials, much of which are received on legal deposit, and secondarily on foreign materials in the social sciences and humanities. The Library gives Canadian libraries access to Canadian publications by listing them in the national bibliography, Canadiana, and to foreign publications through a program of exchange of machine-readable bibliographic databases with other national libraries. The Library lends materials from its collections on interlibrary loan and provides information as to where items are located in other Canadian libraries. It offers reference, information and referral services, with emphasis on Canadian studies, to support Canadian libraries and researchers whose needs cannot be filled at the local level. It makes its resources and those of other Canadian libraries known through publications in various formats and fosters national and international co-operation and resource sharing among libraries, using new information and telecommunications technologies and standards for the interconnection of independent, asynchronous systems.

Legislation

- Legal Deposit Regulations (1969)
- National Library Act (1969)

Organizational Units and their Role

The National Library has the rank of a department and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. The National Librarian has the status of a deputy head and is advised by the National Library Advisory Board and other specialized committees.

Administration Branch

The Federal Libraries Liaison Office serves as the main communication link between the National Library and other federal libraries. It gives the many federal department, branch and agency libraries across Canada a continuing contact with the National Library on administrative, operational and planning matters, and promotes joint projects among libraries of the federal government. It also serves as the permanent secretariat of the Council of Federal Libraries, which advises the National Librarian on library services in the federal government.

The Public Relations Office assists the National Library's staff by advising on communications plans and policies and publicizing the Library's services and activities through a publications program; mounting information displays; advising on media relations; co-ordinating an advertising program; and performing other public relations and information duties.

The Cultural Events Office co-ordinates and implements a program of cultural events to reinforce the public image of the National Library and promote a better understanding of Canada's cultural heritage. It administers cultural exhibitions in Canada and abroad to make known the National Library collections to the public; conducts visits to the various branches of the National Library; and organizes concerts, lectures, authors' readings and film screenings that are in keeping with the objectives of the National Library. It co-ordinates welcoming activities and special events related to its participation in international conferences.

The Planning Office is responsible for departmental planning, preparation of central agencies planning documents and policy development for the Library.

Acquisitions and Bibliographic Services Branch

Under the Book Deposit Regulations of the National Library Act, the Branch receives and registers publications issued in Canada. The Branch also acquires books about Canada or by Canadians published abroad. In addition, it is involved in procuring non-Canadian library materials in the social sciences and humanities for the National Library by purchase and exchange. Surplus library materials from Canadian libraries are collected and exchanged through the Canadian Book Exchange Centre in Ottawa. At the request of any Canadian university, the Canadian Theses Service publishes (on microfiche) any or all postgraduate theses accepted by that university and sells copies in microform.

The Branch compiles and publishes the current and retrospective versions of the national bibliography, Canadiana, as well as a bilingual list of headings for corporate and personal authors' names used in the bibliography. It publishes a list of Canadian subject headings in English and co-publishes a list of subject headings in French; co-ordinates the Canadian Cataloguing-in-Publication program; compiles and publishes a bibliography of Canadian theses; distributes machine-readable cataloguing records for Canadian and foreign publications; and assigns International Standard Serial Numbers (ISSN) and International Standard Book Numbers (ISBN) to Canadian publications. It contributes to the development of national and international cataloguing standards; contributes cataloguing records for Canadian serials to CONSER, a machine-readable database of serial records; publishes CONSER Microfiche, a bibliography of serials; and catalogues material for the National Library's collection.

Public Services Branch

The Branch is responsible for providing a location and interlibrary loan service and a reference and information service, both automated and manual, to libraries, researchers and the general public. Special advisory services are offered in children's literature, music, library and information science, and library services for handicapped persons. The Branch maintains the Canadian Union Catalogue of Books, the Canadian Union Catalogue of Serials and the Canadian Union Catalogue of Library Material for the Handicapped, where information on the location of individual items in Canadian libraries is kept. It also provides service from the National Library's collections, including official publications, serials, references, music, rare books and literary manuscripts, Canadian newspapers and the Canadian Indian Rights Collection. Through the Multilingual Biblioservice, library materials in the non-official languages in Canada are acquired and disseminated through Canadian public libraries. The Branch maintains the secretariat for the Committee on Bibliography and Information Services and the Social Sciences and Humanities (a committee of the National Library Advisory Board).

Information Technology Services Branch

The Branch consists of the following units: Policy and Planning Co-ordination, User Support, Systems Maintenance and Operations, Information Analysis and Standards, Systems Development, Systems and Telecommunications Support and Information Technology Assessment.

The Branch plans, develops, and operates information systems to support the program requirements of the National Library. It administers corporate policies for information resource management, provides systems and technology support to external clients, and provides leadership and co-ordination in the development of nationwide library and information networking through research, standards development and promotion. The Branch operates and enhances DOBIS (Dortmunder Bibliothekssystem), an on-line library-shared database management system and the Machine Readable Cataloguing (MARC) and Records Distribution Service (MRDS) system. It also provides leadership in the development of automated systems that can be used widely by Canadian libraries and provides advisory services to Canadian libraries that are developing automated systems.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Museums of Canada (NMC), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1968 by the National Museums Act.

Responsibilities

The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to demonstrate the products of nature and the works of human being, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, so as to promote interest therein throughout Canada and to disseminate knowledge thereof.

Legislation

- The National Museums Act, 1967-1968, chapter 21, section 1

Organizational Units and their Role

Corporate Management

The National Museums Act requires a fourteen member Board of Trustees, which reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. The Act and By-law 1 establish the position of Secretary-General who, on behalf of the Board of Trustees, directs and manages the business of the Corporation in all matters that are not, by the Act or by-laws, specifically reserved to the Board, a committee of the Board or a Director of a museum.

Corporate Management consists of the Board of Trustees (and support), the Secretary-General (and support), and the Internal Audit and Program Evaluation Directorate.

Corporate Services Branch

The Corporate Services Branch of the National Museums of Canada provides managerial, professional, technical and administrative services, systems, controls and advice to all managers of the Corporation. The eight Corporate Services Directorates are: Planning and Management Services, Information Services, Financial Services, Administrative Services, Personnel Services, Architectural Services, Library Services, and Protection Services.

National Programmes

The National Programmes Branch of the National Museums of Canada encompasses five programmes created in support of the 1972 National Museum Policy. The Branch is headed by an Assistant Secretary-General who is supported by the five programme directors and the services of a central finance and administration unit called the Programme Co-ordination Division.

The National Programmes are responsible for encouraging and supporting the preservation of the national heritage and increasing public access to that heritage.

The International Programme facilitates exchanges of exhibitions to and from Canada.

The Museum Assistance Programmes (MAP) provide financial and technical assistance to qualifying museums, art galleries, exhibition centres and other non-profit institutions and organizations.

The Canadian Heritage Information Network (CHIN) provides a wide range of services to assist museums to document and manage information about their collections and to exchange museological information. CHIN operates a comprehensive system called PARIS (Pictorial and Artifact Retrieval and Information System) which can accommodate documentation for a diversity of disciplines.

The Canadian Conservation Institute (CCI) is engaged in the conservation of cultural artifacts, technical consultation on the preservation of collections, conservation research and advanced training of conservation personnel from museums and galleries.

The Mobile Exhibits Programme (MEP) operates three museumobiles which provide a museum experience to Canadians who live in parts of the country which lack major museum facilities. As well, an outreach programme consisting of slides, lectures and artifacts is presented to senior citizens, the handicapped, hospital patients and school children who are unable to visit the museumobiles.

National Gallery of Canada

The National Gallery of Canada collects, records, preserves, and seeks to understand and communicate collections of objects and related knowledge in the fields of the fine and decorative arts. It includes the Canadian Museum of Contemporary Photography.

The Director's Office and the Administration and Operations Branch provide overall guidance, direction and common services to the programmes and operations of the National Gallery. Included in these common support services are both administrative (financial, personnel, records, etc.) and technical (design, photography, framing, matting and crating) services.

The Collections and Research Branch is responsible for the following operational areas: curatorial, registration, restoration and conservation, and a research library, known as the Canadian Visual Arts Research and Study Centre. The Branch develops a record of visual art, historic, modern and contemporary, situates that record within an international cultural context, and maintains documentary records on the condition and cultural and historical origins of the objects collected. Through the Canadian Visual Arts Research and Study Centre, the Branch provides a major study and teaching resource for Canadian and international artists, scholars and students, and interested members of the public.

The Curatorial and Archives Division is responsible for holdings of correspondence and archives for research documentation.

The Photographs Division is responsible for the collections of photographs as works of art and the records pertaining to this collection.

The Prints, Drawings and Inuit Art Division is responsible for the collections of Canadian, American and European prints and drawings, as well as Inuit prints, drawings and sculpture, and the records for these collections.

The Restoration and Conservation Laboratory provides specialized conservation treatment for works of art. It examines, inspects, restores and analyzes the status of the present collection; prepares works of art for loan, exhibition, and display in other museums, exhibition centres, government offices and official residences; and prepares examination reports on new acquisitions.

The Public Programmes Branch of the National Gallery makes the collections of more than 39 000 works of art and related knowledge accessible to national and international audiences through its displays of the permanent collections and special exhibitions, education services, publications, sales and media relations.

The Canadian Museum of Contemporary Photography undertakes a broad range of activities involving contemporary Canadian photographs and photographers. Its activities include acquisition and ordering of photographs, public programmes, travelling exhibitions, loans, publications, educational programmes, special exhibitions and national service.

National Museum of Natural Sciences

The Museum records, preserves, seeks to understand and communicates objects and related knowledge in the natural and physical sciences including: botany, zoology, paleontology, earth sciences and astronomy.

The Museum is comprised of three branches. The Collections and Research Branch consists of four divisions (botany, mineral sciences, zoology, paleontology). The collections are acquired to serve as a comprehensive reference representing the flora, fauna and geological material that are studied by scientists and the public. The Public Programmes Branch consists of three divisions (exhibitions, publications, design and technical operations). This branch prepares exhibitions, publications and related programming which explains the scientific principles represented in the collections to specialized and general publics in the National Capital Region, nationally and internationally. The Marketing Branch and the Administrative Branch (consisting of two divisions: administration and computer services), and the Directorate promote the activities of the museum, seek resources and are responsible for overall operation and direction respectively.

The Canadian Museum of Civilization

The Museum's affairs can be categorized under three functions: to collect, record, preserve and understand the Museum's collection of artifacts, specimens and other historical objects; to communicate information about this collection; and to manage the human and financial resources necessary to develop and make the collections accessible.

The Director's Office is responsible for the administration and operation of all divisions within the Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC) as well as the management of the Museum's role in public programming. Attached to the Office are three senior scientist positions in the fields of archaeology, folk culture and ethnology.

The Archaeological Survey of Canada (ASC) is primarily concerned with the recovery, study, preservation and presentation of information and artifacts on the prehistory of Canada. It is also concerned with the excavation of archaeologically important sites threatened with destruction by large construction projects such as roads, dams, airports or harbours. The survey maintains a collection of scientific records, including reports, field records and photographs produced by both staff scientists and contract researchers, which is available to qualified researchers. Artifacts and other archaeological remains are catalogued and conserved on behalf of the people of Canada. The results of the research and collection programmes are disseminated through publications such as the Mercury series, Canadian Studies reports and the popular Canadian Prehistory series, co-published with commercial publishers. In addition, these research programmes provide the basis for exhibitions, fact sheets, films, museum kits and videotapes.

The Canadian Centre for Folk Culture Studies (CCFCS) was established to record and study various aspects of folk culture among all ethnocultural groups in Canada, with the exception of native peoples. The Centre conducts a variety of research and collection programmes, both in-house and on contract, which range from the collection and analysis of oral lore to the acquisition and conservation of all aspects of Canadian folk life. It disseminates information through the Mercury series, Canadian Studies reports and Oracle series. The research work of the CCFCS also reaches the public through exhibitions, museum kits, film, videotapes and Canada's Visual History series. In addition, the CCFCS provides professional advice and information to the scientific community and to the public at large on all matters related to Canadian folklore and folk life.

The Canadian War Museum is responsible for recording, collecting and preserving material on the military history of Canada, and of the nations that have been her friends and foes. In addition, the Museum undertakes research projects and maintains archival material for further study. The results of its research and collection programmes reach the public via the Mercury series, Canadian Studies reports and a popular series of books published on a variety of military history topics.

The History Division is concerned with researching, preserving and presenting to Canadians the social, economic and cultural history of non-aboriginal man since the beginning of European settlement in Canada. The Division has as its goal the collection and conservation of representative artifacts highlighting Canadian material of national interest, representing every region in Canada and all socio-economic groups and time periods in the nation's past. The Division also conducts historical research on material culture in society as a basis for reconstructing portions of Canada's past through exhibition and other media. Publications produced by the Division include occasional monographs in the Mercury series, the periodical called the Material History Bulletin, and various books for the general reader which are often published in co-operation with commercial houses.

The Canadian Ethnology Service (CANES) studies the traditional culture of Canadian Indians, Inuit and Métis. Research programmes concerned with general ethnology, linguistics, material culture and ethnohistory are undertaken by both CANES and contract researchers. There is also a research collection of nearly 60 000 artifacts acquired over the last century, which are catalogued and conserved, and can be loaned to approved institutions for exhibition purposes or studied by qualified scholars and students. The scientific results of CANES programmes reach the public through the Mercury series, Canadian Studies reports, fact sheets, films, videotapes, exhibitions, museum kits and Canada's Visual History series.

The Education and Cultural Affairs Division co-ordinates the CMC's nation-wide extension programme of travelling exhibitions while maintaining the permanent display galleries within the Museum and developing temporary exhibitions for the public in the national capital region. A media relations section promotes museum activities. The Division maintains a national loans collection of artifacts which can be lent to exhibition centres that cannot meet the environmental requirements for borrowing material from the main museum collections. The activities of this Division emphasize communication. The products of the research and collection activities are interpreted to the general public across Canada through extension and information programmes. A range of material such as the Oracle series, the Activity series, Canada's Visual History series, gallery guides and other items for the public is co-ordinated or produced by this division. The regional programmes section of this division arranges school visits to the museum's displays and provides public programmes which include films, demonstrations, lectures, theatre performances and an enquiry service.

National Museum of Science and Technology

The National Museum of Science and Technology (NMST) collects, records, preserves, seeks to understand and communicates information on collections of objects and related knowledge in the fields of communications and space, transportation, energy and renewable resources, industrial technology, universe and pure sciences and technology and society. It consists of two interpretive centres: the National Aviation Museum and the Agriculture Museum.

The NMST is responsible for the design, fabrication and maintenance of permanent, special and travelling exhibitions, and public and educational programming including publications and the co-ordination of volunteers.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Parole Board, part of the Criminal Justice system, was created by the Parole Act in 1959.

Responsibilities

The Board has exclusive jurisdiction to grant or refuse parole or a temporary absence without escort and to revoke or terminate parole or release on mandatory supervision. The Board also has the authority to order the detention of inmates past their presumptive release date, in certain circumstances. In provinces without a Provincial Parole Board, the Board exercises jurisdiction in respect of inmates under a sentence of imprisonment imposed pursuant to an Act of Parliament but detained in provincial institutions. The Board conducts enquiries and makes recommendations in respect of applications for pardon under the Criminal Records Act, and makes any investigation or inquiry desired by the Solicitor General in respect of requests made for the exercise of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy.

Legislation

- Criminal Code
- Criminal Records Act
- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Prison and Reformatories Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Chairman

The Chairman is the Chief Executive Officer, responsible for all National Parole Board matters. Reporting directly to the Chairman are the Vice-Chairman; the Senior Board Members in the Board's regional offices in Moncton, Montreal, Kingston, Saskatoon, and Burnaby; and the Executive Director. The Chairman's secretariat includes the Legal Services Unit, Public Information Programs and Media Relations, the Access to Information and Privacy Unit and the Special Case Inquiry and Appeals Section.

Executive Director

The Executive Director is the Chief Operating Officer of the Board, responsible for the orderly management of Board activities and resources in direct support of the decision-making operations of the Board. Reporting directly to the Executive Director are the Regional Directors of the Board's regional offices, who are responsible for the administration of decision support activities of the Regional Office. The Corporate Management Systems and Services Branch is responsible for Finance, Personnel, Policy Development and EDP, and the Clemency and Pardons section which processes applications under the Criminal Records Act and the Royal Prerogative of Mercy.

Corporate Management Systems and Services

This group includes Human Resources Services, Administrative and Financial Services, Development Corporate Systems and Services, and Information Systems and Services. The focus of this Branch is the co-ordination of on-going development, maintenance and evaluation of management systems and services to the Board internally, and to the external requirements of the Board within the government as a whole.

Manuals

- Administrative Agreement between the National Parole Board and the Correctional Service of Canada
- Criminal Records Procedures Manual

Classes of Records

The following classes of records are common to each division of the National Parole Board.

NPB/NPB-005
Operations — General
Description: Information on the general operations of criminal justice correctional matters. Topics: Criminal records; incarcerations; offences; inmate management; rehabilitation; research and statistics.

NPB/NPB-010
Clemency — General
Description: General information related to clemency. Topics: Legal matters; statistics.

NPB/NPB-015
Clemency — Criminal Records Act
Description: Information on enquiries and investigations in response to requests for pardon under the Criminal Records Act. Topics: Eligibility; hearings and submissions; enquiries; investigations; notifications.

NPB/NPB-020
Clemency — Royal Prerogative of Mercy
Description: Information on enquiries and investigations in connection with any request made for the exercise of the Royal Prerogative of Mercy. Topics: Enquiries; investigations; amnesty; submissions.

NPB/NPB-025
Parole — General
Description: Information on the release of offenders on parole, mandatory supervision and temporary absences. Topics: Agreements and exchanges; delegation of authority; enquiries; legal matters; parole boards and systems; quality control; statistics; research and evaluation.

NPB/NPB-030
Parole — Eligibility
Description: Information on the eligibility of inmates to be released on day parole, full parole or temporary absence. Topics: Parole eligibility; after forfeiture, revocation and termination; day parole; temporary absences.

NPB/NPB-035
Parole — Release and Release Programs
Description: Information on aspects of the release of offenders on parole, day parole, temporary absences, terms and conditions of parole. Topics: Day parole; deportation; programs and projects — general; special; release; temporary absences; terms and conditions.

NPB/NPB-040
Parole — Reviews
Description: Information on the parole decision-making stage. It includes panel hearings or parole reviews to decide whether or not to grant parole or day parole and if either is granted, the date from which it is to be effective. Topics: Board reasons — federal and provincial cases; parole by exception; case preparation; hearings; internal reviews; voting; evaluation.

NPB/NPB-045
Parole Supervision — Violations
Description: Information on the supervision and violation aspects of parole, mandatory supervision, apprehension of the released inmate and recommittal. Topics: Apprehension and recommittal; forfeiture; mandatory supervision; revocation; supervision; supervision by aftercare agencies; Community Residential Centres (CRCs) and Community Correctional Centres (CCCs); suspension; termination.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The National Research Council of Canada (NRC) is a departmental Crown corporation created by the National Research Council Act, 1966-67.

Responsibilities

The Council is responsible for creating and acquiring scientific, engineering and technical knowledge and information, and for promoting and providing for their use in meeting Canadian needs for economic, regional and social development. It combines extensive laboratory work with innovative programs to support industry, to transfer technology, and to spread technical information.

Legislation

- National Research Council Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Executive Offices

The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the National Research Council and has supervision over and direction of the work of the Council. The President is assisted by the Executive Vice-President and the vice-presidents responsible for the science and engineering laboratories and institutes, technology transfer, external relations, and personnel and administrative services.

Included in the Executive Offices are the Council Secretariat, Comptroller, Management Services, Financial Services, Technology Co-ordination Office and the Technology Assessment Office. Responsibility rests with these areas to provide administrative services to the governing council and committees of Council, as well as for parliamentary and ministerial services, corporate planning, policy formulation, financial management, program evaluation, legal services, internal and external audit, Official Languages, Access to Information and Privacy legislation, Canadian Human Rights legislation, and archives.

Science and Engineering Laboratories and Institutes

The Atlantic Research Laboratory performs research and development mainly in the marine sciences and in industrial materials and processes relevant to the economy of the Atlantic provinces. The marine-related research includes studies of the biology and biochemistry of organisms, particularly marine plants, and the development of marine analytical chemistry methodologies and standards. Research and development on materials and processes focus primarily on the development and use of specialized ceramics in industry.

Based on its research, the Division of Biological Sciences works with many firms to further technology development and transfer to industry. The Carbohydrate Laboratory deals with carbohydrate antigens, vaccines and diagnostics for human and veterinary pathogens, and with microbiological and enzymatic conversions of, or to, useful products related to carbohydrates. The Medical Biosciences Laboratory studies socially and commercially significant problems of abnormal physiology at the whole-animal, cellular, and molecular levels. The Protein Laboratory is involved in studies of the properties, design, and modification of proteins to obtain proteins with novel, industrially important functions.

The purpose of the Biotechnology Research Institute, a public organization for industrial research, is to ensure, in co-operation with Canadian industry, that biotechnological processes are developed and applied. The Institute conducts basic and applied research oriented toward industrial development in order to create employment, increase productivity and improve Canadian industry's competitive position in the world.

The Division of Chemistry undertakes research on materials, processes, methods, devices and techniques which relate to the present and projected scientific and technological needs of the country. By developing and maintaining expertise, equipment and facilities in the more important areas of the chemical sciences, the Chemistry Division is able to assist industry in finding solutions to some of its current problems. The Division is presently organized into three laboratories: the Laboratory for Advanced Material Science, the Laboratory for Chemical and Process Technologies and the Laboratory for Molecular Science.

The Division of Electrical Engineering undertakes a broad spectrum of work ranging from basic research and the acquisition of engineering knowledge to applied research and development. The term "electrical engineering" is used in its broadest sense and includes the frequency spectrum from DC to optical wavelengths. Current research activities include computer technology, 3D vision systems, robotics, artificial intelligence, information technology, precision electrical measurements, electrical insulation, electromagnetic interference and biomedical engineering. A diverse range of applications includes industrial technology, energy, metrology, health (both instrumentation and aids to the handicapped) and national and international standards. The Division serves a broad clientele of manufacturers, health care institutions, electrical utilities and other government agencies by providing information, technology transfer, calibrations and testing relevant to the expertise and facilities available.

The current objectives of the Herzberg Institute of Astrophysics emphasize leadership and the operation of national scientific facilities in the research fields related to these facilities. The disciplines supported in this way include astrophysics, solar system physics, molecular spectroscopy and high-energy physics. The facilities are open on a competitive basis to all Canadian researchers and to foreign scientists as well.

The Industrial Materials Research Institute is responsible for major research and development projects in the industrial and manufacturing sectors in Canada. Research activities focus primarily on: plastic materials and their polymeric composites, with respect to their properties, forming and performance; metallic materials, with respect to their forming, behavior within fatigue, wear and corrosion, as well as assembly; coatings; state of the art ceramics; metallic powders; plasma projection and process control systems; non-destructive evaluation of materials; as well as CAD/CAM for materials forming. A major part of these projects is done in collaboration with industry, universities and other research institutes.

The Institute for Marine Dynamics in St. John's, Newfoundland conducts research into the requirements and opportunities for development of powered and unpowered vessels and structures in ice, waves, wind and current conditions, at rest and in motion, on and under the surface, in ice-affected and open waters, and at model and full scale. The Institute's facilities include the world's largest "ice tank" or arctic vessel research lab and computer facilities for analysis of test results. It also has research staff with specialized training and experience in a variety of disciplines relevant to the Institute's research programs.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

The Division of Mechanical Engineering provides a unique resource in mechanical science and technology. The program responds to problems in industrial development, design and construction of vehicles and propulsion systems, energy flexibility, and maintenance of standards. Research projects are usually carried out in close co-operation with industry, universities, other government agencies, and other NRC Divisions. Research areas are: computer technology, manufacturing technology, machinery and vehicle dynamics, propulsion technology, industrial thermodynamics, and coastal and offshore engineering. The Division's target objectives include computer modelling of engineering systems; artificial intelligence methodology in support of industrial technology and transportation; provision of design and manufacturing services to NRC; improvements to machines and vehicles by dynamic and tribological investigations; improvements to propulsion systems by combustion studies; development and maintenance of standards and specifications for testing and handling of petroleum products; heat and mass transfer and fluid flow in industrial machinery and processes; production and use of heat cycle equipment and thermal systems; investigation of climatic effects on industrial equipment; development of shoreline protection; and advancement of the understanding of hydrodynamic processes. The program also includes maintenance and operation of diverse national facilities, identification and exploitation of commercial opportunities of research results, and interdivisional co-operation to support emerging technologies.

The National Aeronautical Establishment (NAE) pursues research and development objectives in support of the Canadian aerospace community. Its five laboratories are Low Speed, High Speed, Unsteady Aerodynamics, Aerospace Structures and Materials, and Flight Research. It also has expertise in industrial aerodynamics and wind energy conversion. NAE maintains a number of national facilities including various sizes of wind tunnels, specially-equipped research aircraft, and structural test equipment which may be used on a commercial-fee-for-service basis as well as for research and development projects.

The Division of Physics focuses on the field of metrology, the application of high technology to industry, and basic physics research. It acts as the National Standards Laboratory for Canada, disseminating, maintaining, and improving the basic standards of measurement. It also maintains a number of derived standards, including those for ionizing radiation, acoustics, colour, and pressure. These primary measurement standards are multiply connected to Canada's industrial and scientific primary standards.

The Plant Biotechnology Institute carries out research to find new exploitable methods for genetic alteration of plants and for biochemical control of plant development in agriculture, forest tree production, medicinal products, and industrial processes. The cell and molecular biology of higher plants are the basis for genetic engineering projects. Collaboration with other research organizations is actively promoted and sought by the Institute.

The Space Division consolidates all space-related activites carried out by the NRC, including the Space Science, Canadian Astronaut and Space Station Programs. The Division participates in national and international space programs through the provision of major facilities and space instruments, and through the design, development, construction, testing, operation and utilization of the Mobile Servicing System.

Technology Transfer

The Vice-President (Technology Transfer) has responsibility for the Institute for Research in Construction (IRC), known previously as the Divison of Building Research (DBR), the Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI), the research journals, and the NRC's Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP) of which the previous Program for Industry/Laboratory Projects (PILP) is now a part and which includes projects in other government laboratories. Other principal functions in this area involve the NRC's relations with industry in Canada and an office for industry policy analysis.

The Institute For Research in Construction provides a research and information service to the construction industry with the goal of assisting that industry to operate efficiently and successfully in an era of rapidly changing technology and social demands. Its research activities focus on issues related to the design, construction, and performance of buildings and structures in Canada's climate and geography. This includes research on the properties and durability of building materials, the design and performance of the building envelope, climate loads, geotechnical considerations, sound insulation and acoustics, building systems and services, and matters related to fire safety. Research projects are undertaken in response to industry's identified needs and may be funded in whole or in part by industry.

The Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI) is Canada's focal point for the storage and retrieval of scientific and technical knowledge. It is designed to provide information services to the scientific, engineering and medical communities in industry, business and government. The data is derived from millions of reference items contained in an out-standing library, a computer that holds data from Canada, the United States and other world locations, and highly qualified staff within both CISTI and the laboratories of the Council. Its many specialized services include a personalized current awareness service; an on-line enquiry service, which gives instant access to the various scientific and engineering databases; a health sciences resource centre, which provides nationwide access to Medlars — the U.S. National Library of Medicine databases in medicine and toxicology; the interlibrary loan and photocopying service; and a general reference service.

The Industry Development Office (IDO) provides formal programs and channels for interaction between government and university laboratories, specialized technology centres and industrial firms. Its major element is the industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP), which aims to increase economic growth in Canada by encouraging research and development and by increasing the use of appropriate technology. Various federal government departments, provincial research organizations, universities, colleges and consulting organizations collaborate with the IRAP office to complement and enhance federal/provincial resources and to enable IRAP services to be effectively delivered across Canada.

The Research Journals Service publishes primary journals of research in various disciplines as a service to the scientific and engineering communities in Canada. The journals contain original reports of research written by scientists in Canada and abroad.

External Relations

External Relations consists of International Relations, and Public Relations and Information Services. It is responsible for international affairs, relations on provincial matters and economic and regional development agreements. It responds to a wide range of enquiries on the NRC's role, objectives, programs and achievements, and advises on the implementation of communication activities in specific areas. It is also in charge of relations with the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council and negotiations involving external facilities.

Personnel and Administrative Services

Personnel and Administrative Services consists of the Personnel Branch, Administrative Services and Publications Branch, the Division of Informatics and the Plant Engineering Services Branch. It is responsible for security, safety and health, the complete personnel function, central administrative and computerized services, and the provision of facilities maintenance and general services.

Reading Room

The Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI) and its branches have been designated under section 71 of the Access to Information Act as locations where the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs or activities that affect the public. The addresses of these reading rooms may be obtained by contacting the Institute at: Building M-55, Montreal Road, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0S2.

Classes of Records

NRC/EXE-005
President's Office
Description: Information on visits, lectures, gifts, interviews; correspondence with the Minister; outside enquiries on selection of staff; correspondence and minutes on board memberships. Topics: General administration; committee memberships.

NRC/EXE-010
Council Secretariat
Description: Documents on council membership, meetings and agenda; review and advisory committees of council; divisional advisory boards; follow-up of council decisions; and correspondence with the Minister's Office, the Privy Council Office, Members of Parliament and the Senate Committee on Science Policy. Information on legal advice, associate committees and archival material. Topics: General administration; National Research Council committees; history and archives; legal services; associate committees; Official Languages, Access to Information and Privacy; Canadian Human Rights Legislation; and affirmative action.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/EXE-015
Executive Vice-President
Description: Working papers, memoranda and correspondence with federal and provincial government departments, universities and industry on research policy and planning as it concerns the mandate of the National Research Council. Information on financial administration, management services, patents, audits, and technology co-ordination and assessments. Topics: Research policy and planning; Tactical Studies Group; memoranda to Cabinet and decisions; audits.

NRC/EXR-020 Formerly Identified as: NRC/EXE-020
Public Relations and Information Services
Description: Information on general public information programs at the NRC. Topics: General administration; responses to enquiries from the media and general public; tours and visits, conferences and seminars; NRC publications, displays and exhibits; films and audio-visual material; graphics; photography; NRC open house.

NRC/EXR-025 Formerly Identified as: NRC/EXE-025
International Affairs
Description: Information on visits to and from outside organizations, both within Canada and abroad; passport procurements for NRC staff; responses to requests for financial assistance; correspondence regarding international scientific exchanges and technical assistance to developing countries. Topics: Administration; finance; committees; international scientific exchanges; countries.

NRC/ARL-030
Director's Office
Description: Director's working files include material on the activities of projects, such as research and development and project planning; travel and conference files; NRC committees (e.g, Committee of Directors). Topics: General correspondence and files on research and development as it pertains to research projects; files by subject interest, e.g., ceramics, aquaculture; general correspondence from various divisions within the NRC, by division; working files on Five-Year Plan; and forward planning.

NRC/ARL-035
Administration
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, requests, minutes, and technical reports. Topics: Plant engineering; requests (analyses, chemicals and cultures, scientific information); cultural organizations (conferences and symposia meetings); scientific societies and institutes; committees (health and safety, scientific committees); Seaweed Culture Station files (basically engineering and maintenance); unpublished manuscripts; financial services; and personnel files.

NRC/ARL-040
Analytical Chemistry
Description: Information on scientific investigations and analyses and the management of the Marine Analytical Chemistry Standards Program and other analytical methods and services, including distribution of reference materials and reports. Topics: Research and development contracts; publications; mass spectral data; infra-red spectral data.

NRC/ARL-045
Marine Biosciences
Description: Research files of published and unpublished data, reprints and information relating to research on structure, taxonomy, genetics, biosynthesis, membrane components and marine natural products. Topics: General correspondence; seminars; chemicals and equipment; algal metabolites; hydrocarbons; fatty acids; sterols; carotenoids; isoprenoids; aromatics; toxins; drugs; cyclic peptides; tetrapyrroles; biosynthesis; 13C nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR) spectroscopy; mass spectrometry; chromatography; synthetic techniques; chemotaxis; electron microscopy; molecular genetics.

NRC/ARL-050
Biological Chemistry
Description: Correspondence, research files, reprints and information relating to research on (a) biological role and chemistry of silicon and (b) development and application of nuclear magnetic resonance techniques to solution of biological and chemical problems. Topics: Biomineralization role of silicon in living organisms; biogenic silica; culture of diatoms; chemical studies of natural products; nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR); biological and chemical applications; biosynthetic studies.

NRC/ARL-055
Industrial Materials and Processes
Description: Working files in areas of metallurgical chemistry, coal and ceramics. Topics: Correspondence; minutes and proceedings of meetings; research agreements or contracts; technical reports; and bibliographic material on metallurgical chemistry, coal and ceramics.

NRC/ARL-060
Microbiology
Description: Correspondence and working papers on microbiology; working files on isolation, identification and ecology of fungi. Topics: taxonomy and ecology of soil fungi; production and isolation of fungal toxins; structure determinations; toxicity of fungal metabolites.

NRC/BSC-065
Administration
Description: Documents on the operation of the individual laboratory sections such as project planning and reports, program forecasts, studies in industrial microbiology, travel and seminar information. Topics: General correspondence, policy, visits, technical enquiries, administration and operation, technical support — e.g., supplies and equipment, and safety committee.

NRC/BSC-070
Cell Physiology
Description: Information on cell physiology, cell proliferation and biochemistry.

NRC/BSC-075
Animal Care and Research
Description: Information on the basic care and health of research animals and on immunological research in relation to animals. Topics: General correspondence and policy on animal care and research.

NRC/BSC-080
Microbiology
Description: Information on microbiology, research related to the production of fuels and feed stock from biomass (especially cellulose) and the storage of fruit and vegetables. Topics: General correspondence; fermentation processes and products; microbial physiology and metabolism; enzymology; transport phenomena; cell division; continuous culture; araerobis; immobilized cells and enzymes; culture collection; cellulosics; bioreactors; energy; methane; alcohol; liquid fuels; fruit and vegetable storage.

NRC/BSC-085
Biomathematics
Description: Correspondence and laboratory notebooks containing information on statistical analysis and mathematical modelling. Topics: Biomathematics; statistics; computer modelling; deconvolution.

NRC/BSC-090
Cell Biophysics
Description: Information on research activities in cellulose biosynthesis, methanogenic bacteria, macromolecules and biophysics generally. Topics: Biophysics; macromolecules; methanogenic bacteria; microfibrils; cellulose biosynthesis; electron microscopy.

NRC/BSC-095
Ecotoxicology
Description: Information on the mechanisms of action of toxic organometals at the tissue, cellular and subcellular levels and the movement of toxic chemicals through environmental pathways. Topics: Toxicity of organometals; environmental contaminants.

NRC/BSC-100
Animal Physiology
Description: Information on the neural and hormonal control of energy balance in mammals. Topics: Energy balance in mammals; obesity; brown adipose tissue.

NRC/BSC-110
Immunochemistry
Description: Information on immunology and immunochemistry. Topics: Antigens; antibody; pathogenic bacteria; hybridomas; diagnostics; vaccines.

NRC/BSC-115
Molecular Biochemistry
Description: Information on studies on the structure, interaction and dynamics of biologically active proteins. Topics: Enzymes; enzyme-substrate interaction; proteins; enzyme catalysis; Raman spectroscopy; fluorescence spectroscopy; circular dichroic spectroscopy.

NRC/BSC-120
Molecular Biophysics
Description: Information on research involving the use of NMR resonance and ESR techniques. Topics: Structure — function relations; cell membranes; metabolism; NMR spectroscopy.

NRC/BSC-125
Molecular Genetics
Description: Correspondence and memoranda relating to recombinant DNA, yeast genetics and protein sequencing. Topics: Genetic engineering; recombinant DNA; gene expression; protein secretion; enzyme production.

NRC/BSC-130
X-Ray Crystallography
Description: Information on crystal structures, X-ray analyses and protein work. Topics: X-ray crystallography; crystallographic computing. Storage Media: Computer printouts and X-ray films.

NRC/BRI-135
Administration
Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the Institute, such as project planning and reports, space, policy planning, program forecasts, travel, seminars, finance. Topics: General correspondence, policies, visits, seminars, staffing, training programs, administration, research and development studies, supplies, equipment, building.

NRC/BRI-136
Operations (New)
Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of individual laboratories. Topics: General correspondence; agreements; tests; projects and sub-projects; contributions; Research and Development contracts; programs.

NRC/DSP-140
Administration
Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, international co-operation and the overall operation of the Space Division. Topics: Policy, general correspondence, enquiries, administration and operation of the Division, visits, lectures, papers and talks, publicity, divisional project management system, finance and personnel policy, agreements and memoranda of understanding, co-operation and liaison with associations, international organizations and countries, public relations, licenses and permits, security, seminars, committees.

NRC/DSP-144
Space Research Operations Office (New)
Description: Information on the management of the Space Science, User Development and Canadian Astronaut Programs — international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the programs. Topics: Policy and agreements, finance, shuttle operational flights, astronaut program general correspondence, speaking engagements, equipment, training, technical definitions, engineering studies, satellite projects, space science evaluation and planning group, CANOPUS, Data Analysis Network, Energetic Ion Mass Spectrometer, Viking UV Imager, Waves in Space Plasma/High Frequency; Wide Angle Michelson Doppler Imaging Interferometer.

NRC/DSP-154
Space Station Projects Office (New)
Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the Space Station Program; the provision of the Mobile Servicing System, including international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the Space Station Program. Topics: Configuration management, equipment — Space Station Studies, Space Construction and Servicing Systems, simulation, simulation facility tests and integration, remote sensor development, solar arrays — technology, NASA working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional development and technology exploration.

NRC/DCH-165
Administration
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, and reports relating to the operation of the laboratory sections, and the provision of scientific assistance to business, the general public and other agencies. Topics: General files — correspondence, technical enquiries, visits, lectures, seminars, publications, inventions; tests for outsiders; research.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/DCH-170
Analytical Chemistry
Description: General correspondence; organic and inorganic analysis; trace analysis; marine analytical chemistry; marine certified reference materials; emission spectroscopy, X-ray fluorescence and diffraction; atomic absorption spectroscopy; organic and inorganic mass spectroscopy; inductively coupled plasma emission and mass spectroscopy; analysis of high purity metals and semiconductor materials. Topics: General correspondence; trace analysis — X-ray; atomic absorption; organic and mass spectrometry; inductively coupled plasma analysis.

NRC/DCH-175
Chemical Engineering
Description: Reports, correspondence and memoranda on membrane separation processes, agglomeration of fine particles, particle size enlargement, beneficiation of coal, the upgrading of ores, and the application of the relevant technologies to industrial problems. Topics: General correspondence; reverse osmosis; ultrafiltration; polymer development; recovery of coal fines; fluid-particle technology; emulsions; combustion of coal-water mixtures; combustion of coal agglomerates.

NRC/DCH-185
Colloid and Clathrate Chemistry
Description: Memoranda, reports, general enquiries; requests from industry on separation problems; colloids; particles. Topics: General correspondence; spherical agglomeration; oil sands bitumen separation; dielectric properties; NMR; clathrate hydrates.

NRC/DCH-190
High Polymer Chemistry — Plastics
Description: General enquiries, reports and correspondence on polymer science, stereoregular polymers, plastics and rubbers. Topics: General correspondence; ionic polymerization mechanisms; block polymers; star polymers; characterization of stereoregular polymers; NMR; catalytic complexes.

NRC/DCH-195
Free Radical Chemistry
Description: General correspondence, memoranda and reports on the autoxidation of liquid hydrocarbons and the efficacy of anti-oxidants. Topics: Hydrocarbon research; free radicals; chain reactions in the liquid phase; reaction-rate constants; ESR spectroscopy; the chemistry of free radicals in solution; Vitamin E.

NRC/DCH-200
Kinetics, Catalysis, ESR Spectroscopy
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on chemisorption, catalysis, ESR spectroscopy and air pollution problems. Topics: General correspondence; hydrocarbon research; free radicals; ozone layer; photochemical smog; electron paramagnetic resonance; heterogeneous catalysis; fluorine-containing radicals; carbonyl compounds; metal vapor chemistry; cryochemistry; laser ablation.

NRC/DCH-205
Laser Chemistry
Description: General correspondence, memoranda, reports relating to laser applications and isotope separation. A significant portion of this information is contained in laboratory notebooks. Topics: General correspondence; industrial contracts; laser isotope separation; uses of lasers industry; metal atom reactions; quantum optics and intense laser-atom interactions.

NRC/DCH-210
Metallic Corrosion and Oxidation
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on metallic corrosion and oxidation, and replies to general and specific requests for assistance from industry and government on these subjects. Topics: General correspondence; corrosion of metals; formation of oxides on metals; electrochemistry; electron microscopy; surface film characterization.

NRC/DCH-215
Molecular Spectroscopy
Description: Correspondence and memoranda relating to research and requests for information on vibrational spectroscopy, techniques and computer programs. Topics: General correspondence; infrared spectroscopy; Raman spectroscopy; Fourier transform infrared spectroscopy; membranes.

NRC/DCH-220
Organic Chemistry
Description: Correspondence concerning the general administration of research activities, chemical synthesis, scientific collaboration and the publication of scientific reports. Topics: Carbene chemistry, free radical chemistry, organometallic chemistry, thermochemistry, kinetics, synthesis, deuterium labelling, steroids and alkaloids.

NRC/DCH-225
Photochemistry and Kinetics
Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports on gas-phase kinetics; reactions of atoms, radicals and other transient species. Topics: General correspondence; research on mass spectroscopy; photochemistry; photophysics; infrared chemiluminescience; laser isotope separation.

NRC/DCH-230
Reaction Intermediates
Description: Correspondence, reports and memoranda relating to transient species, laser techniques and luminescent materials. A substantial amount of this information is contained in laboratory notebooks and journal publications. Topics: General correspondence; properties of reaction intermediates; laser techniques; fluorescence and phosphorescence; structure-function relationships; radiationless transitions; vibronic coupling; molecular physics.

NRC/DCH-235
Solid State Chemistry — Metals and Semiconductors
Description: Correspondence and memoranda on metals, alloys, etc., their properties and characterization techniques. Topics: General correspondence; magnetism; metals and alloys; electrons in metals; amorphous metals; hydrides; thermodynamics.

NRC/DCH-240
Textile Chemistry — Fiber Science
Description: Reports, correspondence and memoranda relating to research in textile chemistry, including general enquiries, requests for information and assistance from industry and other government departments. Topics: General (enquiries, visits, lectures, papers, publications, seminars); research in textile chemistry; textile research for companies, industry and government; polymer photochemistry;

UV stabilization; morphology; X-ray diffraction; flammability; flame retardants.

NRC/DCH-245

Computational Chemistry

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and reports relating to the above research activities. Topics: General correspondence; dynamics of liquids and solids; biomathematics; molecular physics; condensation phenomena; resonance Raman scattering.

NRC/DEE-265

Research Result (New)

Description: This is the output of the Division and occurs in the form of Divisional reports, external publications, correspondence, designs and patents. Topics: Robotics, Computer Graphics, Image Processing, Multiprocessor System Architectures, Sensor-based Robotic Control, Artificial Intelligence, Electromagnetic Radiation, Antenna Theory, Microwave Energy for Industrial Heating and Drying Applications, Polarization Effects of Precipitation on Communication and Radar Systems, Design and Evaluation of Antenna and Radiating Systems, Analysis of Electromagnetic Interference, Mathematical Techniques for the Solution of Fundamental Problems in Electromagnetic and Mathematical Theory, Intelligent Robotic Subsystems, Sensor Development, Signal Processing, Digital Instrumentation, Integrated Optic Sensors, 3D Vision Systems, Database Systems, Computer-based Training, Knowledge-based Systems, Intelligent Advisor, Expert Systems, Specialized Instruments and Techniques required in the Medical Field, Technical Aids for the Handicapped, Measurement and Study of the Effects of Ultrasound and Electric Current Flow on Body Tissues, Biological Information Enhancement, Orthopaedic Engineering, Instrumentation and Standards Associated with the Canadian Electrical Power Industry, HV Impulse Measurements, Partial Discharge Measurements, Aging of Solid Dielectrics, Testing and Simulation Relating to the Effects of a Nuclear Electromagnetic Pulse, Testing and Evaluation of Commercial Rehabilitation Devices.

NRC/HIA-335

Administration

Description: Correspondence, memoranda pertaining to policies, contracts, contributions, special projects, program forecasts and other administrative matters as they apply to the operation of each laboratory section. Topics: Administration (general correspondence, enquiries, visits, lectures, talks and papers, review of manuscripts, theses for outsiders, seminars and colloquia, unsolicited suggestions and ideas submitted to HIA, exhibits and displays; research — general; miscellaneous work done for outsiders.

NRC/HIA-340

Radio Astronomy

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and working papers connected to the topics listed below. Topics: Policy, correspondence; 46-meter telescope; interstellar molecules; long baseline interferometry; solar radio noise; joint solar observing programs; solar maximum year; visits to ARO; long-range planning; meals and board; instrumentation; application for observing time; data processing; Ottawa River Solar Observatory.

NRC/HIA-345

Distinguished Research Scientist

Description: Information in these files pertains to the Distinguished Research Scientist Section; they also contain general correspondence on molecular spectroscopy.

NRC/HIA-350

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory

Description: Data and general correspondence on astronomy related to observations and research on various stars and galaxies, design, testing and construction of various instruments, optics and sites. Storage Media: Photographic plates, computer printouts, magnetic tapes and disks, publications and reprints.

NRC/HIA-355

Planetary Sciences

Description: Correspondence, memoranda related to the topics listed below. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; auroral research; meteor research; rocket research; non-meteoritic sightings; auroral radar; upper atmosphere research data; astronomy and aeronomy; infrared airglow research; thermal plasmas in the ionosphere; plasma studies in the magnetosphere; eclipse effects in the ionosphere; theoretical modelling of geomagnetic pulsations; experiment for shuttle spacelab.

NRC/HIA-360

Radio Astronomy (Algonquin Radio Observatory, Lake Traverse, Ontario)

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and radio maps. Topics: General correspondence; operation and administration; fires and fire protection.

NRC/HIA-365

Solar-Terrestrial Physics

Description: Information on basic research in solar-terrestrial physics. Topics: General correspondence; auroral processes; Birkeland currents; cosmic rays; ionosphere; magnetosphere; space plasmas; McKay Street Cosmic Ray Laboratory.

NRC/HIA-370

Spectroscopy

Description: General correspondence and information related to spectroscopic research. Topics: Policy; infrared spectra of polyatomic molecules; electronic spectra; vibrations in polyatomic molecules; spectra of molecular ions; laser-Stark and laser-Zeeman methods scanning infrared lasers; use of double resonance and two-photon spectroscopy.

NRC/IMR-380

Administration

Description: Documents on the operation of the individual laboratory sections such as project planning and reports, program forecasts, research and development on industrial materials, travel and seminar information, replies to technical enquiries, and records on technical support — i.e., supplies and equipment, safety committee. Topics: Administration; liaison (with associations, industries, foreign countries, universities, federal departments, and provinces); Government Industrial Assistance Programs; finance; budget; operations-general; projects and project evaluations; tests; and technology.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/IMD-385
Marine Transportation Technology
Description: Administration and operational files, general technical correspondence, working and correspondence files containing technical and administrative detail of research programs and participation in societies, associations, conferences and interdepartmental government committees and working groups. Topics: Administration — policy, general correspondence, visits, lectures, exhibits; conferences and seminars; co-operation and liaison (with other government departments, universities, associations, clubs and societies, and foreign countries); buildings and properties; equipment and supplies; finance and personnel, Operational — policy, general correspondence; research and development (general, for industry and for government).

NRC/DME-390
Administration, Research, Testing
Description: Information and correspondence on the operation of the individual sections and their interactions with each other, private sector clients and other government departments; the planning, controlling and reporting of projects and programs; and the forecasting and use of financial, physical and human resources. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; administration and operations of DME laboratories; visits, lectures, papers and talks; review of manuscripts and theses of staff; articles for publication; seminars; laboratory orders; firms offering testing, shop work, manufacturing assistance and facilities; exhibits and displays; inventions submitted; newsletters; photographs and publicity; pollution — general correspondence; museums; monuments; divisional project management system; finance policy; general finance correspondence; equipment and supplies by sections; research by subject; research collaboration with industry; tests.

NRC/DME-395
Systems Laboratory
Description: Information on the technology of computer modelling and simulation: facility development, hardware, software, methods and applications. Correspondence, memoranda and reports on the industrial and medical applications of automatic control and human factor studies information on computer modelling and simulation, distributed control and data highway development, communication characteristics of the human operator and collaborative studies with universities and government departments. Topics: General correspondence; technical enquiries; laboratory operation; digital and hybrid computing; trip reports by staff; research projects. Policy; technical enquiries; orthopedic and prosthetic appliances; heat exchange for brain cooling; specific control problems on copper refining; applications of fluid amplifiers; pattern recognition; effect of microwave radiation on birds; controlled wound healing; freeze-drying units; spinal cord cooling and monitoring; Transport Canada plate load test equipment; consultation with ND Directorate on support vehicles; Queen's University — interdisciplinary collaboration.

NRC/DME-400
Engine Laboratory
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, reports, related to research on air cushion technology; energy conserving automotive power plants and fuels; aerodynamics and heat transfer in cooling of internal combustion engines; bearing design and operation, vibration prediction measurement techniques; gas turbine engines; aerodynamic theory and performance of turbo and reciprocating machinery, and on acoustics of machinery. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; administration and operations; reports and publications; compressor design and performance of centrifugal compressor; engines — internal combustion; Vertical Take-Off and Landing (VTOL) fan-in-wing; VTOL propulsion tunnel; ceramic foam material; hybrid power plant system for automotive vehicles; air cushion hoverbed geriatric bed; icing research; fan testing rig investigations; rotor dynamics; hydrostatic bearings aeroacoustics; tests for outsiders.

NRC/DME-405
Fuels, Lubricants and Associated Products
Description: Information on the section's administration, research and development work, committee correspondence, miscellaneous enquiries and test work. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; operations and administration; pollution — air, water; unconventional automotive fuel; publications; static charging of distillate fuels; work done for other divisions; diesel hydraulic propulsion unit; combustion and propulsion; bearing life of rotating electrical components; detection of explosives; tribology research; storage test of petroleum products; fuels and lubricants; re-refined oil; tests for outsiders; research and development — air, land and sea; Quality Engineering Test Establishment.

NRC/DME-410
Engineering Gas Dynamics and Plasma Dynamics
Description: Correspondence and reports related to the laboratory's internal research and co-operative programs with industry in the project areas of combustion, turbines, fans and compressors, internal aerodynamics, high pressure water jet technology, heat transfer, test facilities, experimental and theoretical plasma dynamics, numerical methods in plasma dynamics, and the application of fluid and plasma dynamics to industrial processes. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; general enquiries; administration; radio isotopes; liaison with universities; reports and publications; high temperature by means of shock waves; flow losses in ducts and bends; air bearing applications; two-phase heat transfer; Gas Turbine Locomotive Project; fuels and oil-quality reports; high pressure ratio turbine stages; water jet cutting; VTOL propulsion tunnel — Vertical Take-off and Landing (VTOL) research; combustion research; flaw detection in hot steel billets; thermo spraying; pump test facilities; tests for outsiders; industrial research and development; loan and disposal of equipment to outsiders.

NRC/DME-415
Hydraulics
Description: Correspondence, memoranda on research studies pertaining to coastal and offshore engineering problems, including ocean energy. Raw data are kept in notebooks or on graphs and magnetic tapes (e.g., model tests); analyzed data are recorded in laboratory reports or files. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; administration; computer-related correspondence; Computer Data Acquisition System (GEDAP); development of porous breakwater; pollution study — Ottawa River Hydraulic Laboratory; St. Lawrence Waterway Project — heat and ice studies; Sept-Îles Numerical Model Study; studies of Rideau River at Mooney's Bay; wave climate studies; wave forces; ice; motion of floating structures; ocean energy; Technical Advisory Committee — Beaufort Sea Artificial Island; tests for outsiders; research and development.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/DME-420

Low Temperature Laboratory

Description: Information on research related to engineering problems resulting from low temperature, snow and ice, primarily in the transportation field; also on test projects carried out for, or in collaboration with, industry, other government departments, and foreign government agencies. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; operation and organization; research on icing of fishing vessels; icing protection helicopters; general aircraft icing problems; icing protection of instruments and controls; investigation of absorption refrigeration systems; research on cold starting of engines, icing detectors, railway and track switch protection, cold weather problems, snow removal methods and problems, thermal refrigeration cycles, adhesion and removal of ice substrates, heat pumps, and sea ice dynamics; tests for outsiders — in cold chamber, in high-speed icing wind tunnel, in low-speed icing wind tunnel, in helicopter spray rig; research and development.

NRC/DME-425

Designing and Manufacturing Technology

Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda relating to information on the design of scientific and laboratory equipment, manufacturing methods and statistical information on machinery capabilities. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; organization and administration; electrochemical machining; work orders; railway investigation — warning lights, roller test rig; machine work for outsiders; other design engineering; reinforced plastics technology; electron beam welding; laser beam welding; numerically controlled machine tools; electro-chemical machining; electrical discharge machining; steel heat treatment; precision gear design and manufacture; research and development — general correspondence.

NRC/DME-426

Vehicle Dynamics Laboratory

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, reports, test work statements on the main areas of responsibility of the laboratory. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; organization and administration; Committee on Train Dynamics and Lading Damage; development of tools to facilitate vascular orthopedic and plastic surgery; orthotic and prosthetic devices; development of aids to handicapped; gravity wave instrumentation; environment recording systems; pressure gauge calibrations; altimeters and airspeed; track simulator drive; rail car studies; railway computer modelling; VIA RDC Modernization Program; centre sill cracking in rotary dump iron ore cars; testing of subway cars; highway vehicle studies.

NRC/DME-430

Tribology, Computerized Design and Manufacturing, and Mechanical Technologies

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, reports relating to research and development on the wear of materials (mainly in machinery), rails, wheels and bearings; computerized manufacturing; and small-scale agricultural and logging equipment. Topics: General administration — policy; correspondence; enquiries; administration and operations; visits; lectures; papers and talks; manuscript review by staff; articles for publication; seminars; workshops; inventions; photographs and publicity; research files — tribology; materials; instrumentation; numerically controlled machines; manufacturing processes; mechanics and machine design; appropriate technology; research and development for outsiders.

NRC/DPH-440 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-440

Condensed Matter Theory

Topics: Quantum Hall effect; superconductivity; organic superconductors; density-functional theory of plasmas, metals and liquid metals; amorphous silicon; point-contact spectroscopy of metals; pair potentials in transition metals; dielectric function of the electron gas; ice.

NRC/DPH-445 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-445

Quantum Microphysics

Topics: Transient electron and lattice dynamics in semiconductors; optical non-linear interactions at solids and surfaces; laser damage; quantized Hall effect and magneto-transport; magnons and phonons in mixed crystals; light scattering from surfaces; Raman spectroscopy of surfaces; ion and electron interactions with surfaces; solar thermal absorption.

NRC/DPH-450 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-450

Electronic Structure and Calorimetry

Topics: Calorimetry, electronic structure of pure metals; electronic structure of dilute alloys; electronic structure of intermetallic compounds and ordered alloys; effects of hydrostatic pressure on electronic structure of metals.

NRC/DPH-455 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-455

Molecular Beam Epitaxy

Topics: Molecular Beam Epitaxy equipment for the growth of III-V compounds and Group IV/Metals; superlattices, quantum wells; optical devices; X-ray mirrors; abrupt junctions; photoluminescence, Hall effect and other characterization techniques.

NRC/DPH-460 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-460

Microscopy and Microfabrication

Description: Records contain information on research programs related to surface science and ultrahigh vacuum, in particular, physical properties of surfaces, lanthanum hexaboride (as an electron emitter), microfabrication of electronic thin film devices. Some of this information is contained in laboratory notebooks. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; major projects on surface science; surface physics; and ultra high vacuum.

NRC/DPH-461 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DMS-461

Quantum Electronics

Description: Records contain information on research projects related to quantum electronics and laser technology as related to line width, optical memories and optical spectroscopy, and liquid helium production. Topics: Helium liquifier device; quantum electronics.

NRC/NAE-465

Management

Description: The files contain material related to the orderly management of all programs and projects in the Establishment, contracts and agreements relating to external commitments, correspondence with national and international clients, and material pertaining to NAE involvement in organizations devoted to the aeronautical sciences. Topics: Administration (general correspondence, personnel, procurement, national and international agreements and contracts, publications, technical enquiries, programs and projects, planning, conferences, laboratory operations, policy, aircraft accidents, publicity and inventions, security, AGARD, CAARC); research; tests and work done for outsiders.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/NAE-470

Flight Research

Description: Design, operations and maintenance material on the aircraft in use; project files containing transactions on the individual research projects; material on international co-operative research arrangements; and records of projects involving other government departments and industry. Topics: (Active): Aircraft (by type); policy; general correspondence; magnetic airborne detection (MAD); VLF navigation; magnetometer/gradiometer development; aeromagnetics (Geophysical Survey); computing facilities; utilization of aircraft in agriculture and forestry; flying flagman; carbon dioxide measurement program — Agriculture Canada (FIFE); development of aerial spray systems and techniques; nozzle development and spot analysis; aerial spraying trials; playback facilities and analysis — CASB, MOT, DND; multi-mode matrix (MMM) display technology; Convair 580 project; multimode radar study; ocean surface roughness measurement project; Convair 580 — gravity; AES/NAE studies of cloud and precipitation scavenging (acid rain); advanced control system studies — Bell 205; speech recognition and synthesis technology; TTCP Subgroup H Technical Panel 6; cloud physics and air quality (Atlantic Storms); advanced navigation; VLF/OMEGA systems; GPS (Global Positioning Systems); vertical separation above flight level 290 — FAA/TC; cloud physics and air quality (Arctic Haze). (Inactive): SQUID magnetometer development; development of airborne supply dropping; aircraft crash position indicator; CPI/FDR system for helicopters; aerial reforestation and planting; aircraft in forest fire control; Canadian CL 215 project review group for Department of Industry; research on air cushion vehicles; investigation of atmospheric turbulence; co-operation with UK and US on turbulence measurements using RB-57F aircraft; research re GARP and IFYGL; jet transport aircraft operating problems; accident data recorders; co-operative research on airborne infrared techniques for resource survey; investigation of hail suppression techniques; airport fog dispersal; co-operative field experiments on drift; automobile crash detector; collaboration with Canadair and DND on CL-84; CL/CX 84 Harrier Inst. UK/CAN Collaboration; vertical take-off and landing (VTOL) and STOL projects; augmentor wing project; investigations of helicopter IFR requirements; buoyant devices for forestry and other applications — LTA; summer cumulus project; air cushion landing systems; airborne gravimetric measurements; rotary-wing aircraft; stationary high altitude radio platform (SHARP) systems.

NRC/NAE-475

High Speed Aerodynamics

Description: Files on internal research projects and incoming contracts that contain documentary material, both technical and contractual, that govern the work done under them. Topics: (Active): Policy, general correspondence; travel; conferences; equipment; Canadian sounding rockets; flow field survey about cones at supersonic speeds; five-foot wind tunnel; two-dimensional augmentor wing study in a five-foot wind tunnel; flutter analysis and stores clearance; wings and bodies in transonic flow; computational fluid dynamics; three-dimensional interaction; wind tunnel testing techniques; advanced airfoil development; mechanical high lift systems; viscous flow drag reduction. (Inactive): Separation of the three-dimensional laminar boundary layer on a flat plate.

NRC/NAE-480

Low Speed Aerodynamics

Description: Information on contracts and agreements with external agencies, military and civil; individual projects; management matters, meetings and conferences. Topics: (Active): General correspondence; internal research projects; non-aeronautical aerodynamics; fluidic devices; wind power generator; energy research and development; vehicle aerodynamics; aircraft aerodynamics.

NRC/NAE-490

Structures and Materials

Description: Information on internal research, external commitments, agreements with other agencies in government and industry, management matters, meetings and conferences. Topics: (Active): Policy; general correspondence; flight loads, fatigue, durability and damage tolerance, acoustic excitation of structures, metallic materials, composite materials, polymers and ceramics, structural analysis, structural dynamics, vibration, real-time photogrammetry, impact strength of structures, crack propagation and theory of structures. (Inactive): Road accidents study group, orthopedic implants, biomedical materials, Ottawa-Carleton computer traffic control system.

NRC/NAE-500

Unsteady Aerodynamics

Description: Information on research conducted by the laboratory; includes documentary material on contract and co-operative research with other departments and agencies. Topics: (Active): Dynamic wind tunnel tests; techniques for dynamic testing; oscillatory characteristics of wings and bodies; measurement and modelling of drift in aerial spray operations; trace vapour detection of explosives, narcotics, urethane foam off-gases. (Inactive): Helium hypersonic wind tunnel; passive dosimeter for UFFI homes.

NRC/DPH-505

Administration

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, reports, statistics on the administration and operation of the division. Topics: Enquiries; visits to the division; visits and invitations to outside organizations; lectures, talks and papers presented by staff; review of manuscripts and theses; seminars and colloquia; stores committee; lab orders; Newton apple tree; inventions submitted to the division; history project; patent and licensing activities; finance; equipment and supplies; work done for outsiders.

NRC/DPH-510

Acoustics and Mechanical Standards

Description: Information related to research on sound propagation and environmental studies; sound and vibration in relation to health; acoustical technology, devices, measurements and standards; information on mass standards and calibration. Topics: Correspondence; couch noise; design and testing of ear defenders; design and calibration of circumaural earphones; noise survey in industrial plants; community noise (industrial, construction, transportation, domestic, outdoor sound propagation, noise legislation, committees on noise); exposure of man to noise; exposure of man to vibration, e.g., hand-arm vibration; microphone and sound level meter; sound reproduction; committee on hearing bioacoustics and biomechanics; seminar on noise and the community; technical planning and legislative control; advisory group on communicative disorders — U.S. National Institute of Health; specific projects — external and middle ear acoustics, earphone measurement techniques and hearing studies, hearing conservation techniques, effect of noise on sleeping persons, acoustical data processing, reduction of noise from small engines, and sound level measurement techniques; measurement seminars; hardness measurement.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/DPH-515
Time and Length Standards
Description: The international basis of time, primary frequency and time standards; time dissemination; information on length standards and calibration; laser frequency standards. Topics: Talking clocks; portable or flying clocks; commercial atomic clocks; daylight saving time, history of timekeeping, standard time zones; provincial legislation time zones; time signal requests; Bureau international de l'Heure; transmitter; antenna; licences; digital time and telephone dissemination; USA standard time and Daylight Saving Time (DST); satellite time dissemination, interference on infringement reports; Daylight Saving Time Act and Regulations.

NRC/DPH-520
Thermometry and Electrical Standards
Description: Information on thermometry and temperature standards, oceanographic measurements and instrumentation; research on physical standards of measurement (direct current, low-frequency alternating current, high frequency alternating current); development of instruments and techniques of measurement. Topics: Correspondence; oceanography; photometry; heat and solid state thermometry; resistance thermometry; thermocouple thermometry; optical thermometry; thermometric fixed points; properties of thermometric materials; temperature scales; CODATA task group on fundamental constants; International Committee on Thermometry.

NRC/HIA-525 Formerly Identified as: NRC/DPH-525
High Energy Physics
Description: Information on interaction of heavy nuclei in emulsions; meson and baryon spectroscopy; rare decays of muons and pions; and instrumentation for particle physics.

NRC/DPH-530
Laser and Plasma Physics
Description: Information on high-power pulsed CO_2 laser-plasma interaction studies; radiative interaction experiments; high-power laser development; and laser photochemistry.

NRC/DPH-535
Thin Films
Description: Information on thin film coatings and optical thin films. Topics: Policy; correspondence; thin film coatings and optical thin films.

NRC/DPH-540
Photometry and Radiometry
Description: Information on light and colour, optical instruments, and solar energy. Topics: Correspondence; colorimetry; photometry; calibration of aerial survey cameras; survey of tests on camera mounts; working group on optical properties of paper; National Bureau of Standards collaborative reference programs; seminar on colorimetry and photometry; Journal of Colour Research and Applications; Reflectance Spectroscopy Committee.

NRC/DPH-545
Photogrammetric Research
Description: Information on photogrammetric methods and techniques, aerial and space photogrammetry; engineering and medical photogrammetry; automation in photogrammetry and development of instruments. Topics: Correspondence; orthophoto system, photogrammetry, analytical methods in photogrammetry, ultrasonic techniques for medicine; development of an analytical stereo-plotter (The Stereorestitutor); close-range applications of photogrammetry; symposium on modern technology for Cadastre.

NRC/DPH-550
Materials Physics
Description: Research on crystal defects. Topics: Correspondence; structure and properties of crystal defects; plastic deformation of metals and alloys; cyclic deformation; solution hardening; microstructure in deformation and fatigue; surface effects in crystal plasticity; thermodynamics of deformation; dislocation cores.

NRC/DPH-555
Ionizing Radiation Standards
Description: Information on radiation dosimetry; radioactivity; electron linear accelerator; Topics: Correspondence, linear accelerator group; radiation chemistry; pulse radiolysis; neutron measurements; radionuclide calibrations; radioisotopes licences; research hazards and protective measures in transportation of radioactive materials; dosimetry group.

NRC/PBI-560
Support Services
Description: Information on on-going services to research inside and outside PBI. Records of the Administrative Office, the Research Illustration Group, the chemical analysis groups, Plant Engineering Services and Purchasing are included. Topics: Correspondence; personnel and budget documents; progress reports and records of research; published research papers; records of operation of magnetic resonance and mass spectroscopy; records of building facilities and equipment; purchasing orders.

NRC/PBI-565
Plant Cell Metabolism
Description: Information related to research on fermentation processes for plant cells. Topics: Correspondence; fermentation; alkaloids; bioreactors.

NRC/PBI-570
Plant Productivity Genes
Description: Information on the conversion of carbon and atmospheric nitrogen to nutrient by plant-bacterial systems. Topics: Correspondence; contract documents; nitrogen fixation; photosynthesis.

NRC/PBI-575
Bio-organic Chemistry
Description: Information on the chemistry of naturally occurring substances, mostly of plant origin; the synthesis and analysis of fatty acid relatives and of proteins and amino acids; the development of sex attractants for insect pests. Topics: Correspondence; analytical charts and documents; synthetic methods; analytical methods; labelled molecules; insect sex pheromones; chromatographic methods; spectroscopy.

NRC/PBI-580
Crop Biotechnology
Description: Information on cell processes in crop plants. Topics: Correspondence; production and manipulation of cell cultures; regeneration of whole plants; fusion of cells; germplasm storage; hybridization; genetic transformation of cell cultures; and others.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/PBI-585

Plant Molecular Genetics

Description: Information on genetic-encoding molecules, on genomes, genes and gene traits; alteration and synthesis of gene fragments; vectors; genetic transformation of higher plants. Topics: Correspondence, charts and documents, methods, laboratory documents; contract documents.

NRC/PBI-586

Conifer Biotechnology (New)

Description: Information on cell and molecular biology of conifer trees; micropropagation; cell cultures; genetic transformation. Topics: Correspondence, charts and documents, methods; laboratory documents, contract documents.

NRC/TTR-590

Director's Office

Description: Documents on the operation of the individual sections, advisory bodies, research and development studies and seminar or workshop information. Topics: The American Society for Testing and Materials; International Standards Organizations; CIB; Construction Industry Development Council; minutes of the Board of Directors; NRC five-year plan; sectional program and budget submissions; divisional annual reports; proceedings of council; research and development for engineering in cold regions; divisional planning committee notes; and Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation — Institute for Research in Construction reports.

NRC/TTR-595

Administration

Description: Personnel data on all members of staff, financial reports, purchasing documents, travel authorizations and correspondence and documents on the shops and building up-keep.

NRC/TTR-600

Building Materials

Description: Information on the characterization and evaluation of the performance of materials such as concrete, sealants, paints, plastics, roofing materials and clay brick through the use of chemical, physical and mineralogical techniques. Topics: The performance of clear and pigmented coatings; basic engineering properties of concrete; durability to frost-action in concrete and other porous materials; properties and performance of joint materials; characterization of building materials by their microstructure and composition; processes of degradation of organic building materials; performance of concretes as related to the chemical processes in cements; physical and mechanical properties of repair systems; performance of Canadian aggregate; performance of concrete in the presence of aggressive solutions; weathering factors and accelerated test methods for assessing durability of organic building materials; durability of cover and absorber materials for solar collectors; physics of coating formation and adhesion, and the durability of structural clay products.

NRC/TTR-610

Building Structures

Description: Information on the introduction of "limit states design" into Canadian structural codes and standards and the development of improved serviceability criteria based on risk considerations, including the investigation into the variability of masonry strength. Topics: Case histories of structural failures and problems due to differential movement in buildings; structural safety and serviceability; snow loads on roofs; wind effects on buildings and structures; failure of structures and progressive collapse; masonry research; wind tunnel studies of buildings; and others.

NRC/TTR-615

Codes and Standards

Description: Information on topics related to the operation of the Codes Technical Section, the Codes Secretarial Service and the Editorial, Translation, Distribution and Records Units. Topics: Technical information and advice to code committees; code requirements for committee consideration; replies to code enquiries and requests for interpretation; seminars and conferences on the NBC and NFC; the continuing review of the code documents in the light of developments in building design and technology to determine the areas that may require expanding or updating to keep them current; technical studies to provide information needed in preparing new or improved code requirements.

NRC/TTR-620

Building Services

Description: Information on the evaluation of the thermal characteristics and performance of materials, components and systems leading to standards, product development and proper design. Topics: Energy calculations; energy auditing; lighting practice; efficient lighting energy use; smoke control in tall buildings; test methods and standards for active solar heating; passive solar heating; ventilation and air movement in buildings; thermal and hygric properties of materials, hermetically sealed multiple glazing; thermal performance of walls and ceilings; thermal performance of windows; airtightness of walls; advance technology in the building industry.

NRC/TTR-625

Fire Research

Description: Correspondence and laboratory data on the development and revision of standard methods of fire tests and research activities, which include fire performance on structural components, flammability of materials, products of combustion, growth of fire, and the influence of fire risks on the overall design of buildings. Topics: Thermal decomposition of polymers; behaviour of building components in fire; evaluation of fire behaviour of plastic components; flammability studies; fire performance information; production and movement of smoke in fire; fire protection features of buildings; development of fire; combustion of organic materials; toxicity of combustion products; fire resistance safety factors; restraint and fire severity; and commercial test reports.

NRC/TTR-630

Geotechnical Section

Description: Information on mineral soils, rock, permafrost, snow and ice, manuals on engineering practice, codes and standards. Topics: Deformation and stresses in soils; soil strength and rapid failures; deep foundations and excavations; regional soil conditions; frost action in soils; permafrost distribution and environmental studies; structures in permafrost; deformation and failure of fresh water ice; ice engineering; avalanche engineering; deformation and strength of frozen and thawing soils; ground thermal regime; frost heavy studies in northern regions; tunnelling and underground construction; physico-mechanical processes in frozen soils; rheology and strength of saline ice; avalanche hazard evaluation; and ground heat storage.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL OF CANADA

NRC/TTR-635
Instrumentation
Description: Information on the division's calibration and standards facility, the instrument pool for loans, the maintenance and repair shop and the co-ordination and advisory services provided to the division.

NRC/TTR-640
Noise and Vibration
Description: Information on field measurements of the sound absorption and transmission properties of buildings and building elements and research in vibration related to experimental studies of the response of actual structures under dynamic excitations, such as those provided by wind and road traffic. Topics: Development of impact test for floors; acoustical test methods; development of noise criteria; insulation of buildings from external noise; determination of dynamic response characteristics of structures; measurement of sound power of noise sources; outdoor noise propagation; reverberation room acoustics; vibration problems in buildings; earthquake engineering; and commercial test reports.

NRC/TTR-645
Prairie Regional Station
Description: Correspondence and material on technical enquiries, lectures and seminars; information on the study of building materials and systems in real service or controlled laboratory environments at the Prairie Regional Station. Topics: Prairie Station, Saskatoon — behaviour of flat roofing systems and components; shallow foundations on active subsoils; concrete in soils of high sulphate content; compression characteristics of glacial deposits in Western Canada; condensation in buildings; heat and moisture balance in buildings.

NRC/TTR-650
Technical Information
Description: Information on the activities of the Divisional Library, the Publications Unit, the Graphics Unit and the Technical Information Unit. Topics: Reference service; loans; information retrieval; periodical subscriptions; acquisitions; translation requests; abstracts, digests; Research News; Housing Notes; Canadian Building Series; Manual on Metric Building Drawing Practice; requests for information; preparation of publications and reports.

NRC/TTR-655
UFFI Unit
Description: These records and laboratory notebooks contain information on the chemical analysis of the foam, products used in its manufacture and those that evolved during its decomposition; the development of technique for monitoring the movement of these products within the building envelope; and other aspects related to the product. Topics: UFFI field investigations, development of remedial measures for homeowners, institutions and commercial establishments, materials, properties and emissions, development of tests to screen sample quality, field measurements of UFFI gases and particles, techniques for measuring formaldehyde and other gases in air, techniques for measuring particulate materials in air, and retrieval and dissemination of technical information related to UFFI.

NRC/TTR-660
Administration
Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the Institute such as project planning and reports; program forecasts, agreements, finance. Topics: Administration (policy, general correspondence, enquiries, administration and operation, lectures and talks, seminars and colloquia, training program, interlibrary delivery systems); CISTI operations; translation services; equipment and supplies.

NRC/TTR-665
Acquisitions
Description: Records contain information related to acquiring publications for the CISTI library collection by purchase orders or exchange agreements. Topics: Correspondence, invoices, payment records.

NRC/TTR-670
Branch Libraries
Description: Information on the internal operations of the branch library service to the NRC and to services extended to external organizations. Topics: Libraries (by name) — Administration, Aeronautical and Mechanical Engineering, Chemistry, Physics, Electrical Engineering, Building Research, Sussex Drive, Industrial Materials Research Institute, Dominion Astrophysical, Victoria, B.C., Dominion Radio Astrophysical, Penticton, B.C., Energy and Uplands Branches, Ottawa, Ont, Atlantic Research Branch, Halifax, N.S., Marine Dynamics Branch, St. John's, Nfld., Plant Biotechnology Branch, Saskatoon, Sask., Biotechnology Branch, Montréal, Qué.

NRC/TTR-675
Cataloguing
Description: Information on library automation systems, library computer applications, cataloguing rules, procedures and standards. Topics: CISTI Operations — (policy; general; correspondence; Dortmunder Bibliotheksystem (DOBIS).

NRC/TTR-680
Loans, Photocopies and Translations
Description: Correspondence and documents on the provision of loan and photocopy services outside the NRC and information on the availability of translations from foreign languages. Topics: Information Services — policy, correspondence, loan of CISTI books to outsiders, photocopy service, microfiche copies of technical reports.

NRC/TTR-685
Health Sciences Resource Centre
Description: General correspondence on the centre's library services, resources and the publications it produces. Topics: Policy; Advisory Committee to the Health Sciences Resource Centre; Survey Directory of Health Science Libraries in Canada; Canadian locations of journals indexed for Medline; Health Sciences information in Canada: libraries.

NRC/TTR-690
Information Services
Description: Correspondence with tape and database suppliers, and with clients on details of services available, payment procedures, etc.; also information on the marketing of CISTI services in Canada, the CAN/OLE, the CAN/SDI, and the Information Exchange Centre. Topics: Chemical Abstracts Services; Institute of Scientific Information; publications; CAN/SDI tape services; Information Exchange Centre; Reference Department; Knowledge Source Index; bibliographic databases.

NRC/TTR-695

Publications

Description: Information on the preparation, production and ordering of CISTI publications.

NRC/TTR-700

Scientific Numeric Databases

Description: On-line retrieval service of scientific numeric data, tape lease for private use. Topics: Infrared spectral data; crystallographic data; thermochemical data; and others.

NRC/TTR-705

Industrial Development

Description: Information on program policy, cost-benefit reviews, industrial surveys, project proposals, program promotion, committee minutes, policy proposals and evaluations and program planning. Topics: Finance; projects; industry; provincial research councils; committees.

NRC/TTR-710

Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP)

Description: Minutes of meetings, agendas, membership of CIRA committee, terms of reference for committee, policy and practices of committee, research proposals, research projects, company annual reports, project manager visit reports, liaison officer reports, financial disbursements and general administrative documentation. Topics: Administration; finance; projects for IRAP grants; invoices for IRAP projects; professional and trade associations; committees; industrial research institutes; provincial research councils.

NRC/TTR-715

Industry Policy Analysis

Description: Information on the administration and operations of the office, visits to and from outside organizations, lectures and talks, seminars given by industry, enquiries, program analyses, policy papers, long-range plans and long-range plan themes, correspondence and working papers regarding new proposals and study projects. Topics: General information; industry policy analysis and evaluation; special projects.

NRC/TTR-720

IRAP Collaborative Projects

Description: Administrative, financial and technical information on all aspects of the Program for Industry/Laboratory Projects (PILP). Topics: Policy, general correspondence, administration and operation of program, enquiries, visits, lectures, licensing policy; finance; committees; company information; fields of technology; projects; Employment and Immigration Canada; co-operative projects with industry; unsolicited proposals.

NRC/TTR-725

Central Advisory Service

Description: Replies to enquiries from the manufacturing industry in the areas of chemistry, physics, engineering, electronics, metallurgy, elastomers (plastics and rubbers), the food sciences and environmental sciences; and on industrial engineering topics such as plant layout, productivity, materials handling, quality control, low-cost automation, production and inventory control and similar topics associated with manufacturing technology.

NRC/TTR-730

Field Advisory Service

Description: Information on the assistance and advice provided to industrial clients in the areas of chemistry, physics, biology, mechanical-chemical-electrical-electronic engineering, plastics, rubbers, environmental matters, metallurgy, food technology and various industrial engineering topics such as plant layout, product quality, production and cost-control, value analysis, and other matters associated with production operations.

NRC/TTR-735

Research Journals

Description: Information on the publication of Canadian research journals. Topics: Administration; space and accommodation; authority and policy on publications; general correspondence; advisory committees; typesetting, printing and distribution services; translation of abstracts; continuing agreements; abstracting of publications; Canadian journals of research committees; and manuscripts for publication in Canadian journals of research.

NRC/PAS-740 Formerly Identified as: NRC/FIN-740

Division of Informatics

Description: Information on the operation of the Division. Topics: Administration requirements, equipment and committees, correspondence; enquiries; services and service agreements; program forecasts; travel; lectures and technical presentations; seminars; National Library System planning; computing needs; computer maintenance; equipment; future planning.

NRC/PAS-745

Administration

Description: Correspondence, memoranda and contracts related to the general administration and operation of the National Research Council, including enquiries made or answered. Topics: Administration, contracts, finances, status reports on contracted research and development, committee minutes, technical information and evaluations.

NRC/GEN-750

General-Use Series

Description: Information on the organization of international conferences; memberships, fees, minutes, annual reports regarding associations and societies; co-operation and liaison activities with universities, institutes, provincial and federal departments and agencies; commercial agreements with provincial research councils and federal government departments; interdepartmental committee correspondence and minutes; research agreements; correspondence, policy and guidelines on the Canadian Human Rights Act, status of women, access to information and privacy, Affirmative Action. Topics: Associations, clubs, societies; universities; institutes of technology; international conferences; commercial agreements; provincial governments; federal government departments; interdepartmental committees; Canadian Standards Association; publications; Status of Women; Canadian Human Rights Act; Access to Information and Privacy acts, affirmative action; Advisory Board on Scientific and Technological Information; Scientific and Technological Information Services; research agreements.

NATURAL SCIENCES AND ENGINEERING RESEARCH COUNCIL

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada (NSERC) was established in 1978 in accordance with Part III of the Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976.

Responsibilities

The function of the Council is to promote and support research in the natural sciences and engineering, other than the health sciences, and to advise the Minister (currently the Minister of State for Science and Technology) on such research. The Council is responsible for the management and administration of the Program of Scholarships and Grants in Aid of Research.

Legislation

- Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act

Organizational Units and their Role

President's Office

The President's Office includes the office of the President, who is the chief executive officer of Council, and that of the Executive Director, who is also the Treasurer of the Council. As Council's most senior executives, they are responsible for the overall management and direction of the work of the staff of the Council in the development and delivery of programs.

Secretariat-General

The Secretariat-General, headed by the Secretary-General of Council, co-ordinates the administration of a complex network of committees which form the basis of NSERC's operations. The Secretariat-General also manages program planning, budgeting and evaluation activities and the Council's internal and external communications function, including publishing and public and media relations.

Research Grants Directorate

This directorate co-ordinates the activity associated with support of the research base (operating grants in support of a spectrum of research activities, collaborative research initiatives, grants for the purchase, operation and maintenance of research equipment, facilities and installations) as well as the prestigious E.W.R. Steacie Memorial Fellowships. This activity includes the provision of operational support to selection committees composed of external experts in a series of complex peer-adjudicated competition processes, in program planning and management and in day to day awards administration.

Scholarships and Fellowships Directorate

This directorate administers competitions, provides operations support to adjudication committees and manages the day to day activity associated with a wide range of awards to undergraduate and graduate students, postdoctoral fellows and scientists and engineers for advanced study and research training in Canadian universities, industry, government laboratories, and abroad.

Targeted Research Directorate

This directorate administers programs intended to promote research in selected fields of national importance and to forge closer links between the university research community and the private sector. These include strategic grants and university-industry programs.

Information Systems Directorate

This directorate is charged with the planning, implementation and evaluation of computerized information systems in support of Council's program delivery and administrative support functions.

Finance, Administration and Personnel Directorate

This directorate manages and co-ordinates the financial, administrative and human resources management programs and systems in support of program delivery activities.

Manuals

- Administrative Policy Manual (Treasury Board)
- Awards Guide
- Background Information and Guidelines for Selection Committees and Selection Panels
- Guide on Financial Administration for Departments and Agencies of the Government of Canada (Treasury Board)
- NRC Financial Management Manual
- NRC Personnel Administration Manual
- Personnel Management Manual (Treasury Board)
- Procedures for the Administration of Major Equipment, Major Installations and Infrastructure Type II Programs
- Scholarships and Fellowships Guide
- Procedures for the Administration of the Strategic Grants Program

Reading Room

NSERC has designated one of its meeting rooms, in accordance with section 71 of the Access to Information Act, as a reading room where the public may inspect manuals used by employees in administering or carrying out programs that affect the public. The address is: Room 406, Centennial Towers, 200 Kent Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Classes of Records

SER/OPS-005
Organization and Planning
Description: Information related to the Council, its organizational structure, policy development, corporate and long-range planning and program evaluation activities. Topics: Legislation, terms of reference, policies, agenda and minutes of Council meetings, appointments and membership, organizational development, five-year plans and program evaluation. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject.

SER/OPS-010
Committees
Description: Records related to the membership, administration and activities of permanent, advisory and special purpose committees of Council and to the various selection committees and panels through which NSERC operates its awards programs. Topics: Terms of reference, mandates, appointments and membership, agendas and proceedings, reports, recommendations and routine correspondence. Retrievability: Files arranged by subject or committee.

SER/GSA-015
Research Grants
Description: Information on case files — applications, evaluations by third parties, recommendations, decisions on proposals submitted, and routine forms and correspondence generated and received in administering the awards. Subject-filed records related to program planning and administration, regulations, procedures, eligibility criteria, correspondence with officials in universities, qualified research institutions and the other granting councils. Topics: Individual, team and project operating grants, New Research Idea Grants, Collaborative Special Project Grants, Strategic Grants and E.W.R. Steacie Memorial Fellowships. Retrievability: Applications arranged by applicant, program and year. Storage Medium: E.D.P. systems contain a partial duplication of information maintained on case files.

SER/GSA-020
Research Infrastructure
Description: Information on case files including applications, evaluations, recommendations, decisions, and forms and correspondence, statements and reports associated with administration of the awards. Subject-filed information on policies, procedures, regulations, eligibility criteria, priorities, liaison with universities. Topics: Equipment Grants, Major Equipment Grants, Major Installation Grants, and Infrastructure Grants. Retrievability: By applicant, program and year. Storage Medium: E.D.P. systems contain a partial duplication of information maintained on case files.

SER/GSA-025
Research Manpower
Description: Case files containing applications, evaluations, recommendations, decisions as well as forms and correspondence associated with the routine administration of the awards; subject-filed information related to program planning, regulations, policy, procedures, priorities, and eligibility criteria. Topics: University Undergraduate Summer Research Awards, Postgraduate Scholarships, Postgraduate Scholarships in Science Librarianship and Documentation, 1967 Science and Engineering Scholarship, Postdoctoral Fellowships, NATO Fellowships, University Research Fellowships, Visiting Fellowships in Canadian government laboratories, Postgraduate Fellowships in Meteorology and Atmospheric Sciences. Retrievability: By applicant, program and year. Storage Medium: E.D.P. systems contain a partial duplication on magnetic tape of the data on individual case files.

NORTHERN CANADA POWER COMMISSION

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Northern Canada Power Commission is a federal Crown corporation which operates under the authority of the Northern Canada Power Commission Act.

Responsibilities

The Northern Canada Power Commission is concerned with planning, constructing and managing public utilities, primarily electrical, on a commercial basis. For this purpose, it is empowered to survey utility requirements and construct utility plants in the Northwest Territories and, subject to the approval of the Governor in Council, elsewhere in Canada.

The Commission is the principal producer of electricity north of 60° and operates the main transmission networks in the Northwest Territories. Heat, water and sewage service utilities are operated at Inuvik, N.W.T. Wholesale heat supply is provided to the government of the Northwest Territories for distribution at Iqaluit. Residual heat recovery systems are operated at several locations.

It is a requirement of the Act that operations of the Commission shall be self-sustaining within each rate zone, as defined in the Act. Consequently, rates charged for utilities supplied must provide sufficient revenue to cover interest and principal payments on loans made to the Commission, operating, maintenance, administrative and all other expenses and contigency allowances. A 1975 amendment to the Act enables the Commission to charge rates for utilities on a zone basis to cover the costs outlined above.

Legislation

NORTHERN PIPELINE AGENCY

Historical Background

The Northern Pipeline Agency (NPA) was created with the proclamation of the Northern Pipeline Act in April 1978, to oversee planning and construction of the Canadian portion of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project by the Foothills Group of Companies. Pending resumption of planning and construction of the pipeline, the only office in the Agency that is staffed is the Office of the Commissioner, which maintains a small support staff.

Responsibilities

The Agency's mandate is twofold. It is required to regulate the project and to streamline and expedite the approvals process. It is also responsible for ensuring that the pipeline system yields for Canadians the maximum economic and industrial benefit with the least amount of social and environmental disruption, particularly to native communities.

The Agency was designed to act as a single window between federal authorities and the Foothills Group of Companies, and between provincial and territorial governments, and the Government of the United States. In keeping with the Act, many regulatory powers of other federal departments and agencies related to the pipeline project have been delegated to the Agency. This is not the case for those powers reserved exclusively to the National Energy Board or shared between the Board and the Agency.

Legislation

- Northern Pipeline Act, S.C. 1977-78, chapter 20

Organizational Units and their Role

Office of the Commissioner

As Agency headquarters, the Office provides support to both the Minister and the Commissioner. It is responsible for developing and consulting on major policy issues between the United States, the provinces, and federal departments and agencies, concerning the planning and construction of the Canadian portion of the Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project.

Office of the Administrator (not staffed)

This unit exercises such powers and performs such duties and functions as the Minister may specify. It oversees and develops the operational (as opposed to the strict policy) functions of the Agency. It is also responsible for all matters, external and internal, pertaining to the operational role of the Agency, including personnel, Alaska Highway Gas Pipeline Project public hearings, and public and media relations.

Office of the Designated Officer (not staffed)

This unit carries out all the responsibilities specifically required under the Northern Pipeline Act, such as the terms and conditions of the pipeline certificates (the issue of formal communications with the companies in the form of orders, directives and approvals) as well as those delegated under certain sections of the National Energy Board Act. This unit brings to the Agency all of the powers, duties and functions of the National Energy Board in matters of planning, design, construction and inspection of the pipeline. It also administers the Agency's field surveillance program and provides direction to surveillance teams to ensure compliance with social, economic and environmental terms and conditions as required under the Act.

Policy and Programs Unit (not staffed)

This unit is responsible for most aspects of the Agency's operational role not assigned by statute to the deputy adminstrator and designated officer, and for contributing to those orders, directions and approvals for the designated officer which require the Minister's concurrence. It is also responsible for socio-economic and environmental matters, industrial benefits, relationships with federal, provincial and territorial government departments, and manpower planning and logistical matters related to the project. It holds special policy responsibilities for the internal planning and administration of the Agency in matters of financial management and adminstration.

Socio-economic and Environment Unit (not staffed)

This unit acts as liaison with various public interest groups and territorial, provincial and federal bodies; advises on socio-economic and environmental policies and procedures; administers terms and conditions; carries out socio-economic and environmental surveillance and monitoring to minimize the negative effects and maximize the benefits of construction and operation of the pipeline. It advises the Agency, federal, provincial and territorial government departments, and community and native groups, and confers with the owners, contractors, and unions on matters related to the avoidance and resolution of labour disputes on the project.

Scheduling and Regulatory Unit (not staffed)

This unit oversees the project scheduling and cost control procedures involved in building the pipeline, including scheduling, critical path planning, and cost review and monitoring. It is also involved in the major areas of project progress information centre and surveillance proceedings, right-of-way responsibilities delegated by the National Energy Board, as well as the issue of permits and orders to ensure correct technical content.

Engineering Design Unit (not staffed)

This unit has the responsibility for design review and ensuring that appropriate methods are follwed by the pipeline engineering section with each company of the Foothills Group. It is responsible for the approval of all engineering design of the pipeline, as well as for providing direction to personnel who will ensure that the company conforms with the engineering requirements, orders, specifications and terms and conditions related to the construction of the pipeline.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES WATER BOARD

Chapter 84

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES WATER BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Northwest Territories Water Board was established under section 7 of the Northern Inland Waters Act, which was proclaimed on February 28, 1972.

Responsibilities

The Board provides for the conservation, development and use of the water resources of the Northwest Territories in a manner that will provide the optimum benefit for all Canadians, and for the residents of the Territories in particular. Under the Act, an application must be made to the Board, and a licence issued, prior to the use of any waters or diposal of any water-borne waste. The requirement for application applies equally to departments and agencies of the federal government. The only exclusions are the use of water for domestic purposes, for extinguishing a fire, or on an emergency basis, for controlling or preventing a flood, and exempted uses under the Regulations.

Legislation

- Northern Inland Waters Act
- Northern Inland Waters Regulations

Organizational Units and their Role

The Board consists of not fewer than three and not more than nine members appointed by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. It is made up of at least one nominee from those departments of the Government of Canada which, in the opinion of the Governor in Council, are most directly concerned with the management of the water resources in the Northwest Territories, and at least six persons named by the Commissioner in Council of the Northwest Territories.

Professional and technical staff is provided by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development to help conduct the business of the Board and its activities. A Technical Advisory Committee was established in 1973 to provide a forum for the discussion of technical matters related to applications for use of water. An Environmental Advisory Committee was established in 1986 to address issues of water quality standards and environmental impact monitoring in the Northwest Territories.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Privy Council Office (PCO) was created by an Order-in-Council in 1940, which added the duties of Secretary to the Cabinet to those of Clerk of the Privy Council.

Responsibilities

The Privy Council Office provides secretariat support for Cabinet and the committees of Cabinet to facilitate the collective decision-making of Cabinet, and assists the exercise of the prerogatives of the Prime Minister, including the organization and processes of government and the appointment of senior officials to government positions. The overall responsibilities of the Office include: the co-ordination and provision of material related to the meetings of Cabinet and Committees of Cabinet for the use of the Prime Minister and the chairpersons of committees; liaison with departments and agencies of government on Cabinet matters; undertaking special studies on matters of current public policy concern as required (this includes participation in interdepartmental committees of officials through the provision of chairpersons, members or secretaries and the preparation of papers for, and on behalf of, such committees). In addition, the Office provides support and advice to the Prime Minister on prime ministerial prerogatives, assumes responsibilities for the organization of the Government of Canada, provides advice to the Prime Minister on national security and intelligence matters, undertakes the examination of submissions to the Governor in Council to ensure conformity with policy and legal requirements, prepares draft orders, and assumes duties related to regulations made under the Statutory Instruments Act including the examination, revision, registration and preparation for publication of federal statutory regulations in Part II of the Canada Gazette.

Legislation

- Order-in-Council (P.C. 1940-1121E, March 25, 1940)

Organizational Units and their Role

For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Privy Council Office is regarded as a department of government under the direction of the Prime Minister. The Clerk of the Privy Council and Secretary to the Cabinet, under whose direction the Privy Council Office's functions are carried out, is considered a deputy head taking precedence among the chief officers of the public service.

The Privy Council Office is separated into two main branches: Plans and Operations. The Plans Branch assists the Prime Minister in defining the objectives and priorities of the government as well as determining the appropriateness of departmental mandates within the government. The Operations Branch is responsible for managing the business of Cabinet and most Cabinet committees. Each committee has a corresponding secretariat that provides research and operational support. Most of these secretariats are in the Privy Council Office. As the concerns of Cabinet change, so do the Cabinet committees. As a result, the number and titles of the secretariats within the Privy Council Office are also subject to change.

The Senior Personnel Secretariat serves as the personnel section for the selection and appointment of senior officers in Governor in Council positions. The Prime Minister's responsibility for the safeguarding of the integrity of the nation is supported by the Security and Intelligence Secretariat. The Orders-in-Council section provides documentary and legal support to the Governor in Council.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL RELATIONS OFFICE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Federal-Provincial Relations Office (FPRO) was established on January 15, 1975, by the Act Respecting the Office of the Secretary to the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations and Respecting the Clerk of the Privy Council. The unit had previously functioned as the Federal-Provincial Relations Secretariat in the Privy Council Office.

Responsibilities

The functions of the FPRO are to advise and assist the Prime Minister regarding overall responsibility for federal-provincial relations, to provide the Cabinet with assistance in examining federal-provincial issues of current and long-term concern, and to promote and facilitate federal-provincial co-operation and consultation. The FPRO also provides services to the Minister of State (Federal-Provincial Relations) and assistance to federal ministers, departments and agencies in the conduct of their relations with provincial governments.

Legislation

- Act Respecting the Office of the Secretary to the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations and Respecting the Clerk of the Privy Council, S.C. 1974-75-76, chapter 16

Organizational Units and their Role

The FPRO is headed by the Secretary to the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations who, supported by a deputy secretary, reports directly to the Prime Minister. It has five principal components: a secretariat responsible for liaison with the provinces, a secretariat responsible for policy development, two additional secretariats dealing with economic and social policy and programs, and an Office of Aboriginal Constitutional Affairs.

Classes of Records

The files held by the Privy Council Office and the Federal-Provincial Relations Office are organized under broad subject headings. The information they contain deals with specific issues of interest to the government from time to time. Since much of the material in these files originates in other government departments, requests for general information should be referred to the government department having the greatest interest in the subject matter.

Exclusion or Exemption of Records

Under the Access to Information Act a class of records is excluded from the provisions of the Act under section 69. The records are referred to as confidences of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. In addition, records that contain advice or recommendations may be exempted by a government institution pursuant to section 21. Both these sections refer to records that are less than 20 years old.

It should be noted that Orders-in-Council are published in Part II of the Canada Gazette and are, therefore, records in the public domain. Requests for this material should not be made under the provisions of the Access to Information Act.

ACCESS TO INFORMATION
CO-ORDINATOR
PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
L'ESPLANADE LAURIER, WEST TOWER
OTTAWA, ONTARIO
K1A 0M7

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

In 1908, the Civil Service Amendment Act created the Civil Service Commission (CSC) which, through a series of changes, became the Public Service Commission as it is known today. The Public Service Employment Act of 1967 changed the name of the Civil Service Commission to the Public Service Commission.

Responsibilities

The Public Service Commission (PSC) is a politically independent agency accountable to Parliament for the administration of the Public Service Employment Act. Under the terms of this act, the Commission must ensure that the merit principle, as determined by the Commission, is upheld in all public service staffing operations. The objective of the Commission is to assist in the maintenance of a competent public service by ensuring that the best qualified persons are recruited to or promoted within the public service, that qualified employees are deployed to meet operational requirements and that certain training services are provided on behalf of the Treasury Board.

Legislation

- Public Service Employment Act (PSEA)
- Public Service Employment Regulations (PSER)

Organizational Units and their Role

Staffing Programs Branch

This branch encompasses activities in support of delegated and non-delegated staffing, including policy development, resourcing of the Management Category, administration of staffing delegation, establishment of tests and standards for selection, and administration of staffing priorities and services in support of recruitment and promotion. This activity also encompasses the administration of affirmative action programs, and special development programs in support of the Management Category, as well as the co-ordination of those parts of the Official Languages Program for which the PSC is responsible.

Audit Branch

This branch reviews departmental and PSC staffing practices and procedures in order to determine that appointments conform with the Public Service Employment Act and Regulations and Commission policy. It reviews the manner in which departments administer selected aspects of their personnel services for which Treasury Board has policy responsibility. This latter activity is governed by an agreement between Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Commission.

Appeals and Investigations Branch

Through the establishment of independent boards, this branch hears appeals by public servants against alleged breaches of the Public Service Employment Act and Regulations in such matters as appointment, demotion and release. In addition, complaints of alleged irregularities in staffing processes and matters of personal harassment in the workplace are investigated. Training, advice and assistance are provided to departments, unions and other interested individuals.

Language Training Program Branch

This branch provides language training in both official languages and related language training services, in conformity with government policy, to meet the needs of departments and agencies in the federal public service and, occasionally, those of outside clients. It provides second language courses designed to meet the job-related linguistic requirements of departments, as well as a range of advisory, informational and co-ordinating services related to language training.

Staff Development Branch

This branch provides executive, managerial, supervisory and professional training and training services to federal public servants across Canada in response to Treasury Board policies and departmental demands. It provides courses and training events designed to meet the job-related training requirements of departments, as well as a range of advisory, informational and co-ordinating services related to training.

Chairman and Commissioners' Offices

These offices have the overall responsibility for PSC policy in accordance with the Public Service Employment Act. The Executive Secretariat provides advice and assistance in the co-ordination of policy submissions from organizational components of the PSC. Accordingly, it develops and organizes policies affecting more than one organizational component of the PSC, administers sections 21, 31, 32 and 39 of the Public Service Employment Act, provides replies to ministerial and parliamentary enquiries and regulates the flow of documentation to and from the PSC.

Corporate Systems and Services Branch

This branch includes corporate management systems and policies, internal audit and program evaluation, and financial, personnel and other administrative and support services for the Commission.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Public Service Staff Relations Board was established in 1967 by the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

Responsibilities

The Board administers the Public Service Staff Relations Act. The Board is also responsible, through the Pay Research Bureau, for obtaining information on rates of pay, employee earnings, conditions of employment and related practices, prevailing both inside and outside the public service to meet the needs of the parties bargaining in the federal public service.

The Board also administers the provisions of the Parliamentary Employment and Staff Relations Act as well as certain provisions of Part IV of the Canada Labour Code.

Legislation

- Parliamentary Employment and Staff Relations Act
- Part IV — Canada Labour Code (certain provisions only)
- P.E.S.R.A. Regulations and Rules of Procedures
- Public Service Staff Relations Act
- Public Service Staff Relations Board Regulations and Rules of Procedures

Organizational Units and their Role

Pursuant to amendments to the Public Service Staff Relations Act which were proclaimed effective October 1, 1975, the Board is composed of "...a Chairman, a Vice-Chairman, not less than three Deputy Chairmen and such other full-time and part-time members as the Governor in Council considers necessary to discharge the responsibilities of the Board." All appointments are for periods not exceeding seven years, with the exception of the chairman, vice-chairman and deputy chairmen, whose appointments are for periods not exceeding ten years. Part-time members are appointed either for the purpose of adjudicating upon grievances, or chairing divisions of the Board with respect to requests made for arbitration of certain terms or conditions of employment and issuing arbitral awards thereon.

Pay Research Bureau

This bureau is responsible for obtaining information on rates of pay, employee earnings, conditions of employment and related practices, prevailing both inside and outside the public service, to meet the needs of the parties bargaining in the federal public service. It is also responsible for developing and maintaining a data bank of up-to-date data and conducting research studies to support the processes of collective bargaining in the Public Service of Canada. It provides information on compensation and related matters in the federal public service to industry, provincial and municipal governments, bargaining agents and other organizations, when to do so is in the public interest.

Office of the Secretary-Registrar

The secretary-registrar is responsible for the development of an effective and efficient case management and constrol system for all proceedings coming before the Board under the provisions of the Acts and their regulations. This includes, in addition to an individual case registration and file system for each type of proceeding, the provision of support services for Board meetings and hearings throughout Canada such as hearing accommodations, clerical and secretarial assistance, recording and transcribing facilities and arrangements for court reporters.

Office of Mediation Services

The Office assists the employers and bargaining agents in resolving their disputes when impasses occur in negotiating collective agreements. It also assists in the resolution of differences when employees have been suggested for managerial or confidential positions, and when employees are suggested for positions in connection with the provisions of the Act relating to the safety or security of the public. In addition, it endeavours to settle complaints alleging violations of certain sections of the Act or Regulations.

Legal Services

This unit provides advice and recommendations on the statutory and regulatory powers of the Board, provides the chairman and Board with legal opinions and advice on matters referred to them, keeps abreast of legal developments, particularly as they may affect labour legislation in general and the Public Service Staff Relations Act and the Parliamentary Employment and Staff Relations Act in particular. It also represents the Board before the Federal Court.

Administration Branch

The Administration Branch consists of the Administrative Services Division, the Financial Services Division, the Library Services Division and the Personnel Services Division. This branch is responsible for the provision of support services to the various organizational units of the Board.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Ottawa Mint was originally established in 1908 as a branch of the Royal Mint of London, England. On December 1, 1931, an Act of Parliament established the Royal Canadian Mint as a branch of the Department of Finance. On April 1, 1969, the Mint became a Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Supply and Services.

Responsibilities

The Mint's primary purpose is to produce and arrange for the production of coins of the currency of Canada. It also competes on the world market for contracts to produce circulating and numismatic coins and other devices for foreign countries. In addition, the Mint produces medals, tokens, and trade dollars for government departments and private firms. The Mint also operates a refinery to melt, assay and refine gold, silver and other metals.

Legislation

- Currency Act (Part I)
- Royal Canadian Mint Act

Organizational Units and their Role

OFFICE OF THE MASTER OF THE MINT

The executive control is vested in the Board of Directors. The principal officer of the Mint is the Master (president and chief executive officer), who is also a member of the Board of Directors. The Master is supported by a vice president for each of four divisions: Administration and Finance, Human Resources, Marketing, and Manufacturing.

MARKETING

Marketing Division

This division is responsible for planning, organizing and directing sales of Mint products and services in both domestic and foreign markets. It develops sales strategies and marketing activities, prepares sales forecasts and is responsible for obtaining the necessary contracts to keep the Manufacturing Division working at full capacity. Another aspect of the Marketing Division is the research and development function, which surveys and reports on present and future markets for Mint products and services.

International Marketing

This unit is responsible for the procurement of contracts from foreign countries for the supply of their circulation and numismatic coinage.

Bullion and Refinery Sales

This unit is responsible for the continuing development, marketing and sales of the Gold Maple Leaf Bullion Coin Program as well as the gold and silver refining services offered in Canada and around the world.

Communications

This unit plans, organizes and directs the Mint's public information program. It informs the public on policies and programs of the Mint, supervises media relations nationally and internationally, and is responsible for the compilation, editing and publishing of the Royal Canadian Mint Annual Report.

Canadian Numismatic Products

This unit plans, organizes and directs all Canadian numismatic programs and sales by developing short and long range objectives. It develops and recommends marketing policies for Mint products, and assists in the national and international promotion of Canadian numismatic programs. It has direct, world-wide liaison with coin distributing agents and dealers, and co-ordinates the coin design program for each new Canadian numismatic coin. The Division is also responsible for the acquisition of contracts for the manufacture of medals, trade dollars, tokens, and other devices, as well as the advertising campaigns for the Canadian numismatic programs.

MANUFACTURING

Manufacturing Division

This division produces Canadian circulation coinage and Canadian numismatic coins for sale to collectors. Foreign circulation and numismatic coins are also produced, as well as medals and trade dollars, all under a competitive bidding process. The Division keeps astride of new developments in metals and metal alloys and their possible applications to coinage. It co-ordinates research and liaison with the Association for the Blind, coin-vending machine companies, and the general public whenever a change in size, weight or metal content of circulating coinage is being considered. In addition, the Ottawa plant operates the Mint's refinery, which refines precious metal for mines, jewellers, banks and other institutions, both Canadian and foreign.

Engineering Services

The Head Office unit provides advice on equipment and maintains liaison with the Department of Public Works for some utilities, and with outside contractors for repairs and alterations to buildings. It proposes plans, specifications and drawings for equipment fabrication and purchase, designs toolings required in manufacturing and provides product specifications.

The Plant unit is responsible for the maintenance, repairs and installation of equipment, as well as building repairs and services, including janitorial. It is also responsible for the manufacture of coining dies, dollars and tooling.

Engraving

Using a photograph or drawing of a design, this unit models, casts, reduces and ultimately reproduces the design in steel. The final reproduction is the "master punch" from which the working dies are made. Punches are engraved with the utmost care for precision and detail to ensure the artistic quality of the final product.

Mint Office

This unit receives, weighs and records incoming shipments of rough gold and silver bullion, which are then sent to the refinery. The bullion is refined and assayed, then returned to the Mint Office where the data of the assay report is recorded, charges for the refining are calculated, and the metal is either stored or returned to the owner.

Production

The production of coin is divided between the Ottawa and Winnipeg Plants. The Winnipeg Plant has sole responsibility for producing Canadian circulating coin and also fills some contracts for foreign circulating coin. In addition, this branch receives worn and mutilated Canadian circulating coins and returns them to the original metal supplier for melt-down. The Ottawa Plant produces medals, tokens, trade dollars and other devices, foreign numismatic coins, Canadian numismatic gold and silver coins, the Gold Maple Leaf bullion coins, and coins for special commemorative programs such as the Olympics. This plant also produces the gold and silver blanks used in making the numismatic coins.

Quality Assurance and Assay

Quality Assurance maintains quality standards and performance of equipment; ensures that all incoming materials meet standards and specifications; inspects all work-in-progress and finished articles to control the quality of the products of the Mint; and performs metallurgical investigations in the heat treating of different metals.

The Assay Division performs assays of bullion, scrap jewellery, fine gold, fine silver, alloyed silver and gold coins, coinage bars, refinery sweeps, commercial gold and silver under the Precious Metals Marking Act and of suspect counterfeit coins.

The Analytical Laboratory performs chemical and metallurgical analyses and assists other divisions with problems of an analytical nature; prepares and standardizes gold and silver trial plates; and processes control work on the production of coins.

Refinery

This unit refines mined bullion and placer gold, jewellery scrap and other gold and silver bearing materials received from Canadian and other sources. The refined gold and silver are turned into trade bars or granules. The Refinery also makes cast bars for the various medal and coin programs. As well, recycled metals from the blanking and coin-making operations are remelted or refined.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) was formed in 1873, under an Act of Parliament.

Responsibilities

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police enforces laws throughout Canada made by or under the authority of Parliament. Administration of justice within the provinces, including enforcement of the Criminal Code, is the responsibility of the provincial governments. The RCMP has contract agreements with the two territories and all provinces (except Ontario and Quebec) to enforce criminal, territorial and provincial laws pursuant to section 20 of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act.

Legislation

- Criminal Code
- Most federal statutes
- Municipal bylaws under contract
- Provincial laws under contract
- Territorial laws under contract

Organizational Units and their Role

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police consists of 15 divisions, each managed by a commanding officer. There are 13 operational divisions divided into 47 sub-divisions and 718 detachments located in all provinces and the territories. These divisions are alphabetically designated, with the headquarters for each located in its respective provincial or territorial capital, except for "A" which is in Ottawa, "C" which is in Montreal, and "E" which is in Vancouver.

In accordance with the present Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, the Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General of Canada, is responsible for the control and management of the Force. Under the Commissioner, functional direction is provided by four deputy commissioners in charge of Administration, Operations (Criminal), Operations (Protective) and Law Enforcement Services.

Specialized support is offered to the 13 operational divisions by air, informatics, identification and laboratory services. The remaining two divisions are Headquarters, in Ottawa, Ontario and Depot Division located in Regina, Saskatchewan. The RCMP Academy (recruit training) is located at Depot Division in Regina. "HQ" (Ottawa) consists of the Commissioner's office and secretariat, directorate policy and co-ordinating centres, and specialized support services such as the forensic laboratory, the Canadian Police Information Center, and the Foreign Services Directorate which has responsibilities for activities of RCMP members stationed abroad. HQ is also responsible for the effective operation of the Canadian Police College.

Foreign Services — "M" Directorate

This directorate supports the Force's activities abroad by promoting co-operation with police agencies in contributing to the reduction of international crime, terrorism, drug trafficking, commercial crime, organized crime, illegal transfer of technology and other criminal activity.

Commissioner's Audit Branch

This branch is responsible to the Commissioner for developing and directing, within Force policy, comprehensive internal audits of divisions, directorates and independent headquarters branches.

Public Relations Branch

The Branch is responsible for making the general public and the media more fully aware of the positive role of the RCMP and for encouraging co-operation and understanding between the general public, the media and the RCMP. It is also responsible for ceremonies and public relations in Canada and abroad.

General Enforcement and Support Services — "C" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for directing and correlating activities of criminal investigations, crime prevention, law enforcement and the general operational activities of the Force both in field divisions and in its various responsibility centres.

Economic Crime Enforcement — "E" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for planning, developing and co-ordinating the Economic Crime Enforcement Program.

Criminal Intelligence Service Canada (CISC) — "Q" Directorate

CISC provides facilities to ensure the exchange of criminal intelligence between enforcement units, intelligence units and the CISC provincial bureaus, where the "intelligence process" of collection, evaluation, collation, analysis, re-evaluation and dissemination can be made to effectively combat the spread of organized crime in Canada.

Air Services — "W" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the provision of advice on all air services matters, the formulation of air services policies, procedures and regulations and the acquisition, repair and overhaul of all RCMP aircraft.

Identification Services — "I" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the planning, direction, development of policy, and general supervision of RCMP operations related to Identification Services.

Forensic Laboratory Services — "L" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the planning, direction, development of policy, and general supervision of Force capabilities related to laboratory services.

Information Access — "F" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the analysis and review of proposed and existing federal and provincial privacy and access to information legislation; the development and application of policies and procedures to satisfy legislative requirements; and for responding to all requests for information received under the provisions of new or existing legislation.

Technical Security — "T" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for technical matters which support either the law enforcement or the protective functions of the RCMP.

Drug Enforcement — "D" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for planning, developing, co-ordinating and directing the policies and activities of the Force related to drug law enforcement.

Protective Services — "P" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for planning, developing, co-ordinating and directing the policies and activities of the protective policing functions of the RCMP.

Informatics — "V" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for designing and implementing Force-wide systems of electronic data processing (EDP) such as the Canadian Police Information Centre (C.P.I.C.), records management and telecommunication services. The nation-wide services are provided to the RCMP and other accredited law enforcement agencies. This directorate is also responsible for planning and directing RCMP policies and programs for record keeping, micrographics, information systems and the RCMP Identity Program.

Depot Division

This division is responsible for providing basic training to recruits to prepare them for their future duties and responsibilities in the RCMP.

Canadian Police College

The Canadian Police College is responsible for planning, organizing, staffing, directing and controlling the facilities, resources and training requirements of all Canadian Police Forces.

Operational Divisions

The Operational Divisions are responsible for the detection, suppression and prevention of crime within established geographical boundaries. They provide provincial and, in some areas, municipal policing services under contractual arrangements, except for the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, where the RCMP mainly enforces federal statutes.

Services and Supply — "S" Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for directing the planning, development, implementation and evaluation of RCMP policies and programs related to accommodation, transport, material, food, miscellaneous services and internal energy conservation.

Office of the Chief Financial Officer

The Office is responsible for budgeting and accounting systems, financial administration, the annual program forecast, estimates, analysis of expenditures and revenue trends, implementation and maintenance of financial accounting and reporting systems, and direction of financial policies.

Organization and Personnel — "A" Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for planning and directing the policies and programs of the RCMP related to the organization and management of its human resources.

Health Services —"H" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for planning, organizing and directing the policies and programs of the Force on medical and dental treatment, occupational health and safety and environmental health. It is also responsible for developing pre-engagement medical standards for applications and initiating and co-ordinating research projects in physical fitness and psychological testing.

Official Languages — "O" Directorate

Official Languages is responsible for the implementation and co-ordination of a unified program, within the Force, for compliance with the Official Languages Act and related policy directives.

Access Procedures

A formal request under the Access to Information Act should be made by completing an Access to Information Request Form and forwarding it to:

The Commissioner
Royal Canadian Mounted Police
1200 Alta Vista Drive
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 0R2
Attention: Departmental Access Co-ordinator
(613) 993-5162

The diversity of operations within the federal, provincial, municipal and territorial jurisdictions results in information storage systems that are decentralized. For this reason, persons submitting access requests must indicate the geographic location they want searched.

SCIENCE COUNCIL OF CANADA

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Science Council of Canada was created by the Science Council of Canada Act in 1966. Its duties were enlarged by amendments made in 1978.

Responsibilities

The Council's major responsibilities are to analyze science and technology policy issues; recommend policy direction to government; keep the public informed about the impact of science and technology in Canada; and stimulate discussion of science and technology policy among governments, industry and academic institutions. It reports to Parliament through the Minister of State for Science and Technology. The Council operates at "arm's length" from government, designing its own program of research and publishing its findings at its own discretion.

Legislation

- Science Council of Canada Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Council consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and up to 28 members drawn from all regions and representative of a variety of disciplines and interests, with a balance maintained between the academic and industrial communities. Aside from the chairman and vice chairman, members serve without remuneration.

The Council's research is carried out by staff based in Ottawa and by independent consultants working under contract. In general, the Council identifies areas of policy concern, authorizes exploratory studies, and then selects the most appropriate, specific policy studies. A major study (i.e. one requiring more than one year to complete) is normally conducted under the guidance of a study committee, which includes a chairman and some members of the Council, and outside experts, if necessary. The staff and consultants under contract carry out the research and analysis and draft reports for discussion by appropriate committees and, in the case of formal policy reports, for subsequent submission to Council for its approval.

Manuals

Through its publications and other communication activities, the Council increases public awareness of major issues involved in the development and use of science and technology. Science Council publications are available from the address listed below.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Security Intelligence Review Committee was established under the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act on July 16, 1984.

Responsibilities

The Security Intelligence Review Committee, an independent external review body, is mandated to review the performance by the Canadian Security Intelligence Service of its duties and functions. The Committee is required to investigate complaints from individuals who have had their employment prospects affected by the denial of a security clearance. It also investigates reports made to it by the Secretary of State for Citizenship, the Minister of Immigration, the Human Rights Commission, and the Solicitor General of Canada, which relate to national security or to an individual's involvement in organized crime. The Committee is required to report annually to Parliament, through the Solicitor General, on these matters.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organizational Units and their Role

The Research Section carries out studies and other activities to provide the external review of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service. The Complaints Section investigates complaints by individuals, or reports by Ministers, related to security clearances and the national security of Canada.

Manuals

- The Security Intelligence Review Committee's Rules of Practice and Procedures, dated March 9, 1985

SOCIAL SCIENCES AND HUMANITIES RESEARCH COUNCIL

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) was created in June 1977 by the Government Organizations (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976.

Responsibilities

The Council is primarily a grant-giving body with a mandate to promote and assist research and scholarship in the social sciences and humanities and to advise the Minister on issues relevant to the research he or she may direct to the Council's attention. Its objectives are to enhance the advancement of knowledge by assisting research; to assist in maintaining and developing the national capacity for research; to promote research which would contribute to the fulfillment of national objectives; and to facilitate the dissemination of research results. The Council also conducts inquiries on the state of research in Canada in its disciplines, performs a leadership role in research policy and fulfills a liaison function with government and the scholarly community.

Legislation

- Government Organizations (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976
- Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council By-Laws

Organizational Units and their Role

Office of the Director General and Secretary to Council

The Office of the Director General and Secretary to Council supervises the administration of the Secretariat Division and the Information Division.

The Secretariat Division performs secretariat functions for the Council and its sub-committees and for the Liaison Group, a consultative body consisting of various academic organizations. It maintains liaison with the provinces in areas of the Council's concern. The Division assists the president in developing and implementing Council policy and administers both the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) legislation and the strategic grants program of Support for Specialized Research Collections for Canadian university libraries.

The Information Division is responsible for public relations with government, the scholarly community, the media and the general public. It publishes the annual report, administrative information on fellowships and grants programs, and reports of consultative groups. It also prepares news releases, newsletters, official briefs, statements and speeches.

Office of the Director General, Program Branch

The Office of the Director General administers the Branch which fosters, promotes and assists research through the delivery of the Council's grant and scholarships programs.

The Policy and Planning Division conducts research and analysis related to the work of the Council and is responsible for the co-ordination of policy and program development. The Division also plans, carries out and co-ordinates the evaluation policy of Council programs, activities and procedures, and tests new methods for evaluating the results of research support.

The Research Grants Division administers programs of financial support to individuals for scholarly research and provides funds directly to universities, on a formula basis, for small research and travel grants.

The Strategic Grants Division awards grants to institutions and individual scholars to provide assistance for research and other scholarly work contributing to the fulfillment of national objectives. The Strategic Grants program has two objectives: one, its themes, (the Human Context of Science and Technology, the Family and the Socialization of Children, etc.) aims to establish a base of knowledge on identified social needs or problems; and two, its areas (Management Research, Aid to Small Universities, etc.) aims to support activities designed to help redress underdevelopment.

The Research Communications and International Relations Division is responsible for grants awarded to aid learned journals, scholarly publications and associations, and occasional scholarly conferences in Canada. This division also administers programs which provide travel grants for international representation, aid to international secretariats in Canada, grants for international congresses in Canada, and a bilateral exchange with China.

The Fellowships Division administers scholarships and fellowships for research training and independent research.

STANDARDS COUNCIL OF CANADA

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Standards Council of Canada (SCC) was established in 1970 by the Standards Council of Canada Act.

Responsibilities

The role of the Council is to foster and promote voluntary standardization in Canada as a means of advancing the national economy, benefiting the health, safety and welfare of the public, assisting and protecting consumers, facilitating domestic and international trade, and furthering international co-operation in the field of standards through participation in the work of organizations such as the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC). The Council carries out its task through the National Standards System (NSS), a federation of accredited independent organizations concerned with standards writing, certification, and testing, co-ordinated by the SCC.

Legislation

- Standards Council of Canada Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Standardization Branch

The Branch assesses, and recommends for accreditation, organizations engaged in standards writing, testing, and certification; and is responsible for ensuring the effective Canadian participation in the work of international standardization organizations. It co-ordinates voluntary standardization activities among standards-writing organizations, maintains liaison with federal and provincial government authorities, reviews standards for acceptance as National Standards of Canada, and co-ordinates the implementation of international standards in Canada.

Communications Branch

The Branch develops, recommends and implements national information programs to communicate to the public at large and the technical, business and industrial communities in particular, information on standards and their application, standardization activities, and the developments taking place with the National Standards System of Canada. The Branch operates a national centre for information on standards and standards documents, is the Canadian enquiry point required by the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and functions as the Canadian member of the International Organization for Standardization Information Network (ISONET). The Branch co-ordinates Canadian participation on the ISO Committee on Information (INFCO). It also sponsors programs for the promotion of standards and related information in post-secondary educational institutions as well as training and technical co-operation in developing countries. Another section of the Branch operates a sales service which assures Canadians access to international and foreign national standards and related documentation.

Executive and Administration Branch

The Branch ensures the co-ordination of Council programs within budgetary limitations and verifies that all activities are in keeping with its objectives and procedures as set out in the Standards Council of Canada Act and by-laws. It provides administrative services for all Council staff. It also performs the planning, accounting and reporting functions for all of the Council. It is accountable for revenues and appropriations and is responsible for discharging Council's liabilities.

STATISTICS CANADA

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

In 1918, Parliament passed legislation establishing the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In 1971, when Parliament passed further legislation concerning the Statistics Act, the agency's name was changed to Statistics Canada.

Responsibilities

The mandate and program objectives of Statistics Canada are: to collect and publish in impersonal formats statistical information on the characteristics and behaviour of Canadian households, businesses, institutions and governments for research, policy development, program administration, decision-making and general informational purposes; to collaborate with other participants in the broader national statistical system in extending the system's scope, usefulness and use; and to provide leadership, professional expertise and co-ordination in such efforts.

Legislation

- Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act (CALURA), 1962, chapter 26
- Statistics Act S.C., 1970-71-72, chapter 15

Organizational Units and their Role

Office of the Chief Statistician of Canada

The Chief Statistician is a deputy of the Minister responsible for Statistics Canada. The Chief Statistician advises on matters pertaining to statistical programs of the departments and agencies of the Government of Canada, and confers with such departments and agencies to that end. The Chief Statistician supervises generally the administration of the Statistics Act and controls the operations and staff of Statistics Canada.

The Deputy Chief Statistician assists the Chief Statistician in all aspects of the management and planning of Statistics Canada.

Departmental Secretariat

The Departmental Secretariat serves as the principal focal point for liaison with the Minister responsible for Statistics Canada, other ministers, and members of Parliament generally. In support of the Minister, the Departmental Secretariat processes correspondence, deals with parliamentary returns, responds to oral and written questions and prepares briefing material on issues relating to Statistics Canada's programs and policies.

Its other functions include providing staff support to the Chief Statistician, the Deputy Chief Statistician, and the Policy Committee, as well as liaising with various management committees. The Departmental Secretariat is also responsible for review and control of official government documentation.

SOCIAL, INSTITUTIONS AND LABOUR STATISTICS FIELD

The Social, Institutions and Labour Statistics Field conducts a wide range of statistical programs dealing with virtually all aspects of the social, institutional and labour market characteristics and activities of Canadians.

The Field is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for census and demographic statistics, institutions and social statistics, and labour and household surveys.

Census and Demographic Statistics Branch

This branch conducts a program of censuses, surveys and related activities designed to provide comprehensive social and demographic statistics on the Canadian population. It includes the Census Operations Division, the Housing, Family and Social Statistics Division, and the Demography Division.

The Census Operations Division is responsible for the planning, development and implementation of all production-related operations of the periodic decennial and quinquennial census of population, Canada's national inventory of key socio-economic phenomena.

The Housing, Family and Social Statistics Division is responsible for the housing, family and social variables produced by the census, the General Social Survey, and for conducting research and analysis of census data and other survey and administrative data. It publishes reports on the socio-economic characteristics of the population and subsets of the population.

The Demography Division is responsible for the following four areas: (i) population estimates; (ii) population, household and family projections; (iii) census and survey-related activities; and (iv) developmental and analytical research.

Labour and Household Surveys Branch

This branch conducts statistical programs of household surveys such as the Labour Force Survey, the surveys of income and expenditure, and establishment-based surveys of employment. It includes the following divisions: Household Surveys, Labour and Household Surveys Analysis, and Labour.

The Household Surveys Division is responsible for a number of household surveys, including the monthly Labour Force Survey, and for the special surveys program, which provides a capacity to develop and carry out occasional or ad hoc household surveys. The Labour and Household Surveys Analysis Division provides resources for the content, analysis and evaluation of income and labour market related data, including data on labour force status, occupation, industry, individual and family income and expenditure. The Labour Division is responsible for producing a wide range of labour data from surveys and administrative records. In addition, information is produced on pension plans, the operation of the Unemployment Insurance Act, Help-Wanted Index, Work Injuries and Labour Income.

Institutions and Social Statistics Branch

This branch is responsible for the collection, production analysis and dissemination of socio-economic statistics related to justice, health, education, culture and tourism, and public institutions, which are required for decision-making and research in both the public and private sectors. It consists of the Health Division; the Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics; the Education, Culture and Tourism Division; and the Public Institutions Division.

The Health Division is responsible for the production of statistics on the health of the Canadian people, the occurrence of illnesses, the distribution and cost of health care and treatment in Canadian hospitals and special care facilities, vital statistics (births, deaths, marriages and divorces) and statistical information on the Canadian Social Security System. The Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics, established in 1981 to replace the Justice Statistics Division, operates as a Statistics Canada satellite. Its purpose is to produce statistics and information on the incidence of crime and on the administration of justice in Canada. The Education, Culture and Tourism Division is responsible for the Education Statistics, Culture Statistics, and Travel and Tourism Programs, and for the Projections and Analysis Section. The Public Institutions Division collects information on and conducts annual and quarterly analyses of financial transactions and employment of federal, provincial and local governments and their boards, commissions and agencies.

NATIONAL ACCOUNTS AND ANALYTICAL SERVICES FIELD

This field is responsible for providing a set of macroeconomic series within the five complex frameworks of the Canadian System of National Accounts. It provides a broad band of research and analysis intended to animate society's perception of social and economic behaviour, and undertakes research and development of statistical techniques. The Field is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for the system of national accounts and analytical studies.

The National Accounts Development Division is responsible for the conceptual integration of economic and social statistics. It is responsible for research on the basic restructuring and extension of the Canadian System of National Accounts and dovetailing this work with the fundamental re-examination of the accounts which is taking place at the international level.

System of National Accounts Branch

The System of National Accounts provides a conceptually integrated framework of statistics and analysis for studying the state and behaviour of the Canadian economy. The accounts are centered on the measurement of activities associated with production of goods and services, and the sales of goods and services in final markets. The Branch includes the following divisions: Income and Expenditure Accounts, Industry Measures and Analysis, International and Financial Economics, and Input-Output.

The Income and Expenditure Accounts Division provides quarterly and annual estimates of the national and provincial output of goods and services by expenditure category and also by type of income generated in the production process. It also provides a picture of the key economic processes of production, income generation, sales to major markets, consumption, and capital formation. The Industry Measures and Analysis Division produces monthly and quarterly measures of the constant price value of Gross Domestic Product for individual industries (approximately 150, based on the Standard Industrial Classification), the total economy and a number of special industry aggregates. The International and Financial Economics Division prepares statements of financial flows and balance sheet estimates for the Canadian economy, measuring the financial wealth of the country and the channels through which lending and borrowing take place. It also prepares statistics on international travel, and provides information on current and capital account transactions between Canada and other countries (including movements in Canada's official monetary reserves) and on Canada's international investment position. The Input-Output Division develops annual input-output tables for Canada and for each province; structural economic models of the Canadian economy; and labour productivity measures in the business sector.

Analytical Studies Branch

This branch is responsible for the integration, analysis and interpretation of data collected both within the agency and elsewhere to describe, draw inferences and make deductions about the nature of Canadian society. As well, it is responsible for the development of new and improved techniques for the statistical analysis and interpretation of socio-economic data sets. It includes the following divisions: Population Studies, Social and Economic Studies, Structural Analysis, and Distributional Analysis.

The Population Studies Division provides social-scientific analyses of data relating to trends and patterns of important variables involving key population groups in Canadian communities as well as assistance to users of such data. The Social and Economic Studies Division's role is to conduct appropriate analysis as well as to stimulate, support and integrate analytic work throughout Statistics Canada. It is also responsible for facilitating the utilization of social and economic data files. The Structural Analysis Division is responsible for the development of structural economic models of the Canadian economy and for the provision of analytical and consultative services based upon the stock of models operated by the Division. The Distributional Analysis Division performs research into the distribution of income and wealth in Canada.

BUSINESS AND TRADE STATISTICS FIELD

This field produces a wide range of monthly, quarterly and annual statistics on manufacturing, primary industries, transportation, communications, computing, construction, agriculture, merchandising services, external trade, prices, business finance, science and technology, small business, public finance, Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act (CALURA), regional industrial structure and related areas. It is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for the Industry, Trade and Prices Statistics and Resources, Technology and Services Statistics branches.

Industry, Trade and Prices Statistics Branch

This branch is responsible for planning, directing, co-ordinating and controlling the activities of subject-matter divisions to ensure the provision of statistical information and advice to governments, private organizations and institutions. It includes the following divisions: Industry, Transportation, International Trade and Prices.

The Industry Division conducts an annual Census of Manufacturers and Census of Forestry as well as current surveys of the mining, energy, resource and manufacturing sectors to produce a range of cost structure information, material input and commodity output and employment data. It also collects data on the retail and wholesale trade sectors. The Transportation Division collects, publishes and makes available statistics on air, rail, road and water transportation industries and on related traffic and infrastructures. The International Trade Division is responsible for the compilation, analysis and dissemination of Canada's merchandise export and import statistics and related price and volume indices. The Prices Division provides information on retail (consumer) prices, living costs, and manufacturer raw material and construction price indexes, as well as a number of indexes relating to capital expenditures.

STATISTICS CANADA

Resources, Technology and Services Statistics Branch

This branch is responsible for planning, directing, co-ordinating and controlling the activities of the subject matter divisions to ensure the provision of statistical information and advice to governments, private organizations and institutions. This branch includes the following divisions: Services, Industrial Organization and Finance, Agriculture/Natural Resources, and Science, Technology and Capital Stock.

The Services Division is responsible for the development of an integrated and comprehensive program of statistics on services and communications. The Industrial Organization and Finance Division produces corporate financial statistics, corporate taxation statistics, and financial statistics of labour unions. It also administers the Corporation and Labour Unions Returns Act (CALURA). The Agriculture/Natural Resources Division provides data on the supply of food commodities (i.e., production and inventory levels), the levels of returns to resources used in farming, and the economic welfare of farmers. The Science, Technology and Capital Stock Division provides a focus for the collection, analysis and publication of statistics relating to scientific, technological and investment activities.

INFORMATICS AND METHODOLOGY FIELD

This field ensures that the statistical methodology used by all surveys is sound and statistically efficient, and provides leadership for and management of information processing in Statistics Canada. It is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for Informatics, Classification Systems and Methodology.

Informatics Branch

This branch provides electronic data processing (EDP) services to Statistics Canada. The headquarters staff, in conjunction with other members of the Branch, is responsible for the formulation of policies relating to EDP and managing overall branch activities. It also co-ordinates relations with the users of various systems and data processing services. The Branch provides the chairman and secretariat services for the executive sub-committee on EDP. It includes the Informatics Services and Development Division, the Client Services Division and the Main Computer Support Centre.

The Informatics Services and Development Division is responsible for the planning, design, development, support and maintenance of specific application EDP systems for particular users. It is also responsible for the support of minicomputing, microcomputing and data communications services. The Client Services Division provides all users with a unified and comprehensive interface for the full range of Informatics Branch services, and is responsible for EDP planning, technical evaluation and EDP policies, standards and procedures. The Main Computer Centre is responsible for the provision of large-scale computer and mini-computer services to Statistics Canada, including data capture services and data storage facilities for the agency's EDP data.

Classification Systems Branch

This branch develops and promulgates classification systems; standardizes economic, social and geographic concepts; develops, enhances and maintains the business register as a major integration instrument of survey-taking; and is responsible for the exploitation of taxation and other administrative data. It includes the Geography Division, the Business Register Division, the Standards Division and the Small Business Statistics Project.

The Geography Division develops and maintains a spatially referenced geographical database in support of the standard geographical classification, the census and other bureau programs. The Business Register Division is responsible for the development and maintenance of a central register of firms and their constituent establishments for purposes of statistical collections. It is also responsible for accessing statistical data from Revenue Canada Taxation records to supplement or replace data collected by survey. The Standards Division develops standard classification systems, monitors their implementation, delineates statistical structures, standardizes economic and social concepts, and provides a system of comprehensive documentation for all surveys conducted in Statistics Canada. The purpose of the Small Business Statistics Project is to determine and satisfy the needs for data about and required by small business.

Methodology Branch

This branch plans, organizes and directs the work of the divisions and staff engaged in the development, implementation, analysis and evaluation of the statistical methodology underlying all of the programs of the agency. It is also involved in reviewing the paper burden imposed on businesses by federal government departments and agencies for the collection of information. The Branch includes the Federal Information Collection Group as well as the following divisions: Social Survey Methods, Business Survey Methods, Small Area and Administrative Data, and Time Series Branch and Analysis.

The Federal Information Collection Group is responsible for the technical review of information collection plans of federal government departments in accordance with Treasury Board policy on information collection and for the maintenance of a Federal Register of collected information. The group also assists departments in obtaining services from Statistics Canada under the common services policy. The Social Survey Methods Division, comprised of centralized methodology groups, is responsible for achieving the most effective balance between the cost of data collection and the quality of statistical output, and for focusing research and development efforts. The Business Survey Methods Division is responsible for providing methodological services to business surveys and, in some cases, for systems design and development. The Small Area and Administrative Data Division's mandate is to study and develop methods and approaches to explore the statistical potential of administrative data files from other federal or provincial institutions. It is also responsible for the development and dissemination of social, economic and demographic statistics and indicators for sub-provincial geographic areas. The Time Series Research and Analysis Division is organized as an applied research group. Its objective is to improve the quality of seasonal adjustments of economic time series and the analysis of the evolution of seasonality in the Canadian economy.

COMMUNICATIONS AND OPERATIONS FIELD

This field provides a full range of external communication functions, including respondent, user, media and international relations. It also administers the central and regional operational functions essential to the conduct of the agency's statistical programs, including regional data collection and processing activities, marketing, publishing and electronic data dissemination.

This field is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for the Marketing and Information Services and the Operations Branches, including Regional Operations.

Marketing and Information Services Branch

This branch is responsible for the activities which design and organize the information products of the agency to service the needs of its various clients at the federal, provincial and municipal government levels, and in the public and private sectors. It includes the following divisions: Communications, Publications, International Professional and Relations, and Electronic Data Dissemination.

The Communications Division co-ordinates and exercises a focal responsibility for relations with Parliament, federal departments and agencies, provincial, territorial and municipal governments, business, labour, academics, institutions, media and the general public. It provides an entry point to the agency for these publics, monitors the public environment, develops and executes information programs, and supports communications activities of program managers through consultation and through preparation of communications material. It also provides an editing service aimed at improving the publications of specialty subject-matter divisions. The Publications Division is responsible for the publishing and marketing of the Department's printed products. The International Professional and Relations Division co-ordinates Statistics Canada's international involvement with statistical agencies of other countries and international organizations that have statistical activities. It is also responsible for co-ordinating the Department's relations with professional societies, developing and administering a fellowship program, and co-ordinating the Department's professional advisory committees. The Electronic Data Dissemination Division is responsible for the development and operation of techniques and mechanisms to foster public access to Statistics Canada's information through electronic means.

Operations Branch

This branch is responsible for analyzing, evaluating and reviewing all statistical operations; for directing all regional operations; and for managing the integrated headquarters operations. It also develops and implements approaches and strategies for integrating operations and services throughout the agency, including the regionalization of operational activities, and manages and co-ordinates related production support services. It includes Regionalization Planning, Headquarters Operations Division, and Operations Automation Division.

Regionalization Planning is responsible for the planning and implementation of regionalization programs as approved by the management of Statistics Canada. The Headquarters Operations Division is involved in five main areas: records management, distribution, material management, facilities management, and operations. The Operations Automation Division's primary mission is to use technology as part of the program to improve the operational performance of Statistics Canada.

Regional Operations Branch

This organization is responsible through a headquarters staff and a network of regional offices for survey data collection, primary processing and editing, for the provision of statistical information and advice at the regional level, and for related user respondents and community relations. Regional offices are located in St. John's, Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Sturgeon Falls, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver. An additional office is to be opened in Calgary in 1987-88. The Branch includes the Survey Operations Division and the User Advisory Services Division.

The Survey Operations Division is responsible for researching, costing, developing, delivering and evaluating data collection and data capture procedures and training in co-operation with client divisions and several external departments. The Division provides services in the areas of project management, operations research and analysis, organization and methods of data collection, financial control, logistical support, data capture and operations audit and evaluation. The User Advisory Services Division is responsible for the provision of enquiries, professional consultation and educational services in local reference centres across the country and through the Central Inquiries Unit in Ottawa.

MANAGEMENT SERVICES FIELD

This field organizes and co-ordinates internal management services, including the development and implementation of all management policies and systems within the agency and the assessment of the efficiency and effectiveness of these programs. It is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for Management Practices, Operational Planning and Finance, and Personnel.

The Corporate Assignment Division develops and manages a program of temporary assignments in response to a departmental need for persons to work on corporate or special tasks. It also includes support for redeployment of persons affected by program modifications or operational changes, for senior management development, for affirmative action initiatives and for second language development. The Data Access and Control Services Division serves as a departmental focal point for matters relating to the confidentiality of the information collected by Statistics Canada. It also administers services pursuant to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Management Practices Branch

This branch is responsible for developing good management systems to support the agency's managers in achieving departmental objectives and for ensuring that management practices identified by the Office of the Comptroller General are carried out. It includes the following divisions: Internal Audit, Program Evaluation, Corporate Planning and Management Systems. The Internal Audit Division provides an independent and systematic review and appraisal of all departmental operations, and furnishes senior management with observations on the adequacy of control frameworks and procedures. The Program Evaluation Division is responsible for evaluating Statistics Canada's programs to assess the continued relevance of their objectives, and for investigating alternatives that might achieve the objectives in a more cost-effective manner. The Corporate Planning and Management Systems Division is responsible for ensuring the continued improvement of the departmental planning system, for assisting senior management in developing and assessing corporate planning directives and priorities, and for formulating alternative strategies and plans of action to achieve these objectives.

Operational Planning and Finance Branch

This branch is responsible for determining the financial resources required by the Office of the Chief Statistician and supervising its expenses. The Branch is also responsible for operations related to program and financial planning, financial services, and management information services. It includes the Financial Policies and Systems Division, the Financial Operations Division, and the Operational Planning and Programming Division.

The Financial Policies and Systems Division is responsible for the development, design, implementation and review of departmental financial policies, systems and procedures. The Financial Operations Division is responsible for the accounts office, which retains records on all expenditure and revenue transactions, the financial management information system (REMAPPS), recoverable projects accounting, contract administration, and general accounting services. The Operational Planning and Programming Division is responsible for the management of the departmental operational planning system and the preparation of a multi-year operational plan and current year work planning processes and associated budgets.

Personnel Branch

This branch is responsible for assisting management in obtaining, deploying, developing and retaining the staff necessary to execute Statistics Canada's responsibilities. It is also responsible for ensuring fair and equitable treatment of individual employees. It includes the following divisions: Personnel Operations, Personnel Policies and Affirmative Action, Official Languages, and the Employee Assistance Program.

The Personnel Operations Division is responsible for operations in the areas of classification, recruitment, promotions, redeployment, language identification of positions, staff relations, and pay and benefits administration. The Personnel Policies and Affirmative Action Division is responsible for the development of new personnel policies and programs, reports related to affirmative action, human resources planning, training and development, organization development, and the development and implementation of a personnel information system. The Official Languages Division is responsible for the development of departmental guidelines on official languages, providing information and advice to managers on the implementation of the official languages policies and programs in their respective areas, providing information to employees in general on their rights and obligations regarding official languages, planning language training of employees, and administering language tests. The Employee Assistance Program is responsible for providing confidential health assistance and advice to employees, and disseminating information on the various social agencies available to provide service to employees.

Classes of Records

STC/OCS-005
Departmental Operations
Description: Records relating to the overall functions of the Department.

STC/SIL-010
Social, Institutions and Labour Statistics Field Operations
Description: Records related to the overall functions of the field. Topics: Field policies; plans and programs; requests; public relations; census project team management; census research and methodology.

STC/COP-015
Census Operations
Description: Census records are maintained in two formats: microfilm copies of the original questionnaire and machine-readable data stored in the census micro data base. The latter are used in tabulations. Names and addresses of individuals are not contained in these files. Information extracted from the data base, therefore, cannot directly be related to an individual. Individual data from microfilm copies of original questionnaires are available only to the respondent under the Privacy Act. Topics: Different types of variables can be obtained for various universes on the data base. Population and Families — Demographic Characteristics: age, sex, marital status; Ethno-Cultural Characteristics: age at immigration, citizenship, ethnic origin (data on population can also be obtained at the family level); Language Variables: home language, mother tongue, official language; Schooling Variables: highest level of schooling; Labour Force: class of worker, industry, occupation; Family Size: family composition; Income: census family income, economic family income, income from each source and total income. Households — household maintainer, type of household, household size, length of occupancy, mortgage or rent, household income. Dwellings — condition of dwelling, fuel, heating equipment, structural type. These variables are available for various geographic divisions across Canada. The information collected in the census varies somewhat from one census year to the next. Special Access Notes: Individual information contained in the microfilmed records is available as far back as the 1891 Census. It can be accessed only by the person named in the record or by a legal representative authorized to settle the affairs of a senior, incompetent or dead person. To access such information, the person concerned must complete an "Application and Authorization for a Search of Census" obtainable from the Census Pension Searches Unit, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0T6. Aggregate data from the census micro-data base are available to the public. Requests for such information should be directed to Central Inquiries Unit, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0T6.

In 1971, Canada set up the Office of the Co-ordinator, Status of Women within the Privy Council Office. In 1976, the Office of the Co-ordinator, Status of Women was removed from the Privy Council Office. It was named a department under Order-in-Council P.C. 1976-779 and became known as Status of Women Canada.

Responsibilities

The Office of the Co-ordinator, Status of Women ensures that the federal government carries out its commitment to equality between women and men and ensures that equal opportunities for women are promoted in all spheres of Canadian life.

Organizational Units and their Role

Policy Analysis and Development

This function involves the systematic analysis of the impact of existing government programs on women and the review of proposals for new or revised programs, policies and legislation with regard to their impact on women. Policy analysis and development is carried out at the federal level, as well as in co-operation with provincial and territorial governments and international bodies.

External Affairs

This function consists of ongoing consultations with women's groups, academics and other groups and individuals at all levels interested in women's affairs in Canada and abroad. It is aimed at informing the Minister of the current environment and assisting these groups and individuals in their contacts with the federal government. The Office also represents Canada on the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women, the Working Party on the Role of Women in the Economy of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, the Organization of American States Status of Women Commission, and the Commonwealth Secretariat Women's Activities.

Public Information/Communications

This function informs women's groups and the general public of federal priorities and programs relating to the status of women by assisting the Minister in the preparation of speeches, correspondence, and media briefings. It also carries out media and correspondence analysis, responds to queries from the public, issues publications dealing with government structures/programs/activities, in-house research and reports on women, and organizes special events for women.

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority (SLSA) was established in 1954 by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act, and is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule C, Part I) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Authority was incorporated to ensure the acquisition of lands for, and the construction, maintenance and operation of all such works as may be necessary to provide and maintain, alone or in conjunction with an appropriate authority in the United States, a deep waterway between the Port of Montréal and Lake Erie; and the construction, maintenance and operation of all such works as the Governor in Council may deem necessary to fulfil any obligation undertaken pursuant to any present or future agreement. It also ensures the acquisition of lands for, and construction, maintenance and operation, alone or in conjunction with an appropriate authority in the United States, of bridges connecting Canada with the United States as authorized by the Act; and acquisition, with the approval of the Governor in Council, of shares in or property of any bridge company, as well as operation and management of these bridges; and the acquisition of lands for, and construction or acquisition, maintenance and operation of such works or other property as the Governor in Council may deem neccessary for works undertaken pursuant to the Act.

The Authority reports to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Legislation

- St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act, R.S.C. 1970, chapter S-1

Organizational Units and their Role

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

The three members of the Authority, appointed by Order-in-Council, as well as the Corporate Secretary, Legal Counsel and the Director of the Planning Branch, are located in Ottawa, Ontario. The Finance and Accounting Branch, Operations and Maintenance Branch, Personnel and Administration Branch, and the Audit Division are located in Cornwall, Ontario. The headquarters of the Eastern Region, which extends from Montreal to Lake Ontario, is in St. Lambert, Quebec. The Engineering Services Branch is also located there. The Western Region headquarters, which operates the Canadian-owned Welland Canal, is in St. Catharines, Ontario.

Planning Branch

This branch is responsible for applying a comprehensive and systematic approach to clarifying corporate objectives, making strategic decisions and checking progress towards the objectives.

The Corporate Planning section is responsible for the preparation of specific corporate plans for fiscal periods, the development of strategies for improving productivity, and the preparation, control and organization of marketing strategy on behalf of the Authority. It also participates in the formulation of financial policies.

The Economics section is responsible for economic market analysis to determine commodity flows along the seaway; traffic forcasting (through the preparation and update of short- and long-range forecasts for commodity movements); tolls and sensitivity analyses, including monthly and annual toll revenue estimates; and economic studies respecting regional impacts of the seaway through cost benefit analyses, feasibility studies and evaluation of reports.

The Systems section is responsible for the preparation of NATO emergency plans and co-ordination with Transport Canada respecting exercises and continuing monitoring of the Great Lakes/Seaway system; telecommunications co-ordination respecting all regions of the Authority regarding use and changes; and statistical analyses respecting fleet composition and changing features of the ocean and lakes fleet of vessels.

The Technical section is responsible for the engineering analyses of conventional improvements and of incremental twinning concepts on the seaway; cost benefit studies related to improvements, project proposals and property requirements; and depreciation studies concerned with Special Audit requirements of the Auditor General's Department on behalf of the Authority.

Finance and Accounting Branch

This branch encompasses the Office of the Comptroller and Treasurer. The prime responsibilities of this office include the care and custody of all monies and securities, including their deposit, and the maintenance of accounts and the preparation of detailed reports thereof.

The Branch provides advice on all financial matters to the Authority and Senior Officers within the organization, formulates financial policies, and exercises functional management over financial activities in other branches and regions. It liaises with various government departments, provides financial services for subsidiaries, and prepares the budget.

The Treasury section is responsible for receiving and depositing monies, maximizing investment income, financial planning (including long-range and budgeting); and monitoring financial results.

The Accounting section is responsible for developing and monitoring accounting systems, reporting results through financial statements, disbursing monies to Authority employees and suppliers, and establishing controls to safeguard the assets of the Authority.

The Tolls and Statistics section is responsible for receiving cargo declarations from users, preparing invoices for tolls, and maintaining statistical information on transits and commodities.

The Management Information section is responsible for developing and maintaining programs and systems required in the areas of Treasury, Accounting, Tolls and Statistics, Purchasing, Personnel, leases, regional maintenance information, fixed and movable assets, and depreciation and stores.

It also prepares reports in accordance with defined schedules, and participates in the evaluation and acquisition of electrical (computer) equipment. It is also responsible for the Forms Management Program.

Operations and Maintenance Branch

The Branch monitors system performance to detect trends, and monitors capacity policy factors; participates in the development of capacity demand policies and the generation and evaluation of proposals related to the capacity/demand balance; and initiates and/or participates in the design and implementation of new operational programs related to capacity and day-to-day operation.

The Branch administers programs related to Seaway regulations, vessel speed programs, operating procedures, maintenance policies and procedures, operational and maintenance staffing requirements, the transportation of dangerous goods, pollution matters, accident investigations, hydraulic and climatic matters, operational and maintenance feasibility studies, and capital and other budgets. It provides support to the Authority and regions in operational and maintenance related matters and provides liaison with users and other marine entities both in Canada and the United States.

Personnel and Administration Branch

The Personnel and Administration Branch provides advice to the Authority and has functional responsibility for all personnel and administration matters. This includes the development, implementation and ongoing direction and review of policies, programs and procedures in the areas of employee relations, human resources, personnel records, benefit and salary administration, purchasing and stores, records management and property management.

Audit Division

The Audit Division conducts a broad-scope audit program to review and appraise financial and operational activities within the entire Seaway Organization (including its two subsidiary bridge companies) with the view to ensuring the adequacy of financial and managerial controls.

Engineering Services Branch

The primary function of the Branch is to ensure the integrity and reliability of all lock and canal installations and to permit efficient and continuous operation of the Seaway using a highly trained, multi-disciplined staff to deal with civil, mechanical and electrical engineering design requirements, maintenance and repair; to prepare construction contract specifications for structures and facilities of the eastern and western regions and all branches of the Authority; and to offer engineering services to The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated, the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority, federal and provincial government departments, standards associations and outside consultants.

Eastern Region

The Eastern Region administration, with headquarters in St. Lambert, Québec, is comprised of three divisions under the responsibility of a vice-president.

The Operations Division administers the movements of vessels from Montreal to Lake Ontario through the operation of a vessel traffic control centre, also located in Saint-Lambert, and several structures such as locks and bridges. It ensures safe, efficient and expedient vessel transits in accordance with Seaway regulations, policies and programs, regional operating procedures and federal statutes.

The Engineering and Maintenance Division is responsible for making the regional structures available so as to permit the most efficient and continuous movement of vessel traffic. It provides systems for regular preventive maintenance in the civil, electrical and mechanical trades.

The Administrative Services Division supplies the human resources necessary to support the rest of the organization. Personnel in many fields give their expertise on personnel management, training, safety at work, purchasing, accounting, real property management and others.

Western Region

The Western Region administration, with headquarters in St. Catharines, comprises three divisions under the direction of a vice-president and is responsible for the operations and maintenance of the Welland Canal.

The Operations Division is responsible for the efficient manning of the vessel traffic control centre and other operating structures to ensure a safe, efficient and expedient movement of vessel traffic through the Welland Canal and in adjacent waters of Lakes Erie and Ontario in accordance with Authority policy, programs, procedures, approved budgets and applicable federal statutes. The Division is also involved in liaison with the shipping trade and United States and Canadian government agencies involved in the operation of the Seaway.

The Engineering and Maintenance Division is responsible for the continuous availability and reliable operation of all structures and Seaway facilities of the western region St. Lawrence Seaway Authority to ensure safe and expedient movement of vessel traffic in accordance with Authority policy, programs and service objectives. This is achieved by establishing both basic short- and long-term objectivies for the Division encompassing the essential maintenance, rehabilitation and improvement projects to be carried out.

The Administrative Services Division provides administrative support to the other two divisions within the region in the areas of Human Resources Management, Accounting, Purchasing and Stores, Real Property Management and Vehicle and Building Maintenance Management.

Welland Canal Twinning Project Contractors' Association

This now-defunct association was formed to ensure a stable labour environment in the trades working on the Welland Canal By-pass Project between 1964 and 1974. Although the office was abolished in 1974, the records created are still available.

SUBSIDIARIES

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act was amended in 1956 to give the Authority the power to incorporate subsidiaries. There are now three: the Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd., the Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, and the Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated.

The Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd.

The Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd., successor to the Cornwall International Bridge Company Ltd., was incorporated by Letters Patent under the Canada Companies Act on November 13, 1962 and received its certificate of continuance under the new Canada Business Corporations Act on Febuary 20, 1980. Its head office, located in Cornwall, Ontario, operates and manages an international toll bridge system between Cornwall, Ontario and Rooseveltown, New York, on behalf of the owners — the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority of Canada and the United States Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority was created under the Pilotage Act. The objectives of this Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer a pilotage service in the province of Québec, south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock, and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. Its head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario which is also the location of its eastern region office. Its western region office is located in St. Catharines, Ontario.

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated received its certificate of incorporation under the Canada Business Corporations Act on November 3, 1978. The administration and control of the Jacques Cartier Bridge, the Champlain Bridge and a portion of the Bonaventure Autoroute in the Montréal area were transferred to this corporation from the National Harbours Board (Ports Canada) by Order-in-Council P.C. 1978-3139, dated October 12, 1978, as amended, effective December 1, 1978. Its head office is located in Ottawa, Ontario and its chief place of business is at Longueuil, Québec.

Thousand Islands Bridge

In addition to the foregoing, by virtue of P.C. 1976-2407 of September 28, 1976, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority has been entrusted with the maintenance and operation of the Canadian span of the Thousand Islands Bridge over the St. Lawrence River between Landsdowne, Ontario and Collins Landing, New York, including all appurtenant structures and property located in Canada.

TARIFF BOARD

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Tariff Board was established by the Tariff Board Act in 1931.

Responsibilities

The Tariff Board is both an independent commission of enquiry into matters of tariff and trade and a quasi-judicial court of appeal under the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Anti-dumping Act and the Petroleum Administration Act. In its role as a commission of enquiry, the Board undertakes specific trade studies at the request of the Minister of Finance. Its recommendations on rates of duty and changes in the tariff structure are used by the government in preparing budgets or changes in tariff or excise tax legislation. In its role as a court, the Board hears appeals resulting from final decisions made by the Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Customs and Excise on tariff classification, valuation of goods for customs purposes and federal sales tax. The Board's powers include the hearing of appeals on charges levied on exports of petroleum and petroleum products.

The Board itself does not initiate enquiries. These are undertaken as a result of a reference from the Minister of Finance. In conducting an enquiry, the Board's staff of economists and statisticians is assigned the task of gathering and analyzing data. Meanwhile, the Board invites the submission of briefs and holds regional public hearings at which the views of importers, manufacturers and consumers can be heard. During the course of an enquiry, the Board may publish and distribute background papers and analytical material to encourage informed discussions on the subject under review. On completion of the enquiry, a report is prepared containing the Board's conclusions and recommendations on rates of duty, the wording of tariff items and any other matters referred to the Board in the Minister's letter of reference. The report is forwarded to the Minister of Finance and becomes a public document.

Legislation

- Anti-dumping Act
- Customs Act
- Customs Tariff Act
- Energy Administration Act
- Excise Tax Act
- Petroleum Administration Act
- Special Import Measures Act
- Tariff Board Act

Organizational Units and their Role

Appeals Branch

The Branch is responsible for all appeals to the Board. In its role as a court of appeal, panels of three members of the Board hold public hearings and render decisions on certain final rulings made by the Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Customs and Excise, as described below.

The Tariff Board may hear an appeal under section 67 of the Customs Act by a person who deems himself aggrieved by a decision of the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, Customs and Excise. Under section 70 of the Act, the Board may give its opinion on questions referred to it from the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, Customs and Excise. Such questions may relate to the valuation or tariff classification of any goods or class of goods.

Under section 51.19 of the Excise Tax Act, it is possible to appeal a decision of the Minister of National Revenue regarding an assessment or a determination. The Board, after hearing an appeal, may dispose of it by making such finding or declaration as the nature of the matter may require and by making an order. Under section 51.32 of the Act, a person entitled to serve an objection to the Minister or to appeal to the Board may apply to the Board for an order extending the time limit for objecting or appealing, at any time before or after the expiration of the time limit. Under section 51.26 of the Act, the Board may hear an appeal in private.

Under section 61 of the Special Import Measures Act, the Tariff Board may hear appeals from persons who deem themselves aggrieved by a decision of the Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Customs and Excise made pursuant to section 59 of the Act.

The Tariff Board may hear appeals under section 65.18 of the Energy Administration Act by way of an application for a declaration as to whether any charge is payable on petroleum or any petroleum products. The Board may declare what rate of federal sales tax is payable on an article or on transportation by air, or that the article or transportation by air is exempt from tax under the Excise Tax Act. The Board may also declare whether any charge is payable or as to the amount of the charges payable on the exportation of any oils or any petroleum or petroleum products under the Petroleum Administration Act. A declaration of the Tariff Board is final and conclusive subject only to appeal to the Federal Court of Canada on any question of law. The rules of the Board are informal in order to keep it a court of easy access. The Board publishes An Informal Guide for Parties in Appeals Before the Tariff Board, which is available without charge from the secretary. Appeals are heard in the Board's courtroom in Ottawa and, from time to time, in major cities in western Canada and the Atlantic provinces.

Reference Branch

This branch is responsible for economic enquiries on imports. At the request of the Minister of Finance, it carries out such enquiries on matters affecting the trade of Canada, invites the submission of briefs and holds public hearings at which the views of importers, manufacturers and consumers can be heard. It also hears petitions from Canadian producers requesting safeguard action in respect of imports under the General Preferential Tariff. The Board is usually directed to recommend appropriate levels of duty and tariff nomenclature in its report to the Minister which must, by law, be tabled in Parliament. Its recommendations are used by the government in making amendments to Schedule A of the Customs Tariff Act and the Customs Act.

TREASURY BOARD (SECRETARIAT)

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Treasury Board was created by Order-in-Council in 1867 and received statutory approval in 1869. Its Secretariat was part of the Department of Finance until 1966, when it became a separate institution.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibilities, as set out in the Financial Administration Act, include financial management, personnel management and central administration of the Public Service of Canada. It is also responsible for the application of the Official Languages Act within the Public Service and serves as the employer for negotiating federal Public Service collective agreements under the Public Service Staff Relations Act. It sets policy in the areas of these specific responsibilities and examines and approves the proposed spending plans of government departments. The Treasury Board is served in these functions principally by the Treasury Board Secretariat.

Organizational Units and their Role

The Treasury Board is a committee of the federal Cabinet. Its president is the chairman of the Committee, and its members include the Minister of Finance and four other Cabinet ministers who are appointed by the Governor in Council.

Office of the Secretary

The Secretary is the deputy minister, who directs the work of the institution. The Secretary is assisted by an Associate Secretary.

The Office of the Secretary consists of the offices of the Secretary and Associate Secretary, the Communications Division, the Submission Control Unit and Corporate Services. The Office of the Secretary is also responsible for the co-ordination of requests received under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for information held by the Treasury Board Secretariat.

Bureau of Real Property Management

The Bureau was established in 1986 to advise the Treasury Board on matters relating to the management of real property under the custody of all departments and agencies. The Bureau is responsible for the development of real property policies and for the maintenance of information on property holdings. It advises the Treasury Board on the long-term real property capital plans and major capital projects, on the allocations of property to the custody of program departments and agencies and on the expenditures and services of Public Works Canada.

Administrative Policy Branch

The Administrative Policy Branch is responsible for advising the Treasury Board on all matters, including departmental proposals, relating to general administrative policy in the Public Service of Canada. The Branch develops, interprets and monitors the implementation of administrative policies, ensuring that the principles of equity, prudence and probity are upheld in the management of federal government materiel services and information. The Branch is responsible for promoting the efficient operation of departments, the effectiveness of federal programs and ensuring fair information practices in government.

Official Languages Branch

This branch develops and communicates government policies and programs for the application of the Official Languages Act within departments and agencies of the Government of Canada, as well as judicial, quasi-judicial or administrative bodies or Crown corporations, and monitors, audits and evaluates their implementation and effectiveness.

In accordance with the revised policies on official languages in the Public Service issued in September 1977, the Branch is responsible for producing general guidelines and criteria to provide overall direction to departments and agencies; providing technical and specialized assistance as required; reviewing the annual plans and reports of departments for their official languages program and recommending appropriate action; auditing and evaluating departmental official languages activities; and monitoring the overall progress of the Public Service towards the achievement of official languages objectives. It is also responsible for managing the Official Languages Information System (OLIS); and preparing an annual report to the government on the status and evaluation of official languages policies and programs in the Public Service. The Branch is also responsible for informing federal employees and other interested parties on the Official Languages Act and the government's official languages policies and programs.

TREASURY BOARD (SECRETARIAT)

Personnel Policy Branch

The role of this branch is to develop, communicate and provide for the implementation and evaluation of the personnel policies, systems and methods necessary to ensure that the human resources needed to carry out government programs effectively are determined, obtained at competitive cost, managed and developed efficiently. The interests and the individual and collective rights of employees are duly taken into account.

The Branch's specific areas of responsibility include general personnel management; classification, pay and human resource information system; human resources; pensions and planning, and evaluation and policy development.

Staff Relations Branch

The Staff Relations Branch is responsible for conducting labour negotiations on the employer's behalf in the federal Public Service as described in Schedule 1, Part 1, Public Service Staff Relations Act (PSSRA), and in the process, for carrying out consultations with the Public Service unions at the national level, and for engaging in effective two-way communications with departmental management with respect to Public Service employer-employee relations. The Branch conducts, administers and advises on collective bargaining, negotiations, consultations, exclusions, designations, certification, gievances and adjudication, and employer-employee relations training. It is also responsible for compensation analysis for groups subject to collective bargaining, compensation determination for members of the Canadian Forces and the RCMP, and the conduct of various research, analytical and statistical services for other branches of the Treasury Board Secretariat (TBS).

Program Branch

The Branch provides analyses and recommendations to the Treasury Board to assist it in decisions on resource allocation involving departmental Multi-year Operational Plan proposals, the Estimates (both Main and Suppementary) and Treasury Board submissions. It communicates to departments the policies, directives and decisions emanating from the Treasury Board that affect the use and level of resources and monitors the implementation of the decisions as required. Records on submissions other than operational plans and estimates are maintained by the Submission Control Unit.

The Branch is also responsible for: the production, in a timely manner, of Main and Supplementary Estimates to convey the government's spending plans to Parliament; and providing the President of the Treasury Board (a member of Cabinet committees), with information and advice on departmental submissions to Cabinet. It operates the decision-making and resource allocation system (the recording and reporting of the expenditure plans of the government, including the resource implications of all Cabinet decisions and the status of commitments on a multi-year basis). As well, the Branch is responsible for the production of multi-year forecasts of spending requirements and the reporting of these forecasts to the Priorities and Planning committee as part of its review of fiscal plans. It provides advice and recommendations to the President of the Treasury Board on the operating budgets, capital budgets, corporate plans and financial requirements of Crown corporations and their subsidiaries, and on the development of policy and legislation governing Crown corporations in general. The Branch also develops and maintains systems and issues the instructions and directives necessary to meet the above requirements.

Branch staff is required to maintain close working relationships with departmental and Crown corporation managers and officials of the Department of Finance and the Privy Council Office.

Administration Branch

This branch assists the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the Comptroller General, the Deputy Minster of Finance and the Deputy Minister of the Office of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs in the management of the internal administration of their organizations, and provides financial, personnel, administrative and management advice to branches and divisions.

The Branch consists of five divisions: Administrative Services, Financial Services, Personnel Division, Security Services and Systems Division. In addition to the functions of these divisions, the Branch is responsible for a number of other activities which are under the direction of the Assistant Deputy Minister. These are: task force organization; co-ordination of the Canada Savings Bonds campaign and the United Way campaign for the four departments; co-ordination of blood donor clinic; co-ordination of one-time campaigns: 1981 Census, Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario fund-raising campaign; and administration of Suggestion Award programs.

OFFICE OF PRIVATIZATION AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Office of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs was established in August, 1986, as part of the government's program of economic renewal and better management.

Responsibilities

The Office of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs has two main objectives: the divestiture of selected Crown Corporations and the improved management of the regulatory process.

Organizational Units and their Role

Overall responsibility for the direction of the affairs of the Office of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs rests with the Deputy Minister, who is its permanent head and senior advisor to the Minister of State (Privatization).

Privatization Branch

The Privatization Branch provides a "single window" for federal efforts to sell corporate holdings. The process itself is a complex one requiring consideration of a broad spectrum of public policy, financial and employee concerns as well as an analysis of a company's private sector viability, including profitability, productivity and growth of the workforce.

Regulatory Affairs Branch

The Regulatory Affairs Branch is concerned with ensuring efficient regulatory management within the federal government, a more open and accountable regulatory process and more effective regulation at all levels of government. The intent of these initiatives is to ensure that regulations are economically and socially responsible, responsive to the public, and not financially onerous to the business community or consumers.

Policy and Co-ordination Branch

Under the direction of the Deputy Minister, the Policy and Co-ordination Branch provides an over-all strategic planning function for the Minister, encompassing various portfolios and responsibilities. It co-ordinates all material required by the Minister for Cabinet and Committee responsibilities; provides briefings for question period and other activities of the House, i.e. introduction of legislation; and co-ordinates all ministerial and executive correspondence. introduction of legislation; and co-ordinates all ministerial and executive correspondence.

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch manages the over-all communications strategy for the Office of Privatization and Regulatory Affairs. Under the direction of the Deputy Minister, it works with the Minister's staff to ensure proper support for the Minister with respect to press conferences, media statements, speeches, etc., and ensures the availability of appropriate support from Treasury Board and other sources as required.

Administration and Executive Services Branch

The Administration and Executive Services Branch serves as a central point of liaison with Treasury Board to ensure provision of all services relating to: personnel, finance, access to information and privacy, security, purchasing, contracts, etc. It provides direct service in the following areas: central records, executive correspondence, Cabinet document distribution, and ensures enhanced service as required, i.e. word processing and translation services during periods of increased activity.

VETERANS AFFAIRS

A. GENERAL INFORMATION

Historical Background

The Department of Veterans Affairs was created by the Veterans Affairs Act in 1944. Previously the care of veterans was the responsibility of the Military Hospitals Commission, the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-Establishment (created during the First World War) and then the Department of Pensions and National Health, established in 1928. The Canadian Pension Commission was formed in 1933 as the successor to the Board of Pension Commissioners that had been in operation since 1919. The War Veterans Allowance Board was established in 1936, when it replaced the War Veterans Allowance Committee. The Pension Review Board and the Bureau of Pensions Advocates were both created in 1971 as a result of amendments to the Pension Act.

Responsibilities

The mandate of Veterans Affairs is to manage special programs for veterans and other specified persons to compensate for death and disabilities incurred in the service of Canada, or to enable them to be self-sufficient and participating members of the community, and to otherwise perpetuate recognition of wartime sacrifice and its contribution to Canada.

The purpose of some original rehabilitation programs, such as re-establishment credits, was successfully fulfilled and they were phased out. Portfolio responsibilities continue to include the administration of pensions and war veterans allowances, medical treatment, counselling, advocacy and educational assistance to children of the war dead, as well as commemoration of those who served their country during wartime.

Organizational Units and their Role

The Veterans Affairs Portfolio consists of the Department of Veterans Affairs and four associated agencies: the Canadian Pension Commission, the Pension Review Board, the Bureau of Pensions Advocates and the War Veterans Allowance Board, reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Veterans Affairs.

Department of Veterans Affairs

Field Operations Branch

The Field Operations Branch is responsible for the delivery of services and benefits to veterans in all regions and districts, operation of the departmental hospital at Sainte-Anne-de-Bellevue and the veterans homes in Senneville, Ottawa and Saskatoon. The Branch is also responsible for public affairs, support for the Minister and Deputy Minister and liaison with central agencies.

Finance, Personnel and Administration Branch

The Finance, Personnel and Administration Branch provides functional direction and managerial and operational support services to the Department and the associated agencies in the areas of finance, personnel, management services, legislative review and access to information and privacy.

Pensions, Health and Social Programs Branch

The Pensions, Health and Social Programs Branch administers a broad range of economic, medical and social services benefits to qualified veterans and special categories of civilians, and their families.

Veterans Land Administration Branch

The Veterans Land Administration (VLA) manages property purchase agreements between the Director, VLA, and veterans and their heirs. More than 140 000 veterans have been settled under the Veterans Land Act since its inception nearly 35 years ago. The final lending deadline was March 31, 1977.

Veterans Land Administration offices are located in Saint John, New Brunswick; Montreal, Quebec; Willowdale, Ontario; Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Audit and Evaluation Division

The Audit and Evaluation Division conducts program evaluation and internal audit activities under the guidelines of the Comptroller General and Portfolio policy.

Pension Review Board

This agency acts as an appeal tribunal for applicants who are dissatisfied with decisions of the Entitlement and Assessment Boards of the Canadian Pension Commission. It is the final authority on matters of pension entitlement, the amount of money to be awarded and the interpretation of pension legislation and regulations.

Canadian Pension Commission

The Canadian Pension Commission adjudicates claims under the Pension Act for death and disability that are a result of military service. It is also responsible for hearing appeals on former decisions of Entitlement Boards and Assessment Boards regarding pensions. The Commission awards additional pension benefits on behalf of dependants, and upon a pensioner's death, to eligible survivors. In addition, the Commission adjudicates on pension claims under various other acts, orders and regulations, such as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation and Pension Continuation Acts, the Halifax Relief Commission Pension Continuation Act, the Compensation for Former Prisoners of War Act and the Flying Accidents Compensation Regulations. It also authorizes monetary grants which accompany certain gallantry awards and administers trust funds established by private individuals for the benefit of veterans.

War Veterans Allowance Board

The War Veterans Allowance Board acts as a court of appeal for dissatisfied War Veterans Allowance and Civilian War Allowance applicants and recipients. It reviews decisions of departmental adjudicators to ensure that adjudication is consistent with the intent of the legislation and is uniformly applied throughout Canada. The Board adjudicates pursuant to specific sections of the legislation where it has sole jurisdiction, provides interpretation of the Acts and Regulations and advises the Minister on the Regulations.

Bureau of Pensions Advocates

The Bureau of Pensions Advocates provides a free legal service to applicants and pensioners under the Pension Act. It assists veterans to prepare applications for pensions and also to apply for changes in the amount of pension previously awarded. Bureau lawyers also represent veterans at hearings held under the Pension Act and War Veterans Allowance Act.

District Pension Advocates are located in St. John's, Newfoundland; Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island; Halifax, Nova Scotia; Saint John, New Brunswick; Sainte-Foy, Montreal, Quebec; Ottawa, Kingston, Hamilton, London, North Bay, Toronto (North), Ontario; Winnipeg, Manitoba; Regina, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; Calgary, Edmonton, Alberta; Vancouver, Victoria, British Columbia.
